Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Labor member for Newcastle-Under-Lyme, sharply criticised Sir Austen Chamberlain, asserting that as Foreign Secretary he had failed to support the plea of the minorities for more effective consideration of their case by the council of the league. Although the Canadian representative (Senator Raoul Dandurand) had himself submitted the proposal for revising the procedure on minority appeals, Sir Austen had not been sympathetic, he urged.

Col. Wedgewood described the league's minority committee as a kind of "Wehm-Gericth"—nobody knew what happened to a case after it got there.

Hopes For Successful Conclusion.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, former foreign secretary, speaking in the House of Commons said that his side of the House earnestly desired the negotiations of naval disarmament in which the government now was engaged with the United States.

WRIGHT WINS SEMI-FINALS AND WILL MEET HOLLANDER IN FINAL HEAT SATURDAY

Canadian Wins By Length and a Half in Slow Time.

CONDITIONS UNFAVORABLE.

Gunther Easily Defeats Viscount Tiverton—Trinity Beats Columbia.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 5.—(Canadian Press Cable) — Joe Wright, Jr., will defend the famous Diamond Sculls in the final to-morrow against L. Gunther of Holland.

Wright won by a length and a half in 10 minutes and 30 seconds. The slow time was largely accounted for by the extremely unfavorable conditions, rough water and a strong head wind slowing up the scullers.

See-Saw Race.

It was a dramatic finish of a see-saw race. After taking an early lead which he held for nearly a mile, Wright slowed up considerably, and Bradley passed him. Just before the finish Wright mustered his strength for a desperate finish, and wore down his opponent who tired under the strain of Wright's challenge.

Shoots Into Lead.

The race was rowed in the teeth of a head wind and half gale. When the strating gun was fired, the Canadian started off at a much higher rate of speed than his opponent, stroking 10, 18 and 32 for the first minute, as compared with Bradley's 8, 14 and 27.

Wright immediately shot into the lead, and when the quarter mile post was reached a shell's length separated the two scullers. Remenham Barrier was reached in 2 minutes, 55 seconds. Wright had increased his advantage to one and three-quarter lengths at the half mile post, but Bradley decreased this to one length by a spurt near Fawley, which was passed in 4 minutes, 58 seconds.

Bradley continued to gain on the Canadian, cutting down his lead to a quarter of a length at the three-quarter mile post, and finally pulled into the lead. Passing the Remenham Club, Bradley was a length in front at the mile post. Wright, who was not sculling well, appeared troubled by the head wind. Along the enclosure Wright made his great Attempt Was Made To Ram Government Boat in Mid-Stream.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 5 (Canadian Press). — One man was wounded and four others were captured by the United States coastguard officers in a gun battle off Fighting Island, in the Detroit River early to-day.

Albert Letourneau, 34, of River Rouge, Mich., was admitted to Grace Hospital, Windsor, suffering from a bullet wound in the muscles of his back. He was discharged from that institution after treatment by Dr. Frank Adams. The man luckily escaped serious injury Dr. Adams reported. One of Letourneau's supposed companions was captured, according to incomplete reports at this time. Letourneau, who told Dr. Adams he had been shot in a brush with American preventative officers, escaped by swimming ashore at Fighting Island.

TEN DROWNED AT ONE BEACH BY UNDERTOW

FOUR BODIES RECOVERED.

Boat of Life Guards is Swamped—All Bathers Were Warned.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich., July 5.—(Canadian Press).—The vicious surf and undertow of wind-swept Lake Michigan took the lives of 10 persons here yesterday, all drowning virtually, simultaneously and within a radius of but a few hundred yards.

Nine of the dead were bathers at a Municipal park beach, the other was a girl, who with three companions, was swept from a piers at the beach by a giant breaker which bowled the four into the water. A terrific undertown apparently generated by the huge combers which first swept the pier, carried the nine bathers to their death. Hundreds of persons ashore, watched horror stricken as the nine were whirled, screaming for help, far out into the white capped lake.

All were residents of Grand Rapids except two. Bodies of four were recovered but lake shore residents said it might be days before bodies of the others were washed ashore.

Boat Is Swamped.

Three life guards stationed at the beach, launched a boat, after pulling from the water, the four swept off the pier, in an atempt to rescue the nine struggling outside the surf line, but their small craft foundered before fairly under way. Miss Fifield was among the four on the pier. Attempts to revive her through artificial respiration failed.

Guards said they warned all bathers as they entered the water that the surf and undertow made it unsafe to swim far out but that the nine swimmers drowned disregarded the caution and were pulled under while atempting to regain shore after swimming to a raft anchored off the beach.

Strikers Mob Street Car Run By Imported Operator

NEW ORLEANS, July 5. — (Canadian Press).—A hail of brickbats gfireeted the first street car to be operated in New Orleans since the carmen's strike started last Tuesday and after 20 minutes of operation it was returned to the barn.

The car was manned by imported operators and was guarded by a squad of police armed with sawed-off shotguns and pistols. Strikers and their sympathizers hurled bricks at the car as it went through Canal street but no serious injuries were reported.

The service was begun after a night of fierce hand to hand gang fighting between strike sympathizers and workers in which one man was probably fatally shot and more than two hundred slightly hurt.

BOARD REFUSES LIQUOR PERMITS

Temporary Parmits Will Not Be Granted U. S. Residents Coming To Cobourg.

COMPLAINTS LODGED.

TORONTO, July 5. (C.P.) — The Ontario Liquor Control Board has ordered that no more temporary permits be issued at the Cobourg liquor store during the time the boat which crosses the lake daily from the United States is docked in the town harbor.

United States citizens arriving on the boat, the board has been informed, have been flocking to the store during the one or two hours at their disposal, that queues were formed regularly on the street outside the store.

Temperance people of the town complained regarding the queues forming, and the manager of the Cobourg store recommended that it be closed down.

"We could not do that," said Stewart McClenaghan, acting chairman of the board, "so we are refusing to issue temporary permits during the hour or two in which the boat is docked."

MEMBERS SEEK LARGER SALARY IN NEW HOUSE

RECEIVE $2,000 A YEAR.

Heretofore Government Has Been in Hands of Wealthy Men.

LONDON, July 5.— (C.P.)— The question of salaries has begun to worry Great Britain's new Labor parliamentarians and as a result of discussion on the matter the country at large is awakening to the fact its government heretofore has been in the hands of wealthy men.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced yesterday in the Commons he had increased the salary of J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, from the £2,000 (about $10,000 he drew at that post to £5,000 (about $25,000 because of extra duties undertaken as minister in charge of unemployment.

May Be Other Increases.

There has been some discussion of the paucity of the salaries of the Prime Minister and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, which are only £5,000 (about $25,000) each, barely enough to keep up the official residences on Downing street. This was a matter of little concern when the office holders were wealthy men, but the situation is far different in the Labor regime.

In the last Labor government the ministers pooled their salaries for the benefit of all, but as far as known this has not been done in the present instance.

Until Laborites began to appear in Parliament members of the Commons were not paid at all. Then a salary of £400 (about $2,000) annually was instituted for members. This sum was adequate before the war but today is sufficient only to pay pocket expenses of the ordinary "M.P."

The question has entered also into the matter of increased Labor representation in the House of Lords. Responsible journals not adhering to Labor principles suggest a reform be instituted, making it possible for Mr. MacDonald to create life peerages only to increase the party's representation there.

This would prevent saddling of heirs on the newly created peers with difficulties of maintaining their position without adequate means. There are at present only 11 Labor peers.

DEATH TOLL IN UNITED STATES IS 159 ON NATIONAL HOLIDAY

70 AUTO FATALITIES.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 5 (C.P.).—The United States surrendered 159 lives to the observance of its 153rd birthday anniversary yesterday.

The Fourth of July death list this year was 46 under 1928, the reduction being attributable chiefly to the decrease in the number of deaths from drowning and from the heat. In only one division did the 1929 fatalities exceed last year's, and that was in automobile accidents with 70 this year as compared with 54 last.

Seven Deaths from Fireworks

Fireworks in themselves continued to play a smaller part in the nation's Independence Day death roll. Only seven fatalities from this cause were reported this year as compared with 11 in 1928, and two of them resulted from a fireworks' factory explosion and fire July 3.

Drownings were responsible for the largest loss of life, as they were last year, but even so, there were 35 less deaths from this cause than a year ago.

Automobile fatalities, on the other hand, bounded upward from 54 last year to 70.

Temperatures generally were lower throughout the country yesterday than was the case July 4, 1928, when 12 deaths resulted from heat alone.

So far as reports show, there was only one death yesterday from heat.

500 Children Treated

Contrasting with the 1928 heat was a 10-minute snowstorm yesterday at Speculator, N.Y., the snow falling so fast that holiday motorists, blinded, stopped their cars to avoid collisions. It was the coldest July 4 the Adirondacks country has experienced in years, the temperature being down to 50 degrees.

The largest number of deaths reported from one place was at the municipal bathing beach at Grand Haven, Mich., where 10 persons were drowned in an undertow.

Decorated Car Parade Saturday Afternoon

A big decorated car parade will be held to-morrow between one and two o'clock. This mammoth parade will be composed of decorated cars and floats. It will start from Confederation Square at 1.30 o'clock, headed by the band. Prizes are being offered for the best decorated car and every effort is being made by the committee to make this parade one of the closing features of Old Home Week.

No cars will be allowed to park on the west side of George street between one and two o'clock and the police will enforce this order.

WEATHER CONDITIONS BAD SURROUNDING HUDSON BAY

Government Wireless Station Reports Hearing "Untin' 'Bower.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 5 (Canadian Press). — The "Untin' 'Bowler, the Sikorsky amphibian manned by Parker Cramer, Bob Gast, co-pilot, and Robert Woods, aviation editor of the Chicago Tribune, was in the air at 9.37 o'clock this morning, according to a message received here by the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries from the Government wireless station at Port Burwell on the Hudson Straits. The Government radio men in the northern post heard the plane calling at that hour. The signals were loud.

Reports from Port Burwell indicate that the weather along the Hudson Straits is bad. The Government station is broadcasting the weather every other hour for the benefit of the fliers.

The Weather

The rainfall of yesterday was exceptionally heavy. The total was 1.65. This was the fifth rainfall this year where over one inch fell on the level. The weather still keeps cool. The highest point yesterday was but 69 degrees.—W.P.

Committee Plans Hard-Time and Costume Parade For To-night—"Let Everyone Be Out"

Old Boys and Old Girls! Lads and Lasses! The old town is going on the rampage again to-night. Last night's shirt tail parade will prove to be only a warm up for the big hard-times and comic costume parade that is on the boards for to-night.

The shirt tail and pyjama assemblage caused such fun and excitement last night that immediately the parade committee put their heads together, in an effort to continue the fun, and they evolved the idea for another "whoopee" night.

Everyone is requested to put on their old clothes and get into this one. "Anything goes," one committee man said this morning. Especially are the citizens requested to wear something and mix in with the happy revellers. Many will have their Hallowe'en costumes stored away, and it is an easy matter to dig them out of the moth balls and wear them in the mammoth spree of jollity to-night.

There will be prizes for the best costumes, including comic, dress, historical, etc. The judging will be done in the armories—where the parade will disperse, when it does.

There will be bands and bands. Fife and drum, harmonica, several brass and the Caledonian pipe band. Everyone in the parade

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS ARE PENNILESS IN PARIS STREETS

Many Require Immediate Employment So That They May Finish Their Courses.

GRATUITIES LIMITED.

General Appeal Is To Give Work to the Student in Need.

PARIS, July 5.—(By Mrs. George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Paris is facing another crisis—the crisis of the student.

As the universities close their doors for the summer thousands of students are finding themselves on the street with scarcely a sou. That is not an unusual condition among university students the world over. Nine out of ten take the train home with empty pockets. But in Paris they are not taking the train.

Of a hundred thousand men and women registered in the universities of France 20,000 are in Paris. This does not include students of art and music. Between 7,000 and 8,000 are earning their own living, and paying their tuition fees. They get the rent for their small rooms by methods as precarious, colorful, monotonous and quixotic as the great city itself.

At All Kinds of Tasks

Many a follower of the classic music is an usher in a moving picture theatre. Many a medical student serves coffee in the mornings. Some never climb the stoney way to Parnassus. They just become manager of a small movie house.

Government gratuities are limited. The University City has a "French House" just as there is a Canada House. On the French house 353 students are lodged, some gratuitously but the majority on a system of loans. But the loan method is distasteful to most students. Moreover, for the 350 occupied places there is a waiting list of 2,000.

"Give work to the student in need," is the general appeal. One newspaper suggests that during the holiday period students might act as cicerones to tourists, and adds

DOUKHOBORS SUSPECTED OF BURNING FOUR SCHOOLS

Fifty Men and Women have been Brought to Saskatoon by Mounted Police.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 5. (C.P.) —One school house in the Blaine Lake District is in ruins and three others badly charred as a result of fires, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are conducting a thorough investigation, strongly suspecting arson.

About fifty Doukhobors, men and women, were brought to Saskatoon, and police stated that questioning of nearly half of them failed to connect them with the burning of the school houses. The authorities do not believe, however, that the fires were mere coincidences, declaring that signs of the use of coal oil and straw were clearly visible.

Allowed to depart after questioning by the police, the Doukhobors went away singing, cheering and laughing at their erstwhile captors. Most of them came from Langham, Sask., and others from Verigin.

COUNTIES COUNCIL DIVIDED IN SPECIAL SESSION TO DEAL WITH ASSESSMENT PROBLEM

George Hooton Gains Point But Towns May Appeal.

MEETING AT COBOURG.

Divergent Views of Urban and Rural Reeves.

(By Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, July 5—The special session of the council of the counties of Northumberland and Durham on Thursday which sought an equalization of assessments by compromise and mutual agreement instead of by appeal to the county Judge failed to effect a unanimous settlement.

It merely transferred the shoe from the rural to the urban foot, and even in that respect the proposed expedient fell short of the demand of Reeve W. S. Perrin of South Monaghan.

By a large majority the council appointed a committee recommendation to leave the townships' equalized assessment unchanged for 1930 and to fix the equalized assessments for the towns and villages at 70 per cent. of their local assessments as shown by their assessment rolls for next year.

The adoption of this report enlisted the support of the representatives of almost all the rural municipalities, but opposed to it were the Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville delegates, and also South Monaghan.

Reeve Perrin's objection was that South Monaghan's equalized assessment was too high, and the 30 per cent. reduction from the local assessments of the towns and villages offered neither relief nor satisfaction to the rural ratepayers of South Monaghan.

The resolution was moved by Reeve W. H. Nelson of Percy township and seconded by Reeve N. R. Hart of Murray township.

An Urban Alternative

An alternative resolution of urban origin suggested that the equalized assessments of the towns be increased 10 per cent. and of the villages 5 per cent. It was rejected by the reverse vote which carried Herb. Nelson's motion.

Reeve George Hooton of Cavan, who precipitated the assessment revolt, threatening appeal to the county judge, was more or less satisfied with the day's result. It offered a measure of actual equalization by whittling a considerable slice off the difference between the

First Old Age Pension Applications Are Received

LAKE IS SWEPT BY BIG STORM

FRUIT DISTRICT HIT HARD.

TORONTO, Ont., July 5 (C.P.).—Damage estimated at thousands of dollars has been done to property here adjoining Lake Ontario, by hard southwest winds, which churned the lake into a billowing sea. Waves five and six feet high are reported to have swept over the beaches and into houses, swamping cellars and causing the occupants to seek shelter elsewhere.

Last night conditions were even worst than they have been, for a terrific thunderstorm added to the discomfort of the Beach district residents.

Conditions are expected to be back to normal shortly, however, for the water was last night leaving the flooded area at a fast rate.

The fruit districts throughout the Niagara Peninsular also suffered heavily. South of Grimsby orchards were stripped of their fruit. Deputy-Reeve Lawson reported that one-third of his cherry, apple and plum crop was blown from the trees, and grapes also suffered heavily.

Sections in the vicinity of Vineland, Jordan and Fruitland, reported that the wind storm, following the previous day's hail storm would result in very little No. 1 fruit being shipped from there this season.

Liberal Candidate Wins By One Vote In Recount

REGINA, July 5 (Canadian Press). — Liberals gained a seat yesterday by the recount at Cannington, giving A. C. Steel a majority of 1 over Dr. Arthur, Independent. This makes the standing of the parties as follows: Liberals 27, Conservatives 25, Progressives 4, Independents 5.

Steel's vote is given as 1,866 and Arthur's 1,865. Sixty ballots were thrown out in the recount, and Arthur's majority of 25 in the original return is changed to 1 of a majority for Steele.

Counsel for Dr. Arthur to-day gave notice of an appeal from the decision of Judge Rimmer, who presided over the recount.

BROKEN SHAFT CAUSED DEATH

Adjourned Inquest Into Sunnyside Fatality is Continued in Toronto.

STILL IN HOSPITAL.

TORONTO, Ont., July 5 (C.P.).—At the resumption of the adjourned inquest into the death of John Kempthorne, Paris, fatally injured in a "Whoopee Wheel" accident at Sunnyside Beach here June 21, it was yesterday found that a broken shaft, indiscernible on exterior examination, was the unsuspected cause of the swing of the wheel which tossed Kempthorne and Mr. and Mrs. Baine and their son Jack, out of their seats. The latter trio are still in hospital and the inquest was adjourned until July 29 in order that one of the family may testify before the jury.

Testifying on his own behalf, S. Solman, proprietor of the wheel, said the device had been in operation about five weeks. He had purchased it in the United States and although applying for a license after installing it, he had no certificate at the time of the accident.

Solman told Coroner Dr. M. M. Crawford, that he rented the land which the wheel was located on from the Harbor Commission, but they had refused to allow him more land which would have allowed him to place the picket fence which surrounds the contraption several feet farther back. It was this fence upon which Kempthorne was impaled when he was tossed out. Solman and other witnesses expressed the belief that if the fence had been farther back Kempthorne would not have been so seriously injured.

REMAINS BROUGHT HOME.

Treaty Makers Plan To Stay Four Days at Northern Post.

TORONTO, Ont., July 5 (Canadian Press).—According to word received at the Parliament Buildings here yesterday, the party of Provincial and Dominion Government officials, who are in the Patricia district negotiating treaties with the Indians, left Osnaburgh House on the English River Wednesday for Trout Lake, which is 190 miles north and is one of the main points at which the Indians will be met.

The treaty makers plan to stay at Trout Lake four days. They intended flying by way of Fort Hope.

Major J. E. Nicholl, Provincial air service officer in charge of operations in North-Western Ontario, flew to Osnaburgh House from Sioux Lookout to hold a conference with Captain Roy Maxwell, Provincial air force director, who is piloting the Ontario plane. All members of the party are feeling fit, Major Nicholl wired authorities here.

OLD BOY IS BACK AFTER 50 YEARS AWAY FROM CITY

Rev. L. A. Sager Tells of Travelling Widley in United States.

PRAISES OLD HOME WEEK.

Few of the returned old boys have as interesting a story to tell as Rev. L. A. Sager, who left Peterborough almost fifty years ago and is now chaplain of the famous De Gink Institute of Buffalo.

Rev. Sager was the son of Eli Sager whom many of the older residents of Peterborough will remember as an old medicine man in the district. Rev. Sager was one of a family of ten, of whom all but one are still living, and was educated in the old Central School. He lumbered for Elliott & Saddler on Rice Lake for many years while in this district.

Rev. Sager recalls that at the time of his departure from this locality it was what he terms "a rough, tough place." It was a town supported by the lumbering industry and woodsmen made up the greater part of the population. The only industries were the William Hamilton Company and the Auburn Woollen Mills. There were many places in the locality that nowadays would ride under the name of "dives." He recalls the old building that stood in the Market Square; a building that was in that day considered large.

Travelled Widely.

For thirty-five years after Rev. Mr. Sager left Peterborough, he travelled widely in evangelistic work. This work carried him to many sections of the country, and in the period he encountered a wealth of experiences. Following that he took an active interest in oil work in Pensylvania.

With his present position, Mr. Sager declares he has met the most interesting and varied life he has in his entire previous days.

The De Gink Institute, of which he is chaplain, is a great, newly-founded institution of philanthropy in Buffalo, headed by Mayor Frank X. Schwab, the founder, and supported voluntarily by the assistance of several of Buffalo's millionaires and other contributions. The purpose of the institution is primarily to put men and boys on their feet. "A Home for Homeless Men Out of Work" is the slogan of the institution. Meals, lodgings, clothing, and a place for writing, reading and study are provided by the institution free of charge to those in need.

Mr. Sager relates that his work in connection with this institution carries him to all manner of places and into all kinds of situations. He is well acquainted with officials of police departments, penitentiaries, hospitals, poor houses, and any such places where trouble and sorrow may arise. Mr. Sager says he is admitted to penitentiary cells and other places to which few but the very highest officials are admitted. Conferring with men about to be put to death in a few hours has often been his lot.

The idea on which the enterprise is run, says Mr. Sager, is that a man may be down but not out. He is too often the victim of circumstance and his own failings, and needs only a helping hand in the right direction. Following out this idea, many men that were nothing but tramps have been assisted and have turned out to be men of very fine calibre.

Regarding the Old Home Week celebration of Peterborough, Mr. Sager expressed the opinion that it surpassed any similar affairs he had seen in the United States. "The whole event has been staged and handled so satisfactorily that it makes one proud to be able to say that he is a genuine Peterborough Old Boy."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—John C. Scott got an overcoat in a trade, but he got the worst of the transaction. The trade happened while he was asleep. FRENCH MINISTERS SEEK TO HAVE PROTECT CLAUSE IN ARGUMENT

Cabinet Is Convoked Unexpectedly In Special Session This Morning.

CRISIS NEAR.

Will Fight Attack By Opposition On Andre Tardieu, Minister of Interior.

PARIS, July 5.—The French cabinet was convoked unexpectedly in special session this morning to consider varied attacks of the opposition which have brought the government perilously close to a ministerial crisis.

The ministers decided to try to convince the Finance Commission of the Chamber it should reconsider its decision to inject a safeguard clause into its ratification of the debt accord with United States It prepared also to fight the attack on Andred Tardieu, Minister of the Interior.

The cabinet discussed all phases of the situation presented by the finance commission's unexpected action yesterday in voting to include the safeguard reservations in ratification. It was agreed that although the situation had some serious aspects there was confidence parliament would be convinced of the usefulness of adopting such a measure.

There was no objection to French sentiment being expressed simultaneously, but separately in a resolution.

The attacks against M. Tardieu seemed to-day to have centred about the apparently trivial incident of an angry woman slapping the Prefect of Police during the recent veteran's parade to protest ratification.

The minister of Interior denied that the perfect was slapped but Deputy Dormann asserted he saw the affair. This controversy has assumed unexpected importance. It was said simply because it afforded material for a new rare attack on the cabinet.

The air taxis will take travelers to any part of the country under this small rate of fare.

They will be distributed all over England to families and friends of the crew.

BUFFALO ORGANIZATION MEANT EVERYTHING

Large Representation Was Present for Old Home Week from Buffalo

The bulk of the work for the organization of the Old Home Week Boys and Girls in Buffalo was done by a small committee and two of the most prominent on it were Rev. L. A. Sager, who is chaplain of the Dr. Emk Institute of that city, a Home for Homeless Men out of work, and founded by Mayor Frank X. Schwab in 1925.

Another member of the Committee and great worker and advocate of Peterborough is William Fleming, a successful Peterborough Old Boy, now resident in Buffalo. His donation of a handsome cup to the parade committee and $30.00 in gold to the dance committee was greatly appreciated.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 5. — Although the wheat market was slightly less active than Wednesday, prices yesterday continued to swing upward as drought reports from Western Canada gave the crops a more and more pessimistic aspect. With the reaching of the high point of the day, 5⅛c over Wednesday's close, in the July future, profit-taking set in to a considerable degree, and the market receded about 1½c, only to stage a last-minute comeback and close 4⅛c up for the session.

Liverpool showed gains of 2d to 2½d at the close of yesterday's trading, believed to be in sympathy with the local upswing. With offerings in cash wheat heavy, the market was very slow. Spreads were generally unchanged to 1½c easier.

Following closely the advance on the wheat market, coarse grains were strong yesterday. Oats were up 2¾c barley 1¼c, flax from 2c to 3½c, and rye about 4c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 5. — Prices on the local cash grain market were marked up again yesterday. Wheat was up 4c, oats 2c and barley 1c, while spring wheat flour advanced 20c a barrel. Rolled oats were up 10c per bag.

An easier undertone was noticeable in the butter market. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized sold in a wholesale way from 37c to 37 1-4c per pound, with the former price rather general. To the retail trade prices were 39c per pound for solids and 40c for prints. Receipts were 1622 boxes.

The cheese market continued dull, with local prices for No. 1 Eastern white and colored somewhat lower at 17 1-2c to 17 3-4c per pounds. No. 1 Western white and colored was unchanged at 18 1-2c to 18 3-4c per pound. Receipts were 8237 boxes.

Egg receipts were 2114 cases, with prices remaining unchanged.

Potatoes and poultry were quiet, with the prices mostly steady.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, July 5.— Trading on the local wholesale butter market yesterday was fairly active and supplies continued to move comparatively free into consumptive channels. Production was reported to be holding its own successfully and arrivals were sufficient to answer all demands.

Local dealers state that there is only a small amount of butter passing into storage on account of the threat of New Zealand butter in the fall and the general opinion is that the market is just holding its own. Prices remained unchanged at 38c. per lb. for No. 1 creamery and 37c. per lb. for the No. 2 grade.

The recent inactivity was continued on the local wholesale egg market yesterday and very little change was evidenced in general conditions and none at all in price. The little storing that has been going on is now about completed, according to prominent local dealers, and no further demand from that source is anticipated. Receipts on the local market are showing the effect of hot weather, and falling off noticeably, but arrivals are still quite sufficient to answer all demands. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c. per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c. per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c. to 22c. per dozen. Although it has been stated by a few dealers that the lack of extras on the market has been a factor in the recent popularity and strength of firsts, others are of the opinion that there is a sufficiency of all grades yet.

The local wholesale cheese market was quiet again yesterday, and the price of No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government graded held steady at from 19c. to 19¼c. per lb.

PETERBORO LADY TELLS HOW HUSKY MAKES HER WELL

"I Had Been Suffering for More Than Two Years With Stomach Trouble, and This Medicine Has Done What Other Things Never Did," She Says.

MRS. GEORGE LAMBERT

Mrs. George Lambert, of 377 Bethune St., this city, is another Peterborough resident to report that never before have they ever used a medicine like "Husky," the purely vegetable preparation, recommended so highly by Bond's Drug Store here and by well-known men and women throughout the Dominion.

"It is truly remarkable how Husky has relieved me because I had suffered for so long and nothing had ever helped me," said Mrs. Lambert. "For more than two years," she said, "I had been suffering from stomach trouble. Gas would form on my stomach after meals, causing distressing pains in my stomach and so often I would vomit my food. I had heartburn and would feel terribly dizzy. I was losing weight, feeling weak and was too nervous to sleep or rest at night.

"I received wonderful relief while on my second battle of Husky, but I kept up the treatment and have now used four bottles. Now the gas has entirely disappeared from my stomach, I never have stomach pains and there is no vomitting or heartburn. I can at last enjoy my food and I want to tell you that I have a real appetite. Everything I eat is digesting well and I am actually sleeping well at night.

"I am feeling well again and I want you to know that nothing ever helped me like Husky. It not only relieved me of my suffering, but it is a great builder, too, for I have gained several pounds and feel a lot stronger since I have been using it."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store in Peterborough and at other good drug stores everywhere.

CHEESE FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Campbellford Plant Struck By Lightning During Electrical Storm.

MORGANSTON, July 5 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Avon Bank cheese factory on the outskirts of this village was almost completely destroyed by fire as the result of having been struck by lightning yesterday noon. Last night the cement block walls were still standing and the interior of the factory was a smouldering mass of fire. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars and the insurance is said to be approximately two thousand. All the cheese was saved and some of the equipment.

The storm which passed over this district yesterday was not generally considered severe. With the exception of the factory fire, no other damage was reported. As nearly as could be learned, the building was struck between twelve and one o'clock noon. At the time, Clem Palmateer and his helper were away from the factory having their noon day meal at the house less than two hundred yards distant. Mrs. Clarence Glover, who lives nearer the factory, was working in front of her house and was the first to see the fire. The bolt had apparently struck the northeast corner of the building, and the flames spread rapidly. Practically everyone in the community hurried to the scene when Mrs. Glover gave the alarm. The men worked desperately and succeeded in saving eighty-eight cheese that were in the store room and in the hoops of the presses. Curd for, it is estimated, thirteen more cheese, was burned in the vats. The cheese presses, two of them, were removed before the rescue work was abandoned. Seventy-eight of the cheese were brought to Campbellford and placed in cold storage. The remaining ten were stored in a neighboring farm building.

Avon Bank factory was considered a well-equipped and modern building. Last year it made cheese of high standard and was away to a good start again this season. It was a story and a half structure with concrete block walls and metal roof. The cheese-making equipment was practically new and adapted for use with steam. Almost all this machinery was ruined by the fire. The building itself was erected in 1905. It was about seventy feet long and thirty-five feet deep.

Coming at the beginning of the season, the fire loss will mean a great inconvenience to the patrons of the factory. Last night no definite arrangement had been made, but it was expected that the milk usually delivered to the burned factory would be sent to Norham and other nearby establishments. A meeting of the directors was called for last night to discuss plans for rebuilding or other arrangements for the remainder of urban municipalities' local and equalized assessments, and to that extent was an appreciable concession to the Cavan reeve's claim.

COUNTY COUNCIL IS DIVIDED OVER ASSESSMENT PROBLEM

Towns May Appeal

But, if Reeve Hooton decided not to press his threatened appeal to the Judge, the Reeves of Bowmanville, Cobourg, and Port Hope and also of South Monaghan intimated that their dissatisfaction with the majority decision of the council would lead straight to judicial arbitration of the equalized assessments for 1930.

Thus, if revision of the assessment eventuates this year it will be upon the appeal of the Reeves of Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville instead of the original complaints Reeves Hooton Perrin and Reeve F. S. Hyland of Cartwright.

Stalemate Foreseen.

This apparently abortive termination of the day's special session realized the June predictions of Warden Wood and other skeptics of conciliation, who asserted that no Reeve would agree to the assessment increases which Hooton, Hyland and Perrin demanded.

A comparison of the two proposals follows: Cobourg's 1928 local assessment was $2,940,046, and its equalized assessment was $1,660,729, a disparity to which rural reeves objected. W. H. Nelson's plan to increase Cobourg's equalized assessment by 30 per cent. of its local assessment is based on the new local assessment roll, but the 1928 assessment will serve for an approximation of the actual assessment. And on that basis the increase would be $397,303, making the equalized assessment for next year $2,058,046 instead of $1,660,729.

The other towns and villages would be similarly but not necessarily proportionately affected.

What the Towns Proposed.

But the urban expedient of a 10 per cent. increase of the present equalized assessment would amount, in Cobourg's case, to an increase of $166,072 as compared to the Nelson alternative of $397,303 which the Council adopted.

These figures tend to explain the preference of the towns for the 10 per cent. increase instead of the rural representatives' plan of raising the urban equalized assessments by 30 per cent. of this year's local assessments.

Warden Wood estimated that the total increase by the 30 per cent. scheme would exceed one million dollars, and the alternative of 10 per cent. increase for towns and 5 per cent. for villages would amount to $560,000.

Nearly Abandoned Efforts.

After the morning preliminaries, the Council several times during the afternoon was on the point of abandoning the round-table procedure. On the last suggestion to call it a wasted day, Warden Wood urged that representatives of the towns and villages and townships retire again for a final deliberation. This attempt ended like the others, and there remained the earlier recommendation, endorsed by the townships but opposed by the towns. It was submitted to the Council, and carried with a rural majority.

The committee was composed of W. H. Nelson and L. C. Murphy of Northumberland, and M. J. Holman and R. N. McGill, clerk of Cavan, for Durham, representing the townships; A. W. Young, town clerk of Cobourg, and Alex. Wilson, clerk of Hastings, for the towns and villages of Northumberland, and W. F. Rickard and John Saunders, clerk of Port Hope, for the Durham towns and villages.

Many Clerks Present.

Mr. McGill was Reeve Hooton's running mate for the session. Most of the municipal clerks accompanied their reeves. Mr. McGill said he believed no satisfactory equalization could be arrived at except by some independent committee. Mr. Hooton's course had been urged by many Cavan ratepayers, and was not an attempt at self-glorification. A blanket percentage increase, Mr. McGill said, was no guarantee of equalization because there was no assurance of a common method of valuating the properties in the various municipalities. The relation between the assessment and the actual value of land in one municipality was probably different to this percentage in others. Hence, the proposed blanket increase was not fair.

Some of the clerks present were: Austin Lean of Ainwick, J. N. McGill of Cavan, Alex. Wilson of Hastings, George Hay of Seymour, W. A. Jakeman of Manvers, W. Beacock of Cartwright, L. O. Wade of Brighton Township, F. Smithson of South Monaghan, J. Blacklock of Haldimand, W. J. Grieve of Hamilton, H. Keys of Cobourne.

HAMILTON COMMITTEE WORKED QUIETLY

Surprised the Home Boys With Splendid Representation Made in Big Parade.

It was never thought that Hamilton would make the showing that it did in the return of old boys and girls from that city. They evidently worked quietly but very effectively as they swooped down in large numbers Saturday, Sunday and Monday with their cars decorated with cuts of Tigers, the name for ages of the famous football teams. In the parade the lead car had the form of a Tiger which was all that was necessary to led the crowd know that the Hamilton delegation was coming.

Whoever composed the Hamilton committee did great work. ave Patterson and Mr. Campbell were among those who were most enthusiastic, and every one from Hamilton appeared to be having a great time. Some of the visitors made the remark that the City Council had given an appropriation towards their advertising and decorations. If so it is greatly appreciated here.

The Bridge of Sighs

At the gate of a cemetery there is a certain bridge—"A Bridge of Sighs". Many a widow passes over it to return to a home from which Death has taken husband and father.

Death is not a tragedy. Tragedy strikes the living,—those who are bereft of their natural provider.

No life insurance policy can take the place of a husband and father, but the proceeds of it will relieve a family from distress until they are able to adjust themselves to new conditions.

We invite enquiries from men who desire advice concerning the right type of life insurance protection. Write for our pamphlet entitled "No Matter What Happens". It is most interesting.

GRANTED 2,700 ACRES OF LAND IN MONAGHAN

CAME IN 1818.

Captain Became Disgusted at Land Awarded Him and Returned Home.

The difference between the Peterborough of today and of the early times is well illustrated in the story of a man named Francis Spilsbury, a post-captain in the Royal Navy, who commanded a gunboat on the lakes during the Anglo-American war of 1812-15.

This officer was granted 2,700 acres of land by the British Government for his services, most of the same being situated in North Monaghan. In 1818, he came to Peterborough County to see his domain. His course lay by foot route from Cobourg to Rice Lake, thence across that water and up the River Otonabee by canoe. On arriving at the shore of Little Lake (now Peterborough), his Indian guide landed, and pointed westward to where his land lay. The whole aspect was so dismal—nothing but the charred "spikes" of burnt pine trees, and the partially consumed "slash" of the original forest, interspersed with "scrub" underbrush—that the captain became disgusted, and refused to go farther; and, in fact, returned, as he came, without ever having seen his property. The same land now comprises one of the very finest stretches of highly cultivated farmsteads to be found in the Dominion.

This man was the father-in-law of Dr. William Bell of Peterborough, who came here in 1838, settling in Otonabee, where he combined farming with professional practice for a time. In 1840, he removed to the town and purchased the drug business of Dr. George Burnham, which he conducted successfully for fourteen years, when he disposed of it and moved into North Monaghan. After eleven years, he once more returned to the city, where he died.

The Quartier Latin still has its romance but it is no longer the Latin Quarter of Trilby or "vie de Boheme." The student of to-day is faced with the stern reality of high prices and low resources. He has to pay the rent.

CREATING WORK

LONDON, July 5.—Spring and summer's approach has brought a new female occupation to light here. The window-box girls make a round of homes taking care of window flower boxes, receiving a fee from each one taken care of. They start a box with a seasonal display and once a month come around and replace old plants with new ones, thus keeping the box blooming throughout the season.

THE LAST DAY.

The last day of the Old Home Week festivities at the Exhibition Grounds to-morrow will provide the final opportunity for old friends to get together, and at the same time will provide one of the best programs of the week, inasmuch as it will include a Central Ontario League baseball game as well as vaudeville and horse racing.

The management of the Central Ontario League club, anxious to co-operate with the Old Home Week committee, has transferred its league fixture to the Exhibition Grounds, and the game will be the feature of the final day's entertainment.

Citizens of Peterborough and their guests should bring Old Home Week to a fitting climax by an old-time record in attendance at this program of interesting features.

The last day of the celebration should be remembered as one of the best.

CANADIAN PROGRAMS.

Reports from Ottawa indicate that an outstanding feature of the many hearings held by the Royal Commission on Radio Broadcasting throughout Canada has been the constant demand in all parts of the country for Canadian programs.

That is a condition that is gratifying.

The air every night is jammed with programs from over the border, many of them most meritorious, of course, but naturally all American in character, and it should be a source of satisfaction that Canadians everywhere are not content to accept a full fare of United States programs, but are insisting that they should be given an opportunity of listening to Canadian artists.

Whether the Royal Commission will be able to solve the problem of how this demand is to be satisfied or not remains to be seen.

Certainly, for the present at least, private enterprise will not be able to finance the installation of the necessary high-powered stations, and it would seem that Federal and perhaps provincial assistance will be needed.

The report of the Commission will be awaited eagerly by the army of radio listeners in this country.

LEARN TO SWIM.

In the past few days there have been five or six drowning accidents in various parts of the Province in which the victim was described as a non-swimmer.

The lesson of such tragedies is obvious.

In the first place, they teach the desirability of as many people as possible learning the art of swimming, for while swimmers sometimes drown, their chances of escape in the event of an accident are decidedly better than those of people who know nothing of how to take care of themselves in the water.

Learn to swim; the knowledge may save your life some time.

Non-swimmers, in the second place, should take no chances; they should keep away from dangerous points, out of canoes and away from unprotected bathing areas.

Many of the recent accidents have been caused by people who did not know how to swim, being careless in places where lack of caution was fatal.

The accident record in the past week has been appalling—and calls for a general observance of safety first principles.

A JUDICIAL BODY.

S. J. McLean, of the Board of Railway Commissioners, recently discussed the work of that body in an address in Vancouver. The board, he said, was in its 25th year and had dealt with 88,000 complaints in its history.

"Practically no Parliament since 1904 had failed to widen the board's powers in some way," the commissioner said. "Nearly all the additional duties, of course, are related to transportation, such as regulation of the grain rate tariff. Jurisdiction seems to flow to the board."

The whole object of the board, the commissioner declared, is to give as perfect rail tariff conditions as possible in all Canada, while allowing all interests an opportunity of obtaining economic redress, if there be any injustice. The board attempts, he said, to hold a balance, as evenly as possible, between contending parties.

When the Board of Railway Commissioners came into being on February 1, 1904, there was considerable nervousness on the part of the railways and an equal degree of confidence on the part of the public as to the probable effect of the decisions it would naturally make. The creator of the board was the Minister of Railways, Hon. A. G. Blair, who became its first chairman. Mr. Blair at the outset attempted to make it a judicial body. Under successive chairmen, the board maintained a reputation for sincerity of purpose and impartiality of action. The railways in time came to regard it as the protector rather than the attacker of their rights and privileges.

In recent years, the confidence of the business community in the board has been shaken by some events. One or two of its decisions seemed to have been influenced by political considerations. The appointment of Hon. Frank Oliver seemed to be purely a case of finding a job for a political worker. Recently another political appointment was made.

It is unfortunate that after 25 years of service the board should show signs of degenerating into a creature of the Cabinet. It is not that yet, but it will require courage and honesty on the part of the present and future Governments to hold the board as high in public esteem as it has been during most of its existence.—Financial Post.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS.

Political interest in Canada next month will be centred on five by-elections set for the same day—July 29, with nominations a week earlier. Deaths and resignations have created vacancies in three Ontario and two Quebec constituencies. The Ontario vacancies are Lanark, Prescott and Frontenac-Addington, while the Quebec seats are Vaudreuil-Soulanges and Laprairie-Napierville. Of the five, three were represented by Government members, two in Quebec and one in Ontario, namely Prescott.

It is hardly likely, however, that national political feeling can be tested in any one of the five ridings. Lanark and Frontenac-Addington are traditionally Conservative. The late Hon. Dr. Preston represented the former and the late Hon. Dr. Edwards the latter. Prescott is just as traditionally Liberal and the same thing may be said of the Quebec seats. It would be a significant thing, indeed, if Liberals were elected in Lanark and Frontenac-Addington, and quite as significant if the Conservatives were successful in the other three. The chances of any one of these five constituencies changing its old-time allegiance in either a by-election or a general contest is decidedly remote.

The Star's Ottawa correspondent notes that it is unusual for so many by-elections to be held at once. Granted, but it is decidedly satisfactory that this is being done. Governments, in the past, have been accused of leaving seats open for unforgivably long periods, in order to suit their own political convenience. In issuing writs for five by-elections a comparatively short time after the vacancies have occurred, Mr. King is certainly not laying himself open to a charge of forgetting that Canada is operated on the responsible government system.

It was suggested from the Conservative sources in Ottawa the other day, that the Government, working up its idea—or Mr. Bennett's—for an Empire trade conference, might seize time by the forelock and call for a hurry-up election campaign this fall. While such seems improbable, one has no way of knowing what is passing through Mr. King's mind. The leader of the Liberal party is a very astute student of politics. Some of his opponents have made the almost fatal error of thinking otherwise, and learning, to their sorrow, the cleverness of the man with whom they had to deal. While it was officially intimated, some time ago, that no elections would be held this year, Governments, like women, have the privilege of changing their minds. There are several weighty reasons, however, why a 1929 appeal to the voters is most unlikely. One of them is the fact that the Government's legal tenure of office does not expire until 1931. Another is the present unsatisfactory state of the tariff situation. A third—and the strongest of all—is found in the fact that the last Robb budget was not constructed for election purposes. Robb budgets, as everyone knows, have potent qualities when it comes to tickling the voters. The Finance Minister's last statement, however, did not contain nearly as much electoral delight as one imagines it would have contained had an appeal to the electors been on the cards for this year. When the Government is going out earnestly after votes it may be taken for granted that Mr. Robb will have a lot of tricks in the budget bag. The income and cigarette levies can be reduced.

The Saskatchewan situation, too, should enter into the Government's calculations. It is still decidedly up in the air. Dr. Anderson, the Conservative leader, is now hinting that the special session of the Legislature promised by Premier Gardiner may not be called. If it is called, the doctor predicts, the administration will not be able to elect a Speaker. And if it is called, he adds, "the galleries will witness a spectacle such as has probably never been seen before in the history of Canada. The Gardiner Government could meet the wishes of the people by resigning in a dignified manner. It would be well advised to do so." Saskatchewan is one of the King Government's strong points. The Premier himself represents the riding of Prince Albert. If Saskatchewan is going to turn its back on the Liberal party—and it nearly did so in a provincial way just the other day—things would be rather serious for the Federal administration, despite the Liberal contention that recent events in the Western Province have nothing to do with Dominion politics. If there was any early thought of staging a Federal campaign late this year, one fancies that the Saskatchewan mix-up has dealt it something of a body blow. Mr. King cannot afford to have his forces divided or disorganized when the time comes to go to the country, for Mr. Bennett is laying the groundwork for a very careful campaign in which little is left to chance. The country is being looked over in a very business-like fashion, candidates are to be chosen with care and every effort made to place the Conservative party in power when the curtain goes up. One can depend upon it, of course, that Mr. King is well aware of all that is going on and will do his level best. As a political marshal and campaign leader he has few equals.

It should be a merry battle!—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Liquor exports to the United States show a falling off, but that may be due to the fact that our American cousins are coming over here for it.

The last day of the Old Home Week festivities tomorrow should attract a big crowd to the Exhibition Grounds. The bill is entirely worth while.

The defeat of the Argonauts will be regretted throughout the Dominion. A Canadian victory was hoped for, but the Toronto oarsmen have succumbed after a gallant fight.

Old Home Week activities seem to have stopped the annual crop of fish stories. But they will be heard later on.

Old Home Week is rapidly passing, but the memories will linger on.

The tourist rush is beginning to be noticeable, and by next week will have assumed record proportions, it is anticipated.

Five Federal by-elections are scheduled for July 29. The electors of those constituencies will have general sympathy.

"Men who travel a great deal seldom marry," says an explorer. In other words, a rolling stone gathers no boss.—Ottawa Journal.

A girl who was kissed brought suit, and the judge awarded her six cents damages. Hardly enough. She should at least have been awarded the price of a new lipstick.

Germany is still protesting that she didn't start the war. One of these days she may attempt to inform the world that there wasn't any war.

Judging by the number of motor accidents it is as true to-day as it has ever been that there are some men who refuse to learn except by experience.

A Thought

LEISURE.

In a lecture at Yale, Henry Ward Beecher told the students to remember that "the first thing to be remembered is leisure.' ' He cautioned them to take all the time they needed for sleep and for recreation, because "the condition of absolute integrity of mind and body is the first condition that makes for success.. Browse, read, wander through the woods on one day and through the streets of the city the next."

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 5th.
"Cancer"

If July 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 4.30 a.m. to 7.30 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

A personal loss may be anticipated on this date. An opportunity to travel, of an extended character, will present itself. There will be many violent changes in your plans and surroundings, and the signs indicate that you will again be brought into contact with old associations and former friends.

The child born July 5th will not be precocious or spectacular. It will be a plodder, with a degree of stick-at-iveness that will eventually lead to success. It will be faithful and sincere. It will be acquisitive of information, and will learn and profit more by experience than by study. Its affections will not vary nor change.

Although you occasionally fly into violent, but brief, spasms of anger, you, on the whole, possess great self-control. Trifles—as insignificant as they are annoying—upset your equilibrium. In times of real trouble you display poise and self-domination. Your temperment is a very optimistic one, and this sometimes leads you into backing a proposition, even when to the outsider it is past salvation. You always, in private life as in business, discount your problems, and put an unearned premium on your successes. You are too downright and extreme to take a middle course.

Your nature is sociable, and you are never really happy unless surrounded by friends. Solitude makes no appeal to you. When alone, you are restless and miserable; when in congenial company, you are at your best. Residence in the hustle and bustle of a city will stimulate you, and bring out your good points. Life in the country will develop inertia and moodiness.

Your intelligence is of a very high order, and if it were allied to a judicial sense, it would be difficult for you to fail in any undertaking that you might essay. Your disposition is very affectionate, and the signs denote that you will, in marriage, find your whole-souled love fully reciprocated.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Rev. A. C. and Mrs. Hie Honored By Congregation of Bethel Church.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 5.—Rev. A. C. and Mrs. Hie were guests of honor at a meeting of the congregation of Bethel church held last week, when they were presented with a quilt and auto robe. Mrs. R. Fleming read the address and Mrs. E. Glenn made the presentation, to which Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hie replied, thanking their friends for their kindness.

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Hie:

It is with feeling of deep regret that we have to perform this part of our program.

It is hard for us to believe that we are drawing near to the conclusion of our associations with you. You have always been a source of great inspiration in all work connected with Bethel church. Your faithful service and cheerful smiles have been unestimated encouragement in making many heavy tasks a pleasure.

Both of you have been exceedingly faithful in performing your duties along all lines of church work social gatherings and young people's work with a smile.

Although we regret that we will in the near future severe our associations with you we are very thankful that we have had the privilege which we have enjoyed during your stay among us and we assure you that your consciencious work has reaped both moral and spiritual results.

We feel that mere words are inadequate to describe our feelings of thankfulness and gratitude and so we ask you to accept these gifts and as often as you are warmed by them r... you often think of the warm he... us that you have left around Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Hie, we wish you and your family God's grace, health and happiness in your new field of labour and hope, that you will endeavor to make frequent visits back to this community."

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shays waiting woman, is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme". Peter goes on the trail of Orme, He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp. Orme is an irresponsible, temperamental, artistic and refined man who does not seem capable of committing murder. Finding Orme so helpless, Peter asks Dr. Cavanaugh to help him out at the trial. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme. Peter unwittingly sees Barbara destroy a deadly bit of evidence, a comb of Sheila O'Shay's, and he is torn between his love and the fear of her guilt. He determines to save her at any cost.

"Oh, Peter!" Barbara cried. Her voice was the thin, small voice of a terrified child at the touch of a reassuring hand in the dark. "If I only could!"

She leaned forward, her hands clasped tightly between her knees, her pinched, white face irradiated with a flood of rosy color. Her eyes, seeking Peter's, were wells of glory.

Peter forgot that Sheila O'Shay had been murdered, forgot that she had ever existed. His world was narrowed to one consuming blaze of divine astonishment.

"But Barbara! You can't mean——" he stammered.

"Of course." Barbara nodded her head twice, with slow emphasis. "I mean just that. I should think you'd have seen it from the beginning."

Peter, still with that look of awed wonder, leaned down to kiss the bright, bowed head. But before he reached her, he forced himself back, holding to the mantel piece as if her feared to trust his own unaided will.

"But listen, you amazing child, you can't mean it!" he said. "You dont know a thing about me, really. I'm just a hard-boiled nespaper reporter." (It was a fixed delusion with Peter that he was "hard boiled".) "I earn $50 a week, and the only car I own or am ever likely to own is one you'd be ashamed even to collide with. I never thought of it before, but for all you know, I might be nothing but a fortune hunter."

"I know quite enough." A shadow of the old gamin smile, hovered at the corners of Barbara's mouth. "Are you trying to persuade me to marry you or trying to persuade me not to—which?"

"If things weren't as they are, I'd try to have too much sense to ask you. But I've got to have the right to help you—to stand by to the last ditch. Of course I'll do that anyhow, but it'll make things simpler. That's why I want to marry you."

"Oh, no, it isn't!" Barbara's shining gaze was still fixed on Peter's face. "It's because you love me."

"Oh, that!" Peter's score was the most sublime assurance. "That goes without saying. Who wouldn't?"

"Still," said Barbara. "I'm glad you said it, even though I knew I ought to be sorry, but I'm not. I'm glad—glad that I shall have it to remember always. Because I'm not going to marry you, Peter."

"Don't be absurd!" Peter said angrily. "Please, Barbara, get this straight. Even if you hadn't looked at me like that, you glorious child—I don't know how it ever happened, but somehow it has—I'd have wanted you to marry me anyhow. Then, if we got things straightened out and you wanted your freedom, you could have it. Nothing nothing at all, could possibly make any difference to me, except as it gave me something to do for you. That's the way I feel about it. Now, will you marry me?"

"Don't!" Barbara buried her face in her hands. "You make it so very hard." Then she looked up, her small chin very stubborn, her eyes very steady. "I can't marry you Peter—not ever."

"Why not?" Peter glared down at her belligerently.

"Because——" Barbara took a deep breath, then went on steadily. "I'm going to tell you something I have never hinted to another soul. I told you how Dr. Cavanaugh adopted me out of the orphanage. I rather think that I am really his daughter."

It was so far from what Peter had expected her to say that he could only stare at her in blank amazement.

"But, darling child," he said when he had caught his breath. "Can you think for one moment that that would make any difference to me?"

"It would to me," Barbara said, so low that he had to bend toward her to catch the words.

"But it mustn't. I don't care a fig whether your parents had a marriage license or not. As the lawyers say, it's incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant. Dr. Cavanaugh is a very great man—you might well be proud to get some of your heredity from a brain like that. Even if he did your mother and you a social injury by not marry her, he's done his best to make it up to you."

"Yes," Barbara said gravely, "He is a great man, and he has been good to me. But, oh!" Sobs rose in her throat, but she fought them down, "You don't understand—you never can understand—I can never tell you!"

"Listen to me," Peter said sternly. "We're talking at cross purposes. You're not being frank with me. I saw you find that comb behind the seat of your car, and destroy it."

Her hands reached out in a gesture of frantic protest, but he disregarded them.

"I said I didn't care what you've done. I meant it. As a matter of fact, I think that you probably killed Sheila O'Shay and that we may have the deuce of a time getting you out of it. Now will you marry me?"

"You think that of me," Barbara said wonderingly. "You think that I killed her—I with these hands,, committed murder?" She held out her hands, palm upward, and looked at them, curiously. "You think I am a murderess, and that I may be hanged for it, and still—still you want to marry me?"

Peter did not know that he had moved until he reached her and lifted her from the chair and held her close, his cheek against her hair.

"They shan't hurt you Barbara. Nobody shall hurt you. I won't let them." Staring into the distance above her bowed head, Peter defied the world.

"I think," murmured Barbara, "that it might be worth dying for, to know that somebody felt like that." Then, very gently, she slipped out of those encircling arms. "But I won't do it, Peter. No power on earth—not the power of love itself— can make me marry you. That is the ultimate truth, and you will have to believe it."

Peter looked long and steadily into her eyes lifted bravely to his, but they did not waver.

"It only makes things a little harder, darling," he said at last. "You know that I'll do whatever I can, anyway. And we mustn't be frightened. I was standing in the driveway when you got out of your car; I'm sure that nobody else saw you. Perhaps, when all this is over and forgotten, you'll be willing to decide differently."

"I can't. Please, unless you want to pain me terribly, don't ask me again."

"But you don't want me not to love you, do you, Barbara?"

Once again Barbara's face was lighted by its elfin smile.

"I don't think there's anything can prevent—either of us," she said.

SPLENDID SERMON CLIMAXES SERIES

Rev. M. R. Brown Says Death Not End of Story, Only Close of Chapter.

ROSENEATH, July 5.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A goodly number attended the United church on Sunday morning to listen to the last of the series of sermons taken from the Lord's Prayer, "For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory, forever and ever, Amen."

Rev. M. R. Brown emphasized the meaning very clearly by saying, "This is the triumphant epitome of all things implied in the great prayer.

It is an adoration, a grand pain, exalting our Saviour's prayer to a final climax, vast as the universe is wide and as lofty as the morning star. It is not only something vast and sweeping, but a great resume of men's experience.

Everything that has ever made man's heart beat faster and stirred the blood within his veins is there: all the many sided glory of man's life on earth, "For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory of God." All these are yours, and in a thousand different forms, in passionate poetry, majestic music, in the mysteries of chancels and the strength of massive tower, the cry has been echoed down the ages. Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, the things which God has prepared for them that love Him. He hath prepared those things for us now, that is our true horizon.

Fearing death, weeping for the dead, all this is false if Christianity is true. Death is not the end of a story, it is only the end of a chapter. Death is a passing from one horizon shaded by expectations of death to an ultimate lofty horizon that is the highest that our thoughts can go, that is where we belong to the kingdom and power and glory of God.

Why have we repeated the Lord's Prayer so often and not understood that we now live in so far as we love, in the kingdom and the power and glory of God? Why do we grovel in the roots when we could become acquainted with the stars and sing the music of eternity."

Rev. Mr. Brown will preach to the Orangemen next Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m. when the Lodge will parade in a body to the church.

MONUMENT TO GAS

YPRES, France, July 5.—A monument was recently unveiled at Steenstraete commemorating the first German attack with poison gas. The inscription reads: "On April 22, 1915 the troops of the 87th Territorial Infantry Division and the 45th Infantry Division were poisoned by the first cloud of gas. Since then, the victims of that abominable method of warfare have died every day in peace time."

OIL SECTION LEADS TRADING

Ford, F. N. Burt and Canadian Bakeries Only Issues To Register Gains.

ON TORONTO CURB.

TORONTO, Ont., Jnly 5 (C.P.).—Another session of inactivity and hesitation in price movements was experienced by traders on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Oils were again responsible for most of the total sales, for such leaders as Nickel, Brazilian and Ford were almost neglected. Ford, F. N. Burt and Canadian Bakeries recorded the only substantial gains, each advancing two points to 48, 70 and 44 respectively.

Massey-Harris appeared one point stronger at 59, and Nickel held ⅝ higher at 52, but Tip Top Tailors fell back 1⅞ to 41¼, and Canada Car at 143, and Hiram Walkers at 18 both showed minor declines.

Oils failed to draw the same amount of interest manifested in the past two days, but prices clung closely to previous closing prices. Imperial and Home both strengthening to some extent.

NORANDA GAINS ON MINE MARKET

TRADING SLUGGISH.

TORONTO, Ont., July 5.—(Canadian Press).—A sudden rally in Noranda around the noon-hour, which hearsay credited to unconfirmed rumors of a merger between Noranda and Consolidated Smelters, sent the price soaring to a peak of 60.75, for the first time in many months on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. After breaking to a low of 59.00 the price soared up to the peak and then rested at 60.45 where it recorded a net loss of 1.45. With this exception, the market was sluggish, with the oils again supplying the bulk of interest. Wainwell was freely offered and weakened 3 points to 34 while Ajax dropped six to 1.79. The higher-priced oils, however, continued to make steady progress, home gaining 80 to 23.50, Alberta 50 to 4.30 and Associated 20 to 4.80.

In the Lindsley group, Falconbridge made a further advance of 50 cents to 13.25 while Sudbury and Sherritt-Gordon both showed small gains. Ventures improved 25 to 8.75.

NEARLY $20,000,000 CASH TO CANADIAN SHAREHOLDERS

139 Corporations Mail First of July Dividend Cheques—Many Initial Disbursements.

LIST DIVIDED.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 5.—Canadians are well rewarded by mid-year dividend payments covering the first half and second quarter of the current year. The majority of such payments were made in the first few days of July but a great many are extended throughout the entire monthly period.

While it is not possible to compile a complete record of all companies making distributions at this period of the year, records available show one hundred and thirty-nine corporations making payment of $19,756,830 on one hundred and fifty-seven securities. Although the total amount paid out this month is somewhat less than in one or two preceding months, numerically the list is the largest of any one month in history. The falling off in the amount paid is not due to any reduction in the rate of dividend, or the passing of distributions, but due to the fact the first day of July was a Dominion holiday and many Canadian corporations moved their date of payment on into June boosting the total for the sixth month of the year and reducing it for the seventh. Notable among such corporations are the Canadian Pacific Railway making a distribution of $7,500,000 in the final days of June.

Dividing the list into groups it is found industrial corporations account for $8,913,039; public utilities $5,236,236; mine companies $4,058,489 and financial institutions $1,549,066. Every branch of Canadian industry is represented and the list is replete with initial disbursements, bonus and extra payments, and companies that have recently changed from privately to publicly owned corporations date are liberally represented.

Distributions run from a few thousands of dollars to over three million, with two over the million mark.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting is the leader, the dividend of five per cent, together with a bonus of 20 per cent, or $6.25 on the shares of $25 par calling for $3,184,156. The mining companies make a good showing with Dome, Hollinger, Nipissing and Premier paying very close to a million between them.

Montreal Light, Heat and Power in the utility group will distribute over $1,200,000 and Bell Telephone a few thousands short of $1,000,000. Shawinigan's total is over the three-quarter million mark and British Columbia Power an even half million.

Two of the Canadian chartered banks are rewarding their stock holders by over half a million and trust, mortgage and investment trusts go to make up a total of $1,549,066 for this group.

WRIGHT WINS IN SEMI-FINALS

effort and Bradley, in attempting to hold him off, tired rapidly, and Wright caught him off Phyllis Court and won a great race.

Wins By 10 Lengths

L. Gunther, Dutch Olympic sculler, easily defeated Viscount Tiverton. Gunther won by about ten lengths in the time of 10 minutes 47 seconds, slow even for the bad conditions that prevailed.

Gunther struck a pace of 33 strokes in the first minutes to his titled opponent's 31 strokes. The Dutchman led up the Island and was a length and three quarters ahead at the first signal.

He increased his lead to four lengths at Fawley, reached in four minutes and 46 seconds.

With this comfortable lead Gunther dropped back into a paddle of 24 strokes a minute, but even at this lengthened his lead before the finish.

Trinity Wins.

Trinity beat Columbia to-day by four boat lengths. The winner's time was 8 minutes, 28 second for the mile and five-sixteenths.

Columbia's setback at the hands of the Trinity College boys from Cambridge came in the quarter-finals of the competition for the Thames Cup. The New York crew up to this time had beaten all comers in England, winning their event in the Marlow Regatta and capturing their previous heats here.

BIGGEST PROGRAM OF WEEK TO-MORROW

The Afternoon and Night Programs Best of the Week.

To-morrow afternoon's program will consist of a snappy league baseball game, Deloro vs. Peterborough — a fighting game all the way through, that will have a great bearing on the league standing.

There will be three fine horse races for good purses. There are forty-one horses in the city for the races, from all over the province.

In the evening at the Exhibition Park, in addition to the program, the finest troupe of Canton on the continent, will give a demonstration and a big crowd is expected.

Mardi Gras parade at 10.30, meeting at George street wharf with Queen and attendants, who will declare the festivities for Old Home Week at an end.

LIST ADVANCES DESPITE HEAVY PROFIT TAKING

Many of Important Industrial and Rail Issues Sent Into New High Ground.

CALL MONEY EASY.

Traders Move Cautiously On Theory That Position of Market is Weakened.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 5.—(Canadian Press).—Resumption of vigorous bull operations after the holiday in to-day's stock market encountered rather heavy profit taking, but a wide assortment of important industrials and rails were sent into new high territory.

The market opened with a heavy accumulation of buying orders, resulting from the sudden breaking of the call money jam on Wednesday, when the rate tumbled from 12 to 6 per cent. and the strength of American shares on the London market yesterday.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent. and although there was some calling of loans early in the session, replacement funds were easily found. Traders were inclined to move cautiously, however, on the theory that the technical position of the market had been weakened by the prolonged upturn.

SURPRISE SPRUNG

would come to a successful conclusion.

"I believe myself we can best contribute by refraining from public discussion at this stage in matters whichs must be treated privately in the first instance if they are to produce full results," 'said Sir Austen. "I therefore confine myself to wishing from the bottom of my heart success to the task."

Foreign Secretary Henderson, in replying to Sir Austen, passed over the latter's' reference to the disarmament discussions with the United States by merely thanking the former secretary for the generous manner in which he had dealt with the matter.

Referring to the Rhineland, the new Laborite foreign secretary, said that evacuation as expeditiously as possible was essential in fairness to Germany, who, so far as he was able to see, had carried out the whole conditions imposed on her by the Treaty of Versailles and was therefore entitled to evacuation.

If they did that, the British Government was not entitled to expect more and he hoped there would be unanimous opinion in the House that the governmen.. should go forward on the lines indicated in the King's speech and see whether they could get into normal trade and commercial relations with that great country.

Hydro Buys Four Power Sites for $1,800,000

Acquisition of the Claybank, Stewartville, Burnstown and High Falls power sites on the Madawaska and Mississippi Rivers, at a cost of $1,800,000, by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission from the M. J. O'Brien Co. Ltd., has been approved by the government, and was announced by Premier Ferguson last night. These plants have an aggregate capacity of approximately 85,000 horse-power.

Negotiations for their purchase have extended over a two-year period. Assets acquired by the Hydro Commission also include two existing developments known as the Calabogie and Galetta plants, which generate about 6,000 horsepower and are now serving several districts in Eastern Ontario. Altogether the Commission expects, by virtue of its acquisition of the properties, to add about 100,000 horsepower to its power resources.

Biltmore Hat Issues to be Listed On Toronto Stock Exchange

Announcement is made that 20,000 shares of no-par common stock and 3,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred, $100 par, of Biltmore Hats, Ltd., have been accepted for listing on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The company recently declared an initial dividend on the preferred, payable June 15, to shareholders of record May 31.

The preferred is preferred as to assets and cumulative dividends of 7 percent per annum payable quarterly, and it is redeemable in whole or part at $110. Ten per cent of net earnings, after preferred dividend, depreciation and income tax are set aside for sinking fund purposes. No dividends may be paid on any other shares if such payment would reduce net current assets below $150,000, without consent of three-fourths of the preferred shareholders.

Net earnings for the 12 months' period ending Nov. 30, 1928, after provision for depreciation and government taxes, amounted to $86,779. Total current liabilities at that date were $89,211 and total liabilities were $474,682. Net working capital stood at $225,622. Total current assets were $314,833.

Anaconda and Greene Cananea

NEW YORK—As a further step in the consolidation of its copper holdings, the Anaconda Copper Mining Company has made an offer for the outstanding shares of the Greene Cananea Copper Company and the Andes Copper Mining Company. Anaconda already owns more than 51 per cent of Andes and a substantial amount of Greene Cananea. It is believed to have increased its holdings of Greene Cananea recently and, according to Wall Street reports, now has working control, although possibly not a majority stock interest.

The offer announced is to exchange 1 1 -2 shares of Anaconda for 1 share of Greene Cananea and 45 shares of Anaconda for every 100 shares of Andes. Anaconda closed on the stock exchange Tuesday at 118, showing a net loss of 1 point on the day. Greene Cananea closed at 173, with a net gain of 2 3-4 points. Andes closed at 52 1-2, showing a net loss of 1 1-2 points.

Outstanding shares of Greene Cananea totals 500,000. The outstanding stock of Andes consists of 3,582,379 shares. Anaconda has outstanding about 7,600,00 shares of an authorized issue of 12,000,000 shares, leaving an ample margin to take care of exchange proposed to Andes and Greene Cananea holders. Anaconda will apply to the Stock Exchange to list the additional stock. The offer to shareholders will expire on October 1.

John D. Ryan, chairman of Anaconda, said that the operations of Andes during the first half of this year had been at the rate of about 200,000,000 pounds of copper a year, although production was recently curtailed. It is intended to increase the output to a basis of 230,000,000 pounds a year. Greene Cananea produced in the early part of this year at the rate of 75,000,000 pounds, but its output also has been restricted recently.

Simpson's Old Preferred Called

Notice has gone forward calling the old preferred issue of Simpsons Ltd., for redemption on September 4th at 105 and accrued interest. The amount outstanding is $7,000,000 and the retirement was forecast in the announcement of the recent financing by this company following the change in control. This preferred stock has only been in the hands of the public for a short time and the proceeds were used to finance the building and expansion program undertaken by Simpson's. The capital structure of the old company has been reconstructed in such a manner as to give the public a better opportunity to invest in the securities of Simpson's Ltd.

Loblaw Groceterias Earnings Better Than Earlier Estimated

Good progress is being made in the preparation of the annual financial statement of Loblaw Groceterias and it is now intimated the report is likely to be considerably better than was at first indicated by the approximate figures. Sales for the period ending May 31,1929, aggregated $16,552,739, an increase of $2,577,553 or 18.44 per cent., and from this a profit of $850,000 or $1.10 a share was estimated. However, figures since compiled indicate a higher ratio of net profit increased earnings per share.

KIWANIS SWAMP LOCKIE HURLERS

Poor Infield Work On Part of Losers Allows Clubmen to Run Wild on Bases.

CRARY GOES WELL.

The aspirations of the Lockworks Juniors withered Wednesday night before the sterling pitching of Jack Crary, the Kiwanis star twirler, who mowed down 13 of his opponents with strike-outs, to chalk up the third win in four starts for the Kiwanis by the score of 18-4.

The Lockmakers' infield was very wobbly and as a result the winners practically romped around the bases at will, stretching 10 hits and 8 free trips to first into eighteen runs. The losers used three pitchers and each one of them was hit hard and often. Westbrooke who started, had nice control but weakened in the sixth and the winners gathered in six counters. Hillier and Barry who followed him in turn were both wild and failed to show any curves that were a mystery to the winners.

The Kiwanis got away to a good start when Hope the first man up, socked the first strike threw to him for two bases. Hartley bunted safely, sending Hope to third, and the speedy first sacker scored on Saunder's grounder to Whaley. Hartley and Saunders also completed the circuit and Jack Deannard's crew were three runs up.

The winners staged a batting spree in the sixth, collecting ten runs, and hammered two of the Lockwork pitchers ragged. Murray Hartley made his longest clout of the season in this frame when he stepped into a fast one, which soared over Dunkerley's head in left field, being good for three bases.

The Lockies came to life in their half of the sixth and secured their four runs. Hall started off with a hot grounder to Weir which went for a hit. Barry hit into right, sending Hall to third. Dunkerley placed a nice one over short stop scoring Hall. Barry scored when Hartley fumbled Darrington's grounder. Whaley fanned, but forced Starr to throw to first, Dunkerley scoring. Mike O'Brien made it four when he slammed a single across second, scoring Darrington. Morocco and Westbrooke struck out.

Crary's hurling was a feature of the game, although the heavy hitting and clever fielding of his teammates who backed him up like big leaguers, made the game what it was.

BOYS AND GIRLS MAKE WHOOPEE

Pyjamas Parade Proves Big Success—Many Made Happy.

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS.

Shades of Egyptian nights and Caesar's ghost, what shirts! What a time! All Peterborough turned out for the night of nights, the grand and time honored ritual,—the shirt tail parade. An event that will go down in the annals of the Old City as one to be long remembered, and one in which everybody made such whoopee, that the effects are liable to stay with them for a long time,—at least several sedlitzes.

It was estimated that a least 10,000 people lined the main thoroughfare for over half a mile, as the parade swung down the street to the tune of half a dozen different improvised bands, and dozens of musical and otherwise, instruments—played, tooted, hammered, and banged to a hundred different tunes.

Everyone was out to cut loose, and cut loose they did, getting away with everything except the town clock, and they couldn't carry it or it would have been chiming in, too. The parade scheduled to start from Confederation Square at 10.30 o'clock, commenced to draw crowds to the route of march at 9 o'clock, and while waiting the throngs, ever increasing, were entertained by trying to keep as far as possible from roaring giant crackers, which had a habit of thundering out right behind someone and scaring them out of several years' growth.

Two colored gentlemen with a pair of loaded dice shot a game of crap on the interesection at Simcoe and George streets, while two prominent men held the stakes, and all the time the police directed traffic away from the scene of activities.

A bit timid at first, the shirt tail contingent began to show up in twos and threes, and make their debuts, by pacing up and down in the crowd to make them jealous. Some of the crowd took the hint and tore home to borrow grandma's nightgown, mother's old corsets, or a pair of silk pyjamas. From away up George street a band began to play,—the hour had come, and as far down the street as one could see, Peterborough's population stretched their necks to get the first glimps of the revellers. Yes, they were coming. With an old time orchestra perched on a wagon jag of hay, playing a square dance tune, in the lead, the long file of ghostly, night attired figures capered along to the side-splitting laughter of the thronging thousands.

Everyone Made Happy

Everybody, parade and spectators did something; those on the sidewalks shouted, laughed and threw bombs, while the boys and girls,—sure girls, there were just as many girls in the old parade as there were men, the girls of to-day aren't what they used to be, as far as bashfulness goes,—whoopeed, sang, staggered, tripped, whistled, banged, trumpeted and buffooned their way down George street along Charlotte, up Aylmer, across Hunter and back up George to the Armouries. Every inch of sidewalk space was jammed with humanity, ranging from toddling babes, wondering if the town had gone crazy, to old men and women who were sure it had. And it had,—they were right, it had.

It was an event that comes only in a long, long time; something different, something that gave one a chance to get all that pent up "whoopee" off his chest, and not get popped into the jail for making a fool of oneself. Some queer samples of night attire were on display, and if they were to be taken serious, oh what a city this must be after the curfew has chimed. The gowns for the most part could under no circumstances be described in print. It was all right if you were there to see them, but to read about—that's different. Yes, and many touching scenes, were carried out; the baby on the bedsprings had a terrible ride but seemed to enjoy it as much as the crowd.

At the conclusion of the parade, the revellers invaded the Armouries where a dance celebration was carried on to the excellent accompaniment of the Oshawa Colored Jazz Serenaders. Many of those who did not dance continued to hold forth on the streets, and the shouts of the glee-makers, together with the continual boom of exploding rockets, mischievously heaved behind some innocent passerby, continued on into the wee small hours of the morning.

RUM RUNNER IS WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Sector Has Been Quiet

The Lasalle sector has been remarkably quiet since inauguration of the current drive against the rummer by the American prohibition enforcement agents.

United States coastguard officers have reported the arrest early to-day of four men, one of them wounded, who were with Letourneau. They are Edward Smith, Jack Miller, James Moore and Bert Denta, all of Ecorse, Mich. Denta was wounded in the foot.

The rum runners were discovered between Ecorse and Fighting Island about 300 feet from the former shore by a coastguard boat under command of F. T. Hagglove, chief boatswain's mate. As the government vessel gave chase the run runners attempted to ram the boat and then cut loose from a lugger which was loaded with 300 cases of beer. The coastguards followed, firing about 20 shots, one of which finally crippled the motor of the retreating vessel.

In Police Court

Reuben Colley and Raymond Stinson, on remand on a charge of criminal negligence as a result of the motor accident on the Chemong Road June 16, elected to be tried by judge in police court this morning. The fall sessions of the County Court do not open until October 8, and they cannot be tried until then.

Magistrate Langley held the preliminary inquiry this morning. The two accused consented to committal.

Two Families Took Up Residence in Douro in 1822

PETER ROBINSON MIGRATION COMPOSED OF 2024 FROM CORK

First Trip Was Made To England and Ireland in 1825.

FLAT BOTTOM BOAT USED.

Each Family of Five Was Allotted 100 Acres of Land.

In Douro, two families, the first in the township—having located there in 1822—had succeeded in establishing fairly promising farm-settlements; those of Mr. Robert Reid, and Mr., afterwards the Honorable, Thomas Alexander Stewart, and a life member of the Legislative Council of Upper Canada. Mr. Stewart was a near relative of the Strickland family, so well known in literature and as leading residents at Peterborough and Lakefield. Besides these, a few clearings had been made in Otonabee, Asphodel, Monaghan and Emily, but very little progress had been made in cultivation, nor, notwithstanding the population of Upper Canada at this time, did there seem much hope of development in the colonies north of Rice Lake.

But, in 1825, the Hon. Peter Robinson paid a visit to England and, while there, was spoken to by Sir Wilmot Horton as to the advisability of directing a large tide of emigration from Ireland to the wilderness of English-speaking Canada. Mr. Robinson thought favorably of the scheme and was induced to take charge of the whole matter, which as subsequent events will show, he did most satisfactorily.

In the autumn of that year, four hundred and fifteen families availed themselves of the offer of free grants of land and all necessary aid for settlement in Upper Canada. This large and important immigration was the true foundation of the Town of Peterborough, and thence the rising prosperity of the surrounding townships.

Emigrants to the number of 2024 sailed from Cork in May, 1825, and arrived at Quebec in twenty-one days. They were then forwarded to Kingston and were for two weeks accommodated in tents. The summer season was unusually hot and many suffered from fever and the ague.

Meantime Mr. Robinson had sailed from Liverpool to New York, whence he proceeded to Little York, now Toronto, by way of Niagara, then the usual and most expeditious route to Upper Canada. Thence he made his way from Cobourg across Rice Lake and by the Otonabee River to Scott's Plains, as Peterborough was then called. He had already gathered from the Surveyor-General of Upper Canada, what information he could give as to the country about to be settled. And now, assisted by Mr. McDonnell, of Kingston, he spent a week in examining the three townships of which the new town was to be the center, Colonel McDonnell was destined to bear a leading part in the history, not only of the county, but of the province. He is described by Mr. Robinson as an "intelligent and respectable young man well acquainted with the country." The subsequent proceedings are best described in the words of the Hon. Peter Robinson in his evidence given before the Emigration Committee of the Imperial Parliament (3rd Report, London, 1827), from which the following graphic passage is quoted:

Arrived in August

"On August 11th, 1825, I embarked five hundred on board of a steamboat, and landed them the next day at Cobourg, on Lake Ontario, a distance of one hundred miles, the remainder of the settlers were brought up in the same manner, the boat making a trip each week. Our route from Cobourg to Smith, at the head of the Otonabee River, lay through a country as yet very tinly inhabited; the road leading from Lake Ontario to Rice Lake, twelve miles, barely passable; and the Otonabee River in many places very rapid, and the water much lower than it had been known for years. The first thing I did was to repair the road so that loaded waggons might pass; and in this work I received every assistance from the magistrates of the district, who gave me fifty pounds from the district funds, and this sum, with the labour of our people, enabled me to improve the road so that in ten days our provisions and baggage could be sent across with care, and three large boats were conveyed on wheels from Lake Ontario to Rice Lake. The Otonabee River is navigable for twenty-five miel, salthough in many places it is very rapid, and at this season there was not water enough to float a boat of the ordinary construction over some of the shoals. To remedy this difficulty, I had a boat built of such dimensions as I thought might best answer to ascend the rapids, and had her completed in eight days. So much depended upon the success of this experiment that I felt great anxiety until the trial was made; and I cannot express the happiness I felt at finding that nothing could have more completely answered our purposes; and this boat, sixty feet in length and eight feet wide, carrying an immense burden, could be more easily worked up the stream than one of half the size carrying comparatively nothing. Now that I had opened the way to the depot at the head of the river, there was no other difficulty to surmount than the prevailing sickness, the fever and ague which at this time was as common among the old settlers as among ourselves. The first party I ascended the river with consisted of twenty men of the country hired as axemen, and thirty of the settlers: not one of these men escaped the fever and ague, and two died."

The boat used by Mr. Robinson had a flat bottom, was wide and capacious to hold thirty persons with a considerable bulk of baggage; it was propelled by long oars, or in shallow water shoved along with great labour by poles; it would make the passage from Gore's Landing to the original landing place of Adam Scott, at Spaulding's Bay, in twenty-four hours.

Capt. Rubidge Helps

Mr. Robinson was very materially assisted in the work of settlement by a veteran naval officer, Captain Charles Rubidge, of whose adventurous and honorable life had come a long experience in disciplining and commanding large bodies of men. This was of the utmost use in directing efforts of men not accustomed to discipline. Captain Rubidge was what Carlyle calls a "Captain of Industry", and so were Mr. Robinson's other assistants, Mr. Wesley Ritchie and Captain John Armstrong, both of whom afterwards became successful settlers in the Township of Douro.

The following account of the proportion of rations and other supplies is given on the authority of the evidence of Captain Rubidge before a committee of the British Parliament. (See Rubidge's evidence before the Imperial Emmigration Committee:: Question 2675; London, 1847). To each emigrant over the age of fourteen was issued a daily ration of a pound of meat (pork) and a pound of flour, half a pound of meat and flour, for every four children under the age of five, a pound of meat and flour was allowed.

In those days, whiskey was plentiful and cheap. That made at the better appointed distilleries in Little York, Dundas, and other towns sold at seventeen cents a gallon. At Scott's Plains, the sagacious mind of Adam Scott had grasped the idea that the manufacture of whiskey would arrive in a new settlement. He contrived a rude distillery in a small house near his mills; but not being able to procure a proper worm, the spirit-laden vapour was passed through a long wooden tube, where it was cooled by the constant application of water, till duly condensed the fiery liquid streamed into the receiving barrel. Unlike the mellow, malt-flavored "poteen", with its taste, not an unpleasant one, of the turf fires amid which its illicit manufacture was carried on, this whiskey was coarse and impure, the empyreumatic oil and other impurities not having been extracted. It was sold at ten or fifteen cents a gallon, or more often for the pound of pork or flour which the peasant, accustomed to far poorer fare, found it easy to save from his daily ration.

Rations For 18 Months

The rations were continued for eighteen months, the provisions being brought from Toronto and Cobourg by wawy of Rice Lake, and the ready money paid by the Government agents contributing not a little to the general prosperity of the Province at a time when want of specie was an evil seriously felt in Upper Canada. Here and there a settler had brought out an ancient flint-lock musket, whose use might have served far more questionable purposes in the Old Country, and was able to vary his daily fare with the flesh of deer, which he found as plentiful as landlords in Ireland. Fish of all the kinds known to Ontario waters abounded in the creeks and rivers; the children gathered, without price, pailfuls of raspberries on the slopes of Court House Hill, and of the "frochan", familiar to Irish moors, on the marshy flats opposite Ashburnham.

A more arduous task as Mr. Robinson himself stated in his evidence, was that of settling the immigrants on their alloted grants of land. Here is was that the experience of Captain Rubidge aided Mr. Robinson most, as Captain Rubidge had a thorough knowledge of the country, having been settled in Otonabee, nine miles south of Scott's Plains, since May 8th, 1820.

Each family of five was allotted one hundred acres of land; and a lot was chosen in the name of each head of a family. Sons grown up and of age received a hundred acres also. Log houses were built for each settler by contracts, generally amounting to ten dollars, entered into by Mr. Robinson with former settlers, who were practised hands at this kind of work; assisted by the willing labors of the immigrants, axe-hewn roads established lines of communication through the forests; oxen and horses purchased by Mr. Robinson conveyed each family to its new-built home ready for use, clean as had been few Irish cabins they had known.

Given a Cow

Besides the provision of food, of houses, of road-ways, so liberally made for them, each family was supplied with a cow, an auger, an axe, a hand-saw, a hammer, one hundred nails, two gimblets, three hoes, one kettle, one frying-pan, one iron pot, three bushels of seed potatoes and eight quarts of Indian corn.

But all the wire forethought of Mr. Robinson and Captain Rubidge could not avert the effects of the fever and sickness by which swamp and forest avenged themselves on their invaders. Fifteen had already died during their first year in Canada up to March, 1826. All, without exception, were affected by that scourge of the new settler, malaria fever; as has been said, many died; the Government had made the fatal mistake of neglecting to provide anything like adequate medical attendance, one surgeon, Dr. Reade, being the only medical attendant. Yet, perhaps, although it must be owned that in the state of medical science at that time as to the treatment of this class of fevers, it may be doubted whether the settlers were much the worse for the omission!

The use of quinine was as yet unknown; but camomile, at two shillings a pound, would have been freely exhibited, and Doctor Sangrado would have plied his lancet. But the woodman's axe supplied the place of quinine as the sources of malaria were hewn down; the new comers learned from the older settlers the use of certain remedies; wild sarsparilla, peppermint and tansy, flavoring the contents of the whiskey bottle, supplied a remedy that often proved worse than the disease.

THE OLD "AUDITORIUM"

How many of the visitors to Peterborough will remember "The Auditorium"? Some will and some will not. The Auditorium was a roller skating rink, then quite the sport of the summer and fall months. This palace of sport was opened around September 1st, 1908 in the old bridge works building, and was operated by W. E. Genno. The floor space for skating was 75x150 feet and of polished maple, a gentleman's skating room and a ladies' room was provided. Six hundred pairs of Winslow's improved roller skates were procured from Chicago. The wheels of these new skates were of fibre which provided against blackening the floor as did the iron rollers and caused much damage to the clothes when one fell on the floor. The entrance was on George street near Sherbrooke street and a walk was constructed out to the street with lights placed along it. The entrance at the street was arched with the words "Auditorium Roller Rink." A band was engaged regularly and Mr. Genno who was an expert on the rollers gave free lessons to beginners.

Such a pastime recalls other recreation places such as Jackson Park which used to be a favorite place for Band concerts and moving pictures such as "The Night Riders", which was shown one fine night in August in 1908 and the same place was the scene of many winter sports when the famous toboggan slide and skating rink inside the street car loop were in their glory. A regular rendezvous for the people of that time. It is not so many years ago either that these have passed into history.

ASHBURNHAM INCORPORATED IN 1858

In the year 1858 Ashburnham which had until then been regarded as part and portion of Peterborough was incorporated as a village. In 1884 the total assessmcnt was $360,000 and the population 1,308.

SCOTT BUILT FIRST MILL

Extract Taken From History of County Written By Rev. Charles Mulvany.

LUMBER AND GRAIN.

The following is taken from a History of the City and County of Peterborough, written by the Rev. Charles Mulvany of Toronto, and publish in 1844:

Adam Scott built a mill in 1820 on the spot now occupied by Henry Denne's mill, (1884), at the foot of King street. Portions of this mill lasted until a few years ago.

The son of Mr. Scott is still living (1884). In May of 1818, Adam Scott crossed Rice Lake, coming from the lake front, and made his way along the Otonabee to the spot which is now a steamboat landing, near Spaulding's Bay, now a shallow and muddy piece of water. He was accompanied by a party of young men, all of whose names are now associated with positions held in the County of Peterborough. With Adam Scott were John Farrelly, surveyor; Thomas Ward, of Port Hope, afterwards Clerk of the Peace; Charles Fothergill, who became M.P.P for Durham; Barnabas Bletcher, and John Edmison, who settled in the Township of Smith. These young men were of energetic and cheerrful spirit, and well versed in the mysteries of woodcraft and pioneer life. Having landed close to the site of the future city, young Scott obtained a light by catching, in a heap of dry leaves, a spark from the flint lock of his gun, and, a good fire being lighted, their supper was cooked. After a hearty meal, they lay down to rest under the shelter of the spreading oaks and maples. Next morning Ward, who had purchased the land which is now the Village of Bridgenorth, started with Edmison for Lake Chemong, in a north-westerly direction from their place of landing. There was not even an Indian track through the forest: but they were guided to the huts, few and far between, of those who had settled in Smith Township during the last two years, by that primitive contrivance, the "blaze," or the rude markings of the settlers' axes in the trees along the line of travel. Having made a rough survey of Ward's land and "prospected," to use a lumberman's phrase, the timber growing there, and, of course, indicating to practised eyes the nature of the soil, they returned, along the line of "blazed" trees, to the camp. They found Scott and his companions in good spirits at having discovered a creek, then, of course, much larger than that which now flows through Peterborough, and of amply sufficient water power to work the mill which it was Scott's intention to build. This could be done on the creek by the simple process of damming up the stream, and conveying it, by a new channel, to the steep bank of the Otonabee. To attempt to utilize the powerful current of the larger river would have been too great an undertaking at that time, and with their resources. They made their way back, as they had come, across Rice Lake.

Two years afterwards Adam Scott had built a double mill for lumber and grain, both being worked in the same building and by the same water power.

As late as 1825, the town of Peterborough was inhabited by but one family, that of Adam Scott, with a few workmen engaged as assistants at his mill. Even then, however, the mill had become a center of trade to the few settlers already possessed of farms which had now begun to be remunerative, in the townships of Monaghan, Smith and Douro. Thither through narrow forest paths hewn by the woodsman's axe, the slow-moving ox-team would convey the piled up sacks of grain; thither were floated on rafts down the river the produce of the settlements of Katchewanooka, Clear and Stony Lakes. And during the first years of struggle, many a farmer had been forced to carry his sack of grain on his shoulders to and from the mill, along paths which the jagged tree-stumps made inaccessible even for a handsleigh. Up to 1825, the number of settlers in the townships north of Rice Lake and the River Trent through what is now the County of Peterborough, was estimated at five hundred.

BLUE SUNOCO MOTOR FUEL

ROAD and LABORATORY TESTS both prove BLUE SUNOCO'S LEADERSHIP!

Professor E. A. Allcut of the University of Toronto recently conducted a most thorough scientific study of the performance of the best known gasolines sold in Canada and proved beyond doubt that BLUE SUNOCO gives the most miles per dollar.

Such an authority certainly cannot be questioned.

When BLUE SUNOCO was new, we made no empty claims for it, but deliberately challenged Canadian motorists to test it in their own cars.

Tens of thousands must have found that this pure, knockless, all-petroleum motor fuel gave the most trouble-free, smooth miles or riding comfort for the noney . . . for how else can you explain BLUE SUNOCO'S tremendous, never stopping sales growth?

Have you made this test yourself?

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED IN CHOIR CASE

Defense Closed Its Evidence in Campbellford Division Court House.

REBUTTAL IS HEARD.

Prynce Y. Nesbitt is Suing For Salary Which He Claims He is Entitled To.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 5.—Judgment was reserved, Wednesday, when once more the celebrated Campbellford church case was brought up before Judge Huycke in division court to be decided. The case, all over whether Prynce Y. Nesbitt, hired as organist for St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and after a month, whose resignation was asked for, shall receive his salary for that period or not, has been argued back and forth several times and was not till yesterday brought to anywhere near a close.

Rev. Dr. Mark

Questioned by Mr. Kerr, Dr. Mark said that he had not received any inquiries as to Nesbitt's service as an organist here. He admitted having made the statement that the church must choose between himself and Nesbitt after he saw that Nesbitt was determined to make things disagreeable in the church. He did not select the hymns for the morning service of February 10 because Nesbitt did not come to the manse for them, as was his custom. The sermon which he preached that morning was prepared in 1924. It was not prepared to "Get a drive at Nesbitt." The announcement of the sermon was handed into the Herald office on the Wednesday before it was preached.

Examined by Mr. MacColl, Dr. Mark claimed that he had not selected the hymns for Sunday.

The Choir President.

Miss Hazel Atkinson, president of the choir at the time of the trouble in February, was the second witness to take the stand for the reply evidence. She said she had been a member of the choir for fourteen years. She thought that the choir was improving under Nesbitt's training. On the evening of February 8th, it had been Dr. Mark who lost his temper and the choir had been too much upset to practice after the ordeal with the session.

When court assembled after the noon recess, Mrs. Charles (Bertha) Milne was the first witness. She said she was a member of the choir. She and Miss Atkinson had been practising a duet for Sunday on February 8th when Nesbitt was called to meet the session down in the basement. The rehearsal was not finished and it was too late when Nesbitt returned about ten o'clock. Asked if she remembered Hymn 112, she said she remembered it having been sung, but was not familiar with it. She considered the words a trifle strange under the circumstances. When Nesbitt asked for the announcement to be read, she gathered from his tone that he was hurt, nothing else. Dr. Mark's sermon seemed "a trifle personal."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Kerr, Mrs. Milne said she was aware of the terms on which peace was to be restored. She did not consider the choir's request to the session "a large order." Whether or not the choir continued to take part in the services was a matter for each individual member to decide. Asked if she was familiar with the psalms Mrs. Milne said she had been brought up on them and hoped she had not departed from her early teaching. She was not rebellious about the concert being cancelled, and knew nothing of the feelings of others. To His Honor, Mrs. Milne said she had returned to the choir after an absence of approximately two months. Replying to a question by Mr. Kerr, she said she had been in the choir on the evening of February 10th and when she entered the choir room to put on her gown, she had asked Nesbitt what he wished the choir members to do. His reply was addressed directly to her, but she did not doubt that others had overheard it since some members were standing nearby. He had said, "You may do as you wish, but I had hoped to see my friends remain in their pews to-night." She had not complied with his hope although she considered she was his friend, and had gone into the choir.

Further examined by Mr. MacColl, witness said she considered there had been wrong on both sides. She had returned to the choir to help the church. She brought her family there and had been associated with choir work almost all her lifetime. She was interested in church music.

Mrs. Cairns

Mrs. James (Mary) Cairns was the next witness. Dr. Mark had prefaced his announcements by saying that he had one to make which caused him pain. She gathered that the concerts were to be discontinued because the music was considered cheap and degrading. When Nesbitt asked Dr. Mark to read the announcement as written, he might have raised his voice a little, but there was nothing unusual in his tone. Dr. Mark had read Nesbitt's announcement. The choir's announcement was not read at all. When Dr. Mark announced the congregational meeting, there was no disturbance in the congregation. The people simply sat as though they were stunned. Under the circumstances she thought the sermon that morning was regrettable, and believed the choir was doing what it could to bring about harmony.

Clerk Gives Evidence.

Dr. G. A. Hay, ex-mayor of Campbellford, was the last witness called. He said he had been attending St. Andrew's church for forty-two years. He recalled the Sunday when Dr. Mark had preached for a call. A former organist had presided at the organ and given a recital after the evening service. In one number the organ music had been accompanied by flashing the church lights on and off in an effort to interpret thunder and lightning. He also remembered that Nesbitt had played Chopin's Waltz in A Flat on the night he played here as a candidate.

On the morning of February 10th, he had gone to church in his usual mood and had continued that way till the announcements were read. He was amazed that Dr. Mark should call a congregational meeting, because he thought it was a matter which should be kept within the session.

SOCIETY MEETS.

Mrs. W. C. Darland Hostess To Members of W.M.S. at Wooler.

MADOC, July 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Women's Missionary Society held a special meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Darland. Thirty enthusiastic women gathered together, with their president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, presiding. A discussion took place from the last meeting's minutes, "How to furnish our supply request from the Supply Secretary."

The report of the sectional meeting was most ably prepared by the delegate, Mrs. Ervin Scott, who gave an itemized account of business and addresses. An appreciation was tendered Mrs. Scott for the inspiring report.

A roll-call of the nations was much enjoyed by those taking part. The temperance secretary, Mrs. C. R. Terrill, gave interesting facts which people are witnessing to-day.

A report from the strangers' secretary, Mrs. C. McMasters, was given regarding the worth-while work. The hostesses entertained for one-half hour by serving a lunch. The meeting adjourned to meet in August at the home of Mrs. Elgin McMasters. The Mission Band will furnish the program.

In Spain wine is still carried in leather bottles made of pigskin. The skin is cured all in one piece and made into a bottle holding, in some cases, as much as 40 gallons.

TALK ON HEALTH WORK IS GIVEN

Bannockburn Members Meet for Reports and Social Evening.

MADOC, July 5.—(Examiner Correspondence).—On Tuesday evening, Miss Alice Sinclair, of Madoc, spoke on "Health Work for the Institutes" to the member of Bannockburn Institute.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James Bailey, president of Bannockburn Institute and a very pleasant and instructive evening was spent. Mrs. Bailey presided. The delegates to the Marmora convention were called on for their report. Mrs. Empey read an excellent report and a detail report was also given of the excellent dinner furnished by the Marmora Institute.

Reports of committees were received which were brief. The sick committee (by Mrs. J. White) reported several calls and some help given, also a doctor provided for two cases, and other help needed. Bills for these were passed, and other calls planned.

Mrs. Nickle, of Madoc, explained details of silver shower and on motion this and the federation fees will be paid at once. Miss Sinclair commended the Bannockburn members on their energetic and vigorous manner of tackling local needs. She went on to explain the requirements of the maternal mortality questionnaire. Then speaking of the work for crippled children, she urged a persistent canvass for any cases requiring attention and treatment so that not one child should miss the careful treatment that could be given to make him or her "just like other children." Miss Sinclair cited several instances of what had been done in the past and what could and ought to be done.

Then speaking of "health education" she urged all to study and practise health rules and to plan for better health for all.

Mrs. C. N. Whytock spoke of her pleasure in meeeting with the Bannockburn members and Mrs. W. E. Connor and Mrs. T. L. Nickle spoke briefly. A short time was spent in community singing after which a social hour was much enjoyed.

Picnic Held.

The Sunday school of St. Peter's Presbyterian church held its annual picnic at Ozone Park, Moira Lake on Wednesday afternoon. Though the weather was rather cold after the rain, a merry time with sports, swimming and boating was spent.

FIRST SETTLERS CAME TO SMITH FROM ENGLAND IN YEAR 1818

ERECTED RUDE LOG HUT.

Up to the partial settlement of the Township of Smith in 1818, the County of Peterborough was a wilderness, known only as the Indian hunting grounds beyond Rice Lake, and but rarely explored even by the adventurous hunter from the front settlements of Lake Ontario, who went forth with Indian guides to invade its solitudes in quest of game. But in 1818 a small colony of mountaineers and "dalemen" from Cumberland, in the north of England, obtained grants of land in the newly-surveyed region now known as the Township of Smith. As there was no road, not even a track marked by the "blaze" of the woodsman's axe, through the forests from "Smith's Creek", they made their way in boats across Rice Lake and up the Otonabee River, surmounting with difficulty its numerous portages. Reaching the southern part of the present township, they erected a rude log hut just outside the limits of the present Town of Peterborough. This served as a temporary abode for the entire party, till, aiding one another in the work, they could erect a log house on each man's grant of land. The names of the men comprising the first settlement were as follows: William Dixon and family of five sons; Joseph Lee and his sons John and George; Robert Milburn, Robert Walton, John Walton, Walton Wilson, Thomas W. Milburn, John Smith, and Joseph Smith, his son. Other pioneer settlers who arrived in the same season of 1818, but a little later than those above enumerated, were: John Harvey, Ralph Bickerton, Alexander Morrison, Jacob Bromwell, Robert Nicholson, James Mann, and his son of the same name, Thomas Lockhart and John Yates. During the next two or three years arrived Walter McKibbon, Samuel McKibbon, William Tully (ancestor of the gentleman elsewhere referred to as being at the head of the Engineer's Branch of the Public Works Department, Toronto), Thomas Robinson, Isaac Nicholson, Silas Pearson, Joseph Walton and son (this family was quite unconnected with the family whose name is given in the former list — the eldest of the sons became Reeve of the Township of Smith); Matthew and Richard Bell, John Edminson, Ephraim Jackson and sons and Thomas Miliburn.

It may seem tedious to set down what may appear to outsiders a mere barren list of names, but to those who have watched with intelligent interest the history of the settlement of this county, every one of the foregoing names tells its own story of patient endurance and victorious industry. Every one of them is a condensed biography, a lesson in self-help!

Took Oath of Allegiance.

The first step to be taken by the intending settler of those days was to take the oath of allegiance before one of the officials appointed for the purpose, and obtain a certificate of having done so. This was by no means as easy as it may appear. For if, for any reason, and the merest caprice in many recorded instances served as a reason, the Family Compact official refused to administer the oath, the intending settler had no redress; the ground was, literally enough, cut from under his feet! Next, a "location ticket" was granted for the lot of land. For this a merely nominal fee was charged. In the early days of the settlement, as the stream of immigration began to enter the county, a fee of $25 was paid. That done, a full title deed securing absolute property in the land, was granted on the production of an affidavit signed by two witnesses, that what was called "settlement duties" had been performed, and a house of at least 18 feet by 20 built on the lot. This the settler had to present in person at the land office, and thus was obliged to undertake the separate journeys to the capital, Little York Toronto.)

With difficulty and by slow degrees a clearing was effected here and there, and a patch of corn, or wheat, or potatoes, sown in the rich, virgin earth between the blackened tree stumps. But even when abundant harvests became the rule their difficulties did not cease. There was as yet no mill in the county, and to drag the sacks of grain through the leagues of forest to Port Hope or Cobourg was impossible. Many were the contrivances to pulverize the wheat grain into some resemblance to flour. The wheat was pounded between two stones, or in mortars made out of the hollowed stumps of hardwood trees. Happy were they who possessed a handmill such as we use for grinding spices! the wheat was roasted, boiled, even chewed as food for little children.

Galloway's Creek Mill.

As time went on and pathways were cleared on the lines of communication, it became possible, though at the expense of labour which severly taxed the strength of a strong man, to drag a sack of grain through the woods to Smith's Creek. Soon a very poor attempt at a water-mill was set up on Galloway's Creek in Cavan.

The beginning of the prosperity of this county was when Sir Peregine Maitland, in response to the petition of the Smith township deputation, built the Government grist mill at Peterborough. From this date the county began to be regarded as one of the most eligible localities for intending settlers.

About this time two steamers began to navigate the waters of Rice Lake and plied daily to Peterborough. In 1833, was conceived the vast undertaking of the Trent Valley Canal which should connect the waters of Lake Simcoe, and ultimately of Georgian Bay ,with Lake Ontario through the Bay of Quinte. Mr. N. H. Baird, C.E. who has been appointed to make the survey, estimated the total cost of the canal at £495,515. A committee of the Upper Canada Legislature was appointed to consider the subject. This body recommended that the construction of the upper portion be proceeded with, and important works were undertaken and completed at several points. Below Rice Lake £90,000 was expended. The locks at Whitlaw's Rapids, just below Peterborough, were completed, and considerable sums expended in improving the navigation of the river between Rice Lake and that place. The locks at Bobcaygeon were undertaken as early as 1833-4 by Messrs. Pearse, Dumble and Hoar, contractors, for £1,600; but owing to the unsettled state of the country, caused by the rebellion of 1837, and the union of the provinces, which followed, the attention of the Government was withdrawn, and no effort made to carry on the work to its completion. Since then, (quotation is made from the Special report for 1890 of Mr. T. D. Belcher, the Superintendent Engineer, and embodied in the Annual Report of the Minister of Railways and Canals), extensive works have been constructed by the Government at Fort Perry, Lindsay, Fenlon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn Lake, the big chute of Burleigh, the Lakefield dam, as well as in the river below Peterborough. Mr. Belcher, a most competent authority, declares, at the conclusion of his report, that "there seems to be now life and activity along the entire route of the extensive navigation, which is nearly 200 miles in length." That the near future will see the completion of this work there can be no doubt, as every effort is being made to push it forward. At Burleigh Falls, Lovesick Rapids, Hall's Village, Bobcaygeon, and Fenelon Falls, active preparations are being made for the construction of the locks. At the first named place, a large gang of men are busy getting out the stone, for the locks in the vicinity, which will be 134 feet long by 33 feet wide.

CITY POPULATION 4,500 IN YEAR 1867

Peterborough Subjected to Periods of Prosperity and Depression Since Incorporation.

Dr. Poole estimates the population of Peterborough, in the year in which his book was published, 1867 as 4500. In 1832, seven years after the first settlement of "Scott's Plains", by the Robinson immigrants, the population, according to official returns, was under 500.

In 1838, Peterborough contained 150 houses, including two grist mills, seven saw mills, five distilleries, two breweries, and two tanneries; the population was under 900.

Since its incorporation, it has been subject to stated periods of prosperity and depression—the latter caused by bad harvests succeeding one another for several years, and by the exodus of numbers of the mechanic class to the United States in the year of the war, and by a commercial crisis brought about as in 1857-8-9 by over-production and the undue expansion of the credit system.

The census of 1861 gave to Peterborough and Ashburnham together 2,471 male, and 2,363 female inhabitants. In 1872 the population of Peterborough alone was estimated as 4,717; in 1882 it has risen to 7,010, which gave it the largest percentage of increase of any town in the Province of Ontario, in the preceding decade. The population of Ashburnham in 1883, was about 1,400, that of Peterborough 7,832, making the combined figures close to 10,000.

The following statistics are taken from a reliable and well-written "Business Directory and Book of Reference for the Town and County of Peterborough, 1883-4," published by the Times Printing Company:

In 1882, there were 1873 resident ratepayers and 42 non-resident; 1768 children over 5 and under 16; 657 over 16 and under 21; and 1093 over 7 and under 13 years of age; 1243 acres (resident) and 39 acres (non-resident). The value of resident lands was $2,215,575, of non-resident lands, $24,500, and of personal property, other than income, $218,700. The total income was $183,090, personal property, $401,790 and the total assessment was $2,617,365.

In 1883, the figures were: 2032 resident and 29 non-resident ratepayers; 1864 children over 5 and under 16 years of age; 641 children over 16 and under 21, and 1010 over 7 and under 13 years. There were 1,270 resident and 12 non-resident acres. The value of resident lands was $2,469,300 and of non-resident lands, $9,625. Of personal property, other than income, the total was $221,750 and income totalled $206,400. The total of personal property was $428,150 and the total assessment was $2,897,450.

BANK OF TORONTO IN 1856

The Peterborough Branch of the Bank of Toronto was established in 1856, the first manager being the late ex-sheriff James Hall. The bank's office, a very commodious one then was situated in the Cox Block on George street.

BANK OF COMMERCE IN 1870

The Peterborough branch of the Bank of Commerce was established in 1870 in the building at the corner of Hunter and George streets, then opposite the old Post Office. The first manager was Sheriff James A. Hall.

STREETS LIT BY ELECTRICITY IN MAY, 1884

In May 1884 a dynamo machine capable of running twenty-five arc lights was placed in Hazlitt's Mill; and on the night of May 23 this wonderful white light lit up for the first time the streets of Peterborough.

FOUNDER WAS TRUE LOYALIST

Hon. Peter Robinson Descendant of President of Colony of Virginia.

OWNED BIG ESTATE

The Hon. Peter Robinson, who had so much to do with the early settlement of this city, and after whom it was named, was descended, through his grandfatner Colonel Beverley Robinson, from the Hon. John Robinson, of Virginia, who, according to Colonel Sabine, was President of the Colony of Virginia on the retirement of Governor Gooch. Colonel Beverley Robinson emigrated to New York, where he married the daughter and heiress of Frederick Phillips from whom he inherited an immense estate on the Hudson River. He belonged, by descent and social position, to the aristocratic party so powerful in New York State, which became first Tories and then Royalists. Notwithstanding this, he was at first opposed to the arbitrary measure of the British Government of the day, and joined the party headed by Washington and Adams in giving up the use of imported merchandise; he clad himself and his household in American made homespun. But he recoiled from the movement of independence, which he regarded as rebellion; he entered the service of the Crown and commanded the Loyal American Regiment of New York. He was in company with the gallant and ill-fated Major Andre, when that officer proposed going on shore to meet the traitor Arnold, the Judas of the American Revolution. The honorable nature of Colonel Robinson recoiled from the thought of a gallant soldier like Andre holding any intercourse with "man who was seeking to betray his county"; and he earnestly dissuaded Andre from going on shore. But the zealous young officer would not be counselled, and went forth upon the duty from which he never returned.

After the peace of 1783, Colonel Robinson withdrew to England where he died. His son, Christopher Robinson, had been an officer in the famous Queen's Rangers commanded by Colonel Simcoe, afterwards the first governor of Upper Canada. After the peace, he withdrew to the new province of New Brunswick, and received a large grant of land on the River St. John a few miles east of Fredericton. Thence he removed to Berthier in the Province of Quebec, where his son John Beverley Robinson was born in July, 1791. The family afterwards removed first to Kingston then to Little York. John Beverley was the favorite pupil of Dr., afterwards Bishop, Strachan, under whose influence he remained all through his life. His career at the Bar in the Legislature, and as Chief Justice was most brilliant and successful. He was a prince in the aristocratic clique of the Family Compact.

Attention may be here directed to the brilliancy of talent, the unimpeachable integrity, and the marked practical ability which have distinguished the leading representatives of this honorable family from the time they entered the country. On a somewhat less distinguished stage than the late Sir John Beverley Robinson and his son, the present Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario the founder of Peterborough, displayed the same high qualities.

One family trait was well marked in the Hon. Peter Robinson, the taste for athletic sports and the muscular strength which was said to distinguish others of his house.

That Body of Yours

VITAMINS IN OUR EVERYDAYFOOD

Although research men are not able to tell us exactly of what vitamins are composed, they can tell us with plenty of proof that if these vitamins are not in the food we eat that serious consequences will surely follow.

Fortunately such a very small quantity of these vitamins is necessary for the proper balancing of the diet that the average individual, no matter how poor can get all he needs in his usual everyday food.

He needs vitamin A, for the ordinary development and growth of the body and because it helps to ward off infection. He can get all he needs of this daily in a glass of milk, or a little butter or an egg, or green leaves, or cod liver oil, or any cereal like wheat, corn, rice or oats.

For vitamin B, which is necessary for proper health of nervous system, and to promote appetite, he can eat any one of the following: yeast, spinach, lettuce, celery, asparagus, peas, eggs.

For vitamin C, which protects the body against scurvy, he can get by eating tomatoes, oranges, lemons, spinach, onions, milk.

Vitamin D, which builds the necessary lime into the system, he can get from cod liver oil. This of course is needed more by children than by adults. But wherever there has been illness, and therefore loss of lime from the system, cod liver oil is the ideal food.

You can thus readily see that there is really nothing to worry about in this vitamin business, for practically all of us get some of these foods daily.

Perhaps a little more of the raw foods, fruits and vegetables would improve our diet somewhat.

Where one has an easy job, not much exercise or walking ,it is well not to eat too much of the foods that leave an acid ash for the kidneys ro temove, that is bread, meat, eggs, fish, corn, oatmeal, and rice, but eat more of the foods with an alkaline ash, namely milk, fruits, and vegetables.

With this little thought about vitamins, and acid and alkaline foods, there is really nothing that should give you much concern about your diet.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

SCANT CLOTHING.

Little children do not need too much clothing in warm weather. The less the better. The lightest, softest cotton knit one can get is about the most comfortable material for little garments during the hot season.

The baby often suffers these hot days because his clothing is too warm, too heavy. Heat irritates his skin and that starts his crying spell. When the day is very warm undress him down to his cotton slip and napkin. A word about the napkin.

Most of them are too thick. A rather lightweight cotton is best. A big bulky thing starts trouble. It is uncomfortable because of its bulk and any discomfort of these parts and such discomfort is often the cause of unfortunate habits.

Of course no baby is to be allowed to wear a wet napkin. The napkin is to be changed the instant it is known to be wet. It is then to be washed, if possible, boiled and thoroughly rinsed and well aired. If they are ironed smoothly, all the better. I know that there are times when this routine cannot be observed perfectly but the process can be followed out thoroughly at least once a week? Even that would improve things.

There is no need for fearing colds if the child is lightly dressed. Keep him out of draughts if you fear them, let him tumble about on a firm smooth mattress with as little clothing as may be and refrain from bothering him.

It is important that a child be allowed to remain in quiet during hot weather. Talking too much to him, handling him too much, fussing with him and about him, excites and irritates him and that is about as bad luck as any baby can have. Just lighten his burden of clothing and routine and attention and he will be grateful.

Woolen socks and knit woolen bands are not necessary during hot weather. Nor should anything woolen be placed next a babys' skin in summer days. The sheets ought to be cotton, well laundered and pleasant to the touch. A hint of perfume helps. The smell of lavendar is restful in warm weather. It brings with it a sense of coolness and cleanliness. If you like sweet fern or thyme or other sweet smelling herb better, that is just as well. But try having one of them about to breathe cool sweetness about the baby's crib. Heavily scented powders and soaps are not good, but these pleasant odors of growing things are always happy.

Then keep calm and think cooly. Your own feelings are as important to the comfort of the child as his own. If you are heated and flurried, if you grow excited and bring on headaches and "nerves" the baby is going to be cross. So keep cool. Then dress the baby and the runabouts in that mood. It is wonderful what a relief a cool thought can be. It is second only to a cool costume in its influence on temper and health.

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

ETERBOROUGH says to all the Old Boys and Girls who are here for the reunion:

"A place in thy memory, dearest!
Is all that I claim:
To pause and look back when thou hearest
The sound of my name."

* * * * * *

These Old Boys and Girls are here because of memories they retain of past days; and they are here to store up memories of a wonderful week, memories that they can draw from the recesses of their minds in days to come.

* * * * * *

Tales have been told here, this week, tales that were dear in the long ago; songs have been sung that were not heard in Peterborough these many years,and the thrill was not in the words—it was memory playing a tune on heart-strings!

* * * * * *

Some of the visitors have been looking up old familiar scenes. It is not the great improvements that most strike these Old Home Week visitors. These changes are interesting, but nothing to get enthusiastic about, because similar new buildings and factories and bridges are going up everywhere.

* * * * * *

But there can be only one spot like one's birthplace; only one best swimming hole; only one tree under which one plighted one's troth. These are the things that count in memory's score card. Hood doesn't sing of castles and palaces, but....

I remember, I remember,
The house where I was born,
The little window where the sun
Came peeping in at morn.

* * * * * *

Within every heart is enshrined some fond remembrance of days that are no more. In youth we recalled with delight our schoolday triumphs in sport and study; later on we thought with ecstacy of the victories of courtship, or the laurels won in the business world.

* * * * * *

As life goes on, however, our recollections are more likely to be of more tranquil delights, though we will never forget these others.

* * * * * *

Bound up with every memory of an event is a recollection of the other actors on the stage, for each of whom we have a loving thought.

* * * * * *

Some of the leaves of memory, as we turned them during this week, doubtless made a mournful rustling, as we thought of companions of other days who keep eternal tryst; there come out of the past voices we knew in those dear, dead days, it may have been in words we would love to hear spoken again, or in a song that carried a tear in every line.

* * * * * *

But thank God for even such memories, sad though they be. If you have this week, felt—

....like one who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed—

be glad that you enjoyed the banquet, and that an all-seeing goodness has left you the memory.

* * * * * *

And when you go away at the end of the week, carry with you memories to be drawn upon as life recedes down the evening slopes, memories of an old home that remembers you, of hundreds of folk here who wish you well.

* * * * * *

To whatver part of the world you return to take up the task of daily living, may it be

A land of promise, a land of memory,
A land of promise flowing with the milk
And honey of delicious memories!

CANNING RHUBARB

(Contributed by 'Brightonian')

Cut and wash rhubarb and pack into sealers. Put under spout of pump in tub or deep dish and fill sealer until can is all under water. Put on the lids, and be sure sealers are under water when lids are put on.

CHILDREN'S EARNINGS

Children should be given an opportunity in vacations to make a little money. If there is no chance for them to sell flowers, magazines, papers or any other article, pay them for helping in the garden, around the house, with the dishes or cooking. A flat rate of so much per hour, agreed upon by the children, is a good idea.

ONE-PIECE UPPERS

Many new travel coats and dress coats also have their sleeves mounted in one piece with a yoke that extends across the back of the garment or the front and back as well as fashioning the cap part of the sleeve.

How School Teacher Gained 18 Pounds and New Energy

"I am a public school instructor," writes Mr. Linus L. Clark, "and from my study I was convinced that Ironized Yeast was exactly what I needed to put me in shape. I took only two bottles and gained 18 lbs. More than that, Ironized Yeast brought more energy, greater endurance and an improved complexion."

You can believe letters like this. Thousands who were doubtful at first write they gained 5 to 20 pounds often in 3 weeks. "Skinny" limbs changed to graceful roundness. Skin clears. Tired feeling vanishes.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets in a handy bottle. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, get your money back from druggist or manufacturer. If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.25 direct to Canadian Ironized Yeast Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Desk 149-BS.

DEEP YOKE

A white flat crepe ensemble, printed in fine traceries of navy blue, has a deep yoke of plain white, both front and back to which the printed fabric is joined in modernistic setback manner.

LINEN TOGS

Very Parisian is a new golf outfit in raspberry red linen, with circular skirt and matching shorts, sleeveless white linen tuckin blouse and linen cardigan stitched in white for a four inch banding.

YOUTHFUL CAPE

The cape collar for evening is one of youth's favorites. A pale pink chiffon dance frock with irregular skirtline features a rear cape collar that reaches below the hipline. It gives a most feminine look to the flapper.

There are 40 principal theaters and 16 super-cinemas in London.

FASHION SERVICE

TRIMMED WITH RED.

By Mme. Yted.

This smart frock in navy blue wool is trimmed with red faille, which is arranged in short horizontal stripes on the blouse, and in a wide band and bow knot to finish the surplice closing of the blouse. The same red is also used in bands on the wide cuffs and in a narrow line at the bottom of the skirt, which has its pleats stitched down, and its front panel crossed over in such a way as to carry out the surplus suggestion of the blouse.

SPORTS PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, July 5.—The Mission Circle held its regular meeting in Trinity church on Thursday evening of last week, Miss Grace Orr presiding. A short program was given after which Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hie were presented with a service wagon from the congregation. The address was read by Miss Hazel McDonald and Miss Marie Metcalfe made the presentation. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hie very feelingly thanked the congregation for their many kindnesses during their short pastorage here. A lunch was served by the ladies of the church.

The following address was read:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Hie:

We, the members and adherents of the Trinity church, Hastings, have met here this evening to express our sincere appreciation of your services in our church during your sojourn among us. We know that your active interest in every department of our church has imparted a stimulus, the seed of which will bear most beneficial results in the future development and welfare of our congregation.

Your clear, eloquent and helpful addresses from Sunday to Sunday have served to inspire your hearers to a higher spiritual life and have given us a broader outlook, not only as individuals, but also in the call of the church in its great labor at large.

Your cheerful presence and words of comfort in our homes have assisted many to patiently bear the ills of this life. Distance and personal convenience did not deter you from rendering spiritual aid to those confined in the hospitals.

Your active interest in the welfare of the young people of our church is best exemplified by the prosperous condition of the Young People's society bears a living testimonial to your interest and unselfish devotion to our youth.

For Mrs. Hie, we will always have the kindliest remembrances of her devotion to every branch of our church work. Her work among the young people also stands forth, as shown in her active leadership in the Mission Band. These sterling talents so freely given, have endeared her to all our people.

Thus as you are soon leaving as to enter upon new fields of labor in the Master's cause, we ask you to accept this small gift as a token of the friendships you have formed in Hastings."

MUST RELEASE ALLEGED SPY

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 5.—The Government yesterday received an ultimatum from the Hungarian Railways Department, saying that three frontier stations would be closed against Czechoslovakia if the latter did not immediately permit resumption of railway service via Hidasnemeti.

Czechoslovakia has replied with a counter-ultimatum, saying that all frontiers would be closed to Hungarians unless Vincent Pecha, who was arrested by Hungary on Tuesday as a spy, was released within three days.

HITCH-HIKERS VISIT THE CITY

Four Young Ladies On Walking Tour of the Province.

HAIL FROM TORONTO.

Four blithesome young "hitch-hikers" blew into The Examiner office last night and made things lively for a few minutes. They examined everything with great interest, called the caretaker by his first name in a manner that left "Bill" staring after them as they skipped up the stairs, had their names printed in type by an obliging and dazzled youth and commandeered all the funny pages in the papers lying around the editorial rooms. They evinced a particular fondness for "Tillie", perhaps because of the fact that a trio of them were business girls.

The four hail from Toronto originally. They talked so fast and in such "ensemble" fashion, as one might say, and they held so many whispered conferences in which the words "What will we tell her?" were distinctly audible, that it was hard to gather a connected idea of their exploits.

However, they were all young and pretty and extremely zippy. Two of them had sun tan legs, "au naturel', with tiny rolled socks and dark bloomers and middy blouses, while their two companions wore knickers and heavy stockings.

They claim to hail from Camp Brechin, an Anglican Girls' Camp near Gamebridge, and were absent on two days' leave, they declared. They said they take hiking tours over Ontario every summer and that they want to "exploit our own province before we see the States," as one of them declared importantly. They have been to Lindsay and North Bay and Sudbury and Hamilton and their method is to get out on the road and then wave to passing autoists and ask for a lift.

"Then we talk and sing our songs for them", they asserted, "and they seem to like us." The listener had no doubt of their capacity to do the first, but had no opportunity to judge of their musical ability.

"Do you ever meet any fresh guys?" we asked.

"No, never," they chorused. "You see," explained one, "we never meet any single fellows, only married men with families." This was a mystery of the highway that was rather inexplicable and the kindly young masculine member of The Examiner mechanical staff who had conveyed them to the office, after receiving an invitation to give them a lift, reminded them of the fact that he was single.

"Yes, but you were only one against four of us", they reminded him. They said their names were Belle Richmond and Anne Rother, both stenographers in the employ of the Confederation Life Insurance Company of Toronto, and Mildred Swartz and Sylvia Mendelssohn, also of Toronto, the former a book-keeper and the latter a student of Jarvis Collegiate Institute.

They departed for Chemong as gladsomely as they had arrived, blissfully ignorant of the fact that they represented a modern youthful growth that would make the heads of their respective grandparents turn white in their graves, could they only return to see them standing out in the roadway in their bare legs to wave to passersby and ask them for a lift to parts unknown and unchaperoned.

FONTAINE of Brussels

Beauty Specialist to Royalty

advises this new way to skin beauty

"Palm and olive oils are the best natural skin cleansers. It is a mistake to suppose that the same thorough cleansing can be got by other means. That is why I always insist that before my preparations are applied, the skin must first be cleansed with Palmolive."

G. Fontaine

25 Rue Ste. Gudule, Brussels

In his shop opposite the Cathedral in Brussels Fontaine has acted as beauty adviser to lovely women of the European aristocracy. Here he has received, with pride, warrants from the Queen and from such dignitaries as Madame la Princesse Napoleon . . . . proclaiming him official "Fourniteur," as was his father, Fontaine pere, since the year 1866.

At 25 Rue Ste. Gudule, is the salon de beauté of Fontaine, beauty specialist by appointment to Her Majesty, the Queen of the Belgians.

"THE first step of a beauty specialist," says M. Fontaine, "is to see that the skin is in a condition to respond to treatment in the Salon. If the pores are allowed to remain clogged up indefinitely with particles of powder, rouge, fine dust, etc., the delicate tissues must suffer and lose all their vitality."

Massage the skin for two minutes with Palmolive lather; rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. That's all. Its simplicity is one reason why Palmolive is the most popular facial treatment all over the world.

MESSAGES TO MAYOR DENNE

FROM MAYOR OF TORONTO

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It gives me much pleasure on this the occasion of your Old Home Week, and on this day, which, I understand, is known as "Toronto Day", to extend greetings to you and to the citizens of the City of Peterborough.

I rejoice in the cordial relations which exist between the people of Toronto and those of your City. That relationship has been fostered and strengthened by the interchange of business, by social and fraternal intercourse, and in many other ways. But perhaps the most binding tie is that of the home. Many of your people have left their old homes and have come to Toronto, establishing new homes in our midst. Strong links of friendship have thus been formed, creating a chain of interest which remains unbroken throughout the years.

I regret that it has not been possible for me to accept the very kind invitation extended to me by the Peterborough Old Boys' Association of Toronto to take part in today's festivities. I am sorry I cannot be with you, and hope your week's celebration will be an unqualified success.

To the people of Peterborough, one and all, I extend heartiest good wishes for their continued and increasing prosperity.

Yours sincerly,
(Sgd.) SAMUEL McBRIDE,
Mayor.

MAYOR'S REPLY

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It was with great pleasure your letter was received yesterday, the Toronto Day of our Old Home Week. Former residents of Peterborough, now citizens of Toronto, came in large numbers, and it was a demonstration of the contribution this city has made to Toronto and of the affection these former residents have for their old home.

The cordial relations between Peterborough and her big neighbour are gratifying to the people of this city, who are proud of the rapid growth and prosperity of the capital of our Province.

We regret very much that you were not able to be with us, but your message of greeting and good wishes is deeply appreciated.

Yours sincerly,
MAYOR DENNE

LAKEFIELD BOARD OF TRADE

The Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough:

And all engaged in the work of reception and entertainment of the old residents of your city.

We, The Lakefield Board of Trade, for ourselves, and on behalf of our Municipality, are pleased to congratulate you on the wonderful efforts you are making, and sincerely trust that they will be crowned with unqualified success and be fondly remembered in the years to come.

C. S. WALLIS

Edmonton, Alta., July 1.

Sorry I cannot be with you for the Old Home Week but I wish you and your committee all manner of success and to be assured that absentee old timers are thinking of the old town and wishing it all prosperity. Kind regards to all.

FROM LIVERPOOL

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Peterborough "Old Home" Week, June 1929

On behalf of my wife and myself I wish to thank you for your kind invitation to participate in the Civic Pageant which is being held in Peterborough this month.

It is with very great regret that my wife and I have had to give up all thought of visiting Canada this year, although nothing would have given us greater pleasure than to have been present during the Peterborough centennial celebration. We have to deny ourselves the pleasure of this visit, but nevertheless we shall be with you in spirit during your time of rejoicing.

We owe a great deal to Peterborough, in the first place because we were married there, and also spent several very happy years there, and made some very good friends.

Since our return to England in 1920 we have had the pleasure of seeing and entertaining in some small way three of your citizens, namely Alec Archibald, Fred Roy, and Miss Price, and may we take this opportunity of saying that if at any time any of our old Peterborough friends are in Liverpool, we shall be only too happy to do all we can to make their stay in the old country a happy one, because we can never forget the way Canada and Peterborough especially took us to its heart, and made us happy and comfortable.

Then too, Peterborough contains hallowed ground for us because we left one of our dear little ones in the cemetery there, and the first prolonged holiday we can find time to take, you can rest assured we will be visiting the old city once more.

Please accept and give my very kind regards to any of my old friends that you may happen to meet.

May we wish to all good citizens of Peterborough in the words of an old Bard of my Fatherland "Slaynt as shea, as eash dy vrea, as maynrys son by bragh," which being translated from man into good Canadian means "Health and wealth and length of days and Happiness for ever".

Believe me to be dear Mr. Mayor,
Yours very sincerely,
J. K. COSTAIN

Dr. Mr. Costain:

While sorry that you and Mrs. Costain could not be with us this week, I was very glad to receive your letter.

This is the middle day of the Old Home Week, and it is going over big. Thousands of former residents have come to join with us in the festival, and thousands of old friendships have been renewed.

We hope that you and Mrs. Costain will before long take a holiday and pay us the promised visit, and give us an opportunity of welcoming you, which is denied to us this week.

93RD BATTALION CLUB IS FORMED

Sergeants' Quarters Ring As Old Comrades Unite Again.

COL. JOHNSTON PRESIDENT.

Two hundred members of the old 93rd Battalion, who had returned to their home town for the Old Boys' Reunion, met last evening in the sergeant's quarters at the armouries to discuss times gone by and have a generally regular "whoopee" night.

Not to be outdone by the rest of the town parading in night attire, the boys all turned out and held a parade of their own down George street, singing ditties to the tops of their voices.

At the conclusion the old "gang" got together again and formed a club which was called the 93rd Battalion Club. Election of officers followed, J. H. Burnham proposing, and seconded by Tom Miller, Lt.-Col. Johnston was unanimously put in the president's chair, with Chas. Wiggins as vice. To aid in the club administration, representatives of the district were formed into a committee.

Lt.-Col. Johnston was presented with a fine case of pipes by his comrades, in esteem for his past services and anticipation of his future ones.

NEW OFFICES ARE FINISHED

HYDRAULIC LIFT EXPECTED.

With the completion of the New Blue Sunoco gas station and combined Lehigh Conger coal offices, a very attractive corner has been made out of Charlotte and Bethune streets. The gas station will be under the care of Mr. Joe Dayer, with Mr. T. O. Donaldson as general supervisor, and manager for the local branch of the Conger Coal Company.

Interviewed this morning, Mr. Donaldson, stated that they had tried to make the buildings and general appearance of the corner as attractive as possible. And they have succeeded, the corner is a credit to Charlotte street. The building itself is erected on the latest type of gas service station plan, finished in white stucco, and trimmed with orange and green. Two new thousand gallon tanks have been installed and four air operated pumps set up, on the island, made possible when the buildings were moved back fourteen feet to make room for a double drive

With the two ten thousand gallon storage tanks that have just recently been placed in the rear, the total supply that can be carried on hand will be 22,000 gallons. A new hydraulic lift will be installed soon. Mr. Donaldson said, and will do away with the unsightly and inconvenient grease pits. This lift will make it possible for the greasing and oiling of cars to be carried out with much more efficiency.

FORMER MINISTER SENDS GREETINGS

Many Letters From Distant Pastors Read Out To Congregation.

At the morning service in Knox Church, June 30, in connection with Old Home Week, messages were read by the Pastor Rev. William Macdonald, from former ministers of Knox. Among these messages was one from Rev. J. A. Mackenzie of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, which will be of interest to many outside the bounds of Knox Congregation. Mr. Mackenzie's message was as follows:

Knox Manse, Saskatoon.
June 25, 1929.

To the Pastor and People
of Knox Church, Peterborough, Affectionate and Joyous Greetings—

I received your kind invitation a few days ago. It is very pleasant o be remembered in connection with you Old Home Week celebration.

The Committee in charge have been very generous in sending me information. Wherever there are Peterborough folk, this reunion has been, for months past, a topic of keen interest. From all parts of the Continent, men and women are journeying in response to your enticing invitations to view, once again, the sunlight on landscapes so familiar in days gone by. Any who have lived in your city have left some of their heart in its keeping forever. It has refused to come away. We love to recall your hills and dales, the charm and mystery of your waters, the half pain and half rapture of your autumn glory. But most of all do we delight to hold memory's communion with a friendly folk whose affection is steadfast throughout the years. It is refreshing to recall Knox folk. You always brighten up my abiding belief in the gallantry of human nature. I shall ever think of you as a brave company of men and women finding strength in your joys, patience in your discipline, and nobility in your grief.

This thought occurs to me—If you could assemble all who attended Knox church since it opened its doors for worship, if you could bring back from various points of the Globe, all who have found a blessing within its walls, if some mortal voice could summon from the realms of the immortal, those whose departure filled us with sorrows, and all were with you once again. What a congregation that would be! Your church could not contain them, nor could it hold their testimony of joyous indebtedness for the benediction you have enabled them to receive.

ALWAYS REMEMBER.

Do not think we forget you. You are specially near us on Communion Sundays. We always sing Psalm selection No. 28. You recall the great words—

O blessed is the man whose sins
The Lord hath covered o'er,
And the transgressions of whose life
Remembered are no more.

I never sing that psalm but Knox people in worship appear before me. I recall many of you who found in these words the classical expression of your triumph and joy, and how you revelled in the tumultuous crescendo of faith in these closing verses:

Surely when floods of waters great
So swell up to the brim,
They shall not overwhelm his soul
Nor once come near to him.

Thou art my hiding place, Thou shalt
From trouble keep me free,
Thou with songs of deliverance
About shall compass me.

Be assured of this, the service you render is of lasting value. Your sons and daughters may take up residence in distant parts, but your faith, your love your self surrender go with them. So from a splendid present to an equally splendid future look forward this day. The past brings tribute to you:—

More splendid far

but the biggest day hasn't dawned for you yet. When it does come, be prepared to meet it with your heritage unmarred and undefiled.

This household unites in sending love and best wishes to you all.

Yours very sincerely,
James A. MacKenzie.

will be armed with noise-makers, confetti and serpentine paper. These will be distributed free by the committee, who are making every effort to make this the biggest thing in the city's history.

Rumors are abroad that the Old Boys have something up their sleeves, too. There may be burning of effigies, and other stunts. Anyway the Old Boys promise that to-night they are going to make their presence known, and how.

The parade will gather at Confederaton Square at 10.30, at the conclusion of the performance at the Exhibition Park, so that everyone can participate without missing anything down at the park. The bands will begin to play "Hail! Hail!" and the great conglomeration of humanity in resurrected haberdashery, and funny splendour will go rollicking down George street. The same course will be followed as last night, but everything will be bigger and funnier

Those in costume will be allowed free in the armories to dance to the music of the Oshawa Jazz Serenaders. Others will have to pay fifty cents to dance.

To-morrow another and final parade will be held. The great Madri Gras in which the Queen in brilliant costume, with her beautiful attendants and citizenry, will officially close Old Home Week.

The police have issued orders that cars must be kept off George street between Charlotte and Murray and between George and Aylmer on Charlotte streets.

KIWANIS HEARS OLD BOY SPEAK

WORKED ON REVIEW.

The speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon which was held at noon to-day in the Paragon tea rooms was James S. Milloy, one of the Peterborough Old Boys from Fargo, North Dakota, where he is manager of the Greater North Dakota Association, which is a state wide Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Milloy earned his first dollar in Peterborough as a reporter on the old Review when F. H. Dobbin was editor.

"I am one of those who has come back for Old Home Week" he said, "and this whole week has been very fine and enjoyable, the success indicates organization and shows that when Peterborough steps out to do anything the people do it right and the whole thing just goes to demonstrate what they can do when they take off their coats and get to work."

Outstanding Event in History

"I understand that this has been the outstanding event in Peterborough's civic life and as a boy of this city who earned his first dollar here I am glad to be back."

"The civic spirit that has been shown is a necessity in the life of any community. It has been shown that the responsibility has been readily accepted by the civic heads and by the Chamber of Commerce which is indeed gratifying.

"The editorial in last night's Examiner seemed to me to have the right idea. After all it is not the size of a community, but it is what it has to offer in the way of cooperative spirit and civic affairs.

"What is particularly pleasing is the number of younger men that are in the picture—that is how it should be. It gets them into harness and they show what they can do and the older men are delighted to see it.

"The older men who have gone before have developed this community and have given a life time service to the building of the city and on returning now are taking stock of what has happened in their time. The question cannot help but arise in their minds "What is going to happen when we turn our task over to the younger men? The way the young men have stepped to the front in this Old Home Week has given them their answer, so the men are very happy because of this and are able to enjoy the occasion a whole lot more."

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian Vern Morphet and was thanked by Kiwanian Carl Brown.

Ed. Hannahran, another Peterborough Old Boy, who now is in Montreal and is a noted singer over the radio, in the Palace Theatre and in Saint Michael's Cathedral, favored the members of the club with two very ably rendered selections singing—"On the Road to Mandaly" and "Mother Machree."

The guests for the day were: L. McGuire of Peterborough, B. Hill of Boissevain Man.; W. Hill of Orillia; E. Hannahran of Montreal; F. Pearson of Long Beach, Cal.; H. Schopfer of Syracuse and Dr. F. Rutherford of Detroit.

IN MEMORIAM.

HUNTER. — In loving memory of Mrs. Lillian Hunter, who died July 5, 1927.

Forget you? no, we never will,
For none on earth your place can fill.
The face we loved is now laid low,
The fond, true heart is still,
The hand we clasped to bid adieu,
By death is ever still.

—Sadly missed by her family, Mother and Father, and Sisters and Brothers.

ALBERT PERCY BROWN.

The death of Albert Percy Brown on Wednesday evening deprived Peterborough of a resident widely respected in social and business circles.

He was born in Toronto in 1857, the third son of James Brown, junior, of Clover Hill, and educated at Upper Canada College. Upon graduating he entered the wholesale hardware house of Samuel Benjamin and Sons of Toronto, and later went to Cannington, where he remained for ten years. He then went to Morden, Manitoba, where he was engaged in the retail hardware business, till 1907, when with his family he came to Peterborough, continuing in the same business. Forced by failing health to retire, his sons took control of the business in 1922.

The late Mr. Brown's first wife was Anne Kelly of Oshawa, and by this marriage he leaves one daughter, Ruby Louise, wife of Corbet Locke of Manitoba. In 1891 he married Charlotte Margaret Cecilia, second daughter of the late Reverend C. E. Thomson, M.A., of Toronto.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing wife, four sons: Elmir, Kenneth J., Cecil C. P. and Reginald W., and three daughters: Mrs. Corbet Locke, Dora in Hamilton and Helen at home.

The funeral is to be held from his late residence, 54 McDonnel street, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

EXHIBITION OF GAOLINE DIVE

Display Will Be Held in Connection With Old Home Week Midway.

SPECTACULAR SIGHT.

The famous gasoline dive which was performed at the Peterborough Exhibition several years ago and also at the Canadian National Exhibition, will be repeated for local people to-night and to-morrow night at the Old Home Week midway if wind conditions permit.

The gasoline dive is to be made in connection with the diving show in the midway by Arthur Chitum, more commonly known as Jack le Roda to patrons of the midways. Clothed in a paper suit, Mr. Chitum is saturated with gasoline and mounts to the top of the ladder, about one hundred feet in height. The surface of the small tank into which the dive is made is also covered with gasoline. When all is ready, the clothes of the diver are ignited and also the gasoline on the surface of the tank, and a back plunge is made to the tank in a blaze of fire.

Local Girls Assisting.

Two Peterborough girls, Hazel Bradley and Doris Rogers, procured though Miss Littlefield of the Y.W.C.A. are assisting in the swimming and diving demonstration in the show during this week. Assisted by other members of the aquatic exhibition, they give a demonstration of fancy diving which they perform with amazing expertness, and a demonstration of life-saving. These girls are assisting in the display during its stay in Peterborough due to the loss of two regular performers who were forced to withdraw on account of contracts to train for the C.N.E. marathon swim.

The feature of the show during the week has been the 125 foot dive made several times each day by Captain Arthur Allen. The daring performer climbs to the top of the lofty ladder which can be seen by all in the vicinity and allows himself to fall backward from an erect position, turning a complete somersault to land feet first in the small ten-foot tank. The water is but four and a half feet deep making the feat very hazardous.

Captain Allen was for some time the instructor of George Young and for twelve years has been the instructor of swimming and fancy diving for the Board of Education, Toronto.

Paul Harrison and Bill Aikens, better known as "Joey Joy" and "Romona" to the patrons of Sunnyside in Toronto, assist in the demonstration in the role of clowns. They do some water feats that are inclined to prove that they are not the fools they look.

Toronto Maple Leafs Hand Bisons a Setback

MAPLE LEAFS MASSACRE BISON HURLERS FOR 21 SAFE CLOUTS TO TAKE HOLIDAY DOUBLE BILL

Ralph Shinners Accounts For Two Home Runs in Afternoon Struggle.

WINGS BEAT ROYALS.

Reading Winds Up Series With Baltimore Orioles By Taking Doubleheader.

BUFFALO, July 5. (CP.) — The Toronto Maple Leafs threw a damper on any celebrating contemplated by the Bisons in honor of Independence Day here yesterday by capering off with morning and afternoon games by scores of 10 to 3 and 4 to 1, thereby increasing the losing streak of the lackadaisical Clymer tribe to 8 losses in ten starts.

Enthusiastic Toronto base hits showered the stadium in the after-breakfast game, the Leafs staging a massacre of four Bison ptchers and rolling up 21 safe clouts of ordinary distance. After dinner the Leafs shifted their tactics a bit and put on a home-run display, with Ralph Shinners the big touch-off man. The giant Leaf centrefielder, who was the shining light of the day, ignited two of Jess Barnes' pitches and sent two long drives hurtling over the left field fence, accounting for three tallies and the Toronto margin of victory. The game was a battle of the Barnes boys, with Frank of the Leafs, opposing Jess, the veteran major leager. Frank was in real earnest, and made fools of the Bison batsmen.

SUFFERS DOUBLE SETBACK.

He started the first game to lose 11-5, although he worked but two innings in the rain. He came back to pitch seven sterling innings in the final but could not match the work of Herman Bell, and the Royals fell again, 3 to 0. Sensational fielding helped Bell through the sixth and seventh innings, runners being nipped at both third base and home plate, and in the sixth when a tally would have tied up the contest at one all.

READING WINS AGAIN.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—(C.P.)—The Reading Aces wound up their series with the Orioles by adding both the morning and afternoon games here yesterday. The morning affair was a tight and well-played battle, with the visitors taking the decision, 5 to 3. In the afternoon the teams battled for 13 innings before the Aces took the laurels, 13 to 12.

SPLIT DOUBLE BILL.

NEWARK, July 5.— (C.P.)— The Bears and Jersey spit their holiday double bill yesterday, Newark winning the morning contest, 8 to 5, and the visitors evening the count with a 3 to 2 victory after mid-day.

TWIN VICTORIES FOR ATHLETICS

Grove Runs His Total of Strikeouts to 101 in the Morning Contest.

WIN FOR INDIANS.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The Philadelphia Athletics celebrated Independence Day by defeating the Boston Red Sox in morning and afternoon tussles by scores of 3 to 1 and 8 to 1. Grove fanned eleven in the morning contest, running his total strike-outs for the season to 101.

Cochrane, Grove's battery mate, co-starred with the pitcher in the morning by figuring in the scoring of all the runs. He hit three doubles and wound up his labors with a home run.

DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER.

CLEVELAND, O., July 5 (Canadian Press). — The Indians and the White Sox divided a double-header yesterday, the Sox taking the first 9 to 2 behind the fine pitching of Urban Faber, while the Indians battered three pitchers while Miljus held the visitors safe to cop the nightcap 11 to 5.

BROWNS BEAT TIGERS.

ST. LOUIS, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The Browns rallied in both games, and captured the double-header from Detroit yesterday, 12 to 6 and 7 to 6.

Johnson, McManus and Kimsey hit homers in the nightcap. Pitcher Stoner forced in Kimsey and Badgro after going to the mound in the eighth inning of the second game with two on base. Alexander hit a home run for Detroit in the first game.

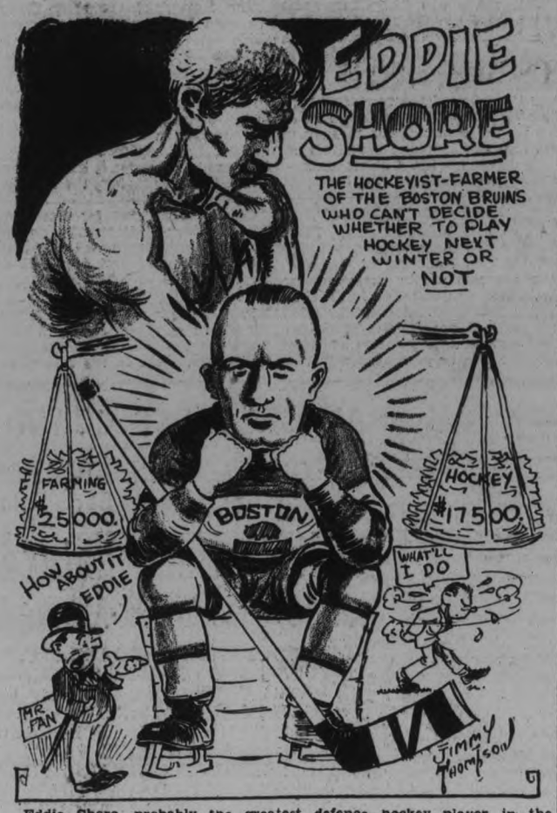
DOUBLE FOR YANKEES.

NEW YORK, July 5 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees took two games from the Washington Senators to wind up their home stay, winning by a score of 8 to 4 in the first game and the second by 14 to 4.

The Yankee starting pitcher, Pipgras, failed to finish, Heimach taking his place after Cronin had hit a home run, and a double and single had followed in the sixth. Heimach held the visitors the rest of the game.

A grown-up man breathes about 15 or 16 times in a minute; a woman perhaps 18. Children breathe much more often.

TO FARM OR TO PLAY



Eddie Shore, probably the greatest defence hockey player in the world, and member of the Boston Bruins, is sorely troubled. He is trying to decide whether to play hockey next season and pull down $17,500 for his troubles, or to become a farmer in the Canadian west at a net profit of $25,000 a year.

The $17,500 is the valuation that Eddie has put on his services to the Bruins next year, and if he doesn't get it he stays on the farm, no matter how much Mr. Hockey Fan shouts for his appearance.

When Eddie wore the blades for the Eskimos he was one of the most popular players in Edmonton and is just as popular as ever with the western fans.

At present he is planning one of the finest farms in the Canadian west, and he says that in a few years he will have it finished.

Art Ross, manager of the Bruins, knows his hockey, and although it may be a strain on the pocket to give Eddie such a handsome salary, he will, in all likelihood, manage somehow to keep him on the line-up of the Bruins next winter.

PIRATES LEAD NATIONAL LOOP

CUBS BREAK EVEN.

PITTSBURG, July 5 (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh made a clean sweep of the series with St. Louis by winning the afternoon game of yesterday's holiday double-header 8 to 2. The Pirates won in the morning 8 to 4.

Comorosky's home run which hopped through Douthit cleared the bases in the eighth in the afternoon fray and put the game on ice for the Buccaneers. Sheely also connected for a homer in the eighth.

CUBS BREAK EVEN.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 5 (Canadian Press).—The Cubs broke even with the Cincinnati Reds in yesterday's holiday bill, but dropped out of first place in the National League, two points behind Pittsburgh, which took a pair from the Cardinals.

The Reds took the morning game, an 8-inning affair, 9 to 8, but the Cubs came back in the afternoon for a 10 to 5 decision.

BRAVES SPLIT EVEN.

BOSTON, July 5 (Canadian Press). —The Braves and Giants divided a double-header here yesterday. The Braves won the first 4 to 3, when Spohrer's ringle in the ninth sent in the tying and winning runs. In the second game the Giants batted Cunningham and Jones to an 8 to 0 defeat behind Benton's six-hit pitching.

VICTORY FOR QUAKERS.

BROOKLYN, July 5 (Canadian Press).—The Phillies and the Robins divided their holiday double-header yesterday, the Quakers smashing out a 14 to 12 victory against seven Brooklyn pitchers in the opening game, only to bow before Johnny Morrison's curve ball 5 to 3 in the final.

KEEN COMPETITION IS STAGED IN NINE LEAGUES OF SENIOR SERIES OF O. B. A. ASSOCIATION

Walkerville "Chicks" Finalists With Nationals Last Year Playing Great Ball.

OSKIES OUTSTANDING.

W. J. Snyder Gives Review of Standings of Loops in Special Bulletin.

With four to five weeks of the ball season over, some conception of the comparative strength of the teams operating in the nine leagues of the senior series of the O.B.A.A. can be gained. Stiff struggles are being staged throughout Ontario, and the race is close in every league.

Walkerville "Chicks," with the same club as gave Belleville Nationa's such a great battle in the finals last year, is one team that will bear watching. Oskies are the outstanding nine in the Hamilton league, while the Combines in the Niagara district are a classy outfit. The T. A.B.A. will likely turn out a representative that will be strong contenders.

These are the conclusions to be gathered from the summary of conditions existing in the O.B.A.A. as written by W. J. Snyder, who as secretary of the provincial body, is in a position to know. Mr. Snyder makes no prophecies but it may be judged that he has his own opinions. In his special bulletin he writes:

In the West, Walkerville and Windsor look like the clubs to contest the championship of the Southern Ontario League. Walkerville, with practically the same club as in 1928, may be strong contenders for the Ontario honors.

In the Intercounty, St. Thomas with a bad start, losing five straight games, are now in the running for the Intercounty championship along with Guelph, Galt, and Kitchener. A merry battle is in progress for the right to represent the Intercounty League in the play-downs.

Oskies look like the class of the Hamilton City League. Moodie Tigers, weak in pitching, are not the same strong opposition for the Yellow and Black outfit as last year. C.N.R. Beavers and K.P.'s have an outside chance to get in the city play-downs. The latter two clubs are developing some junior material which will be heard from in the future.

The Combines, formerly the Niagara Falls club, strengthened by Merriton and Thorold players, look like the class of the Niagara District. Bridgeburg and St. Catharines are close up, and these three clubs will be the ones to fight it out for the Niagara District championship.

T.A.B.A. clubs in all four senior leagues are in the thick of a championship fight, the best that Toronto has had for some years. The T.A. B.A. and Toronto clubs in all series are getting back to their strength of former years.

Belleville Nationals, Ontario Senior champions of 1928, have a tough job on their hands to ward off the rush of the contending clubs, Deloro Oshawa and Peterborough, and no doubt could use Hoot Gibson to advantage in the present fight. The winner here takes on Kingston for Central Ontario League honors.

Intermediate series in the West, Essex County with Leamington, Harrow, Auto Specialties, and Union Gas Club of Windsor are in the midst of a great race for Essex County honors. The winners will be strong O.B.A.A. Intermediate contenders.

Kent County, with Chatham, Shedden, Ridgetown fighting it out for a place on the play-downs, are more evenly matched than formerly.

West Elgin looks like a runaway race for West Lorne Rodney Combines. The other clubs look weak compared to the Combines. The Western Ontario League with Sarnia, Strathroy, and London are going strong. Exeter, the new entry, may be heard from before the season ends.

In the Intercounty, Ingersoll are on top, closely followed by Preston, Stratford, Galt, and Brantford. Twin City are trailing, and seem to be out of the running at present. Ingersoll will be the club to beat again this Intermediate honors.

Haldimand County, with Caledonia on top, are having their best season in years. Simcoe, Dunnville, and Fisherville are trying hard to knock off the leaders, who seem to have a perpetual hold on the championship of Haldimand County. Down in the Niagara District the Falls Club O. B.A.A. semi-finalists of last year, will be the club to beat again this year.

In the H.A.B.A., C.M.S. dropped their first game to Waterdown last week. Reid and Benzie, old City League players, are of great help to the above club. Dundas, Harvesters and Waterdown are not far back, and will have a say before the H.A. B.A. Intermediate championship is decided.

In Halton County, Oakville are the leaders, closely followed by Burlington, Milton, and Georgetown. Acton and Bronte are not far down, and may upset the dope before the season ends.

In the T.A.B.A. Intermediate series all clubs are evenly matched, and their winners will likely meet Stouffville in the first round Ontario play-downs.

Down in the Lake Shore League, Peterborough, Cobourg, Port Hope, and Oshawa are a new organization taking the place of the old Oshawa District Association. Their winners will likely meet the champions of the East Peterborough League, whose winner went into the finals with Copper Cliff in 1928. This district is always represented by strong clubs and will take some beating before the 1929 championships are declared. Picton with a bye will enter the first round of the play-downs.

In the north, Copper Cliff, Capreol, and Creighton Mines are the Nickel Belt clubs. Copper Cliff, with the same club that won the Intermediate Ontario championship last year, are having strong opposition from the other clubs, and will have no easy time finishing on top in the Nickel Belt League.

GRAFTON BANTAMS DEFEAT EAST CITY

The strong Grafton's team defeated the East City Maple Leafs 10 to 1 in a pretty game of ball at James Stevenson Park. The game was a harder and stiffer struggle than the score would indicate, Grafton's getting their runs in bunches.

Clark pitched smartly for the winners but he was slightly wild at times, hitting two batters. Calladine twirled nicely for Maple Leafs, but his support was wobbly in the pinches.

There were some feature catches in the outfield, especially one by Williamson playing centre for Leafs.

Grafton's as a result of their win over the stocky little Leafs are sitting on top of the bantam league.

The line-ups:

Umpires:—O'Brien and Murphy.

ST. CATHARINES OLD BOYS CAME STRONG TO CITY

Dozens of Cars Brought Many For Big Celebration.

All over the city since Sunday last can be seen numbers of St. Catharines cars, which is evidence of the large delegation that came from that city to attend Old Home Week. Mrs. Wilbert O'Neil was specially helpful to the local committee, inasmuch as she furnished the secretary with almost 200 names of Peterborough old boys and girls in her city.

Those who particularly interested themselves in the movement were Jack Conroy, Stewart Fleming and E. L. Palin, who had charge of the cars in the parade and in the organizing of the party coming home: Mr. and Mrs. W. Geer, Mr. Wilbert O'Neil, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stenner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Brockwell, F. J. Palin, Mr. and Mrs. Wickland, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jones, Miss Doyle and others.

The representation from St. Catharines was excellent, and the work and co-operation of the members of the committee much appreciated.

Deloro Plays C.G.E. Injured Players' Cup

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian General meets the Deloro aggregation in the final of the Injured Players' Cup, on King Edward Park. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Referee, Jack Clark.

The fans are assured of a splendid game and the last time that the Smelter boys were in the city there was a large attendance of spectators.

In all probability the Electric executive will stick to the same eleven that carried off the Spalding Cup during the week.

No definite information is available from Deloro, but they have always fielded a strong team.

TWO AMERICANS MEET FOR TITLE

CLOSE COMPETITION.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time in Wimbledons long history the British women's singles tennis finals found two Americans battling for the title to-day.

Helen Wills, the defending champion, and her fellow-Californian, Helen Jacobs, entered the final round by victories over English opponents in the semi-finals yesterday. Miss Wills dropped only two games in eliminating Elsie Goldsack, 6-2, 6-0, while Miss Jacobs defeated Joan Ridley, 6-2, 6-2.

Although the finals of the men's singles on Saturday will be an all French affair between Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, England still has a chance to win the women's doubles, the mixed doubles and the men's doubles.

In the latter event, Great Britain's representatives in the finals, I. G. Collins and J. C Gregory battle the youthful Americans, Aylmer Allison and John Van Ryn for the championship to-morrow.

The United States has no representative in the women's doubles but Miss Wills and Frank Hunter still remain in the mixed doubles.

AMERICAN WONDER DEFEATS MISS HELEN JACOBS, 6-1, 6-2

Miss Wills Won Six Matches During Course of Tourney Without Losing a Set.

THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR.

Collins and Miss Joan Fry Eliminate Favorites in Mixed Doubles Play.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 5.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Helen Wills, of the United States, to-day reigned supreme as the women's singles champion of the world. She won the title for the third straight year when she defeated her United States' rival, Miss Helen Jacobs, 6-1, 6-2, in the finals of the women's singles in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Miss Wills' record for the tourney is a remarkable one. She won six matches during the course of the tournament without losing a set and only lost 16 games.

In the mixed doubles quarter finals the English team of I. G. Collins and Miss Joan Fry eliminated the favored pair of Henri Cochet, of France and his English partner, Miss Eileen Bennett, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6. Cochet and Miss Bennett were favorites to take the mixed title but they fell before the sterling play of Collins and Miss Fry.

Miss Jacobs started off well against Helen Wills by taking the first game of the first set with the loss of but a single point. Miss Wills took the next six, however, to win the set.

Miss Wills led at 3-0 in the second set before dropping a game. Miss Jacobs, making a brave stand, took the next also, but the champion then ran out the match from 4-2. The rallies were not so long as in the first set. Miss Jacobs was fighting for everything and with match point against her, she beat her great opponent back to the base line with a series of five drives, then shot a swift volley to the deep left corner for the winning point. But Miss Wills was not to be long denied and soon carried the game for the match and championship.

VICTOR.

HELEN WILLS

Conscience Bothers Man So He Surrenders To Police

HAMILTON, Ont., July 5.—James Mort, a realtor here, surrendered to police yesterday and confessed, according to the officers, that he was guilty of theft and conversion.

There were no complaints against the man, but after details of this operations had been supplied, he was placed under arrest charged with theft of about $1,200.

"I plead guilty and elect to be tried by you," Mort said, when arraigned and informed the magistrate that he wanted to "get it over quickly."

BROWNS MAY HAVE ANOTHER MANAGER

St. Louis Newspaper Says Dan Howley Will Not Pilot Team Next Year.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 5.—(C.P.)—The Globe Democrat says to-day that Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, in third place in the American League pennant chase, will not be back next year. The paper says a squabble between Howley and L. C. McEvoy, vice-president of the club, is responsible.

According to Howley, the newspaper says McEvoy has been giving orders as to what players should be used and Howley claims Phil Ball, president of the club, is the only one to give orders and it was so understood when he signed a three year contract which began with the 1927 season.

Ball is said by the paper to take the blame and that McEvoy, in ordering player shifts, was merely acting for him.

SAILING BOAT RACES ON SATURDAY.

"Jamboree," sailed by Doug. Hall and Bruce Fraser of Peterborough, won the open sailing race at South Beach last Saturday. The contest was close, but the masterly sailing of the two local men pushed "Jamboree" over the line in front. Conditions were ideal, time fast, and the course was over a six mile triangle in plain view of the many spectators.

The Challenge trophy for this event is beautifully designed, having a model of a sailing vessel mounted on a column. It was presented to the winner at dinner in the evening in the South Beach Hotel. It was given for competition by Lorne Ardiel, a noted sportsman.

A repetition of the sailing race will be held in the afternoon of July 13, August 10 and August 24, and the competition should be even stronger in these latter races, since the cottagers will be all back at the lakes, and many own fast boats and are expert sailors.

SPECTATOR AT CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY.

J. Percy Bond of this city was one of the few Canadians who watched the thirty-third National Open Golf Championship, played off last week on the Winged Foot course. He brought back with him a souvenir, very elaborate, which minutely describes each hole, and contains a picture of each. Mr. Bond secured some autographs among them being that of Mary W. Jones, wife of Bobby, whose husband was likely too busy winning the championship to take up the pen.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BALL DIAMOND.

Exhibition Park Diamond is one of the best in this part of the province, and is a close rival to James Stevenson Park. The only thing that the South End diamond requires is a score board, and the E.P.L. executive, appreciating this, made plans at the beginning of the season to erect one. As yet one has not been put up, and some fans are still kept guessing at the socre.

The net behind the catching box was also a crying need and it is proving of great service, but a top should be placed on it to prevent the high fouls from landing in the stands.

Nearly all the improvements to the park are directly due to the efforts of the E.P.L., and the executive deserves congratulations.

RAYS DRAWING NEARER LOOP LEADERS.

The Rays are now crowding the Port Hope Ontarios for the leadership of the Lakeshore League, with Oshawa in third place. Cobourg seems to be the weak member of the family and is away down in the cellar. Rays are only one game behind Port Hope, and can easily get ahead, the back half of the schedule only having been played.

The one who drew up the schedule made a poor fist of it, there being long gaps between battles at some stages, and at others the games come thick and fast. Rays don't play again until they entertain Cobourg here on the 10th. But Manager Primeau should keep his athletes in trim by several practises weekly, if the team is to go far.

COLLINS WINS HOMER HONORS.

Lambert Collins, catcher for the Rays, won the bat offered by F. G. Strong of Port Hope, for the first homer in the league. Collins poled out his circuit clout in the first game of the season played in the morning at Oshawa. Several Port Hope players had home runs the same day at Cobourg, but luckily that game was played in the afternoon.

LOCKWOOD MOTOR WINS RACE.

It was a Lockwood motor, not a Johnson, as first reported, that drove young "Bunny" Waddell's boat, Bass Bug, first over the finishing line in the Class A race for sea fleas at the water sports program Tuesday afternoon. This youth is another of the very young drivers who have taken to the game and he handled his boat and engine most efficiently to win his first race.

THE GAS OF LIFE

When first man heard of gasoline
He gazed at it askance,
But used it now and then to clean
His coat and vest and pants.
And then in stoves he made it cook
Until one dreadful day
It had an ugly fit and took
The kitchen roof away.

It sepd the roof upon its course
So rapidly and far
That man employed the new found force
To run a motor car,
Which now in quite uncounted hordes
Around the earth are seen—
The most of which of course are Fords—
Because of gasoline.

To-day man dashes through the air
And ploughs the rolling main
Or scorches down the thoroughfare
Or treks across the plain
A rage for travelling is his.
Which nothing can assuage,
And all because the present is
The gasolinian age.

The Greek and Roman had their day
As did the ancient Druid
Because they did not know the way
To use this potent fluid.
While lucky folks like me and you
Still journey on and on.
But ah! whatever shall we do
When gasoline is gone?

HONOR IS PAID BY TORONTO TO SALVATION OFFICER

Major McElhiney is Given Desk Set—Tribute by Major

TORONTO, July 5.—In tribute to the services rendered the City of Toronto by Major J. A. McElhiney as a member of the local board of the Mothers' Allowances Commission, Mayor McBride, before the orders of the day were called at the Council meeting yesterday, presented the Salvation Army officer with a desk set as coming from the citizens of Toronto. Major McElhiney has been transferred from the Toronto Headquarters Staff of the Salvation Army to the City of Montreal, where he has been placed in charge of the social service operations of the Army in that city.

"Many in this city owed their real start in life to you," Mayor McBride told Major McElhiney, in making the presentation.

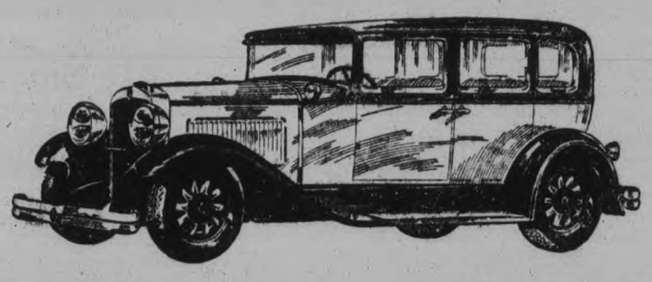
Leads the World in Motor Car Value



This is the Sedan you will buy, if you Compare in the $1300 Field

WE will not need to urge you to buy the Nash "400" Standard Six Sedan if you only compare it to other Sedans in its field.

First of all, it is a Nash, built in the traditional Nash manner, with precision workmanship in every part.

And second, it is a Nash "400", and that means something in today's line-up of motor cars.

It means more powerful, more durable, more enjoyable motor performance. The engine in this sedan is a new high compression type with 7 bearings instead of 3 or 4, with aluminum alloy (Invar strut) pistons instead of cast iron pistons, and with full pressure lubrication to every single bearing point. Even the connecting rods in this Nash engine are rifle drilled, to supply oil under pressure up to the wrist pin bearings.

Other "400" features which this car brings to you are the world's easiest steering—a luxury and refinement of interior decoration far beyond expectation at its price—size and capacity for five full grown passengers—riding ease attained by alloy steel springs individually designed for its size and weight, plus outboard mounted, Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

And finally, no extra charge for bumpers, front and rear, Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, spare tire lock and tire cover. The factory price includes everything except a spare tire—there's none of these other items, customarily charged for as "extras" at retail prices, to pay for, when you buy the Nash "400"!

RICHARD BARTHELMESS IN "WEARY RIVER."

Taken from a little verse of Swinburne's, from "The Garden of Proserpine,"—"and somewhere the weariest river winds endless to the sea." — this picture features the very likeable dark young man, Richard Barthelmess. He is the crook who takes a turn in the "big house," and meets the warden, who induces him to go straight and reforms him through his love of music. Jerry Larrabee composes a song while in prison and calls it "Weary River," and he sings it in a heart-melting manner, during a concert broadcasted from the prison by convict musicians. Later, when a pardon comes, he gets a vaudeville engagement, but a chance remark from a catty woman, who still regards him as a convict, breaks his spirit, and he flops dismally. Then he drifts back to his old companions and everything is set for a big haul.

However, Fate, in the person of the warden of the prison, has sown good seed in the mind of the girl, Alice (Betty Compson), who loves Jerry, and she takes the attitude that brings him back to the straight and narrow, once again.

It is an interesting picture, but Barthelmess doesn't make a good crook. He acts against the grain, straight through, just as the girl, with her crooked mouth, does some splendid work in her role. Her portrayal of the emotion-ridden woman in one of the final acts, as she pleads with her lover to go straight, is superb. But Barthelmess doesn't make a good "bad" man. As for his singing, you will like it immensely. Whether he sings or someone else, what does it matter. It is a fine voice anyway and "Weary River" is beautifully synchronized. The first song gives the show away.

William Holden has a wonderful part as the warden, and Louis Nathaneaux makes a convincing racketeer, in the role of Spadoni.

The picture affords a curious little insight into the mentality of the boastful crook who waits for his gangster rival to come and take him "for a ride," rather than play safe and avoid the shooting which inevitably follows.

This picture, too, has an odd interlude of dumbness in the scene where the saloon interposes itself and the characters resort to the old-time subtitle to make themselves plain. The speaking ceases altogether for some time. It comes suddenly and seems rather awkward.—Jeanette.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South passing, West bids one Heart, holding the minimum high-card strength justifying an original four-card suit bid by Declarer or Second Hand when without side support. North bids one Spade defensively. Had West passed, North must also have passed, because lack- ; the three Quick Tricks essential for an orginal Third Hand bid, when the Quick Tricks are distributed in but two suits. East, with better than six Probable Tricks in support of a Heart trump, gives one of his assists, bidding two Hearts. South, holding four Probable Tricks with Spades the trump, bids two Spades. West and North passing, East now bids three Hearts, concluding the bidding. Had West not opened the bidding the hand would in all probability have been passed out, as neither North nor East had sound original bids in their respective positions.

The Play

North opens the King of Spades and shifts to the Jack of Hearts (trumps) because of the singleton Spade held by Dummy. West, winning, leads a Club to start the establishment of Dummy's suit. South wins with the Queen over Dummy's Jack. To prevent the bringing in of Dummy's Clubs if possible and thus prevent the Declarer from obtaining any discards upon them, South now leads the 8 of Diamonds, hoping to drive out one of Dummy's Diamond entries. While this lead directly up to the Ace-Queen is unusual, it is in this case simply anticipatory of a play which Declarer evidently must make later unless himself holding the King of Diamonds. If holding the King of Diamonds, it would apparently be unnecessary for the Declarer to ; tempt the establishment of the Club suit.

West covers the 8 of Diamonds with the 9, North plays the King, and Declarer wins with Dummy's Ace. Before leading another Club for its establishment, Declarer takes a round of trumps to determine the trump situation if able. North shows out and South is marked with the 10 and a small trump remaining.

Declarer now leads a Club. South takes the trick and leads the 10 of Diamonds hoping to force Dummy's Queen. But Declarer wins with the Jack, leaving the Queen still in Dummy's hand available for an entry. Declarer leads a Spade and ruffs it with Dummy's 9 of Hearts. Then leading Dummy's 7 of Hearts Declarer finesses the 8, draws South's 10 and, putting Dummy in with the Queen of Diamonds, takes the last two tricks with Dummy's established Clubs, making four odd on the hand.

Madoc

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, July 4. — The annual church parade of Madoc L. O. L., No. 160 was held on Sunday at 11 a. m. to Trinity United church. Rev. G. W. Revers, B. A., B. D. preaching the sermon.

The parade arrived punctually at the church with Duncan MacKenzie, W. M. in charge. In the parade was D. E. K. Stewart, who though 85 years old, enjoys to the full the annual church parade.

The order of service was supplied to all the members of the Order and to the members of the congregation.

Rev. G. W. Revers chose as his text, I. Peter ii., 17: "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King." These precepts concern Brotherhood, Religion and Patriotism, which are well exemplified in the Loyal Orange Order. Rev. Mr. Revers gave an excellent address to the members present, and exhorted all to live up to their ideals of Religious Liberty, Protestant Faith, Patriotism and Brotherhood. Mrs. W. Hulin gave an excellent solo, "I Will not Fear While Jesus Holds My Hand."

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white peonies and the Canadian flag.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South passing, West bids one Heart, holding the minimum high-card strength justifying an original four-card suit bid by Declarer or Second Hand when without side support. North bids one Spade defensively. Had West passed, North must also have passed, because lacking the three Quick Tricks essential for an orginal Third Hand bid, when the Quick Tricks are distributed in but two suits. East, with better than six Probable Tricks in support of a Heart trump, gives one of his assists, bidding two Hearts. South, holding four Probable Tricks with Spades the trump, bids two Spades. West and North passing, East now bids three Hearts, concluding the bidding. Had West not opened the bidding the hand would in all probability have been passed out, as neither North nor East had sound original bids in their respective positions.

The Play

North opens the King of Spades and shifts to the Jack of Hearts (trumps) because of the singleton Spade held by Dummy. West, winning, leads a Club to start the establishment of Dummy's suit. South wins with the Queen over Dummy's Jack. To prevent the bringing in of Dummy's Clubs if possible and thus prevent the Declarer from obtaining any discards upon them, South now leads the 8 of Diamonds, hoping to drive out one of Dummy's Diamond entries. While this lead directly up to the Ace-Queen is unusual, it is in this case simply anticipatory of a play which Declarer evidently must make later unless himself holding the King of Diamonds. If holding the King of Diamonds, it would apparently be unnecessary for the Declarer to attempt the establishment of the Club suit.

West covers the 8 of Diamonds with the 9, North plays the King, and Declarer wins with Dummy's Ace. Before leading another Club for its establishment, Declarer takes a round of trumps to determine the trump situation if able. North shows out and South is marked with the 10 and a small trump remaining.

Declarer now leads a Club. South takes the trick and leads the 10 of Diamonds hoping to force Dummy's Queen. But Declarer wins with the Jack, leaving the Queen still in Dummy's hand available for an entry. Declarer leads a Spade and ruffs it with Dummy's 9 of Hearts. Then leading Dummy's 7 of Hearts, Declarer finesses the 8, draws South's 10 and, putting Dummy in with the Queen of Diamonds, takes the last two tricks with Dummy's established Clubs, making four odd on the hand.

Madoc

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, July 4. — The annual church parade of Madoc L. O. L., No. 160 was held on Sunday at 11 a. m. to Trinity United church. Rev. G. W. Revers, B. A., B. D. preaching the sermon.

The order of service was supplied to all the members of the Order and to the members of the congregation.

Rev. G. W. Revers chose as his text, I. Peter ii., 17: "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King." These precepts concern Brotherhood, Religion and Patriotism, which are well exemplified in the Loyal Orange Order. Rev. Mr. Revers gave an excellent address to the members present, and exhorted all to live up to their ideals of Religious Liberty, Protestant Faith, Patriotism and Brotherhood. Mrs. W. Hulin gave an excellent solo, "I Will not Fear While Jesus Holds My Hand."

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white peonies and the Canadian flag.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

OYEZ! OYEZ! OYEZ!

You ain't heard nothin' yet.

Last night was a washout compared with to-night. Ever hear of a hard time parade? Well look in your attic—in the wardrobes, down cellar behind the furnace or anywhere—scare up your torn and tattered garments and be at Confederation Square at 10.30 for the hottest, whoopiest, snappiest and funniest walk since Noah loaded the Ark. The entry fee is nothing, but the result will be plenty of laughter, with satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. In this parade the costumer is always right, and if you can get any worn out trousers or torn coats. "Ask any man who owns one"—and you wil see that—"When better parades are organized Peterborough will build them." This is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so be sure and be in the parade with all the firecrackers, noisemakers and funny hats you can beg, borrow or steal. Here's some advice—"If you have no old clothes—visit your neighbor's clothes line, anything goes folks!

CLEAR RAILWAY LINE

The wrecking crew from Havelock later assisted by an aditional crew from Toronto had the C.P.R. line cleared for traffic late yesterday afternoon, at the scene of the smash up at the Canal bridge. The afternoon train for Toronto was only held up for half an hour while all the night trains caught up on the schedule and the freight traffic moved on its usual time.

"MAKING WHOOPEE"

In the late hours of last night and the early hours of this morning George street was one loud crash after another as fireworks, torpedoes and salutes were touched off. "Holy smoke", one of our visitors from Uncle Sam's country was heard to remark, "This is good, just like our own glorious fourth that they are celebrating in the States today." Hats, noisemakers, confetti and whatnots made last evening's celebration after shirt tail parade a real Old Home Week affair.

SILENT POLICEMAN.

Peterborough had at least one silent policeman who took up his duty shortly after midnight in the middle of the intersection of Hunter and Water street. A cigar store figure with a hand full of cigars becoming infected with the carnival spirit relinquished his post that he silently held for so many years in front of a Hunter street shop and nonchalantly regulated traffic as the above intersection for some time in this usual sombre dress until some one presented him with a hat and decorated up his clothes in festive style.

TWO FIRE CALLS.

Smoke in Hall's foundry at 8.05 p.m. last evening gave the firemen a short run but no damage resulted. Another run was caused by some over-zealous celebrators of Old Home Week at 1.17 this morning on Charlotte street near Aylmer, when a wagon of hay used on previous occasions caught fire. The merry blaze was soon extinguished by the firemen.

ONE CHILD IS KILLED ON GLORIOUS FOURTH

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 5. (C.P.) One child is dead and more than 75 persons were treated for burns and lacerations in the Metropolitan district yesterday as an aftermath of "Safe and Sane" Fourth of July celebrations. As many more were hurt by blank cartridge pistols as by firecrackers.

Eleanor Pfarr, 7, is the casualty listed. She was playing with fireworks in front of her home in Queen's, when her dress caught fire. She died later in a hospital.

In Jersey City, where fire crackers are banned, 12 urchins said it with dynamite. Nobody was hurt, but a pane of glass in the saloon of Frank Kostra was shattered. A big hole in the side walk was another memento of the explosion which sent detectives hurrying from police headquarters on an investigation.

GREAT BRITAIN IS PLANNING ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT THROUGHOUT WHOLE COUNTRY

Canadians Visiting the Mother Country Will Find Big Change in Electrical Equipment.

CENTRES AT BEDFORD.

Great Industrial Centres Are Being Linked Up—$167,500,000 To Be Spent.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, July 6. — The old land is planning to do it electrically.

Canadians who in these tourist days, visit the ancient borough of Bedford, will see an unusual, yet to them, an oddly familiar scene. A few years ago Bedford slept in its traditions. It was in Bedford that John Bunyan heard the heavenly voice of menace that forbade him to dance on the village green. In the county jail of Bedford he wrote of Christian's pilgrimage to the Celestial City.

From Bedford to-day a line of steel transmission towers run out for fifty miles, looking curiously familiar in the English scene yet to the Canadian reminiscent of the great hydro development schemes at home. And they are the first line, this line of towers from Bedford, in the south-east of England section of the great "grid" system of national electrical transmission lines which eventually will traverse England from Cornwall to the coast of Kent, will cover in their network the great industrial districts of the Midlands and the north, will cross into the mining districts of South Wales, will pass by Berwick to Edinburgh, by Dumfries to Glasgow, and will end in a hydro station in the heart of the Scottish Grampians. It is a scheme which will probably take six years to bring fully into effect.

The Central Electricity Board created by parliament as the executive body, has been authorized to borrow up to $167,500,000, for construction and other works. The chairman of the central electricity board is Sir Andrew Duncan, who was chairman of the Canadian commission which reported on Maritime rights.

The first step harks back to 1919 when, under the Electricity Supply Act, the Minister of Transport was authorized to appoint an electricity commission of five members. Their duties were to promote, regulate and supervise the supply of electricity in Great Britain. The main object of this act was to secure a reorganization of the generation of electricity on a voluntary basis under schemes

Ten Are Overcome By Gas In New T.T.C. Ferry Boat

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—(Canadian Press)—Nine girls and one man were overcome by gas fumes from the Toronto Transportation committee sightseeing boat when it landed at the ferry dock, foot of Bay street last night. They were taken to hospital in a police ambulance to receive treatment, after which all were able to go to their homes, excepting two girls who were detained until to-day. None of them was seriously affected.

The boat has but recently been installed by the T.T.C. for taking tourists and sightseers on trips around the bay.

GIANT PLANE STILL SILENT

Thought To Be Down At Great Whale Waiting Favorable Weather.

NO ANXIETY YET.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6 (Canadian Press).—No word had been received up to 10.30 o'clock this morning from the crew of the giant Sikorski amphibian Sesquin plane "Untin" Bowler, thought to be down at Great Whale awaiting favorable weather before proceeding on its flight over the "top of the world" to Europe.

The government radio operator at Port Burwell on the Hudson Straits reported this morning that he had not heard the machine's wireless. His weather report flashed every other hour for the benefit of the flyers, indicated unfavorable flying conditions around Burwell. Fog hung over the water and visibility was restricted to half a mile. The wind was southwest and blowing at twelve miles an hour. Ice conditions in the harbor could not be observed owing to the fog.

Without diving suits the best divers can remain under water about one and one-third minutes. With a diver's suit the diver is able to work under water from five to six hours.

FLYERS FROM CHICAGO TO GERMANY

The "Untin" Bowler, Chicago Tribune amphibian plane, bound for Berlin, Germany, via overland Arctic ruote, hopped off from Remi Lake, near Cochrane, Ontario, on July 4. Since Thursday the plane has not been definitely reported but is thought to be down at Great Whale Lake waiting favorable weather. The first of letters the plane carries will be delivered at Cape Chidley. The photographs here, taken at Remi Lake, show, TOP LEFT to RIGHT, Bob Gast, pilot; Air Editor Wood of Chicago Tribune, and "Shorty" Cramer, co-pilot, standing before the "Untin" Bowler prior to take off, and, BOTTOM, the "Untin" Bowler takes off from Remi Lake for long Arctic trek.

3,000 ENTRANTS WILL COMPETE AT BISLEY MEET

Qualifying Rounds For King's Prize Will Be Shot Off July 17 and 19.

FINAL JULY 20.

Canada Is Represented By One of the Strongest Teams in History.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 6—(By Thos T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—With 3,000 expert marksmen present from all parts of the empire, everything is complete for the opening on Monday of the great meeting of the National Rifle Association. After months of labor the comprehensive programe has been completed, providing matches for all types of small arms—revolvers, miniature rifles, sporting guns, service rifles, match rifles and Lewis guns.

The great individual prize is of course the King's Prize, to be decided as usual in three stages. The qualifying round will be shot over the 200, 500 and 600 yard ranges on July 17, the second stage over the 300 500 and 600 yard ranges on July 17, the second stage over the 300 500 and 600 yard ranges on July 19 and the final stage over the long-distance 2,900 and 1,000 yards on the meet's closing day, July 20. The competition provides a real test of marksmanship over short and long ranges the aggregate scores in the second and third stages determining the winner. Canada has captured the prize five times, the last occasion being the victory in 1924 of Lieut Desmond Burke of Ottawa, Burke has twice since lost the prize by a very slight margin, last year being only three points behind the winner, Lance-Corporal A. C. Hale of Birmingham.

The only anxiety concerns the weather. Following heavy rains the board ranges have been swept by heavy winds reaching a velocity of sixty miles an hour. Conditions today were slightly better but the ground is hardly in the best of condition and any strong winds add considerably to the uncertainties of competition.

Canadians Are Strong

Canada's team, a happy blending of veteran shots with promising newcomers, is perhaps one of the strongest of the overseas contingents. Others are gathered from India, the Channel Islands, the Falkland Islands, Trinidad, Ceylon, the Malay States, the Gold Coast, China, Tanganyika, the Straits Settlements, Nigeria, the Sudan, Uganda and Kenya—all the far corners of the empire. Never in all its 66 years has the meeting been such a representative imperial gathering. The only regret is that Australia is not again represented.

The Canadians will largely confine themselves to practice in the first week, taking part only in the occasional competition. Intensive Dominion's Seaplane Sinks in Lake St. Joseph in Northern Ontario.

MAN IS DROWNED.

Ottawa Despatches Pilot in Another Plane To Scene of Disaster.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6. (C.P.) — The treaty flight airplane of the Dominion government, flown by Flying Officer R. Kingsley Rose, Royal Canadian Air Force, crashed at Osnaburgk House, on Lake St. Joseph, in Northern Ontario, at 7.30 o'clock last night, according to word received by headquarters here.

A man by the name of Morrison was drowned when the seaplane sank into a lake, it is understood. Flying Officer Rose of Ottawa, was slightly injured, but his mechanic, leading aircraftsman John Shaw, escaped injury.

Delivered Two Weeks Ago

The plane, a Fairchild "71", delivered a couple of weeks ago from Farmingale, N.Y., to the Dominion government, was being employed on a treaty flight to the scattered Indian settlements in the Patricia district of northern Ontario.

On the expedition are H. M. Awrey of the Department of Indian Affairs, and a motion picture photographer named Rutherford, from the Ontario Government motion picture bureau.

The purpose of the flight was to cover the various Indian settlements in as short a time as possible and to arrange for the allotment of land to the Aborigines and for the payment of treaty money by the government.

Members of the party not with the plane at the time of the crash are thought to be marooned at Whitslake, some distance north of Lake St. Joseph on which Osnaburgh House is situated. They have with them a light plane and eight gallons of gasoline, it is understood.

No information is available concerning the man Morrison who was killed, but it is thought he must have been a guide picked up in the country

CANADIAN SCULLER IS BEATEN BY OLYMPIC SEMI-FINALIST IN FINAL OF DIAMOND SCULLS

MOST THRILLING RACE.

Time Was Eighteen Seconds Slower Than That Which Wright Made Last Year.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 6 (Canadian Press Cable). — The strong driving finish that carried Joe Wright of Toronto through his quarter-final and semi-final races failed him in the final to-day, and the Canadian lost the Diamond Sculls he had won last year, to L. Gunther of Holland, by a yard. The time was eight minutes 42 seconds.

Gunther after leading throughout began to tire in the last part of the race, and the Canadian, himself beginning to feel the effects of the struggle, set out to overhaul him as he had done successfully with his clubmate, Jack Guest, and F. Bradley of Cambridge.

The time was 18 seconds slower than in last year's final when Wright took the Diamond Sculls away from R T. Lee, of Eton Vikings.

Wright went into the final to-day after hard races against his clubmate, Jack Guest, in the quarter finals, and F. Bradley of Cambridge in the semi-final. Gunther defeated Lee in the quarter-final and Viscount Tiverton in the semi-final.

Holland's Streng Man

The new Diamond Sculls holder is the strongest man Holland has sent to Henley since Fyken won the sculls in 1921. He went as far as the semi-final of the single sculls championship of last year's Olympic games, losing then to Ken Myers of the United tSates.

The time was 32 seconds slower than the record held by F. S. Kelly of London, 8 minutes 10 seconds.

The final was a most thrilling race. E. Pitman, chairman of the regatta, umpired and Jack Guest was given a front seat in the umpire's launch.

Wright sculled 35 against Gunther's 37½ strokes in the first minute. They raced level up to the island and were still level at the quarter

CANADIAN SETS HEIGHT RECORD

Adds 2,000 Feet To Record Established Last Year in Moth Plane.

WILL TRY AGAIN.

MONTREAL, Que., July 6 (C.P.).—Canadian aviation history was made here yesterday when Captain J. D. Parkinson, of the Curtiss-Reid Flying Services, Limited, took a Curtiss Robin monoplane, powered with a 150 horsepower Challenger motor to an official height of 20,000 feet, breaking the former Canadian record of 18,000 established last year by Captain Leigh Capreol, of the De Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Limited, in a moth machine.

Captain Parkinson's altitude was recorded on a sealed barograph, calibrated and set by Stuart Graham, Inspector of Civil Aviation at Ottawa.

In view of the much higher altitudes reached in other countries, the aviator did not expect his new Canadian mark to last long. He would be ready, however, to make another attempt as soon as some other broke the 20,000 figure.

Captain Parkinson, an Englishman, learned to fly in 1917 and saw service in France the following year. Civil aviation claimed him and he flew for some time with the Berkshire Aviation Company and was later chief instructor at the Newcastle Aero Club.

Four Policemen Required To Take Man To Station

BOSTON, Mass., July 6. (C.P.) — Alex. McLeod, a big boy from the wide open spaces of the Hudson Bay country, has been released by the police because the 100-pound cake of ice which the police allege he stole on the 4th, melted durin gthe night, and there was no evidence against him.

Alex., too big to go into the patrol, required four policemen to escort him to the station. His size required his removal to the House of Detention, where he was given the most commodious cell.

"HARD TIME" PARADE DRAWS LARGE CROWD DOWN TOWN

Main Streets Are Thronged With Merriment Makers and Watchers.

HUNDREDS IN COSTUME.

Everyone Enjoys Big Night Which is Closed With Dance in Armouries.

With all the pent up pep of a week of celebration being thrown into one of the last final big efforts to make whoopee enough to last for a year, the Peterborough citizens staged their "Hard Time" dance through the main streets of the city last night.

And one big line up of fun it was, hundreds of costumes of every description, mostly that couldn't be described, and some that had been prescribed, wound their blaring way in one huge snaky line amidst waving flags, while banjoes, trumpets and kazoos, kept time, to a thousand different steps. Committees had gotten their heads together, and the result was another grand occasion that helped send Old Boys and girls home with memories that they will not forget in a long, long time, and showed them that their old town is equal to anything when it comes to planning a real night of "whoopee."

As on former nights, the crowd expecting a real treat, started to gather about 9.30 o'clock along the main drag, to see the rest of their fellow citizens have a regular evening in which they could get away with just whatever came to their minds—and they saw them do it.

Night Before Outdone

Outding the foregoing chapter of the night before, costumes were even more ridiculous—if they could be, hundreds more were in the parade, thousands more steps were invented, or borrowed from the heathen, or Redmen, and it seemed, a million more noises were added to the spectacle. Firecracker salutes did their part, and surely made their bow, only to shatter to many fragments with a roar that was pleasing for

ESCAPED YOUTHS CAPTURED AGAIN

Tired and Wet, Offered No Resistance As Officers Approached.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.— (Canadian Press). — John Andrews and Thomas Finnessy, the two young prisoners who made their escape from the Carleton County Jail here on Thursday, were captured to-day without a struggle as they sat wet, tired and dejected on a bench on "Lovers Walk," at Parliament Hill.

City Police and detectives trailed the pair to their resting place and approached them from the opposite directions, covering them with their guns and telling them not to move. They did not move until they were marched to the waiting patrol wagon, and taken to the police station.

They had succeeded in exchanging their prison garb for other clothing, but neither had a hat or cap or any kind. They were soaked through after having been out in a thunderstorm and pouring rain which fell during the greater part of the night.

Colorful Mardi Gras Parade Will Close Peterborough's Old Home Week To-Night.

Oyez! Oyez! List Ye! All good citizens and old boys of the burg of Peterborough! The last chapter in the great Old Home Week celebrations is on the carpet for to-night. Everyone is invited to participate and make this grand finale the biggest event of the whole big week.

Scenes that will rival old Venice will be visible on the streets to-night when the colorful Mardi Gras parade winds itself up the main stem.

The parade committee has extended itself to make this the crowning smash, but the support of every citizen is needed to put it over. All are requested to wear some kind of costume, old clothes, pyjamas—anything will do. The services of several bands has been secured, but the happy revellers should arm themselves with noise makers of all descriptions, confetti, streamers and other ammunition to make this a memorable event. Torches and sparkles would sure put a glimmer in the proceedings.

The queen of the Mardi Gras, all dressed in Oriental splendour will be born through the streets on her rich palanquin and she will be attended by four beautiful girls, also in eastern garb. The Queen will officially declare Old Home Week over before all her people at twelve o'clock in front of Confederation Square.

Old Home Week is on its last lap and everyone is requested to get out and put a dash of pep into these last proceedings. This is the last opportunity for citizens to cut loose, make whoopee and still stay out of jail.

The parade will form up on George Street opposite the George street wharf and will proceed north on George to Murray street, east on Murray to Water, north on Water to McDonnel and west on McDonnel to George, to finish up on George street opposite the Memorial.

Let's go, and bring your own supply of ammunition, and get dressed up!

(C.P.) — British merchants are planning a visit to the Dominion en masse, arranging their schedules so that the combined business and pleasure tour will coincide with the celebration of Empire Year at the Canadian National Exhibition. Information just received by C.N.E. officials from Stanley F. Talbot, general secretary of the Incorporated Sales Managers' Association of the United Kingdom, gives details of the trip.

It was the Prince of Wales, always one of the Dominion's most enthusiastic an doutspoken supporters, who gave the business men of Great Britain the idea. More than a year ago he urged that such tours be undertaken both by individuals and groups.

"Canada, as I see her to-day," he stated in one address, "as all of us must see her, is on the threshold of one of the most astonishing eras of expansion and development the world has ever known."

Three Children Are Missing For Two Days

LIVERPOOL, N. S., July 6.—(C.P.)— Bloodhounds were called into use to-day in an attempt to find some trace of the three Milton children who disappeared in the woods back of that village two days ago, and for whom a continuous search by two hundred men had proved unsuccessful.

Hope for the finding alive of Hazel Hall, aged 7, Doris Martin, aged 5, and her four year old sister, Mildred, has been practically abandoned. More than fifty hours has gone by since the little girls went together on Thursday morning to play in the edge of a forest that stretches for a hundred miles without dwelling.

WITNESSES DESCRIBE ASSAULT AT THORNCLIFFE RACING TRACK

Two Conflicting Stories Are Told Concerning Scrap On June 1.

BOTH CHARGE ASSAULT.

Case is Continuing in York County Court To-day Before Judge Denton.

TORONTO, Ont., July 6 (Canadian Press).—Two conflicting stories concerning the fracas at Thorncliffe Park Race Track last June 1, in which Strathearn B. Thomson, editor of a local weekly, was alleged to have been assaulted, were unfolded in the County Court Judges' Criminal Court here yesterday before Judge Denton.

Defence counsel for John Bosley, Jr., Baltimore, Allan Case and Harry B. Johnston, both of Toronto, charged by Thomson with assault, maintained that plaintiff struck at Case, whereupon Bosley intervened only to be struck by Thomson.

Bosley then hit back at the plaintiff, and the two continued to fight. Bosley fell during the melee and Thomson either fell or jumped on him and then tried to choke him. Johnston endeavored to reach Thomson, but was held back by others nearby and that he therefor struck plaintiff with his cane. Defence counsel said that Case never struck a blow, neither did he kick Thomson as alleged.

Evidence Supported.

Thomson's evidence, supported by that of Robert B. Harris, newspaper publisher of Hamilton, and other Crown witnesses, was to the effect that Thomson was called foul names and punched by Bosley on the nose, and that Johnston and Case then joined in the attack. Plaintiff maintained that Case kicked him in the groin and that Johnston hit nim with a cane.

According to Thomson, Bosley had told him the day before that he might be "bumped off." Further plaintiff said, Case during a telephone conversation asked him to "lay off" certain articles and cartoons in the weekly edited by Thomson, or "we will soon stop you."

These conversations were also denied by defence counsel as well as words said to have been used by Johnston after the affair.

Testimony of Dr. C. E. McLean was another feature of the trial. The witness informed the Court that while dressing a cut in Thomson's scalp the plaintiff had said "something about making it look good making a case out of it," and had asked him to put a number of stitches in the wound. There was only room for two stitches, Dr. McLean said. Thomson had not complained to him of any kick in the groin when calling for medical attention the first time, witness said, but he had mentioned the hurt later.

The trial will proceed to-day.

TORONTO, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—Slow drivers who menace traffic on the streets and highways are being checked up these days as closely as the speed fiends.

At St. Catharines Andrew Wallace, village clerk of Port Dalhousie, was held to blame for an accident there. Magistrate James H. He was charged with reckless driving and after a warning to Wallace the case was dismissed.

MODERATOR SPEAKS AT KEENE CHURCH

Rev. Dr. William Gunn Preaches at Both Services in United Church.

KEENE, July 6.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— Large congregations attended the anniversary services of the United church, Keene, last Sunday morning and evening to hear the moderator of the United Church of Canada, Rev. Dr. William T. Gunn. Dr. Gunn is an old Keene boy and his return to his birthplace was the signal for many of his chums to renew old friendships.

Dr. Gunn delivered a fine sermon in the morning and in the evening spoke on the question of church union. Dr. Gunn was a former Congregationalist, but before that he was a member of both the former Methodist and Presbyterian churches at Keene.

Dr. Gunn in the course of his address said it was very hard to leave one's former church, but on the other hand all these three great churches, the former Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist, were all working toward the one great goal and why not work together.

Dr. Gunn has just recently returned to Canada from a visit to nearly all the Protestant churches in England, Scotland and Wales, where he outlined the plan of the United Church of Canada to them. These great churches over in the Old Land are looking forward to a union of their churches and toward th is end also over one thousand pilgrims came to Canada recently with Dr. Gunn to get first-hand information on this question.

The choir, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Bryce, sang some fine anthems, also a beautiful mixed quartette contributed to the program. The choir was assisted by Mrs. C. H. Byers of Oakville, whose two solos were beautiful. Mrs. Byers is a former Keene girl, and it is always a delight to hear her sing. Mrs. David Edwards presided at the organ. The solo parts in the anthem were taken by Miss M. Bryce and D. D. Brown.

Picnic Held.

In honour of Dr. Gunn and his family, a community picnic was held at the Serpent Mounds on Monday afternoon. The motor boat bringing Dr. Gunn down the river and up the lake to the point, stalled when south of Sugar Island and not even the coaxings of Dr. Gunn could make it go. A passing canoeist brought Dr. Gunn back to Keene and from there arrived at the Point by car.

Reeve Morley Smithson, in welcoming Dr. Gunn on behalf of the Township of Otonabee, said that although everyone could not see eye to eye in regard to the churches, nevertheless it was a great honor to have a Keene boy as Moderator of the great churches in Canada.

Rev. Mr. McDonald, of Knox church, Peterborough, and chairman of the Peterborough Presbytry, welcomed Dr. Gunn on behalf of the Presbytery. Rev. Mr. McDonald, when he heard that Dr. Gunn was coming to Keene, decided to bring his old school teacher, so Miss McDougall, who taught Dr. Gunn when a boy in Keene, was present to renew acquaintances. Dr. Gunn in replying said that he thought Rev. Mr. McNeely, who by the way was master of ceremonies, had made too much of his visit, but just the same he was very glad to come back to Keene. Continuing, Dr. Gunn said that although it was an honor to be Moderator, it was not just a personal honour to him, but also the fact that the United Church of Canada was striving to do bigger things than ever before.

During the afternoon there were sports for both old and young, besides softball games.

DETROIT, Mich., July 6.—(C.P.)—The triple blockade of the United States' border patrol, coast guard and prohibition units opposite the export docks at Amherstburg, which has balked attempts of 18 rum boats to bring liquor to this side illicitly, has caused four vessels to dump their cargoes.

Government officials stated that more than 3,000 cases of liquor were thrown overboard yesterday by the rum runners who were hemmed in between Canadian customs regulations preventing their return to the Canadian side after they had cleared, and the United States' customs blocking the unlawful transportation of loquor to this side.

The paper made in one year would make a path a mile wide all the way around the world.

THE full-size Chrysler-built Plymouth is just a year old—and what a phenomenal year of success it has had!

All this week we are celebrating the first Plymouth anniversary by holding a gala showing of the newly-refined and improved models which make today's Plymouth still more outstanding in the low-priced field.

When a car in its first year becomes the giant Plymouth is—when it wins the popularity that Plymouth enjoys—when thousands upon thousands of owners sing its praises and exhibit it to their friends with genuine pride—that car certainly must have merits that no other car in its class possesses.

That, in essence, is the story of the Chrysler-built Plymouth.

Plymouth is the only full-size motor car at anywhere near the price—the only low-priced car with the individuality and style of Chrysler designing—the only low-priced car with the smooth, flexible, quiet liveliness so typical of Chrysler engineering—the only low-priced car with the safety of Chrysler-famed four-wheel hydraulic brakes, internal-expanding, weatherproof, positive, noiseless.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

TO those who have imagination and faith, one of the most fascinating things about prayer is that you never can tell what wonders are going to come out of it. If the reader will take a copy of the Word of God and sit down quietly before the record as set forth in the Acts of the Apostles, his praying ability will be both challenged and stimulated. When Peter and John went up together into the temple at the hour of prayer, little did they dream what the outcome of that prayer-pilgrimage was going to be. Lying across their path was a case of need which made an appeal to their sympathy and sent surging through their souls the life-giving breath of supplication.

Not Gold But God!

Here was a man who asked for lucre and what he needed was life. It was not silver and gold that he needed most, but strength and grace. Lame from his birth, he seemed to have had no ambition for anything higher than the life of a beggar. But when he met two men of God who knew the power of prayer in their own experience he discovered himself to be on the edge of the most wonderful life imaginable!

Keep me from turning back:
My hand is on the plow, my faltering hand,
But all in front of me is untilled land,
The wilderness and solitary place,
The lonely desert and its interspace.
What harvest have I, but this paltry grain,
These dwindling husks? My courage is outworn,
Keep me from turning back!
The handles of my plow with tears are wet,
The shares with rust are spoiled, and yet
—and yet
My God! My God! Keep me from turning back.

More Than Forty Years Of Age.

I wonder if we have yet understood all that is implied in these words: "The man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was showed"? Had this man despaired of ever being anything different? Had he seen nothing better than the life of a beggar? Did his friends see nothing better ahead of him than the sort of life he had lived for so many years? What can be looked for from a life that has run more than forty years of its course? These are the questionings of a pessimistic heart. The facts of life clearly show that many of life's greatest accomplishments lie well beyond a fortieth birthday.

Refuse To Think Yourself Old!

One whose authority is beyond all doubt has said: "It is well known that the most efficient and productive years of the life of a business or professional man are after he passes forty." The late Sir W. Robertson Nicoll wrote these words: "At no point of his life should a man despair. At any point of his life . . . the best of his days may be before him." "The man was above forty years old on whom this miracle of healing was shewed." And for him the best of his life came after that miracle!

To live for Jesus or for Him to die,—
Is this your life?
To bear the daily, hourly tasks that come,
The little worries that afflict the soul;
To do the things, 'twere easier left undone;
To do them now—and well, for Jesus sake;
Is this your life?

To bear the bitter taunt, the mocking word,
To find your motives never understood;
To long to speak a word for truth's dear sake,
But to find no chance; to see friends hold aloof:
Is this your life?

To labor day by day for others' good,
Yet seem to fail; to lose the trustful hope;
To feel the doubt of even love or faith;
To see things through an ever-darkening mist,
While scarce a glimmering ray can reach the burdened soul—
Is this your life?

This is the life, in part, that Jesus lived;
This, this and more; and will
You shrink the task he sends? It must not be.
To live for Jesus, or for him to die,
Is life in death, but life
Which brings its sure reward on high.

What Others Have Done.

Bunyan wrote the Pilgrim's Progress when he was fifty years of age. Robinson Crusoe was written when the author was fifty-eight. Paradise Lost was written when Milton was fifty-seven. Waverley Novels were written when Scott was well over forty. The Scarlet Letter was written when Hawthorne was nearer fifty than forty. Faust was completed when the writer was eighty-two. The Canterbury Tales were written when the author was sixty. Washington Irving was writing delightfully at seventy-five. Oliver Wendell Holmes declared that he was young at eighty-three. Dryden published his best poems when he was eighty years of age. Wordsworth was made Poet-Laureate when over seventy. The word's greatest picture, "The Last Supper," was painted when the artist was seventy-seven. It is a well-known fact that Michelangelo went to Rome to learn something when he was eighty. William Dean Howels, at eighty-two, produced one of his finest pieces of writing. General Booth toured Africa on a great soul-winning campaign at the tender age of eighty-one! John Wesley was at the height of his eloquence and usefulness when he was eighty-eight. Gladstone was made Prime Minister for the fourth time when he was eighty-three; and when he died at eighty-nine none considered him old. Lyman Abbott at eighty-six was editor of the Outlook. Robert Browning was nearly eighty when he wrote: "Grow old along with me—For the best is yet to be."

Think Of These And Try Again!

The fact is a man has not arrived at his full powers at forty. Many of the world's most distinguished men did not succeed till after forty. At thirty, Henry Ford was unknown; and he was well over forty before fortune and fame began to come his way. Professor Dorland tells us that only four per cent. of the world's greatest work has been accomplished before the age of forty; ten per cent. between sixty and seventy; twenty-one per cent. between seventy and eighty; and six per cent. between eighty and ninety. All of which compares most favorably with four per cent. before forty. If youth takes away some things, maturity brings other treasures that time alone can give.

Don't Worry About Growing Old!

It is not true to say that a man is too old to do his best work after he is forty years of age. The auditor of a great international concern has had a survey of ten thousand employees for twenty years, and he tells us: "A man well past fifty who knows his job is worth four times more than a young fellow on the job. He ought to be paid four times more—one-fourth for knowing his job and the other three-fourths for his acquaintance with life and his knowledge of human nature. I cannot spare the man over fifty, he is too valuable to lose."

Give a litle time and thought to this marvellous old promise: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." When a life is lived in daily contact with God each added year is but a step nearer the state of perpetual youth. Life often has its narrow places, but there is always a bit of blue sky above. And however dark the night may be, the stars of hope forever shine

To the many who have read this page from week to week, I now say au revoir. I am glad to have learned in various ways that I have been of some service to the community—especially to those who are shut-in. May God's richest blessing rest upon all such as they go apart with Jesus to find rest and refreshment for their spirits.

"To love and be loved is the greatest happiness in existence. . . . . It is not that a man has occasion to fall back upon the kindness of his friends. Perhaps he may never experience the necessity of doing so; but we are governed by our imaginations, and they stand there as a bulwark against all the evils of life." —Sydney Smith.

The Minister Remarks--

—Some people—not young either—have tender feet, and they don't seem to think that an apology is a satisfactory salve for a corn.

—Don't be surprised if you get into a bad odor when you get too close to a skunk.

—It is all right to believe in plain speaking, but is it necessary to use a hammer to drive it home?

—About the only way you can be your own boss in this world is to become a tramp—and even then there is still the policeman to reckon with.

—The presence of God's angel can make a lion's den more restful than a king's palace—and just as safe!

—The Christian's mind should be a thinking lens for the passage of Gospel light.

Getting Rid Of Undesirables

THE man who lives and labors as though he had been placed on this earth for the sole purpose of making money, would have been more fortunate if he had never been born! He is to be pitied as much as Esau or Judas! His money has perished with him. And if the doctors were not so busy looking after the sick they would have pronounced him dead long ere this, and his funeral would have been a thing of the past.

The man or the woman who makes a good living in this community and gives nothing of time or talent to the welfare of the place is a human leech, varying in malignity, according to the amount "made off the people."

It may be true that you have made your money by your superior business ability, and that you would have done as well anywhere. I don't see that the case is in any sense altered! If your gifts are great, your responsibility is equally great. It is not an act of charity, but the carrying out of a simple duty, for the person who has made money to pass a little of it on for the benefit of the community, even though he never expects to see a cent of his contribution coming back. When a man gets his living from a community he owes that community both loyalty and service, and unless he can give this loyalty and service he should get out! The man who is too mean to contribute to a public cause, who is "too busy" to take time from his own affairs to help in a public undertaking, who is never on hand to assist in a good cause until it is time to reap its benefits, is, whether he knows it or not, playing the part of both a leech and a parasite.

I have sometimes wondered if it would not be an excellent plan for communities to make a list of their undesirables, and by some effective methods, either convert them to good citizenship or drive them out of town. And, although I am laying myself open to criticism by suggesting it, I maintain that the same sort of treatment applied to many within our churches would be for the larger gold of the churches, even if it did not lead to the conversion of the undesirables. As some people are at present, they are really not worth having either in the community or in the church. And it might be surprising in a salutary way to some of the smugly complacent to discover that they were classed with the undesirables. —A. F.

The Potter's Wheel

Ay, note that Potter's Wheel,
That metaphor, and feel
Why time spins fast, why passive lies our clay. . . .
He fixed thee 'midst this dance
Of plastic circumstance,
This Present, thou, forsooth, would'st fain arrest:
Machinery just meant
To give thy soul its bent,
Try thee and turn thee forth sufficiently impressed.

The Quality of The Race

THE quality of our race turns on the quality of the parents; and especially does the quality of the child turn on the peace, happiness and well-being of the mother. You can not make the mother a disgraced and taunted thing and expect the progeny to prosper.

A GREAT CAPTURE

IF I were asked, "What, in your opinion, was Christianity's greatest find?" I should immediately reply, "Saul of Tarsus!" In him Christianity found its most eloquent expression. Through this man it expressed itself in character—as demonstrated in his life; in thought—as demonstrated in his letters; and in action—as demonstrated in his labors. The embodiment of tireless energy, he was the finest purely human example of love in action the world has ever seen. —A. F.

In Your Bosom

MAX MUELLER tells of a parable he learned from the lore of the east of how the gods, having stolen from man his divinity, met to discuss where they should hide it.

One suggested that it be carried to the ends of the earth and buried, but it was pointed out that man was a great wanderer and that he might find the lost treasure.

Another proposed that it be dropped into the depth of the sea, but the fear was expressed that man, with his insatiable curiosity, might find it even there.

Finally, after much thought, the oldest and wisest of the gods said, "Hide it in man himself, that is the last place he will ever look for it," and so it was agreed.

Man did wander over the face of the earth, seeking in all places his lost divinity before he thought to look within himself. At last he found what he sought; found it in his own bosom.

Education

IF college education were made compulsory by the State, and one-half of the curriculum consisted of actual, useful, manual labor, most of our social ills would be solved and we would be well on the highway toward the Ideal City.

His Prayer Answered

HE asked for strength that he might achieve; he was made weak that he might obey.

He asked for health that he might do greater things; he was given infirmity that he might do better things.

He asked for riches that he might be happy; he was given poverty that he might be wise.

He asked for power that he might have the praise of men; he was given weakness that he might feel the need of God.

He asked for all things that he might enjoy life; he was given life that he might enjoy all things.

He received nothing he asked for, all that he hoped for. His prayer is answered. He is most blessed.

Meditate upon these things, and use them as a guide in perfecting your own prayer-life. —A. F.

Failure And Success

BROOK FARM disbanded because the man at the head of it had no head for business, nor did he have the capacity to select a man who had. But its "failure" was a success, in that it was a rotting log that nourished a bank of violets.

—Elbert Hubbard.

A Discretionary Fund

THE Church of Our Saviour (Protestant Episcopal) of Jenkintown, Pennsylvania, has what is known as the rector's discretionary fund. Special offerings are made from time to time to this fund. It is placed in the hands of the rector, who uses the money at his own discretion in relieving suffering. Many times it enables him to send a basket of fruit, buy a luncheon or dinner or in other ways help those who are up against the hard things in life. What minister would not be glad if such a fund could be placed in his hands?

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The first applications for old age pensions in Ontario received by the provincial board have come from London where the local board is already dealing with cases that come within the scope of the Act.

The London authorities are setting an example that other municipalities should follow without delay.

The local machinery for handling pension applications should be already set up and at work in order that the business may be dealt with without unnecessary delay.

It is estimated that some 300 Peterborough citizens are eligible for relief under the Pensions Act.

As the measure comes into effect in the autumn, the work of investigating the claims and referring them to the Ontario board for final decision should not be postponed long enough to cause confusion and perhaps delay at the last moment.

The appointment of a local board to take care of this very important matter should receive the early consideration of the City Council.

CHIEF NEWHALL HONORED.

Congratulations are due Chief Constable Samuel Newhall upon the honor paid to him in his election as president of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada at the annual convention of the organization at Calgary on Thursday.

To be chosen as the chief executive officer of the association representing municipal law enforcement officers throughout the Dominion is a fine tribute to Chief Newhall's qualities and to the reputation he enjoys among his fellow officers throughout Canada.

The Chief Constables' Association is the general staff of society's army against the criminal and the crook, and it is a high honor indeed to be singled out of such a body and entrusted with the responsibility of directing its affairs for the next year.

Chief Newhall has been an efficient and successful chief constable in Peterborough; there is no reason to doubt that he will prove an equally efficient and successful president of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada.

CAMP SKOOKUM.

The opening of Skookum, the Rotary boys' camp at Clear Lake, on Monday throws open the door of opportunity to the boys of Peterborough to enjoy a real holiday under ideal conditions.

The Examiner's advice to parents is to investigate the possibilities offered by this splendid plan of camping at cost, which offers an unique chance to give boys the sort of a holiday they need.

There is nothing that will do a young boy more good both in his enjoyment and health and in shaping his future than several weeks at a properly organized and properly supervised camp.

He will come back bronzed by the sun, stronger for the outdoor exercise, healthier in lungs and constitution, wiser because of the experience, and happier because of the fun of camp life.

Camp Skookum is splendidly located and equipped and admirably directed; its activities are planned to give the boys an enjoyable holiday and at the same time to provide all-round development and training.

The attendance this year should be indicative of the community's appreciation of the Rotary Club's enterprise in making such an outing possible.

A HUGE SUCCESS.

Old Home Week is rapidly passing into history—but many of its features will linger long in the memories of all who participated therein.

The celebration has been a huge success, perhaps not in the eyes of those individuals who persist in attempting to place a cash value upon everything—but certainly in the opinion of the vast majority of citizens and visitors.

The real worth of such a re-union cannot be translated into terms of dollars and cents; it is to be found in the joy of greeting old friends, of visiting old scenes and recalling old-time experiences, and the week has been rich beyond measure in those things.

The bringing back of thousands of former residents has been distinctly worth while, whatever the final cost may prove to be.

It has been a happy and never-to-be-forgotten week that has linked Peterborough the closer to her scattered sons and daughters everywhere, and at the same time has strengthened the love of stay-at-home citizens for their home town.

That is something that more than balances the financial obligation involved.

PETERBOROUGH'S WAY.

Peterborough has dedicated a memorial to her fallen 717 men of the Great War. The memorial, of a unique and special design, not a mere imitation or pattern of others, but one peculiar in its appeal and the work of a noted artist, cost $35,000.

War memorials should not run to a pattern, they should if possible be representative of the place which sent the young heroes to war.

Belleville may have a war memorial soon, if the suggestion of Mr. R. J. Graham is taken up, that the city build a granite base on Memorial Park for a memorial which private individuals are willing to erect at a cost of about $20,000.00.

Belleville's memorial should be emblematic of Belleville and the district if possible. At least it should be a monument with an individual appeal so that he who runs may read in the design of the stone the great love of the men who gave themselves and the remembrance of those who live to mourn their shortened young lives.

Peterborough has shown what can be done with a memorial of this class.—Belleville Ontario.

MR. SINCLAIR'S POSITION.

According to an interview in the Toronto Globe, Mr. Sinclair's position in regard to the Liquor Control Act has at last been definitely established.

The Liberal leader's first speech on the subject was variously interpreted, but most commentators seemed to find in it a desertion on the part of the Opposition chieftain of the Liberal 1919 prohibition policy and the adoption of the principle of Government control.

The minority, on the other hand, failed to see in Mr. Sinclair's remarks any approval of the present method of dealing with the liquor problem.

And so the matter rested until the other night when the Liberal leader made a speech in which he was quoted as saying that the "present law is all right," but that the Liberal party objected to the manner in which it was being carried out.

That statement apparently decided the issue.

Now, however, it transpires that Mr. Sinclair was misquoted.

He denies ever having made such a statement at Dundas or anywhere else, and gives his party's policy as follows:

"Liberals believe that the temperance question, in any form, should never again be made a political issue. But whenever it is shown that there is a considerable body of thought desiring a change in the method of controlling the sale of liquor, those desiring such change should have the right to demand and have a vote upon the question. The Liberal party stands for the strict enforcement of the Liquor Control Act while the people continue to approve of this method of handling the sale of liquor, and acknowledges the right of the people to change that method whenever they decide to do so."

HOT WEATHER SERMON.

Speeches and sermons need not be long to be effective. Never, under any circumstances, should they be so long that they weary the listener. The speech or sermon—yes, or editorial—which is reasonably short, stands a far better chance of making an impression than does the long and diffuse variety.

Of course, whether a discourse is long depends on several things: On the nature of the message it conveys, on the personality and gifts of the speaker, on the receptivity of the audience, and last, but not least, on the weather. Some discourses, although short in the length of time it takes to deliver them, seem long to the hearers, as they possess very little appeal for them, while other discourses, although long in the matter of delivery, seem short because of their intense interest.

The wise speaker, therefore, will not lose sight of the clock, because he knows that if he does his auditors will not. The longer he speaks, the more restless will they become. And the clock is not the only thing the wise speaker will watch; he will also study the thermometer. There is no doubt that a discourse seems longer in sweltering weather than it does when the atmosphere is cool enough to be comfortable, and the chief concern of those sitting under the speaker is not how to keep cool. When the earth sizzles, all discourses, no matter how short, are long to the sizzled.

As a splendid example of a hot-weather sermon, we have pleasure in reproducing an abbreviated discourse delivered on a recent boiling Sunday by Rev. Father McNab in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Toronto. Taking his text from Matt., v. 20-24: "And whosoever shall say 'thou fool,' shall be in danger of hell fire," he said:

"I am not going to subject you to the discomfort of a long sermon, as the weather is so hot; but I would like to call the attention of everybody to the fact that, unless we govern our lives according to the commandments of God, we will be in danger of going to a much warmer place and of having to suffer infinitely more discomfort. When you are sweltering in the heat, just remember that thought, and you will undoubtedly derive more benefit than you will from any sermon I might preach. Go in peace, and govern your lives accordingly."

Could anything be more direct, more convincing, than this sermon? If more sermons, more speeches—yes, and more editorials—were built on the same plan, the world would be a better and happier place.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It has been a great week, if you didn't weaken.

There will be little regret that the supply of cannon firecrackers in town has been exhausted.

It is to be hoped that the old boys and girls will come home more often in the future.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

July 5th, 1929.

To the Editor:

Sir,—May I voice appreciation and thanks to the committee and other citizens for their long and enterprising efforts which have culminated in such a happy re-union.

The very fine Diamond Jubilee parade in the city of Vancouver was not quite the equal of the magnificent parade we saw here on Monday.

This all goes to prove that enterprise, energy and vision are here. Providence has given to this community outstanding advantages in our beautiful and useful rivers and lakes, and in the bountiful climate. Those of us who have seen the distant fields know this best.

A wider realization of these facts would give greater and sustained cooperation in our industrial life, that we might be able to keep the old boys and girls always with us, "citizens of no mean city."

Sincerely,.

J. S. BELL.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp. Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp. Orme is an irresponsible, temperamental, artistic and refined man who does not seem capable of committing murder. Finding Orme so helpless, Peter asks Dr. Cavanaugh to help him out at the trial. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme. Peter unwittingly sees Barbara destroy a deadly bit of evidence, a comb of Sheila O'Shay's, and he is torn between his love and the fear of her guilt. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other. But Barbar will not let Peter help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else to whom she is bound by a sense of honor.

CHAPTER 37.

Public interest in a murder trial is as unpredictable as the success of a theatrical production, but the trial of David Orme was "sure fire" from the beginning.

"It's got everything," Jimmy asserted with enthusiasm. "Sex appeal, mystery, big money. It's a wow of a story!"

Peter glared dourly at his fellow human beings as he fought his way through the crowd in front of the court house. It was a quiet, even a contented crowd, content to stand and stare all day at the familiar outlines of the building-familiar and yet subtly dramatic now because of the drama of life and death opening behind its walls. There was absolutely nothing for them to see, Peter reflected crossly, and yet they thought nothing of waiting there, hour after hour, There were women with small children jammed against their skirts, men carrying their lunches in paper bags. Ropes guarded by policemen cleared a lane to the door; but inside, the crowd poured itself down the corridors from wall to wall. They showed no disposition to make way for Peter.

"I'm sorry, you'll have to let me through," he reiterated mechanically displaying his press badge and reinforcing it with the sharp prodding of elbows.

"There's too many of these here press fellows, that's what's keeping everybody else out. Where do they get all their pull, anyhow?"

Peter shouldered the speaker aside, forcing his way forward, yard by yard.

"Say, young man, how do you get in to see this boy that's killed somebody? I've been here since 6 o'clock this morning and I ain't no nearer than when I started." Peter felt the pressure of a hand on his arm and turned to look down into the face of a neat little old lady, garbed in her "best" of faded black.

"You don't get in," he snapped. "And you wouldn't understand a word of it if you did. You'll learn a whole lot more if you go home and read the 'Herald.'"

"Well, I never did see the inside of a courtroom," the old lady persisted plaintively. "I thought it would be kind of nice to see it once.'

That was what it was to them—a show. It would be equally a show if it were Barbara inside instead of Orme.

A hastily erected fence of unpainted laths walled off the entrance to Department 24. Peter ran the gamut of six policemen, holding fast to his card of admittance: "Press Pass. Admit J. A. Piper representing Herald, to all Court Sessions of Orme Trial. Attest A. W. Moore, clerk, Charles Harvey, judge. Seat number 53." It was his ticket to the arena, where the gladiators would lunge at one another with their words—lances, where the judge would loll in his chair—"thumbs up, thumbs down." And outside, the blindly patient crowd, waiting hungrily for its crumbs of vicarious excitement.

Peter flung himself, worn and dishevelled, into seat 53. Inside the courtroom it was very quiet. In one corner a muted telegraph instrument ticked sharply, like the sound of an industrious cricket. Behind the railing which divided the courtroom in half, Peter recognized the roll of fat on the back of the neck of the district attorney, the scrubbed blondeness, like a small boy just out of the tub, of the young defense lawyer, the stalwart, motherless shoulders of Dr. Cavanaugh. Orme himself was overshadowed by the huge figure of the deputy sheriff from the homicide squad who sat beside him. Twelve men and women ranged in two rows along the side wall contrived to look at the same time blank and self conscious. One of them wore a green hat perched high above her sallow face. Peter decided that a hat like that deserved a per emptory challenge.

"The case of the people against David Orme.....as alleged in the indictment .....That he did wilfully and feloniously murder one Sheila Ellsworth....."intoned the district attorney.

The judge, with a face all sharp angles, like a cubist drawing, topped by hair that glistened like spun sugar, rapped out questions.

"Conscientious scruples against the death penalty in a proper case.....Any prejudice for or against the defense of insanity.....The criterion of accountability is this."

Questions. Questions. Questions.

"The people will excuse Mr. Warren .....The challenge is with the defense.... ....The defense will excuse Mrs. Barnes." That was the woman in the green hat. Thank heaven he would not have to face that hat in the jury box day after day!

The personnel in the twelve chairs shifted. The bailiff pulled slips of paper out of a revolving tin box and boomed new names, one by one. Orme—Peter could see him now, over the shoulder of the sheriff—sat with folded arms staring dreamily into space, his profile motionless in relief againstthe plaster of the wall.. Not once did he glance towards the jury box. The questions and challenges floated unnoticed over his head. Not once did he start at the words, "murder," "Sheila Ellsworth," "hanged,"—words reiterated and hammered on Peter's consciousness until he wanted to strike out against them in unreasonable fury.

The very worst feature of being tried for murder, Peter decided, was the torturing, abysmal boredom of it. If they would only get on with it! The press correspondents slumped in their chairs, jotting down the names and addresses of jurors and crossing them out again when they were challenged. A "sketch artist" in the row ahead amused himself by drawing a libelous caricature of the court reporter. With one accord the men and women in the jury box denied that they ever read anything in the newspapers or had ever heard of the murder of Sheila O'Shay. The faint slip, slip of pencils on copy paper, the chirping of the telegraph cricket sounded as a constant faint overtone to the droning of questions and answers.

There was an indefinable stir, like wind sweeping through a forest.

"Court adjourned until 2 o'clock."

"Order in the courtroom, please! Keep your seats!"

"First juror chosen in Orme Murder Trial"—it would be shouted in "extras" on every corner within the hour. Stumbling and pushing the reporters crowded the aisle, breaking for the telephones in the witness room outside.

"Bet you two bits they don't get a jury in a week!"

"Not with Judge Harvey—he'll speed 'em. Say, do you remember the Cogswell case he told 'em he was going to begin trying it by Monday noon, jury or no jury?"

Peter grimaced over his shoulder at the "Q and A' twins of the Herald staff. They sat in adjacent seats, one of them taking down in shorthand the questions and the other the answers to the testimony. Between whiles, they invariably engaged in a spirited conflict over the expected progress of the case in hand. As he turned, Peter for the first time had an unobstructed view of the chairs set back from the table, within the enclosure.

"Here, Harry!" He thrust his pages of notes into the hand of the nearest of the Q and A twins. "Take care of this for me, will you? Phone it in to the office and tell Jimmy I'll be around to write the rest of the story in half an hour. And if he tells you to remind me there's a 1 o'clock deadline, you tell him if I miss it he can fire me, and to go to—anywhere you like."

Peter nudged his way up the aisle and vaulted the low railing to the enclosed area, his eyes fixed on a small black hat just visible above the back of a chair.

"Barbara!" he exclaimed. "Why did you come? How did you get in?"

"Father got a pass for me," she announced. "He's to be an expert witness, you know, and I've never seen him in action. I told him I thought it might be interesting." Peter wondered if he would ever in the world get over being astonished at Barbara. Except for the tired lines about her eyes, she was as nonchalant as if they had met in the lobby of a theatre instead of a courtroom.

"But you mustn't stay. You mustn't," Peter said in a low tone. "It's too much for you to stand. And it won't do anybody a particle of good.

"Won't you sometime ask me something that I don't have to say 'No' to Peter?" For one moment her upturned face was full of appealing wistfulness; the next, it had hardened into a look of weary fortitude. "How can I possibly know what will do any good, unless I stay to find out?" she said.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

Unpolluted Sources

The Managing Editor of the New York Star-Planet-Universe-Item and Atom was in conference with a subordinate executive.

"I'm getting eight hundred words from the Anti-Saloon Leage Publicity Bureau," responded the City Editor.

"And the mass meeting to demand a higher tariff on woolen goods?"

The Managing Editor consulted the schedule lying on his desk.

"I see we're taking five hundred words on the Farmers' Co-operative Marketing Movement; who's covering?" he asked.

"Produce and Commission Merchants' Board of Trade publicity man."

"Good enough. Now this annual Actors' Equity meeting?"

"Gus Thomas has promised to shoot us about a column on that."

"One thing more," said the Managing Editor; "this Publicity Advisers' Convention."

"I sent one of our staff men out on that,' the City Editor replied. "I couldn't trust those press agents to give us the truth about themselves."

"No; I suppose not," the Managing Editor agreed, thoughtfully.

George Washington's father had just inquired if he had cut down the cherry tree.

"Yes, Father, I cannot tell a lie," answered little George. "I did it with my little hachet."

"Whose make of hatchet is it, my son?" asked the parent.

"It is the famous Super Steel Brand made by Willoughby and Jefferson, Incorporated," replied the youngster.

"Then the cutting was quite all right. The Super Steel Hatchet is the finest on the market, it strikes a blow that is clean, sharp, and decisive, and I will have no other brand upon the plantation. You did well to choose so reliable a tool." F. B. M.

Wheat Prices Advance After Early Setbacks

CHICAGO, Ills., July 5 .(C.P.) — Wheat advanced quickly to-day after an irregular start. Showers over the drought districts in Canada, together with sharp set backs in wheat quotations in Liverpool, caused transient uncertainty, but comprehensive adverse crop reports from Canada were soon more than an offset.

Opening at 7-8c down to 7-8c up, Chicago wheat later scored decided gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, with corn starting unchanged to 2c higher, and subsequently holding near to the initial figures.

The longest continuous rainfall on record in England lasted more than 58 hours and fell at Camden Square, London, between 1 p. m. on June 11 and 11.30 p. m. on June 12, 1903.

Wheat Averages High In Active Trading Session

CHICAGO, Ills., July 6.—(Canadian Press). — Active trading and higher early prices here for wheat to-day resulted chiefly from crop deterioration reports by the Canadian Growers Pool. Besides, much steeper advances in transatlantic quotations than had been looked for were noted. Some rains north-west, however, were reported. Opening 1-8 to 1 1-8 up, Chicago wheat later showed additional gains, but then reacted somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting at 1-8 to 3-4 advance, but afterwards reacting.

The girl was shot five times, Mayberry saving one bullet from his revolver for himself. He sent the bullet into his head but had not died when the father, William Hendershott, prominent New Madrid County farmer, rushed up with a shotgun and discharged it into his head. He died immediately.

NORANDA LEADS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 6. —(Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange finished the week to-day in a very quiet manner with only minor changes shown in prices. Total sales which were mostly supplied by Noranda and a number of the lower priced oil stocks, amounted to only 356,290 shares. Noranda broke to 61.15 and then rallied to close at 62.00, off 25 cents. Ajax Oil made a sharp rise to 2.03 but profit taking sent the price tumbling back to 1.90, unchanged. Home finished 75 cents stronger at 24.00 while the others showed slight improvement.

Pend Oreille recovered 15 cents to 5.80 and Ventures advanced 25 to 8.75.

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Some Slight Declines Registered But Main Issues Hold Firm.

ABITIBI ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—(C.P.)—With buying narrowing down again to the purely selected stocks, there was little notable change in prices on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. A number of the interested issues failed to hold their advances made yesterday, but the main list held up fairly well, in the face of dull trading. Nickel clung to the 52.00 mark unchanged, while Home Oil, which followed Nickel in point of activity, rose 50 cents to 24.00. Ajax was about the only other oil to make any definite move, regaining nine points to 1.99.

Abitibi made a further leap of three points to 45. Bell Tilephone improved one to 165, but Brazilian finished lower at 58 3-4. The industrial stocks were all easier, Hayes Wheels broke two to 59 and Massey-Harris lost 1 1-4 to 57 3-4. F. N. Burt was off one at 69.

MR. GRAVESTOCK GETS BIG LUNGE

More Than 38 Inches Long and Weighed More Than Eleven Pounds.

One of the most scientific, successful and enthusiastic fishermen in this district is J. W. Gravestock, manager of the Canada Crayon Company. He rarely if ever sets out to get a fish that he does not land his quota. He handles the line in such a finished manner that it is good sport to watch him cast. It is a game he enjoys thoroughly.

To-day Mr. Gravestock brought into The Examiner one of the nicest lunge we have seen this season. It measured more than 38 inches long and weighed slightly over eleven pounds.

The proof is not any more in evidence, but it can be said it was as palatable as it was pleasing to look at, and we thank Mr. Gravestock once more.

SAYS LIGHTING WONDERFUL.

Another 36 years absence that Old Home Week terminated was that of Samuel Heap of Buffalo, N. Y., who is celebrating a re-union of four generations in the Old Home Town this week.

Mr. Heap, who will be well remembered by many of his old confederates, spent his youth here when the city was vastly different from what it is to-day. In those days, Mr. Heap took a great interest in sports, and was widely known as one of the members of the first lacrosse club and team.

The re-union, includes his mother, Mrs. George Heap, and Mrs. A. Butcher, his sister, both residents of Peterborough, his daughter, Mrs. T. E. Barker, of Buffalo, and her daughter, Sally, aged five. No time has been lost by the happy family in this round of excitement, and everything going on has been seen and every old landmark and building visited. Little Sally especially was tickled with the week's programme.

Mr. Heap was last connected with the old Fitzgerald-Stranger carriage works before he left this city. He is now associated with the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company.

Interviewed by the Examiner, this morning regarding his views of the Home Town, Mr. Heap said:

"Many old landmarks are torn down why when I left we only had a gravel road for a main street. In those days we had no modern facilities such as the people have now. I see you have a bus service, and I think it is much better than a street car service would be, making considerable less noise. There is no doubt in my mind that this city is superior to the cities of same size in the United States, why compared with the homes over there, the ones in Peterborough are far in advance. Chiefly I notice those of brick, as the majority of the ones in the States are built of clap boards. A house of brick over there such as the majority in the Old Town here would cost any place from twenty to forty thousand dollars. Probably the only chief difference might be in the fixtures and plumbing which are somewhat on a more elaborate scale.

Peterborough with its beautiful shrubbery, wide streets, home-like atmosphere, friendly citizens and lack of smoke, rush hustle and bustle certainly makes me feel that the trip is well spent, and I think makes the city outstanding in Canada.

The celebration put on during the week was wonderful, and most of all the lighting system, it was simply immense. Why the lights on the streets are second to none, and I have seen immense parades in many cities of the United States, that couldn't compare with it. It would certainly be nice to settle down here and retire, but the drag of busy life still has me in its clutches and so withholds the ideal life one might have in the Old Home Town.

REGISTRATIONS ARE RECORDED

Over Four Hundred Old Home Week Visitors' Names Listed On Thursday.

OLD TIMER PASSES.

A gratifying gesture of the Old Home Week's continued interest is the registration of those in attendance from outside the city. Despite the storm of Thursday, there was a further registration of over four hundred, additional to all before.

As one man said, "Come early and avoid the rush" did not influence him. He felt that there were just as good things in store awaiting him as in the early part of the week.

OLD BOY DIES

A real Old Home Week boy of Peterborough just missed coming to see the old town by passing away last March. His death was not unexpected, even at his extreme old age of 99 years. Living at Bannockburn, Ont., with his aged wife, eighty years of age, and with relatives, had he survived, it was his intention to have attended the Old Home Week. He was born in Peterborough in the year 1930, ninety-nine years ago. His wife remembers well the first school teacher in Peterborough, a Mr. Webber, who taught school in 1836.

James Simpson was a well digger by trade, and for many years had constant occupation, each house having its own well.

Mrs. Simpson was Catharine Clarke, before her marriage, and she was born in 1840, in Peterborough. Her memory is replete with recollection of the real pioneer days, and much of incident and happenings were remembered.

CARMEN'S STRIKE SERIOUS AFFAIR

Police Forced To Use Riot Guns, Tear Bombs and Water.

NEW ORLEANS, July 6. —(Canadian Press). — Three street cars were burned at the Canal Street barn to-day in addition to one destroyed at the foot of Canal Street yesterday. Other cars sent out on the lines were practically demolished by rocks before the City Council instructed that all attempts at operating cars halted during the Carmen's strike.

Police, riot guns, tear bombs and high pressure streams of water were used to quell disturbances and interrupt the almost continuous using of railway premises by union sympathizers in the crowd of several thousand. Police warned the union men that they would take their lives in their hands if they sought to force entrance into the barns.

HOUSEWIVES CLEAN OUT FARMERS' MARKET

Old Home Week Creates Large Greenstuff Demand.

Although there was plenty of produce in both sections of the farmers' market this morning, it was cleaned out at an early hour by the demands of housewives whose larders are in need of many supplies this week.

Eggs were priced generally from 33 to 35 cents a dozen and butter at 40 cents a pound. Chickens were 25 and 28 cents a pound and broilers 40 to 50 cents. Spring ducks were 40 cents a pound and roasted chickens, of which one woman had a good supply on hand, were 60 cents a pound.

New carrots and beets, at 10 cents a bunch, made their appearance this morning in the open section, also new cabbage at 15 cents a head.

Green peas were 25 cents for two quarts, gooseberries sold at 15 cents a quart, and strawberries were 15 and 20 cents for a quart box.

Little piglets were $13.00 a pair and tiny fox terrier pups were selling at 3.00 to $5.00 apiece.

I REMEMBER

"I see by the paper" meaning The Examiner) that a lot of Ex-Petes have been remembering the good old days in the good old town. Many of the tales are quaint reminders of a kind of life now extinct even in places like Lindsay and Mariposa. The reminiscences also provide a golden opportunity to drag out long forgotten skeletons and give the writer a chance to slander mildly and indirectly, many ancient associates. Among other revealers of the past, I note that one, Melville J. Hutchinson, sometime editor of The Examiner, has jumped into print with a turkey tale in which he practically accuses me of participating with himself and another newspaperman named Sam Moore, of the theft, execution, and digestion of a turkey from an Otonabee fence rial. He suggests as an excuse that the party was intoxicated by compulsory drafts of Ham Burnham's ponderous political eloquence, inhaled in the confined space of a rural school house. I recall the incident distinctly, and prefer that an accurate historical record should be filed. Hs is probably right in his diagnosis of the cause of this temporary moral lapse, as a relief from two hours' enforced silence; but I want to make it clear, however, that I was only on the periphery of this crime, and not one of the prime actors. I remember clearly that once the fowl had been removed from his indecent exposure on the line fence, where no self respecting bird should spend the night, that Hutch was driving, and that Sam Moore nursed the fowl on his lap all the way to town. I was a mere bystander or by-sitter, for I recall that the four of us seemed quite a crowd in the front seat of the narrow "buggy and that Hutch, who was driving a somewhat spirited nag was greatly incensed because Sam insisted on keeping the turkey's tail pointed toward him—in fact, in close proximity to his face. I cannot repeat in this family journal the exchange of opinion between these representatives of the—so they say—Fourth Estate. I also remember Hutchinson pleading for the bird to be cast overboard and Sam's rigid prey, on the ground that the bird determination to hang on to his prey, on the ground that the bird was now so far from home it would be inhumane to turn him loose, to die miserably of starvation.

I also recall the arrival at my store on Hunter street, about 12 p.m., a stealthy entrance through the back door, and a decision to execute him at once, and hide the body of the new thoroughly detested Albatross till morning. One account of my greater experience in rural life, and in lacrosse, I agreed to act as executioner, and Sam was permitted the honor of holding the animal and steering his head toward a proper position on the block. A new red-painted axe (price $1.00) taken from stock, was secured and one swift humanitarian blow removed the head. At this point trouble began, for two bright streams of arterial fluid spurted up and took the unsuspecting Samuel in the right eye and left shirt front. He promptly let go of the now thoroughly alarmed beast and in spite of tears of entreaty from Hutchinson and myself allowed the bird to leap madly about the cellar. With some difficulty we persuaded Moore to recover the dying fowl, and to hold him until life was extinct, but by this time Sam was a ruddy mess, and the other two spectators of the crime were also too weak to go home. We washed him up as well as possible and led him to his boarding house by back streets lest he should meet Constable Newhall, a youthful officer full of zeal and sure to spot the spots on the reporter's front, back and sides.

We hid the corpse in the coal bin, and suffered pangs as fearful as Eugene Aram, until we got it smuggled into Harry Long's bakeshop and with his connivance translated it into a supper for the whole gang.

All this took place on Monday, and it was not until Sunday morning when Sam changed his shirt that the last evidences of the crime disappeared. Most of the week he kept his coat collar turned up or wore a raincoat, and at The Review office they wondered why he washed his hands so frequently, and kept mumbling something about, "Out, out damned spot."

This is the true history of this turkey case, and while I was only indirectly implicated in it, I wish to say that if any Otonabee farmer can produce proof that this was his turkey, and will send me his bill (prewar prices) I will see that these two reportorial reprobates pay for it. If they do not I will turn King's evidence and tell the whole story to the public through the columns of this splendid family journal.

I remember more than this about Peterborough, but will maintain a dignified silence (as I have in this case) unless I am provoked to speak in self defence.

Good Old Pete.

ERNIE BEST.

MANY TAKE PART IN NOON PARADE

GailyDecorated Cars Make Up Procession—Mardi Gras Gras To-night.

The celebration spirit has not died out in the Old Town yet by any means, although the heavy Saturday's business prevented the merchants from taking part as actively in to-day's noon parade as they would have wished.

Despite this there were over a hundred cars gaily decorated in the procession led by the Post Office float. The Canadian Packing float caused a lot of admiration, and was one of the finest shown.

This afternoons parade, however, should have nothing to do with the event of the week, to-night's Mardi Gras, when the whole city will turn out and that means you also.

REGISTER

Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

shooting so far as they are concerned will not set in until next Friday, when the Donegall and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle service matches are scheduled.

Few Women Entered

The number of individual entries is well up to expectations, but there are fewer women than in recent years. A notable absentee is Miss Foster, champion woman service-rifle shot of Great Britain, whose hand was recently bitten by a dog. Miss Badcock will again be the only woman in the King's Prize, qualifying for this service shoot by having driven an ambulance during the war.

A new competition this years is the Maharajah of Burdwan's Challenge Cup for the interservice aggregate.

Altogether well over half a million cartridges will be fiired during the fortnight and cups valued at $40,000, along with monetary prizes totallying $45,000 will be offered.

Keen regret is felt that the veteran marksman, Mr. Calger, is ill and unable to attend. This will be the first meeting he has missed since Queen Victoria fired the opening shot in 1860. He is 88 years of age and well remembers when the targets were of iron and the weapons were muzzle-loads which frequently failed to discharge the cartridge.

CANADIAN SCULLER

Increases Lead

Gunther here went ahead a few feet He increased his lead to a half length at the half-mile point and was three-quarters of a length in front when Fawley was reached in 4:08.

Gunther came over to Wright's side of the course but Wright pressed and drove him back to his own station. Gunther sculled at 31 strokes a minute to Wright's 30, and the Dutchman increased his lead to one length at the ¾ mile post.

Leads By Length and Half.

Gunther was sculling beautifully. He continued to draw ahead and at the mile post was a length and a half in front of Wright. The Dutchman tried to increase this lead but was obviously tiring rapidly.

Wright made his great effort along the enclosure, and gained rapidly on Gunther. A few yards from the winning posts the Canadian made one of the most magnificient finishing spurts he has put on, but Gunther still drove on to keep the nose of his shell a yard in front of the fast coming Wright.

Three Times To Holland.

Gunther is the third Dutchman to win the sculls. Before Holland's 1921 victory, J. Oozs had captured the premier amateur single sculls honor in 1892.

After the race, Gunter lounged in his shell receiving congratulations long after Wright had goone into the boathouse. The Dutchman was carried shoulde-high amid a forest of waving hands. But there were many cheers for the Canadian as he was assisted to the boathouse, utterly exhauster. He had to stop and rest there for a few minutes.

MANY APPLICATIONS MADE FOR POSITIONS

Applicants Not Anxious to Find Steady Employment—More Farm Help Needed.

The reports of the Employment Bureau in Peterborough seem to indicate that there is a temporary unemployment situation in the city. The majority of men who are applying for work ask for jobs that will keep them busy for just such a length of time and do not seem anxious to find permanent employment.

This unemployment is balanced by an increase in the demand for farm help. The haying season has just opened up and the farmers are anxious to get this crop cut and in the barns before it is too late. But the class of men who were unemployed do not seem anxious to go to the country.

Then there is a great demand for stone masons, who will be employed out of town, but there do not seem to be many of this type of worker in the city, and even the rate of $1.25 an hour does not seem to draw many applicants for this job.

Other positions that are open are, a female machine operator wanted, and also a textile color designer.

There is an interesting chart at the employment office showing the fluctuations in employment from 1921 to 1929. This statistical device is the simple arithmetic chart, computed from figures given by 3,003 firms, whose employees total 432,393 employees and the average number of employees taking 1921 as the base year of 100.

The chart seems free from any residual trends, while the secular trend shows a steady increase and a straight line fitted from 1921 to 1929 would show a steady rise to the left hand upper corner of the chart, showing a favorable increase in employment.

There is also a marked seasonal influence shown in the employment situation over the last eight years. The peak seems to come between October and November, while the slump is at the first of January. These abnormal fluctuations are obvious in each year.

This graph has not been taken over a long enough period of years to show the cylical trend of the employment situation in the country.

International Proprietaries Limited owns J. C. Eno Limited, the manufacturer of Eno's "Fruit Salt", and The Thermogene Company, Limited, which manufactures the household remedy known as "Thermogene", a form of medicated wadding with quick-heat-producing qualities effective in relieving pain and congestion.

Earnings for the year ended December 31st, 1928, of J. C. Eno Limited and Thermogene after depreciation, available for taxes, dividends and reserves were $1,114,138. Dividend requirements on the Class "A" shares outstanding amount to $585,000.

The President of the Company in a letter to the shareholders confidentially expects to pay a participation dividend to the Class "A" shareholders during 1929 in addition to the regular dividend of $2.60 a share.

Sales of J. C. Eno Limited in the United States for the first three months of 1929 increased 33%. Total sales for the same period throughout the entire world show a marked increase, and operating overheads are no higher than in 1928. A new factory has been opened in Buffalo which will effect great savings in sales in the United States, as all goods sold in the past in this market had been shipped from England at a high rate of duty and freight.

The President of the Company has summarized the Company's progress in a letter, a copy of which will be furnished on request.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 6. — With only three days in the market week, supply at the Union stock yards' cattle market was light, with a total of 3,300 head for sale locally. Trade in killers showed considerable improvement in activity compared with last week, and prices from the start were 25 cents per cwt. higher, with Wednesday sales showing another 10-cent gain in spots. Store cattle trade, on the other hand, was dull, with prices a shade to 50 cents per cwt. lower, some common light stockers selling as low as 6½ cents per pound on Wednesday, with the bulk of the stocker sales showig a range of 8 to 9 cents per pound. Trade in milkers and springers was very quiet, with best backward springers selling barely steady with last week at a top of $120.

The calf supply amounted to some 2,800 head, and quality veals were scarce. Prices advanced 50 to 75 cents per cwt. on the better kind, with the bulk of choice selling at 14½ cents and prime calves at 15 cents per pound. Common veals and grassers were steady, with the latter selling mostly at 8 cents per pound. Good demand for export accounted for 1,400 calves or about half the entire offering.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled less than 3,000. Lambs sold steady to a shade stronger, with the bulk of good lambs selling at 16 cents per pound, or even with last week, while a few of the best made 16¼ to 16½ cents. Fair lambs brought 15½ to 15¾ cents. Lambs were in demand, and buyers allowed a lot of medium lambs to pass in the 16-cent sales. Sheep sold 50 cents per cwt. lower than last week, at 6 to 6½ cents per pound.

Supply of hogs for sale locally amounted to 3,000 head, and there were 430 on through billing. Light supply proved a strengthening factor, and Tuesday's receipts were held to sell on Wednesday, when the bulk moved on a basis of 12¼ cents, f.o.b. and 13½ cents, w.o.c. for selects, with road hogs at 12¾ cents for selects. There were no hogs off the railroad on Thursday and the few off trucks sold steady at the week's quarter advance.

At the week's advance, good to choice heavy steers sold from 11 to an extreme 12.40 cents per pound, with the odd straight load on Thursday at 12.15 cents, which was top for a load this week. The bulk of the butcher steers, handy and light weights, sold from 10½ to 11¼ cents per pound, with some choice handyweights and weighty steers at 11¾ cents. Common light grass steers sold as low as 8¼ cents in spots, this kind showing little improvement in market values over last week. Choice butcher heifers made 10¾ to 11¼ cents, with plain kind downward to 8¼ cents. Cows were a good quarter higher for the good kind at 8¼, and choice butcher cows brought up to 9¼ cents per pound, with an occasional kosher killer a quarter higher. Common butcher bulls sold up to 9 cents, with fair kind around 8 cents. Bolognas were in good demand at 7¼ to 7½ cents. Short supply of baby beeves brought about a stronger feeling for that class, prices showing a range of 10¾ to 13½ cents for the bulk, while the odd fancy animal made a top of 15 cents per pound. Only some 75 baby beeves were offered during the week.

TORONTO PRODUCE

Conditions on the local wholesale egg market remained very dull all throughout the week, with demand seemingly almost stagnant, and arrivals full large enough to answer all calls, even though production has dropped considerably, due to the recent warm weather. Practically no eggs have passed into storage this season, due to the British Columbia threat of fresh eggs in the fall at the price of Ontario storage eggs, and prominent local dealers state that conditions are of the quietest, with no early prospects of a revival of interest. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c to 22c per dozen.

The cheese market was dull all week and prices for No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded cheese were given at from 19c to 19¼c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAFO, July 6. — Reports that 1929 spring wheat prospects, both for Canada and the United States, have been cut in half sent wheat prices soaring anew yesterday. One of the foremost crop authorities in the grain trade was quoted to the effect that drought conditions over the greater part of spring wheat territory are now the worst on record, and that thousands of square miles have not received in a month enough moisture to lay the dust.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 6. — Bullish reports around midsession on yesterday's wheat market brought wheat prices up from a slump of 3½c scored at the opening almost to the levels of Thursday's close. July wheat advanced to $1.45 to a record of 1c gain, but the advance was not held, and the market finished the day with a net decline of ⅝c to ¼c.

Weather in Western Canada was again the leading bull factor, with serious drought reported in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and wheat seriously damaged by hot winds. Rains overnight in Alberta at first started a downward slide, but traders considered the moisture insufficient, with the result that the bulls took control of the pit to bring the market back to the high levels.

Cash wheat trading was slow, and the demand for the various grades was poor. Prices were unchanged to 2 cents easier. Trading was light in the coarse grains, with oats closing about 1c higher, and cax moving up about 25c. Rye and barley were inactive, the former easing ½c and the latter holding firm at yesterday's prices.

WEDDING BELLS

FARROW—CHAPLIN

TRENT RIVER, July 6.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The marriage took place at the United Church parsonage, Colborne, on Monday, July 1, when the Rev. Mr. Falkner united in marriage Leeta Myrtle Chaplin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Chaplin, of Trent River, and W. H. Farrow, of Brighton.

The bride was attended by her sister, Violet, of Trent River, while Clayton Farrow, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony the young couple left on a motor trip to points west of Toronto and on their return will reside on the groom's farm in Brighton.

KEOGAN—CLEARY

HASTINGS, July 6.—A wedding of local interest was solemnized recently at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel recently, when Mary Agnes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cleary, was united in marriage to Vincent Keogan, of Percy, Rev. J. J. McGuire performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Gallaher, of Warkworth, looking very pretty in a gown of rose-pink georgette with gold trimming, rose and gold mohair picture hat, French gold kid shoes and carried a large bouquet of Ophelia roses and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Eva Dohetry, wore a dainty gown of pale yellow georgette with silver lace trimming, large yellow mohair droop hat, French silver kid shoes and carried an arm bouquet of Premier roses. Little Geraldine Doherty, of Otonabee, made a charming flower girl in shell pink crepe de chine and carried a large basket of sweet peas and roses. Jack Keogan ably supported his brother.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome cheque, to the bridesmaid a pearl and gold rosary, to the best man a green and white gold watch chain, and to the flower girl, a little finger ring.

After a sumptuous wedding reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keogan left on an extended trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points. The bride's travelling costume was a chic brown and cocoa crepe romaine ensemble, small brown felt hat, brown kid shoes, with coat and hose to match.

On their return the young couple will reside on the groom's farm on the Cobourg Road, Percy. They were the recipients of many beautifully and costly gifts.

MARSHALL—SMITH

TWEED, July 6.—(Examiner Correspondence)—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Jame's church on Monday, July 1, when Edith, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, of Tweed, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Harold Marshall, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Wright, pastor of St. James' United church, Tweed.

The bride was very becomingly gowned in white silk crepe, with veil and wreath of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of tea roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Cecil Cherry, Belleville, sister of the bride, looked very pretty in a gown of peach crepe de chine, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Robert Elliott and the choir, of which the bride was a member, sang very beautifully two wedding hymns. The groom's gifts to the best man and matron of honor were a prayer and hymn book each.

After a short motor trip the happy couple will reside in Toronto.

OBITUARY

ERIC KERSHAW.

Eric Kershaw, the victim of Wednesday's drowning accident at the locks was one of the most enthusiastic members of the local St. John's Ambulance Brigade, in which organization he held the rank of corporal. He was a very active worker, having devoted his time from June 29 to the night before his death in ambulance work, and having made arrangements to carry on all week on duty at the Exhibition grounds. He had been a member of the Hebden Bridge Division in Yorkshire, England, and although only a young man, held the medalion of the St. John's Ambulance Association.

He came to Peterborough a short time ago from Hebden Bridge, where his parents and a sister and two brothers reside.

The death of such a keen member is deeply regretted by every member of the Peterborough Division of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade.

HARRISON PHILLIPS

ORLAND, June 6.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Following an illness of about three weeks, the death of one of the old residents of this district occurred yesterday when Harrison Phillips succumbed to an illness which had seized him while on a visit to his old home. The late Mr. Phillips was in his 74th year and was born in this district. Until about two years ago he continued to reside on his farm in the Wooler Road and was known as a successful farmer. Since that time he and his son, S. J. Phillips, have been employed by the Willoughby Farm Agency at Fort William, and have resided in that city. Mr. Phillips had returned to his old home for a vacation and was taken suddenly ill. His condition continued to become more serious till his death occurred yesterday at the home of his son-in-law, Walter Reycraft, where he had been visiting. Deceased was a member of the United Church and a regular attendant at the services in Codrington up to the time of his removal from the community. He was twice married, his first wife having died twenty-two years ago, and his second wife having predeceased him about three years. He is survived by one son, S. J. Phillips of Fort William, and one daughter, Mrs. Walter Reycraft, Orland. Two brothers, Abram of Warkworth and Ambrose of Codrington, and on sister, Mrs. Thomas Sykes of Warkworth, also survive. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, but it is understood that the service will be held either Sunday or Monday afternoon, Interment will be made in MacPhail Cemetery near his old home.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 6th.
"Cancer"

If July 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 8.30 a.m. to 9.30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

This date will prove to be a vivid link with the past, as old associations will be revived. The important events of the day will be in connection with the home and home ties, and little interest will be taken in outside affairs.

The child born July 5th will be cursed by the habit of procrastination. It will for ever be in search for lost time. It will have a cautious nature, and a very frugal one. An even temper, and a placid nature will, however, make its personality attractive.

You have a fastidious, very reserved, and very independent character. You are a stickler for form and formalities—your manners are perfect. It is expected that you will do the right thing at the right time. Life interests and amuses you, and your admirers are legion, but few ever feel that they really know you, or are near to you. Your aloofness is a guard against familiarity.

You dislike gossip and back-slapping human beings. If you are not a warm friend, you are a sincere one, and you never betray a confidence. Your magnetism and fascinating charm has the power to kindle the inward emotions of love in others, but you will never be scorched by these fires yourself. You are not willing to take the bitter with the sweet, and it is doubtful if you will ever allow yourself to really love any one. Your fear of pain has made you shut the doors against the sweetest thing in life. You will never throw your whole heart and soul into anything, and your attitude toward your work will be too superficial to bring about the results which could be expected from one of your ability. You will never take off your mask and the world will never know whether you are happy or successful, or not.

Successful People Born July 6th.

HARD TIME PARADE DRAWS

the precipitator, but not so good for the unsuspecting spectator. Decorated cars carrying clinging humanity from stem to stern interspersed the parade, and lent another note with blaring horns. Clowns capered, numerous god pans "did their stuff", babies were wheeled in quaint vehicles, and several old Fords showed that they could still draw a laugh, in spite of their more dignified sisters, parked on the side lines, frowning on the unseemly antics of her less fortunate relative.

Boy friends hugged their girl friends—or someone elses, it mattered little. Every one was somebody's pal, and they, one and all made a good job of being one.

Following the route of fun through the main streets, the rollickers, followed by the onlookers, trailed their way to the armouries for the closing dance of the Old Home week. All those who were in costume were admitted to the large dance floor free but those who were without the ceremonial robes, paid for their entertainment.

With the colored New Yorkers beating a lively step the paraders whirled round and round the hall until called to a halt by the costume judges. Then began the task of picking the best from the crowd, and no mean task it was. The three judges, Miss Cathleen McCarthy, Dr. J. J. Craig, and J. O. De La Plante debated some time before they finally decided that the fancy costume was won by Sherman Preston, Oshawa, an old Peterborough boy: the comic outfit, by N. L. Jones of Toronto attired as a hod carrier, who is attached to the "Noisy" number seven Canton Lodge; and the last prize, hard times, by Mrs Herman Schaupfer of Syracuse, N.Y. The prizes were put up by the dance committee, headed by Art Costello, and Reg. Sedgwick and ably assisted during the evening by Fred Scates.

Taking advantage of the fact that this was to be the last dance of the gala week, the floor soon resounded to shuffling feet as they slid along to the throbbing music of sentimental waltzes and fox trots, interspersed with the happy whirl of the old time barn dances—and so on into the morning.

GREAT BRITAIN IS PLANNING

for large districts. They had a difficult problem.

643 Electrical Undertakings

At the beginning of 1920 there were 532 separate electricity undertakings owing 475 generating stations. The number was growing rapidly. It now stands at 643 undertakings of which 380 are publicly owned. Notwithstanding restrictions on the industrial demand for power supplies and the retarding effect on the rate of growth of output caused by the fluctuating conditions of trade and industry, production of electricity since 1920-21 has more than doubled.

But there was another and possibly more difficult problem. The Commissioners found that standardization was missing. There were no fewer than 16 different frequencies of supply and a very large number of voltages of supply. Electrical equipment adapted for use in one area might be useless in another. The devoted husband who said it with an electric washer was appreciated till the household moved an another voltage. Then his troubles began; the washer would wash.

Another Act passed in 1926 brought into being the Central Electricity Board and a new regime. Progress had been made in the six years before. Many regional schemes for concentrating generation under joint electricity authorities had been investigated but the old electricity commission had no compulsory powers Cohesion necessary to give executive force to the scheme was lacking. Technical development moreover encouraged the view that the best plan was to envisage the whole country as one area for the purpose of generation.

MANY ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC

Junior Farmers' Picnic Held at Presqu'ile Point Is Successful Affair.

VARIED SPORTS PROGRAM.

PRESQU'ILE, July 6.—(Examiner Staff Coresrpondence)—Keen friendly competition in all lines of sport, a large crowd of interested spectators, and ideal weather all tended to the complete success of the third annual Junior Farmers Picnic held here yesterday. The sports program was carried out in the large field immediately south of the Presqu'ile Hotel. During the afternoon, the pavilion orchestra furnished music for dancing and many of the younger people remained for the evening program. Eight counties contested the athletic honors and when the smoke cleared, Durham County led the field with the high score of 47. Prince Edward was a close second at 41. Hastings was in third place with 32. The others were: Northumberland 22, Peterborough 14, Lennox and Addington 7. The boy's championship was won by T. Byrne of Hastings County. He scored 13 individual points. Miss Margaret Perrin, Port Hope was the high girl athlete with twelve points. Ontario County did not score any points.

The manager for the day was J. Y. Kellough. He was assisted by Joseph Wilson. The announcing was in the hands of J. B. Nelson. The list of umpires was composed of Ray Atkins, Stirling; Ralph Morden, Belleville; D. M. Beatty, Belleville; Geo. Wannamaker, Rednerville and William Balance, Napanee. The judging staff consisted of H. B. Cowan, Peterborough; Professor C. B. Sissons, Orono; W. J. Bell, Kemptville; Carman Strothers, Picton; Col. J. W. Odell, Cobourg; Harry Sirett, Brighton and R. S. Duncan, Toronto. W. H. Warren and Morley Webster of Brighton were the clerks. Members of the local committe were W. H. Smith, J. Y. Kellough, Joseph Wilson, F. J. Webster, John Goodfellow, C. Barber, George Ketcheson and Archie Doyle. A. D. Runions and M. H. Winter of Napanee and Lindsay respectively, were in charge of the horse shoe pitching.

Softball Finals.

Perhaps the most exciting event of the day was the softball. The finals in both the girls' and boys' series were held over till after the other events had been completed. In the boys' series, Hastings won the cup when they defeated the Northumberland nine by a score of fifteen-eleven in seven innings. J. L. Murray, Ontario Athletic Association, and C. A. Warren, of Kemptville, handled the final fixture in the boys' series. Hastings led the way practically all the time, in the fourth frame it was seven all round and in the sixth Hastings stepped to the front again with the score at nine to eight. Seven innings constituted the games in the series, finals included. After the last man was out Hastings had the best of it to the tune of fifteen to eleven.

In the girls series the final game was played between Lennox and Addington and Peterborough Counties. Peterborough won the round by the score of eighteen to eleven. The players were for Peterborough: H. Nelson, M. McCarthy, D. Gainor, J. Nelson, B. McCarthy, L. Bowie, F. McCarthy, I. Nelson and A. Nelson; for Lennox and Addington: M. Scott, J. Wartman, B. BENNETT ENDS ONTARIO TOUR

LEAVES FOR CALGARY.

(By Thomas Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 6.—Completing his Ontario speaking tour here last night, Hon. R. B. Benntt left for Calgary this morning. He is scheduled to arrive Monday morning at his destination, where he will rest and give his personal attention to a number of matters after an absence of several months.

The Conservative leader has no speaking engagements until he opens his British Columbia tour at Windermere, B.C., on July 25. His itinerary through the Pacific coast province will cover a month approximately. He will be accompanied for part of his journey at least by General A. D. McCrae, Chief Conservative whip, and Sir Geo. Perley, M.P., for Argenteuil

In his speech here last night, Mr. Bennett said the injurious efect of the tariff policy of the Mackenzie King government was evidenced by official figures just issued. Canada was steadily spending more money in other countries in the purchase of goods than she was receiving from the sale of her own goods. Every months of the present year, he continued, indicated an increasing adverse balance of trade. He urged the development and manufacture of domestic natural resources in Canada.

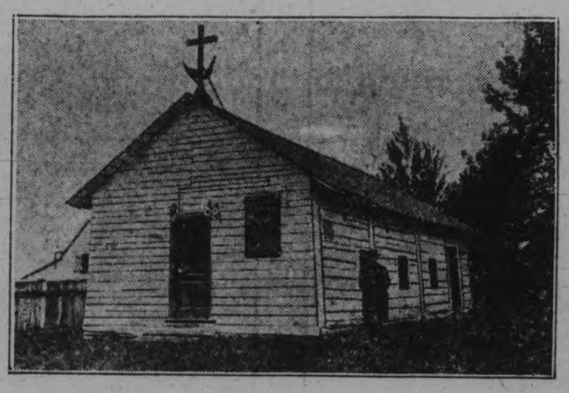
"Man of Good Heart" Honoured by Statue



Father Albert Lacombe, of the Missionary Order of the Order of Mary Immaculate, whose fame is part of the history of Western Canada, so impressed his Indian friends by his devotion, his sincerity and his zeal that they called him "The Man of the Good Heart." Father Lacombe left Montreal in 1849 and set out for Red River and thus began a career of 67 years service in his chosen calling. In 1861 Father Lacombe founded Saint Albert, a community nine miles from Edmonton on the Athabaska branch of the Canadian National Railways. There he died almost a nonogenarian and there his body rests. Now the Old Timers Association of Alberta have obtained the funds for a statue to this wonderful pioneer and it will soon be formally unveiled. The structure shown above is the first chapel built by Father Lacombe in 1861 and it afterwards became the first cathedral of Mgr. Grandin, first Bishop of St. Albert. This modest cathedral is being taken over by the Historic Monuments Commission and will become a memorial of the early west.

The New "Endurance" A DOMINION TIRE Achievement

TO build a good tire is difficult enough. But to build a good tire to sell at a price usually paid for "seconds" is a triumph of tire engineering.

"Endurance" is a quality tire in every part, and it is only on account of the long experience and immense manufacturing facilities of the Dominion Rubber Company that it can be sold at a low price.

Its massive carcass is built of web fabric with no cross threads. Every cord surrounded and saturated with rubber to minimize heat generation.

Between the plies are thick cushions of resilient rubber to deaden the shocks and to assure easy riding comfort.

New tread design makes ample provision for sudden braking and quick starting. It gives speed without suction or noise.

Judge this tire not by its low price but by its service, its mileage, its freedom from trouble, and you will find it far superior to many a higher priced tire.

Judge it by its service not by its low price

REFLECTS NEW SPORTS LINES

THE STYLE No. 2840 with finely-plaited skirt, front panel, higher belt, and yoke neckline, reflects the newest sports vogue. It is sketched in white tub silk, which is a popular choice because it may be worn with coat or cardigan jacket of different shades, which provides novelty to wardrobe. It's a type that also adapts itself to filmy crepe and is especially lovely in chiffon in floral pattern. Printed voile, shantung, dimity, printed pique, linen and rajah silk make up splendidly.

THE PATTERN has a Picture Chart, a new method of explaining how to make it. It's so simple, a child could easily understand it. The entire construction of the garment is laid before you in Pictures, showing each part as it is to be joined. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW

Peterborough Old Home Week is here, and Peterborough city people and many rural, have made especial efforts to beautify their homes.

One of the points the Women's Institute emphasises is the beautifying of the home, not simply for the sake of some especial time, but for the mental and moral effect on the home itself, and through that mental and moral effect, produce a physical effect, for it is an accepted fact that mental and moral conditions do effect the physical and the physical in turn effects the mental and moral.

The men need the refining effect of cared for beauty, and it is good for them in every way to help make, and keep their homes beautiful. If the home is beautiful inside and out, it is easier to teach the children—and the men too—to be carefful. It teaches the children to know and love beauty. Beautiful surroundings tend to elevate, and take the mind away from the grind.

Then too, the woman in the house has a right to beauty. Many a completely discouraged woman, might have been happy could she have had only a little beauty in her life, or even felt that the man for whom she is giving the best of herself, would only give her a chance to have something pretty outside and inside.

A pretty lawn, with flowers and shrubs rests people, even if they can only look at it for a few minutes.

The same thing holds inside. There is no encouragement for any one to try to keep the home neat, if the walls, ceilings and floors cannot be made anything but ugly.

In this connection too, covers the cultivating of food taste in choosing pictures and hanging them, choosing furniture and wall coverings.

The working classes are helping in this line and one cannot help but notice the difference that has taken place in what was considered beautiful, even twenty-five years ago.

Homes and home surroundings cannot be too beautiful, and the surroundings and furnishings need not be expensive, but they do need thought and care.

MILLBROOK

A "Young Mothers" meeting is a suggestion that comes from the Acton Institute which carried out such a gathering successfully in recent months.

The younger mothers among the members prepared the program which included piano duets, vocal solos and duets, readings, and a paper on "The Influence of the Home", all of which was most interesting and entertaining, and drew forth many favorable comments from the listeners. Refreshments for such a meeting are optional, but in the case mentioned they were served, and added to the enjoyment of the social hour at the close.

Interesting the girls in Institute activities is something of a problem, as each branch knows, but in one section they are now doing this by having a 'Gardening and Canning' competition, with eighteen years as the age limit for contestants. Prizes will be given the ones who meet the terms laid down, the list of flowers and vegetables being specifially named, as well as the varieties of fruits and vegetables to be entered in the 'canning' section of the contest. The prize winners will exhibit their jars of fruit and vegetables at the fall fair, and enter bouquets of flowers and vegetables from the garden plots as well.

"Canadian Handicrafts" is a good subject for a paper at a regular Institute session, and have the members bring samples such as quilts, rugs, bedspreads, tea-cloths, centrepieces and end cloths, with knitted and crocheted articles. The display will be educational, and the exchange of patterns will promote a friendly spirit, and stir up a desire among the members generally to do more along this line as time and opportunity permit. In one branch they had such a meeting and gave a prize for the best article made from a flour sack. It was amazing what was shown manufactured from this homely article—a house dress; a bath mat; aprons; a child's school dress; laundry bag; and other things useful, and all of them attractive with embroidery, applique, or other trimming.

Asking the members to bring a home-made labor-saving device for use in the kitchen, the dining-room, or a bedroom, the cost not to exceed one dollar, was tried by one Institute and the meeting was certainly not lacking either in interest, or education. The suggestion is passed on to other branches as a workable one, and worth trying out during the winter months.

"Invite a neighboring branch to visit your Institute one month, and provide the program, the hostess organization supplying refreshments for the social hour", suggests an active and successful officer from a central part of the province. "We did this and had a splendid time together, besides promoting a friendly interest and learning many helpful hints from the way the 'other fellow' does business."

FASHION SERVICE

The white evening gown is considered very smart this season, but Lelong has given one more reason for its popularity in this frock of tulle.

WHITE IS FAVORED COLOR FOR SUMMER EVENING GOWN.

I have created this evening gown in white tulle feeling that white is one of the most exquisite of all colors for summer wear. Bearing in mind the purity of white, I have kept the design very simple, concentrating the entire interest in the full long skirt, and in no way breaking the slender upper column of the body.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

THOSE VARICOSE VEINS.

You may have some varicose or thickened veins in the legs and wonder just what should be done about it.

If there are just a few, not heavy and standing out like heavy cords, and there is no pain, heaviness, nor swelling in the legs, it is just as well to forget about it.

However, if the veins are very thick, and extend upward into the thigh, there is heaviness, tiredness, and swelling, it would be wise to have them removed either by the knife or injection method.

There are cases also of ulcers of these veins, and sometimes old skin ailments, like eczema, that simply will not heal or clear up.

Now the reason for this refusal to heal, or delay in healing, is that the return flow of blood to the heart is being interfered with in some way.

Sometimes it is tight garters, perhaps standing in one position too long as in the case of motormen, policemen and others.

What really happens in these legs?

The circulation is so interfered with that used blood, blood with poisons in it, on its way back to the heart, moves so slowly, that it remains too long in this region, hence the "slowness" in building up, or healing, in the tissues of thi region.

The rapidity with which ulcers or skin ailments will heal up if the patient can "get off his feet" is astonishing.

Where the condition is not too bad, if tight garters are removed and the patient will walk a little every day, or raise his body on his toes, a number of times daily, he will help to pump the blood upward back to the heart.

Upward massage of the legs has proven helpful also.

If you are overweight, it would be wise to get your weight down to normal or nearly normal.

The thought then about varicose veins in the leg is that the blood in the leg contains less oxygen and more carbon dioxide, and should be moved along as above.

If the veins are too thick and tortuous then they should be removed, either by operative removal or by slow injection method.

These methods are both safe now.

Our Children

CROSS CHILDREN

What's the matter? A child is not cross unless he is ailing, or weary. Before going on sit down and think about what happened to the child during the past twelve hours and try to discover the cause of his crossness.

Is he getting a new tooth? That is a hurting process and most children fret under it. A cooling mouth wash, something hard to bite will help. Remember to ask the doctor about the child's diet during teething time. It sometimes needs adjustment.

Which reminds us. Is there one physician who takes charge of your children or do you have first this one and then another and then another? I am a firm believer in the one doctor idea. This one doctor gets a chance to know his patient. Give him a chance. Let him watch the baby grow and very soon he will sense the kind of child he is, get a notion of his characteristics, physical and mental, and know what do to with him and for him. Get a good family doctor and hold to him. He is a blessing scarcely appreciated until the years have disclosed his kindly ministrations.

Perhaps the child has an earache. Perhaps he has lost sleep. It may be that he has been frightened or teased. Maybe his routine has been broken. If he is accustomed to being fed at ten in the morning and it is well past eleven and no sign of his feeding he is likely to be cross. There is always a reason. Sometimes it can be remedied immediately and sometimes it requires time. Still one should study the cause before trying to apply the remedy.

Once a baby cried and cried and its mother fed and fed him because when the nipple stopped his mouth he could not cry, I suppose, for when we examined him we found that his wool binder had wrinkled and made a big welt across the abdomen. The perspiration and wriggling and woolen bandage in combination had made a very unhappy situation. It would have made any of us cry in bitterness of spirit to have been subjected to such treatment.

And sometimes a baby seems to cry because he wants to cry. That means we cannot find the reason. We try to see that he is entirely comfortable; that he is fed regularly and lightly; that he is left alone; that he is kept quiet as possible. If he continues to cry after that course of treatment we send for his doctor.

Saying a baby is cross is saying that he needs attention. Something has gone wrong. His crossness is our signal to get to work searching for the cause of the trouble. Healthy babies are not cross.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

By Annebelle Worthington

SMALL folk of 2, 4, 6 and 8 years are keeping cool these warm summery days in their sheer cotton frocks.

The one sketched in Style No. 2933 is just precious. It is so entirely girlish. One is instantly attracted by its quaintness.

The fullness in skirt all falls from shoulder yokes. The bertha collar with deep point at front is quite like older sister and mother is wearing. It's the newest vogue of Paris.

The medium chosen for this cute frock also copies the elder mode, for it is the fashionable red and white printed dimity, noted everywhere smart folk gather.

It's an opportunity not to be overlooked. You can make it in an hour. The small cost will amaze you.

Other interesting ideas for its development that you will like quite as well are orchid and white checked gingham with white organdie collar and pink and white candy stripe in tub silk with white collar.

Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department. The New Fashion Magazine is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern.

Orioles Cut Down Lead of Rochester Red Wings

TORONTO CLUB WEAKENS IN THE FOURTH FRAME TO ALLOW SEVEN RUNS TO CROSS PLATE

Batting Rampage Gives Orioles 9-4 Victory—Reading Wins.

TRIS SPEAKER OUSTED.

Newark Manager Enters Argument With Umpire Carroll in Montreal Game.

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—(Canadian Press).—One bad inning ruined the Leafs chances of getting away to a good start in the six-game series with the Baltimore Orioles which opened at Maple Leaf Stadium yesterday afternoon before a fair-sized week day crowd. The Birds annexed a 9 to 4 victory, mainly due to a rampant attack in the fourth inning, during which they hammered out seven hits off the combined offerings of Clarence Fisher and Don Hankins for a total of seven runs. The frame wrecked the day for the Leafs. They never recovered from that seven-run setback, and the birds gained a game on the leading Rochester Red Wings as a result, Reading springing a pleasant surprise by shunting the McKechnie clan for a loss.

ROYALS BEAT BEARS

MONTREAL, Que., July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Carl Fischer, Newark's southpaw pitching ace, was as wild as a hawk yesterday and the Royals bunched their six hits with his eight passed to score a 6-3 triumph. Nichols hurled well for Montreal until his sore arm gave out and Buckalew twirled the last three innings.

What looked like a tight pitching duel ended abruptly in the fifth with three runs. That made it a 5-to-0 margin for the Royals and it was just a parade after that.

Manager Tris Speaker and Russell Wrightstone were ordered out of the game by Umpire Carroll in the seventh for protesting a third strike on Wrightstone as the pinch-hitter fanned.

WINGS LOSE TO KEYS

ROCHESTER, July 6.—(Canadian Press).—Rochester lost to Reading here yesterday in the series opener, 7 to 6, as the Keys scored on a balk by Carleton in the tenth inning. The Red Wings opened up a 5-to-0 advantage in the first four innings, but from that point on the Key attackers took command of the situation to score in every inning. Lingrel hit a home run inside the park in the fourth and from that point until relieved after a collision at the plate with George Quellich, was in trouble.

Rally in Seventh To Beat Sox 11-10

CLEVELAND, July 6 (C.P.).—A 5-run rally in the seventh, the largest factor in which was "Bib" Falk's home run, gave the Indians an 11 to 10 victory over the White Sox in the final game of the series yesterday, and 4 to 2 edge for the set.

Though the White Sox knocked Jimmy Zinn and Willis Hudlin for twenty hits, they failed to bunch them as effectively as did the Indians, who made only twelve.

CLOSE FINISHES FEATURE RACES AT FAIR TRACK

Much Heated Discussion Follows Judges' Decision in 2.14 Class.

INDIVIDUAL RESULTS.

Every Race Terminates With Three or Four Horses Fighting For Winning Positions.

Close finishes that put the judges to the test in picking the winners as the horses tore under the wire neck-and-neck, featured the smart card of trotting races driven over the Exhibition Park track in connection with the Old Home Week program yesterday afternoon.

Every race terminated with three and four horses being bunched as they turned into the straight-away, fighting for position. There were more close finishes during the one afternoon than has been seen here for many, many years.

Under such conditions the position of the judges was not an enviable one. They were greeted by loud boos and bahs, when an almost dead heat in third run of the 2.14 class, they placed the popular choice, Daisy C, second. The judges were right; Lu Gratton dashed under the wire in front by something less than a nose, in a bursting flying spurt beginning at the last turn, after Daisy C had fought her way into what seemed to be a sure win. The crowd pulling hard for Daisy C's fifteen-year-old driver, "Dutch" Hopkins, was angered at the judge's choice. That one race was well worth the price of admission, and will lead to much heated discussion in racing stables all over Central Ontario.

Provides Close Competition.

Keendale, a three-year-old black mare, the youngest beast on the track bred and owned by C. F. Fife of Keene, ran in great form in all five of her heats to win first money in the 2.30 class. She was forced to the limit by Jean Ganot, four-year-old speed lady, owned by A. Chambers of Milton. These two had to run a special fifth heat to decide for first place in the $250 purse. After having run four and a half miles these two perfectly-strided fillies stepped off the last lap in 1 minute and 7 seconds.

That last driving finish for first was so close it was painful. Keendale led the full way around until coming down the stretch in the final lap; then young Chambers driving Jean Ganot, gave her the reins. Jean Ganot crept up on the flying heels of Keendale inch-by-inch and going under the wire only a neck separated her from victory.

The same keen competition and nose-win finishes were also part of every race in the 2.14 class, although these horses were slower than the younger and less experienced animals in the 2.30 class. Lu Gratton and Daisy C fought it out in every heat and the competition fever between these two was contagiously caught by the crowd, who placed their hopes upon Daisy C's clever young driver, "Dutch" Hopkins, son of Dr. Hopkins, the owner. A bad get-away in the fourth heat left Daisy C on the outside and she finished fourth giving Lu Gratton first purse.

Minnie Patchen, driven by J. Sutherland, was always up with the leaders, and she put a scare into H. House, Lu Grattons driver, in several of the runs. Time and time again she threatened to maintain her early lead, making the few that did pass her step.

In the 2.30 class ten of the best trotting horses for hundreds of miles around were competing, and the manner in which they ran off the mile on the fast half-mile track, was a pleasure to see. The first heat was clicked off in 2.15 with Jean Ganot out in front being closely pushed by Betty H. In the second run Jean Ganot repeated with even faster speed than in the first, Keendale forcing her to the limit.

Came from Behind.

In most of the races the eventful winners came up from behind to streak into the lead in a last dash in the straight-away and these speeding scrambles right in front of the grandstand sent the customers away in ecstacies of delight.

Betty H. spilled while in second place in the second heat of the 2.30 class. Luckily the drivers wheeled around the upset sulky without a pile up and the driver was uninjured.

While the tension was intense for the start of the final to decide first place between Keendale and Jean Ganot, and just as the horses were speeding down for the start, the supporting shaft of the right wheel on Keendale's sulky gave way. A new sulky was hitched to her and she went out and won in a crucial finish.

BETHEL SNATCHES SECOND VICTORY

Menie's Pennant Chances Are Slim As They Lose 15 to 8 Decision.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BURNBRAE, July 6. — Bethel put a decided crimp in Menie's pennant aspirations on Wednesday evening, when they defeated the locals at Menie 15 to 8. This is the second victory for the easterners over Menie, as they won the first game 27 to 14.

Springbrook was scheduled for the game of Wednesday, but dissension in the camp prevented them from making the trip so Bethel journeyed over to play the postponed game of last week.

Accidents marred the game and practically lost it from a Menie standpoint. In the first game Catcher Little took a foul tip in the eye and was forced to retire for repairs, Rannie taking his place and Whitton going to third. Just as Little returned, Rannie, making a wild dash for the plate, collided with Umpire Donald, with the result that Rannie was forced out of the game altogether, while the official suffered minor injuries.

Dodwell was the heavy scorer with three runs, while Gibson with four hits, was the heavy hitter for Bethel. Every Bethel player except Carlisle, crossed the plate.

Rannie, Eagleson, Shillinglaw and Hay accounted for two runs each, the last three getting three hits each. Frank Little also collected three bingles.

This win puts Bethel in first place with Menie second. The standing now is:

	Won.	Lost.
Bethel	2	1
Menie	3	2
Petherick's	2	3
Hoard's	2	3
Springbrook	2	3

The remaining games, are Bethel and Hoard's 2 games, Menie at Hoard's, Petherick's at Menie, Petherick's at Springbrook, Springbrook at Menie, Springbrook at Bethel, Bethel at Petherick's.

Should Springbrook drop out as rumor says they intend to do the remaining games with that town would probably count as wins for the other clubs. Hoard's is the only team to have played Springbrook twice, having won both times.

The line-up:

Bethel: G. Broadworth, p; A. Warren, c; M. Gibson, 1b; A. Dodwell, 2b; K. Broadworth, 3b; W. Warren, ss; P. Gibson, lf; G. Carlisle, cf; B. Heagle, rf; E. Broadworth, sub.

By innings:

Bethel ..... 3217002—15

PHILLIES BEAT CARDINALS 10-9

Philadelphia Victory Was Tenth Straight Defeat For League Champions.

HOMER FOR KLEIN.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (C.P.).—Jess Haines tried to slip a fast ball past "Chuck" Klein, first Philadelphia batter in the ninth inning, but Klein sent the sphere over the right-field barrier for his twentieth home run of the season, and the Phillies nosed out the Cardinals by 10 to 9.

It was the tenth straight defeat for the league champions, and left them only three games ahead of the fifth-place Brooklyn team.

LACROSSE CLUB RECEIVES GIFTS

Benefactors of Team Present Them With Nets, Irons and Sticks.

CONVENTION HELD.

MILLBROOK, July 6.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The local lacrosse club has received a number of gifts from interested friends which will help it to carry on more successfully for the rest of the season. Alf Gautt, of Toronto, a former Millbrook boy and one of the lacrosse enthusiasts of earlier days, has given the boys a dozen lacrosse sticks, and set of goal nets. T. J. Lang is another benefactor, his gift being irons for the nets. The sum of thirty dollars was realized by the boys from their sale of bonds, and the objective now in view is the purchase of sweaters to complete their distinctive outfit, when they expect to put on some lively games with teams from the neighboring towns. Fifty cents is the club membership fee.

Convention Held.

A convention, attended by approximately four hundred delegates from all parts of the province, was held over the week-end at Harry Riley's farm, Fallis Line, with at least fifty of the Christians, which is the only name chosen by this body of believers on Christ, as leaders in the services which were held three times daily.

Preparations for the big gathering has been going on for weeks in advance. One large tent was used for the daily devotional meetings, and another of mammoth size served for the dining-tent. The meetings were all open to the public, were deeply spiritual in character, and the delegates in attendance went home with a sense of renewed consecration, and an assurance of having 'sat together in heavenly places with Christ Jesus.'

A chef with two assistants, looked after the preparation and serving of the meals for the 'big family', a large shed having been cleared, thoroughly cleaned, and whitewashed for the storage of the large number of dishes required, and for other culinary purposes. The granary was also cleared out, and small buildings erected for the comfortable accomodation of the guests at night.

There are a number of families in this district who are allied with the 'Christian' movement, including Mr. Riley's and Mr. R. McInnis'. The meeting place for next year's convention has not yet been definitely settled.

Although Captain Cook, the famous explore, died 150 years ago, a tortoise which belonged to him is still alive and flourishing on the Island of Tonga, where it enjoys the native rank of "chief."

"RAZZING" THE UMPIRE DOES NOT APPEAL TO BRITISHERS

DISTINGUISHED PLAYERS.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 6. — Canadian baseball does not appeal to the British athlete and will never be introduced into the British Isles with success, according to members of the Oxford-Cambridge field and track team which has just arrived to compete with the best athletes Canada and the United States can place in the field against them. They were taken to see the Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs play in Montreal. "What do you think of it?" they were asked. "I do not understand it and cannot say that I like it,' one member replied. "This habit of yelling at the umpire is something quite foreign to the spirit of British sport. Intimidating the umpire would never be tolerated by the British sporting public."

The members of the team are, however, great admirers of Canada and Canadian athletes. Percy Williams, Jimmy Ball, Ethel Catherwood and Myrtle Cook appeal to them especially. "They are amazing, we admire them tremendously," was the verdict of a small group as they stood on the wharf shortly after they had landed. The group was composed of such notables as H. S. Townsend, Oxford's famous miler, and G. Wilkinson of Cambridge who is credited with stepping the hundred in less than ten seconds.

The team is not as entirely English as might be expected of a group chosen to represent the two famous universities. E. R. McGill, of Oxford, intercollegiate pole-vault champion, formerly enrolled at Florida University. B. M. Norton, another ten-second man on "the hundred," was a member of the United States Olympic team in 1924. A. E. Young, Cambridge, is an Australian. There are no former Canadians with the team although several Canadians, they say, are prominent in athletics in English university sports.

In all there are 22 in the party and the majority will participate in one or other of the various meets they are to attend. "I think that our visit will forge another link in the chain th.. binds the mother country to the Dominion," was the greeting given by Evan Hunter, Oxford, and Dr. R. S. Woods, Cambridge, co-managers of the team, to newspapermen who met them at the gangplank of the Ascania.

Sounds Professional

These athletes from the other side do not like the idea of paid coaches for university teams, or for that matter for any amateur teams. To them it smacks too much professionalism. In Great Britain they affirmed, there are no paid coaches at the universities. They thought that it would not be tolerated by governing bodies. "Sport in our universities," one member of the team stated, "is, I believe from what I have heard about conditions here far more of a side line than it is in Canada. It is, to us, very distinctly an after-study pastime. We are less interested in winning than you are here, I think. Perhaps it is that we are less interested in any form of success. Certainly everybody one has met from Canada seems to be very go-ahead."

Lord Burghley, internationally famous athlete, was not with the party. It was explained that he was unable to get away from his duties at home. Questioned about his recent defeats at the hands of a member of the team it was explained that the young peer was a member of the Guards regiment, and that his defeats had come after long hours on the parade ground, and not when he was in his finest fettle. England has great hopes that at the next Olympic games, he will repeat his Amsterdam victories.

Included in the personnel of the party are many well known figures in international sport. Prominent among these are: C. E. G. Green, Cambridge, who can do a mile in 4.21, and winner of the quarter mile and mile run against Oxford last year; C. E. S. Gordon, Oxford, high jumper, who represented Britain at the 1928 Olympics; W. E. Sartain, Cambridge, who has done the best jump in England this year—almost twenty-four feet, and D. M. Wilson, Cambridge, two miler, vice-captain of the team, and ex-president of the Cambridge Athletic Club. J. N. Mason, Cambridge, a half miler; J. Punphrey, Oxford two-miler.

Perhaps the most promising athlete in the team is R. M. N. Tisdall, of Cambridge, who has been responsible for Lord Burghley's two defeats, but great things are expected from other members of the group who are less prominent. W. ..entworth, Oxford, is expected to surprise the fans on this side in the half mile event.

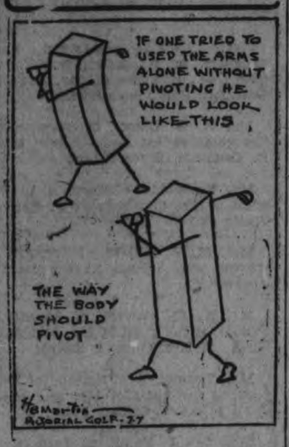
Discussed Many Themes

Leigh-Wood, foremost quarter-miler of Exford and member of the British Olympic team of 1928, and I. R. Mann, Cambridge, who is a sound 15 and one-fifth second man on the 120 high hurdles discussed many sporting themes. They thought the 1932 Olympics to be held in Los Angeles would be at too great a distance for many leading British athletes.

There is no desire on the part of British university athletes to enter professional sport, was their opinion. They thought the prospects of the British sports at the 1932 Olympics were "dazzling." Track and field interest is growing in the old land. Some of the team thought that the reason old country girls indulge in cross-country running is "to get their pictures in the paper."

"You mustn't believe all that the boys say," warned Dr. R. S. Woods, co-manager, a graduate of Oxford, member of the British Olympic council and a famous shot-putter. "Oxford lads would have you believe that they heartily despise Cambridge men, and Cambridge chaps would like to impress you with the story that Oxford never wins a sporting event. But it is all in fun. I have never seen a finer, more congenial joint team. They are fraternizing wonderfully. Oxford men are wearing Cambridge ties and Cambridge men have donned Oxford blazers."

PICTORIAL GOLF



DON'T FALL TOO FAR FORWARD ON PIVOT.

If our torsos and the head with it were made of wood, we would have a difficult time hitting a golf ball if we attempted to twist the body out of shape. If we swung at the ball in the right way, a wooden body would not be such a handicap as the hips, moving with the shoulders, would produce the proper pivoting motion.

The lower picture shows how we should use our body but care should be taken to keep it from falling forward too much. There is a natural tendency for the body to fall forward, but if it goes too far it means a shanked shot. This is an ailment hard to cure but easy to acquire.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Next week, Mac, the Petes hook up with this Belleville crew for 3 games, including a double bill here next Sat., and if Mister Swanston's lads don't toss a few bombs under Messrs. Mills, Gerow and Co., it looks like the Nationals for 1st place. Them birds has only dropped 3 ball games this season, Mac, 2 of them to the Petes, and if anybody is going to stop them railroaders it looks like the local talent will hafta do it. Ain't it a funny slant, Mac, that already the Nationals has beat Deloro 4 games in a row and Deloro in turn has smacked the Petes down 3 times in the same place, and yet Mister Swanston's lads has beat the Gerow entry twice in 3 starts this season. Next week is the chance for our lads. They go to Belleville Wed., and then tie into the Quinte fellows twice here on Sat., and it's up to the gang to toss in all they got and make the leaders like it. Right now the Petes is tramping on the heels of Deloro and Oshawa, and a good brake next week will shoot them right up the ladder.

Last Sat. the boys ended their losing streak by bumping the Oshawa Motorists in a game in which Mister Hardill, after getting away on the wrong foot, tightened up and hooked the visitors into submission. That win helped a lot, and if the Petes can repeat over Deloro this week-end they will be right back in the race with a bang. The umpiring in this affair was none too hot again, Mac. Mister Woodley, of Belleville, missed 2 plays in succession, but he didn't miss the third one that Mister Holyman tossed at him, thus demonstrating that his foot-work ain't a bit better than his eyesight, and that would seem to be terrible. The impression won't down that it was a lucky thing for Mister Woodley that the Petes finally won out, because the fans up in the stands was looking at him as if he was something the cat dragged in.

Old Home Week, Mac, brought back none other than our old baseball leader, Mister Jake Solomon. Mister Solomon is now a resident of Philadelphia, Pa., and claims the Athletics' winning streak is due to none other than him. Be that as it may, Mister Solomon swept into town on the first wave of the Old Home Week flood, and Wed. seen him on the coaching lines when the Petes hooked up with Kingston in one of them exhibition affairs. He had a busy p.m., too, even if the Petes did get finally nosed out by their old rivals. The Petes' old 3rd baseman, Mister Mickey Murray, of pro. hockey fame, was also prominent in said battle, figgering as base umpire, and he was kept active trying to keep Mister Solomon off of the diamond and Mister Compeau, of Kingston, quiet on the visitors' bench. The Kingston crew, even though they won, didn't look so hot, especially in the pitching department, but they had all their old luck against the Petes.

Well, Mac, don't overlook that doubleheader with Belleville here next Sat., with the 1st game at 2 o'clock. That oughta be the best baseball bill of the season, and I don't mean likely.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Add up the reasons for De Soto success

No car in the first year of its life can attain the leadership that De Soto has won without basically sound reasons at the root of that success.

De Soto gives more in performance than any other car in its field will give, and in addition it has an individuality of its own that sets it apart from any other car in any class.

De Soto is alert, nimble and speedy. It is easy to handle and has surprising riding qualities. Its prompt acceleration is remarkable, and its braking is positive and instantaneous because of its hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—not to be found on any other low-priced six.

It is economical to operate, and it is so staunch and sturdy in construction that maintenance is a negligible factor.

Being Chrysler-built it carries the mighty prestige of a Chrysler creation and has an exceptionally high trade-in value.

De Soto Six is a smart and stylish car of which any owner is proud. We invite you to get behind the wheel and experience the thrill—today and without the slightest obligation.

ATTEMTING THE IMPOSSIBLE

New York's Police Commissioner has ordered traffic policemen to be courteous.

If a traffic policeman should ask you to halt,
In a tone that was far from acerb
And observe: " beg pardon, I may be at fault
But I wish you'll pull up to the curb,
Of course, in the case of a wrongful arrest
To the court you may promptly appeal"
You might look him straight in the eye and protest,
But you'd probably faint at the wheel.

If a traffic policeman should say: "I'm afraid
That you drove your car past a red light,
And you may be in need of an oculist's aid—
Correct me if I am not right."
You might be convinced for an instant or two
That your vision was just a bit hazy
And that passing the light was a fool thing to do;
But you'll probably think she was crazy.

If a traffic policeman should follow your car
And when he had caught you at last
Remark: "It may be I am going too far,
But I fear you were going too fast."
Perhaps you might say you were keeping the pace
Set by all of the cars on the block
But observing a smile on the officer's face
You would probably die of the shock.

If traffic policemen should all turn polite
And be gentle and kindly and bland,
The whole population would think with affright
That the end of the world was at hand.
And motorists mostly would sit in a daze
While attempting to credit their ears.
If a traffic policemen would alter their ways—
But they won't, in the next thousand years.

FRENCH PLAYER BEATS BOROTRA

Captures For Second Straight Time After Impressive Display of Tennis.

AMERICANS WIN DOUBLE.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6 (C.P.)—Henri Cochet of France won the British tennis championship to-day by defeating his countryman, Jean Borotra, in the final match.

Cochet, who won the same title in 1927, captured the crown this year in one of the most impressive displays of tennis ever seen on the courts of Wimbledon. Bill Tilden and Borotra, two of the greatest players of the day, were smothered by him in three straight sets, the American getting but ten games and the Basque but 11.

AMERICANS WIN DOUBLES

WIMBLYEDON, Eng., July 6 (C.P.)—John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison of the United States won the British tennis championship in men's doubles to-day by deefating Briton's best pair, J. C. Gregory and J. G. Collins, in the final, 6—4, 5—7, 6—3, 10—12, 6—4.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6 (A.P.)—France has a firm grip on the masculine honors of world tennis but no nation has nominated a rival able to threaten Helen Wills' monopoly on feminine laurels.

Her feat in trouncing Helen Jacobs, another Californian, 6—1, 6—2, on Wimbledon's famous centre court yesterday gave Miss Wills her third British championship in as many years, and her second in a row without the loss of a set.

Her victory in the current championships was more impressive than either of her other two. In 1927 she lost one set and 43 games in taking the title. In 1928 she dropped 18 games but no sets. This year she lost no sets and only 16 games.

Miss Wills' easy triumph over Miss Jacobs indicated among other things that the Berkeley girl will have little trouble defending her American title this fall.

Cochet Meets Borotra

The final of the men's singles today brought together the French aces, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, and the women's doubles found two British teams, Mrs. Phoebe Watson and Mrs. Peggy Saunders, title-holders paired again Miss Phyllis Covell and Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd Barron.

The final of the mixed doubles finds Joan Fry and I. G. Collins of England matched against Miss Wills and Frank Hunter of the United States.

A large crowd of tired but determined British tennis fans waited outside the courts at Wimbledon this morning for the finals to-day.

Many of the crowd had waited since yesterday, undismayed by wind, rain, nor lack of sleep. At dawn to-day the queues were so long many arriving considered it hopeless and not worth their while to wait.

People near the start of the lines sold their places for a pound each (about $5.00) while the scalpers were trying to get ten to fifteen sterling for centre court seats.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS For EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

It's a good thing that a strong four-foot wire fence separates the spectators from the race track down at the Exhibition Park. Perhaps, if that fence hadn't looked so formidable, the committee might have been looking for new judges for the races to-day. Threats of dire murder came out of the stands when the winner in one of the races was announced yesterday.

It was the third heat in the 2.14 class—and what a race. Daisy C. carried the hopes of the crowd because of the youth of her driver, "Dutch" Hopkins, fifteen-year-old son of the owner, Dr. Hopkins of Cooksville. Daisy C., had been cleverly wheeled out in front of the pack in the last quarter-mile. Coming down the home stretch Lu Gratton was given the reins and she streaked along gaining inch by inch on the popular filly. Going under the wire Lu Gratton was ahead by something less than a nose, and that is how the judges called them. Minnie Patchen ran a bang up third in the same race, one of the best of the great card.

The customers weren't pleased with the judge's decision and they sure expressed their displeasure.

Every heat was a race, with the winners coming in to snatch victory on the home stretch. It was these driving finishes with the horses running neck-and-neck in twos and threes across the course that made these races the best that have been seen here for many a day.

The youngsters in the 2.30 class flipped off the mile in faster time than the horses in the 2.14 class. Jean Ganot and Keendale battled each other around the track in all five heats of this race, and these two were forced to run a final heat to decide first money. Keendale won by a neck and the two were clocked in that last half at one minute and seven seconds.

The defeat of Joe Wright by L. Gunther in the finals for the Diamond Sculls, will come as a surprise and disappointment to Canadians, and to the whole British Empire. Wright had already rowed two gruelling tests to reach the finals, and it is likely that much of his great strength was sapped in the race with Guest, and again yesterday in the stiff go with F. Bradley of Pembroke. Gunther, on the other hand, had little to do, beating Viscount Tiverton with ease.

To-day was the third time in succession that Wright has rowed in the finals. Like the iron-hearted Argo crew he went to defeat battling to the last inch, being beaten by one single yard.

Dan Howley will not be with the St. Louis Browns next year. Dan made this official announcement just the other day. It was to be expected the going is so rough on the St. Louis, what with the players cliqued in three or four different camps, along with the interference of the owners, that it was no bed of roses for any manager.

It is intimated that Howley may be handed the presidency of the Toronto team, and again it is rumoured that Howley may be with Detroit next year.

TINKER TO EVERS TO CHANCE.

That was the deadly double-play tune of other days. Joe Tinker, of the famous trio, was telling John Kiernan some of his ideas on the modern game and in his column, Sports of the Times, the gifted New York writer, parsed them on as follows:

"What side do you take in the argument between the modern heroes and the old-timers? Are the players getting better or worse?"

"I think they're improving. Why shouldn't they? Practically, everything else improves, doesn't it. Why should ball players get worse?"

"Do you think modern pitchers compare with old-time moundsmen?"

"There's a big difference. These birds out there now are working under a big handicap, what with the rules against trick deliveries and being handed a new white ball on almost every other pitch. Just give them the leeway the old boys had, and you'll see pitching that is pitching."

"You mean the emery ball, the shine ball, and all that?"

"Sure, and the spitball. Look how the few spit-ballers have hung on and how well they've been doing. The magnates handicapped these other pitchers on purpose. They wanted more hitting, and they're getting it. But just let the boys monkey with that ball at bit, and you'll see another picture. A new ball is hard to curve, and it goes further when it's hit. These fellows are throwing with new balls all the time. They haven't got much of a chance."

"Right you are. Why, old Tom Hughes—the umpire would throw him a new ball, and he'd rub tobacco juice over it so that it was black—absolutely black—the first time he'd throw it. Remember Bedient that was with Boston? He had a big patch of glue on his uniform. Put it on himself and dusted it with emery. He'd take the ball, smack it once against that emery, and he'd make it dance a jig on the way to the plate. Russ Ford had an emery patch in his glove. All of 'em had tricks of some sort. Now, they throw out a ball as soon as it has a scratch on it. In the old days the ball used to stay in, and how the boys could twist it when the cover began to scar and work loose!"

TRACK MEET AT HAMILTON

Noted British University Squad Here For First Time in Twenty Years.

COMPETITION WILL BE KEEN.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 6.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Athletes of the Motherland and of the Dominion will clash here this afternoon when the Oxford-Cambridge track and field team competes with members of the Hamilton Olympic Club in a dual meet at Hamilton's civic stadium.

Refreshed by their training here after their Atlantic trip, the Britons are in excellent condition, while the Hamilton boys have been training faithfully for their great duel with their opponents from overseas. The dual meet will consist of 12 events in each of which one or more of the 22 British athletes will compete. In addition there will be eight open contests in which non-members of the Olympic Club may compete to fill out an afternoon of high-class track and field competition.

The Oxford-Cambridge team is the first English University squad to come to this country in more than 20 years and the first to engage a city club in competition. Eight of the athletes are from Oxford University and 14 from Cambridge. On the team are eight Rhodes scholars— three from the United States, four from Australia and one from South Africa. Three members of the British Olympic of 1928 and two of the America team of 1924 are in the party.

COMEDY - - - REVIEW

TO OUR PATRONS!

Beginning Monday, the REGENT THEATRE will close for a short period for the installation of the Very Latest and Best Talking and Sound Picture Equipment.

WATCH FOR OPENING DATE.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Home Towners" Geo. M. Cohan's Great Stage Hit. At the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday —All talking."

"The Home Towners" is the latest all-star picture of Warner Bros., and the most perfect talking picture. If others have been thrilling or glamorous, or the last word in the ludicrously uncanny, "The House Towners" is genial, chuckling, and altogether delightful.

The cast is made up of stars of the stage, all of whom have trained for it. The famous Richard Bennett, now playing "Jarnegan" on the Broadway stage, is featured with beautiful Doris Kenyon; Robert McWade, who played the same role in the New York production of George M. Cohan's famous play from which "The Home Towners" is adapted, plays the same part in the screen version. Robert Edeson, Gladys Brockwell, John Miller, Vera Lewis, Stanley Taylor, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron, all names to conjure with, are also prominently cast.

The story has to do with a small town business man who comes with his wife to the Big Town, to free his boyhood pal, now a millionaire, from his infatuationfor a young woman, whom the country friend is assured is roping his old crony in. The tangle that follows and the untangling, makes a comedy of unique and inexplicable charm. Addison Burkhart and Murray Roth did the screen adaptation. Bryan Foy directed.

DELIVERY OF MYSTIFYING "GOOGLIE" BAALL

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South passing, West, with minimum strength, bids one Diamond. North, though holding three suits stopped including Diamonds, is too weak to bid No Trump with a passing partner. East's bid would be sound even had his partner passed.

Contract: East's forcing take-out bid of two Hearts is raised to three by West, holding normal support for the suit. East, despite his partner's support, then bids three No Trumps for game, the distribution of the hand favoring its play at No Trump, unless West holds better than normal support for Hearts. West, not holding such better support, allows the No Trump bid to stand.

The Play

South opens the Queen of Clubs and East holds up on the principle that lacking sure game it is advisable to exhaust leader's partner of the suit led if possible before beginning the development of the hand, provided no shift is feared. East wins the second lead of Clubs and leads the 4 of Diamonds, playing Dummy's Queen. North allows the Queen to wig, establishing thereby a tenace position over Dummy's King-10. Declarer enters his hand with a Heart and leads another Diamond, this time finessing the 10, which loses to North's Jack.

North now leads the King of Spades, sacrificing a sure trick in the suit in order to remove Dummy's only entry, thus preventing the Declarer from bringing in the suit after its establishment. Declarer wins with Dummy's Ace, and realizes that his only hope for game now rests upon the establishment of a long Heart and the successful finesse of the 10 of Spades. The Spade finesse wins and Declarer then leads a low Heart to retain control of the suit while still holding Clubs and Spades protected. North wins with the Queen and after making his Ace of Diamonds, leads the 9 of Hearts. East comes up with the Ace and South refuses. The Heart suit thus failing to break, East plays his high Spade and high Club and loses the last trick to North's 7 of Hearts.

North's successful defense of the hand, resulting in saving game, was due to two brilliant plays. First, holding up on the first Diamond trick. Had he won it, Declarer upon getting in, would lead a low Diamond allowing an adversary to win, and would still have a Diamond left with which to put Dummy in for three Diamond tricks. The second brilliant play was the sacrifice of the King of Spades to remove Dummy's entry. Had either of these plays not been made, Declarer would have gone game.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

The Deloro Troop is recommencing its weekly meetings now that the various school examinations are over. Next Saturday a hike will be arranged in the afternoon, weather being not too severe, and a few more outdoor tests passed.

In the Dominion Day celebrations the troop was proud to find its two senior scouts come in first respectively in the two road races. Troop Leader Manley Emmorey leading the runners in the 5 mile race for boys of Hastings County 21 years and under, while Patrol Leader Will Simmons won handily the 3 mile race for boys 16 years and under. While in past years the troop has had representatives in both races make very good showings. This year's record will be quite a mark to aim at in the future. Some of the Wolf Cubs were noticed in the junior race and their motto "Never give in" was exemplified by all finishing the course.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE BY STORM

All Central Ontario Suffers When Heaviest Rain in Years Falls.

ALL CROPS BATTERED.

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—(C.P.)—The weather cleared in Central Ontario to-day after one of the fiercest rain storms in years which battered the city and neighboring districts last night. For a brief time half the city was thrown in darkness, the street car service was disrupted and two Hydro sub-stations were put out of commission. Two street cars were struck and one man's eyesight is endangered as the result of being struck by lightning.

Crops were reported to-day to have been badly damaged by the storm which struck rural districts as well as the city. Farmers at Newmarket were heavy losers when the rain flattened fields of grain, ruining many acres of fall wheat which would have been ready for cutting in a week or two. At Grimsby and in the Jordan and Vineland districts the wind did considerable damage to cherry, apple and plum trees. Loss of 7,000 was sustained when a large barn at Elora was completely demolished by lightning.

Western Ontario also felt the storm, barns and cattle being struck near Stratford. High tension power lines were brought down across telephone wires, disrupting lighting and communication services.

According to Toronto weather officials the rainfall here during the storm was the greatest in years.

FORMER CITY EDITOR WAS GREAT NEWSPAPERMAN SAYS MARSHALL

Old Reporter Pays Tribute to the Late Ernie McKeely of The Examiner Staff.

LABOR NOT SO RADICAL.

(Written by Dr. Fred G. Marshall, Montreal, Quebec, President of the Quebec Osteopathic Association, former Examiner reporter.)

The linotypes are gobbling up the final copy, and the last page is in the forms. A few minues and another sheet will be on the street. The news room is quieting down, but the city editor and his boys still hang by the telephone, sometimes hoping and sometimes fearing its ominous ring may mean a last minute pregnant slug.

These gentlemen of the press enjoy privilege and an experience that they will not fully appreciate until they are out of the game forever. They hold the world's pulse; the madnesses, follies, sins, joys and virtues of all humanity flow and ebb about them. Impartial spectators on the great game of life, they serve a relentless master—the reading public. Their job is never finished. When one edition is still wet off the presses they are busy on the next. Long hours and poor reward! If you ask them about it they will cynically tell you that the wise ones quit. It is more true that they graduate, for no school provides a better training, none such an array of experiences and reactions from which to select a lode star on one's life work. Canadian newspaper may well be proud of the long list of great statesmen and public benefactors who got their first slant on human nature running a "dead-beat", or doing police court, and most of our great lawyers heard their first case from the press table.

A craft of men, hard-working, true to a trust, trained to cull the wheat from the chaff(not rich in worldly goods, but in human sympathy and understanding.

The Evening Examiner has brought its plant and organization up to the big city standard, and an ever increasing circulation testifies to the support and good-will of its readers. But with all the increased facilities for news reception and the handling of copy, those of us who labored far into the night ten years may be pardoned if we contend that the quality of the news writing has not kept pace. That is probably just egotism. No doubt the staff today are just as proud of their work as we were. How our careers tottered and ambitions sank when Ernie McKeely threw our cherished work in the basket! The kindest—and at that moment— the most cruel of men. The staff loved Mac. His chair is empty now. Just a few years ago he went on the last Great Assignment. A real newspaperman, true as steel, keener and more clever than any of us, but never officious, always restrained unassuming and a coach and inspiration to every cub.

Morning, Noon and Night

Our day at the office began with the morning bulletin, and wound up in the early morning hours when Ed. Finnie came in to get warm and interrupted the celebration process. A lot of work was a labor of love. We liked the game and we liked our chief, and if there were night assignments (there always were!) no one shirked.

If council meetings got drowsy we hoped Frank Barber would come in and ask for another hundred thousand to finish (?) the bridge. That generally started something, even if Frank invariably got his request. Often enough we covered three or four meetings the same night, and what a pile of notes we had—especially in the cub days. As time went on we trimmed these down to the bone. How I admired the old timers who came down from Toronto for the political meetings and snored through the biggest part of them. Later I found out that they knew word for word exactly what would be said, having listened to the same voluminous in dozens of towns and hamlets.

An election always increased our responsibilities, but gladdened our hearts with vitriolic copy. There were many country trips over wet and uncertain roads, overnight stops at country hotels, and much abusing of telegraph and telephone communications.

Trades and Labor Council

As I recall many regular assignments I believe the Trades and Labor Council in the halycon days of Labor, when they ruled the Provincial nest and assayed to do the same at Ottawa, furnished the most dependable fireworks. When some particularly radical movement was under heated discussion we were often invited to leave but most of the time we could stay if we stopped up our ears. In the early days I was alarmed at their manifestations against a Bourgeois press and its representatives but I soon learned that the delegates bark was worse than their bite.

Most everyone treated the reporters tolerantly well. Some of it may have been out of respect for the power of the press, often I fear it was out of pity. But the city editor asked no questions how we got our stories as long as we got them. A reporter must never fail. It's as much as his job is worth to come back to the office 'with out the bacon'. One night I had to cover a distinguished Toronto clergyman who has been prominent in the papers recently. His ecclesiastical oration was over my head, and when he was through I didn't have a single note. I promised him there'd be nothing in the paper if he didn't help me out. Promptly he produced a St. Johns, N. B. clipping and assured me it was exactly the same subject, and the people would never know what I hadn't written it. Probably they didn't. But I certainly admired the ability of that reporter in the Maritimes!

The Courts

We necessarily frequented the various courts a great deal, and of all the officials I have only the kindest of memories. I presume His Honor Judge Huycke still has trouble with the cubs getting their legal technicalities tragically, and often humorously, confused. However His Honor had a world of patience with their unintentional errors. The one bright spot in many dull manquets I attended was His Honoro's address. I did sincerely enjoy them. It always seemed that he had that rare and happy faculty of saying just the right thing at the right place, in the right way.

The addresses of Mr. R. R. Hall, K. C. also were among the best we ever reported. He was as keen as a new knife, witty and at his best on the election hustings. I did like the fire he put into it much better than Premier Drury's kissing and patting of fat babies at farmer's picnics in the county.

Magistrate Dumble

Police Court under the late Magistrate Dumble provided us with plenty of comedy, but out of respect for the good name of some of the leading citizens, who occasionally appeared there, with not so much copy. No emperor ever ruled more imperiously than did His Worship David Dumble over his chamber at City Hall. I can never forget the kind and eccentric little man. His cordory trousers on a hot day when we sweltered in Palm Beach; his white beard and bushy eyebrows full of snow and icicles on a winter morning—a veritable Saint Nicholas; his gruff and apparently reluctant 'Good Morning' to the Chief, Crown Attorney Hatton and the other attendants. Generally a delay to find his glasses, his favorite pen and other paraphenalia with which he surrounded himself in the performance of his duties. Full of impatience with modern inventions, handicapped by his failing vision and hearing, yet struggling through long cases and analyzing evidence with the perception of a man twenty years younger. He was never reconciled to automobiles, fountain pens, cigarettes, moonshine, and modernity in general, and his court addresses were a combination sermon and protest against all these things. A Victorian mind struggling and failing to understand the Twentieth century. Yet full of sympathy to all in trouble, and on this score often played upon. Occasionally he warmed up to the reporters, often he included them in his special list of devils. Some years ago I remember stopping him on George street and spoke to him kindly. I could see that he did not recall me, so I mentioned The Examiner. That finished me. He growled something like 'Humph' and turned his back. That summed up his disgust better than volumes. The Examiner of the evening previous must have roused his ire in some particular way.

I find myself wandering on and on. Certainly no continuity to his copy. McKeely would just murder it with his blue pencil. Ho! Hum! Well I guess we can leave Ed. Finnie sleeping in the big Windsor chair, say 'Good night' to Bill the janitor, take home the 'Star' and 'Tely' to read in bed, and call it a day.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Death is the great enemy of mankind. Those who preach Satan's lie say there is no death. Death is a horrible reality; it is a cessation of existence, the extinction of life. Man everywhere, who is in a normal condition of mind, cling to, and desire life. The Scriptures inform us, that there is a first and second death. The first death came upon all on account of Adam's sin; the second death can be incurred only by wilful, individual sin. There is no difference between the condition in the first and second deaths; but there is release from the first, by the resurrection, while from the second there is no release, no return to life. Christ Jesus came to deliver us from death. In the age to come, any of the resurrected ones, who ignore the favorable conditions of that age, and will not be obedient to the righteous Judge or Ruler—Christ—will truly be wicked, and we are informed, the wicked will be returned into hell (the death condition), from which there will be no resurrection, no release; it being the second death. Psalms 9.17.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

ERECT TRANSFORMERS.

The men of the Peterborough Utilities are busy installing several huge transformers on Aylmer street near Hunter for power distribution in the district.

RHYME TRANSFORMED.

Fairy tales are a joy to the youngster's heart, but are somewhat changed when the youngster grows up and acquires a little knowledge. Here is the translation of a famous nursery rhyme as is translated by an Old Home Week visitor:

"Old Mother Hubbard went to the receptacle for nourishment
To get her poor canine an osseous tidbit.
When she got there the cupboard was entirely denuded of its contents,
And so the poor doggie got the opposite of any." ....

PLEASURE TRIP.

A number of the people from the Protestant Home were treated to a drive about the city on Wednesday evening and given an opportunity to view the decorations, due to the kindness of Andrew Brown and Tom Dutton. The residents of the Home were very grateful to the men for their thoughtfulness and appreciated the excursion very much.

Mr. Brown also was kind enough to donate a flag and pole to the Home.

RUSHING BUSINESS.

A gentleman on the main street this morning with a portable outfit for making and developing tintype photographs was doing a rushing business. Each customer received two buttons with his photograph on them within two minutes of the time he dropped his quarter into the hand of the operator.

DISAPPOINTED, NO!

One old boy is staying in the city a few hours longer than he expected. He was to have left on the 7.35 Canadian Pacific train this morning for Toronto, but on arriving at the station saw the smoke of the vehicle away in the west as he stood on the deserted platform. Rather happily he turned back to his old home town and prepared to stay until the afternoon.

CLOSES TO-MORROW NIGHT

The general headquarters of Old Home Week in the Duffus Building, will close at 10 p.m. Sunday evening for good. The committee hopes that visitors not already registered will do so today or some time Sunday.

BURN FORD CAR

At 11.39 p.m. last night some audacious individuals took the work of the fire department in their own hands. An old Ford car was to be burned under the supervision of the fire chief at 12.30 this morning on the market square, but someone ignited it where it stood on the corner of George and Sherbrook streets and a merry blaze ensued. In the excitement, alarm box 8 was rung summoning the fire brigade. When the fire was over, there was not much left of the old relic.

PLAYGROUNDS FOR MONDAY

The school playground are scheduled to open for the summer at 9 a.m. next Monday morning at Central and King Edward schools.

RENOVATING REVIEW OFFICES

The work of renovating the old Review offices to be used by the Bell Telephone Company has commenced.

FIVE PLANES OPERATING

Nearly two hundred people have gone up for air flights during the week, from the flying field, where Pilots C. W. Dingwall and T. Wrathall operate their two Moth planes for the National Transport. A red-winged Buehl air sedan is the third member of the group of bird machines at this field, but it is impossible to use it on account of the roughness of the field and the absence of a proper landing area.

Two planes operated by the Leavens Brothers of Belleville were here also this week at the field across the road, a little nearer the town, and here Norman Miller has his plane, marked Northern Airways of Peterborough.

A four-leaf clover for luck was encased in a tiny holder and placed directly in front of the pilot's seat, on one of the Belleville planes.

God Save The King

LINDSAY SCOUT GOES TO ENGLAND

Lindsay's 1st Troop of Boy Scouts gathered in full force last evening to give their chum, King Scout James Groves, a farewell send off across the ocean on a mission that will bring honor to Lindsay and Scoutdom in that town. St. Paul's Anglican church dining hall was the scene of activities as many of his friends gathered for the banquet.

The Boy Scout Association of Canada is sponsoring the visit, officially, of sixty-four chosen Scouts from various parts of Canada, who with others, are sailing next week for Liverpool to take part in that city in a jambouree of representatives of troops from the British Isles and the Dominions. Altogether there will be about 60,000 Scouts at this monster gathering.

The representative from Lindsay, King Scout James Groves, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groves, and his appointment has met with general approval in the district.

Peterborough Scouts Present.

At the banquet last night their late Scoutmaster, John T. Hornsby (now of Peterborough) was present, since largely by his interest and enthusiasm the Lindsay troop has progressed to its high standing. He expressed pride that Lindsay should have a Scout delegate.

Mayor Ira Moore was chairman, and following the toast to The King, called on several representative business men to "speak their minds" on this important occasion. The speakers were: John T. Hornsby, S. P. Beal (Rotary Club), W. J. Carlisle (Kiwanis Club), George Beall and Samuel Alcorn (Troop Committee), Canon Marsh (rector of St. Paul's church), Mrs. R. M. Beal (Regent of the I.O.D.E.), and Miss Doris Lancaster (Girl Guides.) Many words of praise and good wishes were showered upon Jim, with the hope for an enjoyable period in England, and safe journey to and from his big experience, by land and sea.

At intervals presentations were made to King Scout Groves—a camera by William Eggleton from Troop No. 1, binoculars from the service clubs and I.O.D.E. and others, and a photograph of his son given by Mr. Groves for the Scout room.

Neat speeches and words of thanks from the recipient were tendered. Troop No. 1 is now under the command of Scoutmaster Jackson.

The singing of "O Canada" and bidding adieus to the young Scout concluded a pleasant gathering.

Scout Groves leaves next Wednesday evening for Montreal, sailing, it is expected, on Saturday for Liverpool.

IN MEMORIAM.

McGHEE. — In sad and loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Ella McGhee, who departed this life on July 7th, 1925.

No one heard the footsteps
Of the angel drawing near,
Who took from earth to heaven
The one we loved so dear.
The pearly gates were open,
A gentle voice said Come!
And with farewell unspoken
She gladly entered home.

—Ever remembered by her Daughter, Mrs. Rolland McClelland.

DARING FLYERS ATTEMPT FLIGHT TO ROME

7,231 OLD BOYS AND GIRLS REGISTERED DURING WEEK; ONE-THIRD CAME FROM STATES

Mayor Denne Declares Week Was An Unqualified Success.

WEST WELL REPRESENTED.

Committee Estimates That Several Thousand Visitors Did Not Register.

Life in Peterborough ebbed to normal to-day as the gay week of celebration and fun came to an end and many visitors started on their homeward journeys tired but happy after the most successful re-union ever staged in the city. Visitors from all sections of the continent contributed to make the event the indisputable success that it unquestionably was.

"Old Home Week was an unqualified success," stated Mayor Denne this morning. "With the exception of a little bad weatner, all circumstances combined to make the affair an unquestionable success. The purpose of the celebration was to bring the boys and girls of younger Peterborough back to the old home town and without a doubt that object was attained. Without reference to any of the other facts concerning the celebration, the attainment of that object itself would stamp the event as successful. I wish to thank all who assisted in the great work of putting Old Home Week across."

Well Pleased.

"It was an opportunity for people to get together that otherwise would not have presented itself, families being re-united that had been separated for many years. Aside from this aspect, the celebration had a very stimulating effect on business in this district that will probably have a lasting effect, moreover, the demonstration showed what Peterborough people can really do when a genuine community spirit pervades the city."

Commenting on the success of the week, R. M. Glover, chairman of the publicity committee said this morning:

"The publicity committee composed of Messrs. C. D. Cook, E. H. Bartlett, D. M. Bissell and myself, feel that Old Home Week was a decided success in every way. The getting into our city of more than ten thousand former citizens including their families and having every one thoroughly satisfied with their reception and proud of their old home town is payment in full for all the work and expense undertaken.

The city could not have received the same amount of first class advertising for anything like the small cost in any other way. Then again it put new enthusiasm into those who live here and are expected to carry on, and many a good idea was left in the city by the fellow who does things just a little differently.

When registrations closed on Sunday evening, the total number recorded was 7,231, not including a number who registered in some of the hotels in the city. Only visitors from outside Peterborough County were allowed to register, so the number of visitors in the city during the week is considerably in excess of 7,231. It is estimated that several thousand visitors did not take the trouble to register so that it is safe to say that Peterborough's

Monoplane Takes Off

Pathfinder Leaves Old Orchard On Long Flight To Rome.

THIRD ATTEMPT.

Flyers Hope To Make Voyage in From 45 to 50 Hours.

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, July 8. — (C.P.) — The monoplane Pathfinder with Pilot Roger Q. Williams and Navigator Lewis A. Yancey aboard, took off from the Beach here with Rome as its destination, at 8.49 a.m., E.D.T.

The flyers expected to make the 4700 mile flight in from 45 to 50 hours.

The weather conditions over the Atlantic were said to be satisfactory. The beach was smooth for the take-off and a light drizzle here was not expected to prevent the hop.

The plane took off after a run of about one mile and headed due south gaining an altitude of about 100 feet as it left the beach. The ship then made a wide swing and headed due east on her course until lost to sight in the haze.

The two men were cheerful as they came down from their rooms and ate their breakfast in the hotel dining room. They laughed and chatted with Mrs. Yancey and Thea Rasche, the German aviatrix.

After a meal of orange juice, scrambled eggs and bacon, and rolls and coffee ,they made ready to go to the beach, a mile and a half away, where the light green monoplane rested.

Food for the flight was put on board the Pathfinder. It consisted of one roast chicken, three quart bottles of coffee, three quarts of water, six chocolate bars, eight oranges, six apples and a bottle of liquor.

Starts Shortly after 7 a.m.

Shortly after seven o'clock the Pathfinder started up the beach under its own power to the point from which the run would start.

A wreath which will be dropped 1000 miles out at sea in memory of Philip Payne and the crew of the Old Glory, who were lost two years ago, after a take-off here, was placed in the cabin.

The Pathfinder reached the starting point and was turned about while 30 gallons of benzol were added to the 500 gallons of fuel to aid in the take-off.

The haze was coming in from the ocean. There was a heavy fog bank over Biddeford Pool, four miles south of here, and the flyers said that if they were unable to get above the fog they would probably dump their gasoline and return to the beach.

It was said that Mrs. Yancey was also a passenger in the amphibian.

Harold Beedle, representative of an oil company, who was in the commercial plane which went four miles with the Pathfinder said the plane was then at an altitude of 500 feet and was gaining more altitude slowly.

"She was going fine," Beedle said.

Load Is Reduced.

Beedle said Williams had dumped some of the 500 gallons of gasoline in the Pathfinder before the take-off which would reduce the possible cruising range by several hundred miles. No explanation for reducing the load was given.

Three planes accompanied the Rome-bound plane. The coastguard amphibian was on the left, a small commercial plane on the right, and a large commercial amphibian close in the rear.

The Pathfinder seemed to be just able to hold the 100-foot altitude as it passed out of sight.

It was the third time in six weeks that Williams and Yancey had essayed a take-off.

The other two attempts, both of which were unsuccessful, were made in the Green Flash, a sister ship of the Pathfinder.

On May 29, one of the wheels on the Green Flash crumpled soon after the run down the beach started. The rest of the plane was not damaged, and another try was made on June 13. On that occasion one wheel struck soft sand, pulled the plane in to a ground loop, and smashed it almost beyond repair.

On those attempts the fivers had company—the young Frenchman who reached Spain in the Yellow Bird after starting for Paris. To-day they had the beach to themselves.

The fivers planned to strike almost due east to the tip of Cape Sable, N.S. There they will head east-south-east to the "corner," the junction of steamship lines about 1,000 miles from Old Orchard.

Their course will then follow the 41st latitude, passing 100 miles north of the Azores and reaching the mainland at Cape Ortegal along the northern tip of Spain. They then plan to cross Bayonne, France, and head across the Mediterranean, passing over the island of Corsica.

WAR VETERANS HONOR MEMORY OF THEIR DEAD

MEN URGED TO CARRY ON.

Short Services Are Held At Cenotaph and Brown Memorial.

Again the deepening memory of the glorious sacrifices of the Peterborough men who gave their lives in the Great War was fittingly recalled by their comrades, when the members of the Canadian Legion marched to St. Peter's cemetery yesterday afternoon, and there reverently and solemnly laid flowers, in mute tribute, upon the graves of the soldiers, who lie sleeping in that hallowed place.

The need of carry on in aid of their less fortunate fellows was the note sounded in several of the short addresses delivered at the cemetery. In an address that throbbed with feeling, Rev. J. B. McAuley, of Ennismore, told of the beautiful, spotlessly kept graves in Flanders, where the Canadian soldiers lie buried. He told the men that they need not worry concerning their comrades' graves in France—they were beauty spots, well cared for, a little bit of Canada.

A brief ceremony was solmnized at the Cenotaph, the Salvation Army band playing softly the hymn, "God of Our Fathers." Then the flag was lowered as the Last Post rang out; to be raised again with the clear, silver notes of the Reveille. Rev. Captain Paul Costello, spoke a few words in which he explained that for more than ten years the memory of the fallen comrades had been recalled by the ceremony at the Cenotaph. "It is a privilege to thus pay tribute to the glorious memory of those men who died, and may it ever be maintained."

Parade to Brown Memorial

Headed by the Salvation Army Band, the Canadian Legion, and several members of the City Council including Mayor R. Denne and E. A. Peck, M.P., then paraded to Confederation Square, where a wreath was laid upon the Brown Memorial and the Last Post and Reveille sounded.

The men then marched to St. Peter's Cemetery where the main ceremony was performed. A green-covered platform beneath a tall shady tree was the beautiful setting for the service, in which hundreds of persons joined.

FOURTEEN DIE IN ACCIDENTS

Lightning, Traffic Smashes, Drowning and Shooting Take Heavy Toll.

WORST STORM YET.

MONTREAL, Que., July 8 (C.P.).—At least fourteen people met violent deaths in Quebec province over the week-end while many others were injured. Lightning, traffic accidents, drowning and one shooting contributed the toll of dead.

In Montreal alone, where a violent but brief electrical storm accompanied by the heaviest downpour of rain of the season, came from an almost cloudless sky shortly after noon, there were six deaths, three from lightning.

In the Rosemount fatalities Mrs. Rubenstein, mother of a prominent local advocate and sister-in-law of Alderman Louis Rubenstein, was one of the women caught on the links by the sudden storm. She and the two boys, who were caddies, were under her umbrella making their way to the clubhouse when the bolt fell. First-aid efforts failed to revive them.

The shooting at the Convent St. Somillile occurred when the Sisters there discovered a marauder in the basement of the building and called a furnace-man, Marcel Roger, who armed himself with a shot-gun. Ac-

SKOOKUM CAMP OPENED TO-DAY AT CLEAR LAKE

Rotarians Hear Fine Address By A. P. Ruggles of Northern Electric Company.

NEW PRESIDENT PRESIDES.

Fifty Years Since Thomas Edison First Produced Electric Light.

Peterborough Rotarians to-day showed their thankfulness for the recovery of the King from his recent illness, in connection with the world-wide thanksgiving, by singing "God Save the King," before sitting down to their weekly luncheon.

This was President Ross L. Dobbin's first time in the chair and he made his inaugural speech short and to the point, when he said that he felt it was a great honor and responsibility to occupy such a position, and that he would do his best to fulfill the duties connected with the honor in an efficient and satisfactory manner.

Claude Rogers, chairman of the Skookum Boys Camp on Clear Lake, expressed his satisfaction with the way things were shaping up at the camp, which opened this afternoon with about forty local lads enrolled for a holiday. He said there was no need for any volunteer cars to take the lads up as yet, but that the Rotarians might find their services needed next week if the roll call mounted as it has been. The Transport Company had been very kind in offering the services of a bus in taking the boys to the camp, he pointed out, thus letting the members out of the duty.

Illumination Age.

The meeting was featured by an address from H. P. Ruggles, of the Northern Electric Company of Toronto, who spoke on Illuminatio - Industrial and Commercial. In his address he brought out to the members the desirability of more and better illumination, saying that at the end of five years' time we would quite probably see a great change in illumination systems, and urged that any who were considering installing illumination schemes not to skimp the wattage.

"While at a conference in Cleveland a short time ago, Mr. Ruggles said, it was decided to make this the Lighting Jubilee Year, for it was just fifty years ago that Thos. Edison first produced electric light. In October practically every town in the States will put on a lighting festival when everything that will carry lights wil be lighted up. It is my job here to-day to show you how to get better jobs in lighting. He continued on to show just how it was done, illustrating his points with a small picture machine.

Spotty lighting should be done away with, the plant should be lighted evenly so that workmen may go any place without being in a dark spot, this will speed up production. Insurance companies show that 15 per cent of the accidents in shops are caused through faulty lighting, and state that from thirty to forty million dollars a year could be saved though the proper system. Gloom and glare are the two worst features one being as bad as the other. The proper type of equipment will have the right reflector, and in many cases we find that where years ago a 75 candlepower bulb was used, and now been changed to 300, the old reflector has been unchanged. COAST GUARD COURT OF INQUIRY IS ORDERED INTO THE COLLISION OF TWO SHIPS OFF BOSTON LIGHT

Patrol Boat Rams Liner Carrying 249 Passengers.

LIFEBOATS LOWERED.

Seaman, Although Severely Injured, Refuses Aid Until All Are Rescued.

BOSTON, Mass., July 8.—(C.P.) — A coast guard court of enquiry will convene to-day to investigate the collision of the Yarmouth and Boston coastal liner Prince George and the coast guard patrol boat, Agassiz 60 miles of Boston Light yesterday.

The Prince George carried 249 passengers and all were safely transferred to the Agassiz and only one, Miss Seretha Nickerson, of Greenwich, Conn., was injured. She was slightly bruised after the accident.

Two members of the patrol boat's crew were severely hurt. Orlo D. Howser, seaman, who was at the wheel when the ships came together, and Alfred R. Johnson, boatswain's mate first class.

Johnson, although suffering from a severe gash across his forehead, refused medical attention until all the Prince George's passengers had been safely taken aboard the Agassiz. His heroism won him high praise from the survivors.

Hole Ripped in Liner.

The Prince George was struck on her port bow by the coast guard boat. The impact ripped a jagged hole in the line's steel side, six feet wide and extending below the water line. The stem of the Agassiz was grumped but she did not take much water.

The liner, on the other hand, suffered a flooding of her No. 1 hold and with a slight list.

The Prince George's ten lifeboats were lowered within 15 minutes after the alarm was sounded and the ship put about and came alongside the Agassiz. Gangplanks were rigged and most of the passengers, many of them with all their baggage, made their way aboard the patr boat.

The Prince George a twin screw ship of 2,194 tons, which has plied between Boston and Yarmouth for many years, put in at the Eastern Steamship Company's dock. After she was taken to a drydock and emergency crews set to work in an endeavor to have her back in service within a week.

PARADE CLOSES OLD HOME WEEK

PLENTY OF NOISE-MAKERS

Although spirits were considerably dampened by the continual downpour of rain that kept up all evening, the more venturesome of rollickers staged the final outburst of pent up feelings, to draw to a close a week of fun that will go down as the greatest in the history of Peterborough. Down a rain soaked main street, wierd costumes made their way full of life as if they were treading air, in an imaginary fairy tale of long ago.

Crowded doorways were deserted, and the street lined despite a drizzle, to see the last demonstration of the re-union. Giant crackers roared, tny crackers fizzed and sputted their defiance to the rain, horns tooted, and everybody laughed and yelled, as led by an ancient shepherd of the Canadian Packing Company, a lamb followed by a billy goat and huge ram headed the procession. Four girls, or so they appeared if one could judge from their costumes, and the Queen were seated in state on the huge Packing Companys' float, from which they made their bows to the onlooking throngs. Following were the various floats, decorated cars, and fun makers all up to some antic in which they could best vent their feelings to the full. The majority of the parade was made up of cars, each and every one packed full of the more timid ones, who not desirous of getting wet and yet not wishing to miss such an occasion were bound to join in some way.

KING HAS SLIGHT SETBACK POSTPONES SUMMER HOME TRIP

Four Noted Doctors Want X-Ray of Right Lung First.

STATEMENTS HOPEFUL.

LONDON, July 8 (C.P.).—All Britain was sympathetic to-day, when, within 24 hours of an Empire-wide thanksgiving service for his recovery, unsatisfactory progress of a phase of King George's illness prevented his planned departure for Sandringham, British Royal summer home.

The official announcement disclaimed immediate serious symptoms and protested the general health of His Majesty was satisfactory. It was added yesterday's service had not fatigued him.

Four doctors, however, those whose names became familiar during the long Buckingham Palace illness, signed the statement which concluded with the words, there had been unsatisfactory progress in the sinus in the right chest; departure for Sandringham, therefore, was being delayed for a short period to permit further X-ray examinations.

An official bulletin issued at Buckingham Palace said:

"The King was not fatigued by the ceremony of thanksgiving service. His Majesty's general health is good.

"The condition of the sinus in the right chest has not made satisfactory progress.

To Make Further X-Rays

"In order to gain the assistance of a further X-ray examination, His Majesty's departure for Sandringham has been postponed for a short period.

"(Signed) Sir Stanley Hewett, Henry L. Martyn, Hugh M. Rigby, Dawson of Penn."

In court circles the opinion was the physicians' bulletin was favorable, particularly as it indicated there was no fatigue after yesterday's imposing ceremony at Westminster Abbey and that it probably was necessary only for him to remain at the Palace a few additional days. The express statement by the physicians that the postponement was for only a short period, was regarded as very hopeful.

It was understood that the X-ray examination of the King would take

Motor Truck Upsets And Six Are Injured

TORONTO, Ont., July 8.— A motor truck upsetting in a ditch at Sharon, a few miles north of here, caused injuries to six Toronto people yesterday while eight others escaped with bruises and lacerations.

The accident happened when a motorist is alleged to have cut-in on the truck, forcing it into the ditch.

Glenholme F. Moss, Toronto, driver of the car which was blamed for cutting in was arrested by police and later released on $500 bail.

None of the passengers were seriously hurt.

NEW T.T. C. MOTOR LAUNCH IS TESTED BY ENGINEERS

Officials Are Still Puzzled As To The Source of Poisoning Fumes.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8 (Canadian Press). — The Toronto Transportation Commission's boat from which 13 persons were carried in a semi-conscious condition on Friday from what was believed to be the effects of exhaust gas from the launch's motor was taken from the service on Saturday and thoroughly tested.

First a smoke test was made, the smoke being pumped into the exhaust pipe under high pressure. No leakage could be discerned. Then the motor itself was pumped full of smoke, but still no leakage could be detected.

Six white mice were then introduced to aid in solving the problem which baffled the engineers. White mice are the most susceptible of all animals to gas, so they were placed in various parts of the launch. The launch was taken over the same trip which it made on Friday night when the 13 people were overcome, but at the end of the voyage they showed no trace of being affected by gas and T.T.C. officials and engineers are still puzzled as to the source of the poisoning fumes.

Police Are Summoned To Stop Fight When Reeve Feared Crowd Of 200 Would Join Fist Battle On Village Streets

SMITHVILLE, Ont., July 8 (Canadian Press). — More than 200 residents of this town gathered on the main thoroughfare on Saturday night to watch two youths, both 19, settle an argument with fisticuffs.

Robert Book, Reeve of South Grimsby Township, summoned William Embleton, Provincial constable, and T. Wentworth, town constable, from Grimsby when it began to appear as if the entire crowd would take sides and join the fight. It was two hours and 15 minutes after the fight started before the street was finally cleared and peace reigned.

In an interview one of the combatants admitted the feud commenced last Wednesday when he and his opponent were seated in a motor car. A girl passed, and the young men expressed different opinions about her. The brief struggle ensued then, which climaxed in the Saturday night fight.

CHICAGO-TO-BERLIN AIRPLANE IS DOWN SOMEWHERE IN CANADA

No Word Has Been Received From "Untin" Bowler Since Friday.

BELIEVED AT GREAT WHALE.

Fears Expressed Yesterday That Amphibian Forced Down in Quebec.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—"Somewhere in Canada" was the most definite address to-day of the Chicago Tribune's Chicago-to-Berlin Amphibian plane, the 'Untin' Bowler, and its crew of three who were last heard from early Friday.

Operators have been constantly on duty at the Tribune's long wave length radio station in Elgin, Ills., but since 9.58 a.m., Friday, no message has been received from the plane. At that time Parker D. Cramer, co-pilot and navigator, radioed that the 'Untin' Bowler was landing at Great Whale, a tiny trading post on the Great Whale River in the Hudson Bay country.

For five hours Sunday the Elgin operators heard a loud whirring sound which they were confident was from the plane's radio generator being operated by the motors. If such were the case, backers of the flight said, it was evident that the 'Untin' Bowler flew a considerable distance.

Storms In Quebec.

Fears were expressed yesterday that the Amphibian had been forced down in the wooded wilds of Northern Quebec by storms which are

HUGH GUTHRIE PREDICTS EARLY ONTARIO ELECTION

Date Will Be Announced Unexpectedly, Former Leader Announces.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 8.—(C.P.) —An early election in Ontario was predicted here Saturday by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative M.P., for Wellington South, in addressing the Women's Conservative and Political Club of Hamilton. He urged members of the party to be in readiness for it, intimating that the date of the election would be announced unexpectedly.

Commenting on the tariff situation Mr. Guthrie criticized the Canadian Government on its tariff policy, attributing the present position of the majority of farmers in Canada to the failure of the government to protect Canadian products. He specially referred to the dumping of early fruit and vegetables into this country by produce farmers of the United States.

Old age pensions were approved by the speaker, who praised the Ontario government upon its decision to adopt the scheme.

TORONTO YOUTH IS KILLED WHEN AUTO STRIKES CULVERT

Vernon McColl Dies of Wounds Following Trip From Dance.

SIX IN CAR.

Five Others Are Injured When Auto Ran Off the Pavement.

TORONTO, July 8. — Vernon McColl, 20, of 178 First Avenue, was killed and five companions were injured, two seriously, shortly after midnight on Sunday morning when a sport touring car bearing three young couples home from a dance hall along the wet pavement of the Dawes Road, left the road and crashed into a ditch. The car was making a sharp curve on the hill south of St. Clair Avenue, and in turning left the road, careened wildly along the edge of the ditch, slid over the bank, and smashed against a concrete culvert.

Vernon McColl died in the Toronto General Hospital a short time after being admitted.

Albert F. Bowers, 30, of Oshawa staying at 57 Hunter Street, is in the hospital suffering from a broken arm and severe lacerations of the face and neck. He was the owner and driver of the car.

Ethel Green, 14, 157 Howard Avenue, is also in the General Hospital, where she is being treated for broken legs. She suffered lacerations and bruises in addition to the broken bones. Ethel was the partner at the dance of Stephen McColl, aged 14, the "kid brother" of the dead youth. Stephen was not taken to the hospital, but he sustained several deep cuts in the smash.

Two sisters, Alberta and Lillian Baker, aged 18 and 15, of 790 Gerrard Street East, were bruised and shaken up, but were able to return home after receiving medical attention.

The party of six, made up of the three couples, left early on Saturday evening for the community dance hall at Wexford, some five or six miles north on the Dawes Road. There they danced well on into the evening, finally starting off for home a few minutes before midnight.

ODDFELLOWS PAY TRIBUTE TO THEIR DEAD

Beautiful Decorated Service is Held in Little Lake Cemetery.

PARADE IS LARGE

Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church is the Special Speaker.

Amid the loveliest of settings, Little Lake Cemetery, overlooking the waters of the Otonabee River, with a blue sky overhead, and a bright sun shining down upon the occasion, the members of the Peterborough lodges, Otonabee No. 13, and Peterborough, No. 111, I. O.O.F., together with the visiting, Canton, No. 7, of Toronto, held their annual Decoration Day on Sunday afternoon.

Gathering about two o'clock, the members numbering well over five hundred, met in the armouries under the direction of Marshall Bro. J. W. Miller, P.D.D.G.M., and marched to the cenotaph in Confederation Square, where they lined up with Canton No. 7, under Brig. Gen. H. W. Ralston, and after having their picture taken, held a two minute silence.

With the band of the Peterborough Rangers in the lead, and followed by the brilliant costumes of the visiting Canton, the members then paraded down George street to the cemetery, were thousands of citizens were gathered to hear the addresses.

Bro. J. Price, P. G., opened the service with prayer, and after singing the old favorite hymn, "Nearer my God to Thee," Rev. J. D. Paterson gave the address of the afternoon.

In his speech, Rev. Mr. Paterson said, "I consider it a great honor to come here on any occasion but on such a day as this when led by an Ancient Order, the citizens have turned out to do honor to those who have passed on, I consider it a particularly great honor to be present. I have tried to find some reason why we should celebrate Decoration Day, and I think I found it in the Bible, where Abraham bought a particular plot of ground to bury his wife. In those days it was not customary to take much bother about burial services, and so I think that in Abraham's payment of 400 sheckles of money for a safe burial plot for his wife, we have our first tribute to the dead. In India the most beautiful buildings in the world are in memory of the dead."

In Death all are Equal.

"However the caring for our own dead is of more importance for we realize that in death all men are equal. Last Sunday we paid honor to our Soldiers. In death there was no difference between the general and the private; they all occupy the same place, and have the same kind of headstone. And one and all, the lowliest and the greatest, they receive the same tender care, on behalf of the Empire. The citizens here to-day have brought the same kind of spirit, and I doubt not but that every grave (rich and poor alike) will receive some token of the respect in which they are held."

Known as God's Garden.

"To-day we can do our bit by laying our tributes on the last resting place of those who have gone beyond. A quarter of a century ago it was customary to surround the families among whom a death had occurred with a period of mourning that lasted for years; but it is not in keeping with the Christian spirit of to-day. Then they called the cemetery God's Acre, but I think it should be called God's Garden, and it should be kept as such.

"One other feature I have to mention is the faces of the many Old Boys and Girls who are back from many parts of the country. We welcome them back for this day of reunion. There are likely many vacant spaces among the ranks whose last remains are in this cemetery, and I think we should make it a day of commemoration for them also. We to-day are doing our best to make everything the best for our children; but those we are here to honor are the ones who made the city what it is to-day; and they are the ones who planned for their children. We as their children are here to-day to do them honor.

In closing the Rev. Mr. Paterson extended a welcome to the visiting Canton and thanked them for their magnificent part in the occasion.

Following the address the captains of the decoration sections were called forward, and each taking his party of men, left for the various parts of the cemetery to lay the tributes of flowers on the last resting places of fellow comrades who had passed into the Great Beyond.

Those who were in charge of the decoration groups, were: Bro. R. R. Ford, P.G.P.D.D.G.M.; Bro. R. J. Martin, P.G.P.D.D.G.M.; Bro. P. G. Gillespie, P. G., P.D.D.G.M.; and Bros. J. H. Campbell, C. C. Mowbray, P. G.; E. H. Hotson, P. G.; and Bro. George Benton, P. G.

Bro. R. J. Martin, P.G., P.D.D.G.M., also acted as assistant marshal and chairman of the Decoration committee.

CANADA JOINS WITH EMPIRE IN SERVICE OF THANKSGIVING

Special Services Are Held Throughout the Whole Dominion.

PREMIER ATTENDS.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 8 (C.P.).—Canada joined with the Empire yesterday in offering up grateful thanks for the recovery of His Majesty King George. Throughout the country special services were carried out in the churches and thankful prayers were offered.

Word of His Majesty's complete recovery came with a feeling of grateful relief to his subjects, and yesterday a note of joyousness was present on the occasion set apart by royal proclamation for spiritual thanksgiving. The prayers were not the mere dutiful response of loyal subjects, but revealed in their earnestness all the love felt for Their Majesties by the people. Special tributes were paid to the courage of Her Majesty Queen Mary in her long and anxious vigil.

Premier Attends

Premier W. L. Mackenzie King came to Ottawa from his summer home at Kingsmere to attend the service at St. Andrew's Church. All Cabinet Ministers in the city, as well as men and women prominent in Canada's national and commercial life, were present at thanksgiving services.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8.—Churches in practically every city and town throughout Ontario and even the majority of rural congregations joined whole-heartedly yesterday in giving thanksgiving at the morning and evening services for the recovery of the King.

Exultant Note of Praise

An exultant note of praise predominated in the services held in Toronto Churches as the National Anthem was sung and Psalms were repeated in unison. No official service was observed publicly in the city, but special prayers, hymns and references to His Majesty marked services held in churches of all denominations. In many instances the restoration to health of the King provided the theme for sermons preached from the pulpit.

Reception of the relayed radio broadcast from Westminster Abbey was heard with distinct clearness by many listeners-in throughout this section. Starting shortly after six o'clock the program continued for 33 minutes without interruption.

Immediately after the close of the Westminster service, the relayed courtesy program from Sydney, Australia, was broadcast and this, too, was heard with remarkable distinctness.

EMPIRE UNITES TO GIVE THANKS SIMPLE SERVICE

Their Majesties Attend Westminster Abbey To Take Part in Solemn Service.

LITTLE SHOW MADE.

Procession is Led By Archbishop and Dean of the Abbey.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 8.—Westminster Abbey was the scene of a most impressive service yesterday, which will have its place in history. The King and Queen joined with their subjects "in thanksgiving to Almighty God for His good providence, whereby our Most Gracious Sovereign has been delivered from severe illness to the comfort of the whole realm, and for the signal love and loyalty of his people made manifest in the time of trouble."

Probably there was never a more simple royal procession on a great occasion than yesterday. Their Majesties went to the Abbey with an entourage of only two carriages, each with two attendants, and flanked by but half a dozen mounted constables.

Little Change in Furnishings

Save for a few rows of gilt chairs in the presbytery, the furnishings of the Abbey were hardly different from the scene which may be beheld on almost any Sunday of the year. The choir members were disposed on the screen around the organ console, so that their usual places might be available for official personages. In an inconspicuous aisle was the famous Band of the Grenadier Guards which, under the direction of Captain G. J. Miller, made a notable contribution to the music.

When the west door was opened at 9.30 the public was admitted in little batches, but all accommodation was thus taken in a few minutes and the disappointed ones patiently resigned themselves to finding a place in the Abbey precincts, from where they could see the arrival of Their Majesties an hour and a half later.

Meanwhile the transepts and choir began to fill with persons specially bidden. There was very little color in the dress, either of men or women—so far as men were conecrned it was a morning dress affair, and most of the women were soberly garbed; perhaps, because the weather was not too promising. The chief exception was a little group of Indian Maharajahs.

Attended Usual Places of Worship

The waiting congregation, however, had little to distract their attention, for following His Majesty's express wish, most well-known persons, except those holding official positions, attended their usual places of worship. The government was represented by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Thomson, Lord Passfield and Captain Wedgwood Benn, who awaited the arrival of Their Majesties at the west door. The band played an elaborate program while the congregation assembled. When their music ceased for a space, the bells could be heard pealing.

Finally inside the Abbey, was heard the cheering as Their Majesties approached. They were received at the west door by the Dean of Westminster, Very Rev. W. F. Norris, and by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury. A procession was immediately formed, led by the Abbey Canons, vested like the Dean and Archbishop in rich copes, and preceded by the great Gold Cross of the Abbey. This procession included Lord Salisbury, High Steward of Westminster, and Lord Muir Mackenzie, High Bailiff.

The King was in morning dress, with a white flower in his buttonhole. The Queen wore a toque hat with a dress of the palest shade of lavender. Immediately following Their Majesties, walked the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince George, Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles, Princess Victoria and other members of the Royal Family.

WRECK QUERY SHOWS LITTLE

LACK CAPTAIN'S EVIDENCE.

LONDON, July 8.—(C.P.)— With the conclusion of a lengthy address by W. N. Raeburn for the Board of Trade, the inquiry into the sinking of the steamer Vestris last November, which has been in progress several weeks, was concluded this afternoon.

Bulter Aspinall, wreck commissioner, and the assessors sitting with him, will now consider their judgment.

In his closing argument, Mr. Raeburn said that he round no evidence of confusion in the launching of the lifeboats, both the crew and passengers following the example of Captain Carey, who was a man of great bravery and capability.

Raeburn thought that no doubt it would have been better if the S.O.S. had been sent out earlier, but pointed out Captain Carey's apparent hopefulness that the ship might revive seemed supported by the chief engineer's hopefulness.

There was no evidence, however, that a single life was lost that might have been saved by an earlier call, declared the attorney.

good for our places of worship, in the way of brick and stone, which shows how the pendulum has swung back. Now this is one way to show appreciation, but the greatest way ple we make out of our heart. Re- we can show it is the kind of tem- ferring to David, he said "David's greatest desire was to build a magnificent temple to worship in, but that although David gathered together the materials and had everything in readiness, it never was built, thereby becoming the one great incompleteness in the life of a great man. It is not the brevity of life that brings sorrow, but the incompleteness. So it was in the life of David. The average man and woman, when it is time for them to pass out of Life, over the Great Divide, has many things they would

ORANGE LODGES ATTEND CHURCH

400 MEMBERS PARADE.

Memories that the twelfth of July was not so far away were brought to mind on Sunday night as the various lodges of the Orange Order under County Master Clarence Huffman paraded to the Salvation Army Citadel to hear the farewell address of Ensign E. Green, who is leaving for Toronto shortly.

Gathering at Victoria Hall and led by the Army band well over four hundred members of the Juvenile, Lady and Men lodges paraded to the citadel. Leading the parade, were the members of the Juvenile Boys and Girls Lodge, about fifty strong, followed by the Eastern Star L.O.B.A. headed by Mistress M. Brown, then Vimy Ridge, L.O.B.A. No. 244, headed by Mistress P. Campbell; start of Bethlehem, L. O.B.A. No. 650, Mistress P. Terrune; Nassau No. 357; No. 321, No. 2440, in District No. 1, headed by Marshal J. M. Holden, and District Master Fred Sanderson, and L.O.L. No.'s 80, 50 and 1175, headed by Marshal J. Brown, and District Master Dave Manley of District No. 3.

Several fine numbers were well executed by the band after which Ensign Green extended a warm welcome to the visiting Orange members, saying, that the Order was maintaining and continuing a work through the country that should be continued and encouraged the world over. He said that many people thought that the order was one of antagonism, but they were all wrong as the Order stood for "Trinity" and as long as it maintained its belief in Jesus Christ and his teachings the would be bound to grow and be an influence and power in the world. He then read aloud the principles and qualifications of the Order.

It's The Heart That Counts

In his address, the subject of which might easily have been "The Incompleteness of Life" Ensign Green said: "Years ago the people used to meet in any old shack or barn and thought it good enough, but to-day there is nothing too

UNITED STATES MAY RESUME RELATIONS WITH SOVIET RUSSIA

President Hoover Indicates That Step May Possibly Be Taken.

SHARE NO ALARM.

Fears U. S. May Lose Market Which She Now Enjoys in Russia.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—President Hoover has indicated to important industrial and banking interests, whose representatives are to make a four-week tour in Russia this summer, under the auspices of the American-Russian chamber of commerce, that this government may reconsider the question of Russian recognition, in the light of the rapidly expanding trade with the Soviet and the increasing urgent need of diplomatic relations.

Mr. Hoover has made no public statement of his attitude or policy toward Russia, but various senators and others who have discussed it with him privately during the presidential campaign contend that he shares none of the alarm over "bolshevik propaganda" that secretaries Hughes and Kellogg exhibited whenever the subject was raised during their incumbency at the state department, and is eager to see formal relations resumed and a commercial treaty negotiated.

This is based on the relation that the Russian market is likely to get away from the United States if the official refusal to admit the Soviet's existence keeps on. American interests have been doing business right along with Russia, but always under the handicap of having no government backing. The General Electric, Standard Oil, Radio corporation and various other big concerns are actively engaged in business with Russia.

Despite the handicaps trade has been steadily growing. Russian official statistics give the aggregate turnover with the United States for 1927-1928 as $120,000,000, a gain of nearly $30,000,000 over the fiscal year preceding, and $70,000,000 over pre-war levels.

A LANDMARK.

An old Peterborough boy in the city from a distance dropped into The Examiner office Saturday and said there had been so many changes in the city since he left that he was not sure of himself until he took a stroll to the Bank of Montreal to see if the old tie-post was still in position. As soon as he found it he was satisfied he was in Peterborough.

Why this

Blue Box

means money saved—

CARELESS WASHING is harder on clothes than actual wear, experts say. Every time you wash silks, rayons, woollens or colored things with soaps containing harmful alkali, fibres are weakened, colors dulled. They wear out sooner!

That means money wasted!

Don't run the risk of buying unknown soaps—whether flakes, chips or cakes.

With Lux, clothes, curtains, blankets, embroidered linens, printed cottons—sheer and sturdy fabrics, too—stay new-looking more than *twice as long!

*Every great movie studio in Hollywood, every New York musical show, buyers for 112 leading department stores, use Lux, to keep clothes new twice as long!

If it isn't in the blue box, it isn't Lux

DO YOU remember reading the stories in the fable books, that were always so interesting until one reached the last few lines—then they had a moral brought right out in plain view where one couldn't miss it?

The Christrian Herald used to print the same kind of story. There was a whole page given over to the type. One would read about a wonderful happening, and then come, unexpectedly, upon a moral, usually scriptural.

• • •

Well, this is the moral!

Last week's Whatnots were about Old Home Week, telling its delights and benefits. Maybe the moral escaped you neighbors, in the rush of looking after your visitors, so I'm going to follow the lead set in the old fables and by the Christian Herald—I'm going to make it clear at the end!

Probably Peterborough never looked so attractive in all its history as it did for the big events of last week. I drove all around the city, and, honestly, there were no really poor spots, though the general excellence did make the few unkempt places look still worse!

• • •

Lawns were in good condition; flower gardens were splendid in spite of a backward season; houses were pretty, and even backyards were tidy.

If this perfection can be attained for the sake of visitors, why not continue it for our own sakes?

• • •

It isn't necessary to keep up the decorations like colored lights and variegated bunting to make Peterborough look pretty.

The city has a natural setting of beauty, and with artificial aids such as trimming of lawns and setting out of shrubs and flowers, it has been made, this year, as pretty a spot as one could see.

Let's keep it up! Then we will have the inspiration of beauty all the year round—and, canny thought, it will not be so difficult to prepare for future visits!

• • •

Many of us can't leave the city for a holiday in distant pastures that always look greener. The beauty of Peterborough now makes a very good substitute—one that would look attractive to the down-town New Yorker.

In fact, there are many arguments for a continuation of the city beautification plan this year and every year. You can think of lots more reasons for than you can against.

And the worst is over. Ragged lawns have been reclaimed; unsightly boulevards have been made carpets of green. All that is required for the remainder of the summer is periodical trimming and watering.

Just by the way, let me tell you what I read the other day about caring for lawns. The books said that the grass should be thoroughly watered, and the ground soaked. This helps the grass take deeper root than it gets with the mere sprinkling which has become common.

Let's make up our minds to carry on. Let's all be visitors for the remainder of this summer, and enjoy the beauties of our own city—beauties which many who came hundreds of miles extolled last week.

And be neighborly. If the woman who lives next door to you has made a beautiful lawn, tell her so, for "Where none admire, 'tis useless to excel."

• • •

If her husband made the lawn, tell his wife anyhow. Then you'll be doing two good turns—one to him (he'll be encouraged to carry on) and one to her (she'll realize what a prize she has!)

GOOD WORK BY THE POLICE.

While Chief Constable Newhall, head of Peterborough's police department, was in Calgary last week receiving honor from the Chief Constables' Association of Canada, the officers and men of his department were handling the difficult task of policing a city under abnormal conditions as regards traffic and other features in a manner worthy of the highest praise.

The general verdict of visitors and citizens alike is that Inspector Reid and his men have dealt with a big job in a judicious and effective manner.

Despite greatly swollen vehicular and pedestrian traffic, there was throughout the week a remarkably small number of accidents.

The arrangements made by Inspector Reid and ably carried out by his staff as to the handling of the big events of the week were remarkably effective; the manner in which the motor traffic and the crowds generally have been regulated has received most favorable comment on all sides.

The police have had to work long hours, to be patient under somewhat trying circumstances, to be courteous and useful to visitors, and in all these respects they have emerged from the test with flying colors.

A FINE RECORD.

Figures given by the Citizens' Research Institute as to tax collections in Canadian cities offer some information that should be gratifying to local municipal officials and to the citizens generally.

The statistics include 58 Canadian municipalities from cost, and they show that in percentage of current levy uncollected and in per capita total arrears Peterborough stands fourth in the list.

Only Kingston and Woodstock in Ontario and Shawinigan Falls in Quebec of all the centres under review had a better record in 1928, the percentage of current levy uncollected being 1.3 in Kingston, 3.1 in Shawinigan Falls, 3.9 in Woodstock and 4.8 in Peterborough, while the per capita total tax arrears for the same four cities were 58 cents in Kingston, $1.44 in Woodstock, $1.80 in Shawinigan Falls and $2.92 in Peterborough.

Such a showing is decidedly satisfactory, inasmuch as a municipality, as the Institute points out, which collects a large percentage of its current tax levy before the end of its fiscal year indicates first that the taxpaying ability of its citizens has not been stretched unduly, and second that its municipal tax collecting methods and machinery are well adapted to serve the needs of the municipality.

On the other hand, a high percentage of current levy uncollected, coupled with high per capita arrears, indicates either exhaustion of tax-paying ability or that a drastic revision of tax methods are required, or a combination of both.

ADVERTISING CANADA.

Although Joe Wright, the fine young Argonaut sculler, was beaten in the final heat of the Diamond Sculls by a scant margin and thus has to relinquish the trophy he so gallantly won last year, the record made by Wright, by his rival and club mate, Jack Guest, and by the courageous Argonaut eight gives no reason for gloom among Canadian sport-lovers.

The display of courage and determination by both scullers and by the Argonaut crew was a magnificent advertisement for this country.

Wright won three heats in most gallant style, and was only beaten in the finals after a terrific struggle in which he undoubtedly suffered from the effects of his previous contests.

Guest reached the second round and gave his club mate a battle that will be remembered as a Henley classic.

The Argonaut crew rowed a dead heat with the fine London eight after being apparently hopelessly beaten, and only succumbed by a small margin when the race was rowed off.

Their grit and stamina were most favorably commented upon by English critics.

All in all the Canadian contingent did remarkably well, and the publicity they gave their home city and their home land by their efforts made the venture across the Atlantic decidedly worth while.

THEY DESERVE THANKS.

To the members of the Old Home Week association the thanks of Peterborough's citizens as well as of the thousands of visitors is due.

Their task of planning and carrying out the thousand and one details involved in such an undertaking has been far from a light one; it has entailed a great deal of labor and has encroached largely upon the time of many of the members of the organization, who have sacrificed their own interests in working for what they regarded as a worth-while community enterprise.

The success of their efforts is to be found in the fact that they were able to secure the return to Peterborough of over seven thousand former citizens, and to send them away delighted with the old home town and with the whole-hearted hospitality with which they were received.

That is the yardstick by which the success of Old Home Week should be judged—and tested in that manner, the committees have scored a striking triumph.

If the thing were being done over again it is possible that some changes might be made, inasmuch as it is only by actual trial that the value of some plans can be determined.

But in the main the organization work was admirably done, and the week's program was carried out in equally successful style, earning for the committee chairmen and members and the whole organization the thanks of the community.

OPPOSITION LEADERS' DUTIES.

The Peterborough Examiner is inclined to sympathize with Hon. R. B. Bennett and Mr. W. E. N. Sinclair for their personal sacrifices in making speaking tours in Ontario during the summer, when they might be practicing their profession for their own advantage. "In both cases," it says, "a genuine sacrifice has been made, and it is well for Canadians to realize that their public men give up much in order to discharge what they regard as their responsibility to the people."

This may be quite true; but is it less than the public have a right to expect? The main duty of Opposition leaders is to give watchful, critical and constructive attendance in Parliament, but if they expect their policies to gain strength with the voters they must go out and give explanations in this intimate manner. Moreover, Opposition leaders at Ottawa and Toronto are paid by the country for their services, and their professional interests may rightly withstand some sacrifices.

The life of a political leader is not a sinecure, and the majority of Canadians realize that the statesman who does his full duty still leaves the country in his debt. The custom of making speaking tours, however, is of great importance, and should be so considered by those who have risen to the eminence of leadership of a party. —Toronto Globe.

STARTING OUT TOGETHER.

The large percentage of families among immigrants this season is a matter of comment among officials and civilian observers at Canadian Atlantic ports. The various schemes of assisted passage have had much to do with this happy state of affairs, and it is a happy one. It is preferable from many points of view that married men starting life anew in this, to them a strange land, should be accompanied by their wives and children. It lessens the probability of homesickness, one of the hardest battles the lone immigrant has to fight, it tends to a strengthening of determination to stick it out until success is the reward and after, and it is an antidote against the estrangement which absence too often induces.

It is not suggested that the male immigrant is less faithful to those dependent upon him than men born and raised here. The novelty of new surroundings, the desire to travel a bit further once a long journey has been made, and a lack of appreciation, of the yearning to join him felt by those at home, have combined to create a number of distressing cases which officialdom and various social societies have had to deal with of late. At the same time it is only fair to state that desertions of wives and families is a habit becoming too common in Canada, and in Ontario no less than elsewhere.

The trouble with newcomers and native born alike, probably is the growning sense of irresponsibility of mankind to the obligations of family ties. It may be but a passing phase of modern life which has made it necessary to enact, among others, laws compelling adult children to contribute to the maintenance of indigent parents, and to guard against husbands and fathers deliberately evading their duties. One would not like to think that these are tendencies that will expand with the passage of time.—Brantford Expositor.

THEY ALL DO IT.

"Mistakes of great men," said Disraeli, "are the consolation of dunces." By the same token, we suppose, the dubbed shots of golf pros. are the consolation of duffers. Honestly, little in life gives us more satisfaction than to see a pro. top a tee shot or miss a two-foot putt. It restores our self-respect. Also it makes us less troubled in mind and more gentle in language when at the very next opportunity we do the same things worse. Also, we nurse a secret ambition to go out some day with the pro. that gives us lessons and beat him worse than Bobby Jones thrashed poor Espinosa. We want to be able to tell him that he is dropping his right shoulder, that he is forcing with his right hand, that he simply lifted his head, that he is not going through. Because we don't like the autocracy of pros. We don't like the dogmatic, ex-cathedra way they order you to do this and that; because we suspect they don't do it that way themselves.

All of which brings us to something we have just read about the playing of the pros. in the United States Open. Here is what one writer who followed the tournament says:

"So far I have not seen any one come right out and call attention to the disgraceful golf played by the country's best professional golfers in the recent Open Championship at Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, and so I would like to be the first to do so. It was a terrible shock to make the pilgrimage to this place of pure golf and find the nation's greatest behind trees, knee deep in sand, playing out of sewers, whisker grass, gullies, amassing eights, nines and tens, and comporting themselves miserably in their chosen vocation.

"Truly, the best crack of the tournament was Westbrook Pegler's refusal to go out and follow Johnny Farrell after the defending champion reported at the turn with a 46, for fear it might hurt his game. A glance at the score board showed dozens of 45s for nine holes, as many 85s for eighteen, some 87s, plenty of 80s, and one brazen 98.

"To tell the truth, I have never been quite so disillusioned as I was in this tournament. With but few exceptions I have never seen crack professionals play such puerile golf, and the teaching industry is liable to take an awful slump if the pupils should ever think to ask a hectoring instructor: 'And what did you do in the Open Championship, my good fellow?' We who go around in 51—43, or 49—42 in our friendly matches at the club, were simply amazed to find some of our heroes turning in the same kind of scores in what was supposed to be the country's major tournament.

"Not only did I see golf perpetrated that is mechanically imperfect, but I have been witness to instances of faulty headwork on the part of reputable performers that would curl your hair. I saw pro. after pro. pitch up when short of a green, and stop dead, too far from the pin, when a roll up would have carried them at least hole high. You would think that some of the boys had been playing long enough to know better."

So there you are. As we intimated before, nothing that we have read of late has pleased us quite as much; and the very next time our pro. gets haughty or contemptuous with us we are going to pluck this cutting from our plus fours and say: "All right, but what about this?"—Ottawa Journal.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp, Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman, is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp. Orme is an irresponsible, temperamental, artistic and refined man who does not seem capable of committing murder. Finding Orme so helpless, Peter asks Dr. Cavanaugh to help him out at the trial. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme. Peter unwittingly sees Barbara destroy a deadly bit of evidence, a comb of Sheila O'Shay's, and he is torn between his love and the fear of her guilt. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other, but Barbara will not let Peter help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else to whom she is bound by a sense of honor. Orme's trial for the murder of Sheila O'Shay comes up, and Peter finds Barbara in the courtroom. He tries to persuade her to stay away, but she refuses.

CHAPTER 38.

Peter's impressions of the succeeding days of the Orme trial, were like a series of island mountain tops emerging out of the sea. There were waste stretches which he did not remember at all, although at the close of each court session he hammered out in the Herald room that series of courtroom stories which laid the foundation for his reputation as one of the most brilliant "special" writers in the country.

If Orme was not guilty, Barbara must be. If Orme was found guilty, Barbara would walk with firm light steps into the arena and let her body and soul be torn while the newsboys shouted "Extra" and the crowd licked its lips outside, rather than allow him to suffer unjustly. Peter slumped in seat 53, his eyes fixed on the small black hat just visible above the chair-back where Barbara sat beside Dr. Cavanaugh felt his brain clamped in a tight inescapable circle of thought. And yet some other portion of his mind functioned independently, automatically recording names, addresses, incidents, pictures.

He seemed to have spent an endless lifetime alternating between the courthouse and the Herald office. He could scarcely recall a time before the trial began; he could not look forward to the time when it should be ended. He sat through the droning hours with half-shut eyes which yet saw with minute detail every aspect of the courtroom. And out of the welter certain scenes were stamped, bright and clear, in his membory.

The first of these was Don Ellsworth on the witness stand—Don Ellsworth facing with dilated, desperate eyes row upon row of press correspondents, each scribbling intently on pads of copy paper. He no longer had the look of a sullen, violent boy. The thing that he had fought and hated more than anything else in the world had happened, and he faced it with tense composure. He stared before him like a man in front of a firing squad, standing rigidly erect until he had twice been told to be seated in the witness chair.

"Will you just relate in your own way, Mr. Ellsworth the cicumstance of your wife's disappearance from your home?"

"I was first aware that she had gone, on the morning of March 19," Ellsworth spoke in a hard, mechanical voice, as if he were reciting a lesson by rote. "My wife's maid came and told me that——"

"Never mind what anyone told you. Just relate what you did."

Ellsworth's eyes flashed briefly from the rows of reporters to the lawyers' table. Peter was suddenly reminded of a bull being pricked by the lance tip of the toreador. Don opened his lips to retort, but thought better of it.

"I went up to my wife's boudoir. I found that the lights had been left burning. So far as I could tell, none of her clothes were missing except an evening cloak and the dress which she had worn at dinner the night before."

"And what did you do then?"

"Nothing. I waited, thinking that some natural explanation of her disappearance would be forthcoming. When she had not returned after several days, the police were notified. That is all I can say of my direct knowledge."

"Have you ever seen the defendant, David Orme, before?"

"I think not."

"I will ask you to read this letter, introduced in evidence as people's exhibit A. What is your interpretation of this letter?"

"I object, your honor. What the witness thinks the letter means is incompetent, immaterial and irreledant."

"If the witness knows any circumstances which will explain the letter, he has the right to state them. You may answer the question," the judge rapped out with metronomic precision.

"I had some reason to suppose that Mrs. Ellsworth had done Orme—or he thought she had done him—some injury."

"What reason?"

"She had also done me what I consider a grave injury and I imagine I am by no means the only one to suffer at her hands.

"Your honor, I object. I move the answer be stricken from the record as unresponsive."

"It may be stricken out."

"I withdraw the question. Did your wife ever speak of Orme to you?"

"She did."

The bent heads of the correspondents rose like a field of flowers turned upward by the wind. There was a faint, rustling sound of suppressed excitement.

"Will you kindly relate the substance of such conversation or conversations?"

"My wife told me that David Orme was the name of the latest of her husbands—previous to myself!" The dry bitterness of the voice smote the courtroom to like a blade of ice.

"Had you any reason to suppose that your wife might have left the house voluntarily with her former husband?"

"I object!" Graham, his round, boyish face crimson, popped to his feet as if sprung out of a box. "What the witness supposes his wife might have done is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and calling for the conclusion of the witness." The words were like the spatter of a shotgun.

"Your honor!" the district attorney boomed reproachfully. "Surely the witness may relate any conduct on the part of his wife directly bearing on the circumstances of her leaving the house!"

"Reframe your question."

"Did your wife do or say anything to indicate that she was in communication with Orme?"

"My wife's former husbands were not a common topic of conversation between us." Again the air was cut by that sword of ice.

A gust of laughter ran through the courtroom—the nervous explosive laughter that is released from intolerable tension.

"Silence in the courtroom, PLEASE!"

"Your honor, I move that the answer be stricken from the record as unresponsive."

"It may be stricken from the record. Answer the question, yes or no," the judge said with bored severity.

"She did not."

"That is all, Mr. Ellsworth."

"You may cross examine."

"I understood you to say," Graham began cheerfully, "That you looked through your wife's clothes on the morning when she was first missing. Doesn't that indicate that you thought she might have packed her clothes before leaving?"

"I object," rumbled the district attorney, "on the ground that the question is leading."

"Objection overruled. The witness may answer," the judge said with his usual curt weariness.

"I was taking the possibility into account."

"And yet you did nothing—nothing whatever—to discover your missing wife's whereabouts for three days? Weren't you, to say the least, somewhat anxious to know what had become of her?"

The forced control of the man on the witness stand was suddenly shattered. His hands gripped the arms of the chair as if he would tear them from their supports.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 8th.
"Cancer"

If July 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a.m. to 7 a.m., from 3.30 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11.15 a.m. and from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

It is presaged that conditions will be unsettled on this date. Impulsive words will be spoken and impulsive deeds will be done. These will be followed by a series of regrets. An old friendship will be severed through a misunderstanding.

Children born July 8th will be little diplomats, and they will very cleverly "get around" their difficulties. They will be self-possessed and self-sufficient and they are destined to make their marks in the world.

You are long in imagination, and short in vitality. You dream, figure and plan, but you lack the driving energy to turn your ideas into action. You are, however, able to inspire confidence and to set fire to the imagination of others—you can sell your schemes and ideas— others are willing to build from your blue-prints. Your projects are daring and original, but not of a wild-cat variety. Your failures are usually due to unavoidable circumstances, and not to any short-sightedness on your pa.

You have an incalculable, calculating mind. You can give the impression of being candid, very frank and very confiding, and yet reveal nothing. No one can make you lay down your hand until you are ready to disclose its contents.

You dislike quarrelling, and you are wise enough not to talk when you are angry. There are many whowever, who realize that you know how to get even. You hit when your brain and vision are clear, seldom missing the mark. You believe in giving an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. Environment means a great deal to you and luxuries are essential to your happiness. Your tastes are somewhat fastidious and your extravagances may, at some time, spell ruin for you.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

LAWYER: That's a perfect alibi—the jury is bound to acquit you when they hear that.

"Thank heaven, my rotten golf for the past ten years has not been in vain."

THE PASSENGER LIST

Eight newspaper correspondents going over to cable unbiased reports of what their chiefs told them about European conditions before they left America.

Fourteen British lecturers returning to tell England what they learned about the United States before booking passage from London.

Twenty-nine heiresses who are not.

Six former doughboys who hope personal liberty may still be found in Paris.

Fourteen matrons who have legal assurance that it may be.

Covey of movie actresses going abroad so that they may be photographed for the press on their return.

One ex-bartender, seeking employment.

One hundred bootleggers, seeking relavation.

LOSING CASTE IN JONESVILLE

"One of my oldest customers is thinking of closing his house and taking an apartment in the New Byzantine Garden Courts," said the gray-haired traveling salesman to the fourth assistant manager in the Hotel New Trianon, Jonesville. "He can't find a man to cut his lawn and trim his hedge. He wouldn't mind doing it himself for the exercise but his wife says they might as well move away from the New Serpentine Boulevard.

"When they lived over on Maple street he used to get up at four in the morning to weed the garden but if he'd do that out on the New Serpentine the neighbors coming home from the Country Club would see him and there is no telling what they'd say.

"So it looks like an apartment if he can't get help. The New Byzantine Courts are co-operative. The inmates co-operate to make the promoters rich. The plan has the old-fashioned ways of renting or owning your home beaten. You buy the place and then pay rent for it too. He says he has figured out he could get a room and a bath in the New Byzantine for only nine times what it is costing him to live in his house and that would be cheap if it would make his wife happy."

McCREADY HUSTON

ABSENT TREATMENT

Mr. Brown: Your wife gets a great deal of pleasure out of her garden.

Mr. Smith: Yes, out of it.

IMPERIAL OIL REGISTERS GAIN

Prices Hold Steady During Dull Session On Toronto Exchange.

OIL SECTION ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Little change resulted from trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and additional gains and losses being well divided. De Forest Crossley moved forward 2¼ to 68. Ford "A" advanced 1 to 48 and Imperial Oil strengthened to 28¾ at sales of 1088. The Oils generally were active.

Transactions generally were light and trading was scattered throughout the list. The interest in nickel was maintained, more than a thousand shares changing hands with the high at 52⅜. At noon the stock was unchange at 52. A revival of interest in Supertest Oil sent the price up 2 points to 34.

Five shares of C.P.R. were sold at 243, an advance of 3 points. Elsewhere in the list price changes were relatively unimportant.

GAINS-LOSSES WELL DIVIDED

Noranda Drops Further in Turnover of 3,610 Shares On Standard Exchange.

OIL LEADERS SAG.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8 (C.P.).—Noranda which dropped 25 cents on the Mininx Exchange Saturday continued to slip to-day when the price sold from 62.00 to 60.60 on sales of 3,610 share. Trading was quite active and there were fairly substantial gains and losses.

Interest in the oils was maintained but losses were shown by many of the leaders here. Mayland dropped 55 to 9.45 and Southwest Petroleum the same amount to 6.20. Home Oil showed a decline to 23.75 and Associated Gas and Oil went back 30 to 4.55.

Base Metals advanced 50 to 4.00. In the Lindsleys a loss of 25 to 8.50 on Ventures was accompanied by a gain of a similar amount by Falconbridge, which moved to 13.50. Sudbury Basin advanced 5 to 8.50, while Sheriff Gordon droppd 10 to 7.90. Lake Shore moved ahead 25 to 25.75 but Hollinger Consolidated lost 10 to 5.60, and McIntyre 25 to 15.75. Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes made gains of 5 cents to 1.75 and 8.50, while Dome dropped the same amount to 9.80.

Drought Relief Reports Weakens Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Ills., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Rains checking drought damage both north and south of the Canadian line to-day led to early lower prices here for wheat. The moistured relief, however, was reported as still leaving a prospect of wheat yields below the average promised. Opening at ⅞c to 1⅛c setback. Wheat values later showed considerable power to rally. Corn and oats were also easier, with corn starting ⅝c to ¾c off, and subsequently declining further, provisions tended to advance.

WOOD RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF THE DOMINION SECURITIES

Will Be Succeeded By Arthur F. White, Former Head of Standard Bank.

MORROW ALSO RETIRES.

Associates Purchase Interests of Two Retiring Partners.

TORONTO, July 8. — The retirement of E. R. Wood from the presidency of the Dominion Securities Corporation, is formally announced to-day.

The general public have for many years been accustomed to seeing his name as head of that company, but in this change financial circles will see that Mr. Wood was in earnest some little time ago when he intimated his intention of reducing the responsibilities resting upon him from his connection with so many important Canadian undertakings.

President from Beginning.

Mr. Wood has been a President of the Dominion Securities Corporation since its inception, and at present is President of Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, Vice-President of Canadian Bank of Commerce, the National Trust Company, Limited, Canada Life Assurance Company, and Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company, as well as a director of Barcleona Traction, Light and Power Company, Mexican Light and Power Company, Massey-Harris Company, and other important Canadian concerns.

Few financial men in Canada are so widely known or so universally respected. He has always been noted for his interest in young men and for his readiness to place important responsibility upon those chosen as his business associates. The development of the Dominion Securities Corporation, from which so many important financial men have graduated, so to speak, is striking evidence of this.

G. A. Morrow Also Retires.

G. A. Morrow is retiring from the company as senior Vice-President, which position he has held since its inception, to devote his time principally to his duties as President of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, as the growth of that important company demands increasing attention. Mr. Morrow is also Managing Director of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, and Vice-President of the Western and British American Assurance Companies. Both Mr. Wood and Mr. Morrow have for some years been gradually placing their managerial responsibilities in the Dominion Securities Corporation upon their associates, to whom they have now disposed of their interest in the company.

The New President.

Mr. Wood is being succeeded as President by A. F. White, who for many years has been a Vice-President of the Company. Mr. White was president of the Standard Bank of Canada up to the time of its absorption by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and is now a Vice-President of the latter institution. His wide financial experience, therefore, splendidly qualifies him for his new responsibility.

All the other directors of the Dominion Securities Corporation have grown up in the service of the company under Mr. Wood's leadership, the senior officers having been identified with the company for nearly twenty-five years.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(Canadian Press)—Foreign exchange steady, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars): Great Britain 4.84 11-16, Canadian dollars 23-32 of one per cent discount.

STOCK A DAY

BELDING HEMINWAY COMPANY

The Belding Heminway Company manufacturers silk fabrics, silk thread and cotton thread and stamps linens. The principal products however, are 100 and 50 yard spools of silk thread, broad silks, crepes, satins and other silk fabrics. The company's products are sold to retailers, jobbers and manufacturers through sales offices in the principal American cities. The company has six mills of which two are in Connecticut, one in Michigan, one in California and one in New York. It also owns a 25-storey office building in New York City said to be worth more than $3,000,000.

For the last eight years, there has been an almost continuous downward trend in earnings. The company attributes the disturbed condition of the silk industry and the popularity of ready to wear goods. In 1928 there was a deficit of $436,033. This compared with a profit of $521,952 in 1927. The company is now endeavoring to develop its hosiery business more extensively and plans to introduce a new fabric line suitable to modern conditions.

Funded debt totals $2,882,000. Capital stock outstanding includes $109,300 in 7 per cent. cumulative preferred shares of $100 par, and 415,032 shares of no par common. The preferred stock now is in process of being purchased and retired. Dividends on the preferred have been paid regularly. No dividends have been paid since May 1, 1928. The rate prior to that time was $.75 a share quarterly.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $7,712,450. Current liabilities totaled $191,103 and net working capital was $7,521,347. Book value of the common stock was $18.14 a share.

EARLY LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Market Strengthens At Mid-day Despite Profit-taking in Morning Session.

CALL MONEY HIGHER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 8.—(A.P.)—A slight firming of money rates prompted considerable profit taking on the stock market in the early transactions to-day, but the market strengthened by mid-day with vigorous bullish operations in the Investmen Rails and some of the Specialties. Early losses were reduced as practically the entire list turned upward, a wide assortment of issues reaching still higher record territory.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent. unchanged from Friday, but soon rose to 8 as banks called loans, presumably to meet mid-year settlement checks returning for collection, and to pay off borrowings at the Federal Reserve, which were heavily increased during the strain incident to the turn of the half year. The undertone of time money was slightly firmer, but bankers acceptance moved readily, despite the recent cutting of rates.

UNFILLED STEEL ORDERS AS AT JUNE 30.

NEW YORK, July 8. — The Steel Corporation's unfilled orders as of June 30, which will be announced on Wednesday, are expected to show little change. If anything, there may be a small increase, in view of the fact that contracts for some sizable business was reported just before the close of the month. Even if no change of any consequence is reported it will be distinctly encouraging, inasmuch as last month's operations were maintained at a rather high rate. The estimates at present indicate that the Steel Corporation is operating at about 97 per cent. of capacity, which compares with 75 per cent. a year ago. As a matter of fact, the ingot output during the early part of June was maintained at a rate in excess of the theoretical capacity. During the latter half of the month there was some let-down in production, due to hot weather. The demand for steel continues active so that the outlook for the remainder of the summer is the best in years.

LOANS OUTSIDE CANADA INCREASE

Ottawa—Call loans of Canadian banks, held outside Canada, increased from $301,766,922 at the end of April to $322,182,343 at the close of May, 1929, or an advance of $20,417,421. Savings bank deposits in the banks of Canada during May dropped $21,897,186. The monthly statement issued to-day from the Department of Finance shows that savings bank deposits in Canadian banks at the close of April last amounted to $1,508,351,619. At the end of May the figures had decreased to $1,486,454,433.

The statement shows that at the end of May the banks had a deposit in the control gold reserve amounting to $57,880,860, as compared with $61,830,866 at the close of the previous month.

LARGE INCREASE IN BROKERS LOANS

Washington—Loans to brokers and dealers by the member banks in the New York district increased $227,000,000 during the week ending July 3, and $462,000,000 over the corresponding week last year. The total for the week wtas $5,796,000,000 and for the preceding week, $5,452,000,000. For the week ending July 3 1928, the total was $4,307,000,000.

7,231 REGISTERED DURING BIG WEEK

population was swelled by at least ten thousand during the big celebration.

Visitors representing almost every part of the continent were present during the week. Registrations were made of persons from as far as Southern Texas, California, British Columbia and the North Maritime provinces, thus embarassing the four points of the compass. Possibly the largest per cent. came from Toronto and the larger cities of Ontario but it is estimated that about one third came from the United States. Rochester, Detroit and Cleveland were the cities across the line from which most hailed.

West Well Represented

It is of note that for some reason the west was better represented during the week than the east, possibly indicating the fact that more Peterborough boys and girls have gone to points west of here than east. The Prairie Provinces were well represented.

The majority of the old boys and girls made the trip to the re-union by automobile, very few coming by train. The average duration of their stay was about three days, although some registered their intentions of remaining as long as a month. Almost all had accommodations arranged for in the homes of relatives in the district but a number were attracted to the city not because they ever lived here before or had relatives here but because it was the old home town of their parents. In fact, one gentleman rather advanced in years expressed the hope of meeting the sweetheart of his long-past youth, although he was doubtful of the possibility.

Marked enthusiasm was displayed by all the visitors. Many expressing pride in the fact that they originally belonged to the city. One Detroit party said that the demonstration surpassed in excellence anything they had ever witnessed in the United States. Congratulations for the men who staged the affair were general. The old home towners were especially pleased with the service and courtesies extended them at the Old Home Week registration bureau.

For the week, the registration bureau was operated twenty-four hours a day. It was mainly for the purpose of registration but afforded other welcome conveniences to the travellers such as information booths, rest rooms, and refreshment provisions. Through the bureau, a number were provided with lodgings, in some cases after midnight. The space for the bureau was kindly loaned to the committee by J. J. Duffus.

1,500 Watts To Every Foot.

One of the finest examples of proper lighting is found to-day in the Fisher Bodies plant. Here they have 1,500 watts to every foot and want more. They find the increased saving in spoilage through increased lighting more than pays. In the years to come we will find more and more flood lighting done, than has ever been done, and there has been a considerable advance in this line in the past five years.

Mr. Ruggles continued to say that statistics showed that the larger percentage of purchasers were women, who like attractive things, and he showed how sales had been increased in large stores by an attractive window lighting system, as well as proper lighting inside. He closed by passing out as a final tip, "don't skimp in your future lighting installation."

President Dobbin was joined heartily by the entire gathering when he expressed thanks to the speaker for his fine address.

Among the visiters who were introduced and welcomed, were two Rotarians sons, Master Fred Carns, and David Brown; Mr. Norris of Sharron, Pa.; and Charles Thorpe of Peterborough.

EARLY PIONEER IS 90 TO-DAY

MARRIED 67 YEARS.

One of the early pioneers of this county, Dawson Kennedy, 600 Water street, to-day celebrates his ninetieth birthday. Despite his long years of fruitful labor, Mr. eKnnedy today enjoys good health and the zest of life. With the exception of a dinner down street this evening no unusual festivities will mark the turning of his ninetieth milestone.

On February 20th, last Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy celebrated the sixty-seventh anniversary of their wedding day. Mrs. Kennedy was eighty-four on December 6th last. Both are approaching the seventy-year mark of happy married life with a sturdy stride that shows no signs of faltering.

Mr. Kennedy was born in County Cavan, Ireland, his parents moving to Canada when he was two years old. They came by way of one of the old sailing boats, the passage taking sixty-seven days, and their trip from Quebec to Peterborough, on a "Durham" boat, occupied the better part of three weeks. They arrived here on July 4th, 1841.

They came out to join an uncle of his parents, James Matchett, who had settled in Otonabee, and they took up a farm in Douro, where the father died and the family later moved to Otonabee. There Mr. Kennedy farmed for forty-two years, coming in to the city twenty-five years ago where he has resided at 600 Water street.

The early days of oxen, reaping hooks, and when wolves roamed the county are vivid recollections of Mr. Kennedy's earlier experiences in this county.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was Rebecca Sherin, daughter of Henry Sherin of Omemee, is also of Irish stock, her father being a native of the County of Monaghan, Ireland.

Mr. Kennedy enjoyed Old Home Week, which presented him the opportunity of renewing friendships with the few of his old friends who are still alive. He walked down street several times last week to view the events of the big week.

WAR IMMINENT IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, July 8 (C.P.).—Semi-official Chinese press despatches from Nanking to-day said a "tense situation" had developed between Outer Mongolia and Siberia consequent to recent Mongolian demonstrations there.

The Mongolian demonstrations were said to have been by the members of the Kuomintang or Nationalist Government political organization against "the hostile attitude of Soviet Russia toward the Mongolian Kuomintang."

The despatches stated further that the Nanking Government had been informed the Soviet authorities had dispatched a "strong detachment to Urgga giving rise to fear of military activity between the Mongolians and Siberians."

In the Middle East exposure to the rays of the moon is said to cause nightmare as well as headaches, and in the Far East a morning "thick head" is added to these symptoms. In Burma there is a belief that when the insane suffer from mental storms, these correspond to the phases of the moon.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

June production at the Dome Mines is valued at $383,361 as against $409,518 in March. Total production for the first six months amounts to $2,181,929 as against $1,847,950 for the corresponding period of last year.

Gordon Duncan, exploration manager for Northern Areials Minerals Exploration has just completed a report on the Crow River holdings of the company. The main showing consists of a well-defined vein at the contact of the greenstone and iron formation. The main vein has been traced for a distance of over 800 feet. On surface the westerly section is narrow but values are high. The richest ore is, however, found at the eastern end of the vein. An ore chute has been opened up for 232 feet over a width of 5 feet 3 inches and assaying $17.98. Five trenches have been put down across this over an average width of 9 feet 11 inches with assays running $12.93. Thees trenches indicate that values hold at depth. Grade is slightly lower but the vein is wider.

The "Story of Gold," a film illustrating the life of a mine from the staking of the claims right through until the gold brick is poured is being prepared by Fox Movietone with the Red Lake district as a background. Three planes of Jack Hammell's N.A.M.E., will be placed at their disposal and lengthy trips in the air will be given the party. Prominent Canadian and American journalists will be in the party. The lion's share of the credit for this film and articles is due to Jack Hammell who will personally direct the expedition. It will be a great boost for the Canadian north country and mining. It is estimated that over fifty million people will see the film as it will be shown over Europe, the United States and Canada while possibly as many more will read articles of the expedition in the continent's leading magazines and financial papers. The Howey provides the necessary background for the filming of the picture as it could not be completed unless a near-producing mine is available. Differences between old and modern prospecting will be shown and the use of the airplane in exploration work will be given some long-deserved publicity.

The crosscut at the 1,000-foot level of the Harker Gold Mines has entered the vein, after 162 feet of crosscutting. Where intersected the vein is 18 feet wide and while no assays have been received as yet, President J. E. Hammell states that the material is good looking stuff. B. Budgeon, formerly with the Howey, has now taken over the management of the Greene Stabell, another Hammell enterprise. E. W. Todd, consulting geologist, is now on this latter property.

Latest reports on Wright Hargreaves state that the upward extension of the vein from the 1,250-foot level has been cut on the 700-foot, and opened up for a distance of 175 feet, with values averaging $14 per ton for the full length. On the 1,375-foot level, the 1,300 vein system is now some 450 feet in length, with values holding consistently around $820 per ton. Sinking on the No. 2 or north shaft is now down past the 2,230-foot horizon.

Seaweeds have no roots in a general sense, only holdfasts or anchors. They absorb air, water and salts through the surface of their fronds.

Egypt! Land of the Pharaohs

HERE in the valley of the Nile stand the pyramids, noble monuments of that early civilization which, with pomp and ceremony, committed its dead to the care of the great god Osiris. The Egyptian always made ample provision for the proper burial of himself and his dependents.

It is also inscribed in certain tombs of Egyptian kings that, among their good deeds, they gave protection to those in need. Voluntary, instead of organized protection it was, but the psychological and social basis was the same.

To-day, as enduring as the pyramids, stands our great humane institution—modern life insurance as provided through the policies of The Dominion Life Assurance Company. Conspicuous in its forty years of service is the Company's outstanding reputation for paying large profits to policyholders.

It has been discovered that in Egypt, 4,300 years ago, Senefrae, Son of Heva, a man without rank or wealth, was a member of a Guild of necropolis stone masons and that he regularly paid fees to make provision for the burial of his grandmother and three aunts. They are referred to as

We know what great importance the Egyptians attached to their tombs and burial. Drodorus says, "They call their houses hostelries, on account of the short time during which they inhabit them, but their tombs they call eternal dwelling-places."

CHAUTAUQUA AT WARKWORTH

Canadian Shows Hold Opening Performance on Saturday Night.

PLEASING PROGRAM.

WARKWORTH, July 8 (Examiner Correspondence). — Saturday night marked the opening of the Canadian Chautauqua in this village which is being held in the Chautauqua tent erected in the fair grounds.

For five busy days the big tent auditorium will be thronged with patrons enjoying the many activities which Chautauqua brings to a community. Plays, lectures, musical entertainments, all of the high standard which the Canadian Chautauqua maintains, will find a place during these crowded days.

The children have an afternoon of their own, when Herb Taylor, famous "Humpty Dumpty" clown, will usher them into his own exciting domain, "Funland."

The first attraction of the week's program is the outstanding Broadway comedy, "The Family Upstairs," which is being presented on Saturday night by the Martin Erwin Players. Players. This fine comedy is an admirable selection for the opening program. It is so filled with human interest, with irrisistably laughable comedy situations; its characters are so vividly depicted that it has delighted audiences wherever it has been presented.

The second day is a red-letter day at Chautauqua, in the afternoon, Mrs. D. Pirie Beyea, well-known British lecturer, will give her extremely interesting and constructive lecture, "Education or Catastrophe." The evening of that day will see one of the greatest productions of Russian music and dramatic art ever presented upon the Chautaqua platform—Anatol Frikin and His Russians in scenes from "Russian Life" are proving one of the most popular companies of the entire week.

On the afternoon of the third day Ernest Toy, Australia's leading violinist, and Lovell Patton, composer and pianist, will give a joint recital and also present a musical prelude in the evening, followed by Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, the distinguished Chinese staesman, who will give an address on "Awakening China."

The program for the next two days includes Herb Taylor, "the kiddies' entertainer"; the beautiful romantic drama, "Smilin' Thru," featuring Martin Edwin, of Winnipeg, in person; also the breezy Western lecturer and author, Captain Stanley Nelson Daucey. Finally a joyous group of jubilee singers from the South conclude the Chautauqua programs.

Picnic Held

The annual Presbyterian Sunday school picnic was held at Percy Boom on Wednesday.

W. I. Meets

The Women's Institute held its meeting, which was largely attended, at the home of Mrs. James Black on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Lorne Evans gave a most excellent address on "The Flag." The entire program was equally as interesting.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Fred McMahon Rushed To Hospital Following Smash-up Near Millbrook.

CAR TURNS TURTLE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 8. — A motor accident occurred a short distance north of the village, between three-thirty and four o'clock on Sunday afternoon, when the car driven by Fred McMahon skidde dto the ditch and turned over twice. Mrs. McMahon was thrown through the roof of the car, and at first it was feared that her back was broken, though medical examination later at Dr. H. A. Turner's private hospital, where she was taken for treatment, showed no bones brokenbroken, but severe nervous shock and bruises. Miss Hazel McMahon had her side injured but was not thrown from the car by the accident. Mr. McMahon was driving his daughter, Miss Hazel, to catch the 4 p.m., C.P.R. train for Toronto where she holds a stenographer's position, havinb come home for the week-end with the family.

Mr. McMahon has no definite idea of how the accident occurred, but as he was driving at a fair rate of speed it may be a too suddan application of the brakes resulted in the car turning turtle; the driver apparently escaped injury, as did also his little son Lloyd, an dthe daughter Charlotte. T he top of the car was badly broken, one fender bent and other damage done. The accident occurred only about a mile from the McMahon home, just where the power line crosses Edgar Failis' farm.

Mrs. McMahon and Miss Hazel were brought at once to Dr. Turner's hospital, where Dr. Fisher, assisted by Nurse Finnimore, gave the necessary medical treatment.

WAR VETERANS HONOR MEMORY

The band played "Nearer, My God to Thee," accompanied by the singing of the throng. Arnold Everett, who was chairman, spoke a few words in which he told of the need for a strong soldiers' organization to secure the rights of the wounded returned men. This thought was reiterated in a brief address by J. Abraham, past president of the local branch. Mayor Denne also saw the need for a soldiers' organization, saying that the public are too prone to forget their debt to the returned men, and he said that the Canadian Legion was one of the best methods to secure their rights.

Rev. Father Costello, in a few words, pointed out that the soldiers were not forgetting their dead comrades as the large turnout testified. He told the men to carry on aiding their weakened comrades.

Graves Well Looked After

In a glorious message Rev. Father McAuley, recently returned from a three-months' tour of Europe, during which he visited many of the war cemeteries, emphasized to the men that their comrades' last resting place was receiving the greatest care. E. A. Peck, M.P. also spoke

One of the most solemn parts of the service was the calling of the roll. J. Abraham called the names and Arnold Everett replied, "Absent." It was the roll call of the men who lie sleeping in St. Peter's cemetery. They are:

Capt. R. Picard; C.Q.M.S. J. Kane; Pte. John Gorman; Sapper J. Mahoney; Pte. Norman Peters; Pte. P Burke, Pte. David Wheeler, Driver J. McCarthy, Pte. Pat. Hanlon, Pte. J. Scully, Gunner V. Grady, Pte. G. Tucked, Pte. R. Ranard, Pte. Francis Booth, Pte. R. Bolin, Pte. W. Watson, Pte. John Kylie; Pte. R. Boyle, Pte. T. Theobald, Pte. H. Feeley, Pte. M. Lonergan, Gunner V. Clancy.

The band then played the Dead March from Saul, the Last Post and the Reveille. The veterans then slowly marched through the cemetery laying wreaths and flowers upon the graves of the dead comrades.

FIRST RECTOR AT ALL SAINTS'

CONGRATULATES MEMBERS.

Rev. Canon W. Leslie Armitage, the first rector of All Saints' Church, at present engaged in mission work in Saskatchewan, delivered a sermon in All Saints' church last evening on the subject of his mission work that was an inspiration to the congregation. He outlined the work that was going on, stressing the urgent need of more assistance from the people of Canada.

Rev. Canon Armitage opened his address by congratulating the members of All Saints' Church on the fine condition of their church both physically and financially and on the progress made in the church as a whole. He expressed the belief that the members of the congregation were personally the better for the progress made in their church.

The speaker especially commented on the recent paying off of the large debt of the church. While he extended conrgratulations, he warned against the dangers of resting after the task had been completed and urged that there be no slackening in the good work.

Need More Workers.

Rev. Canon Armitage, in speaking on Saskatchewan mission work, made a plea for more workers. His diocese extends over a territory covering the northern half of the province to an extend of 175,000 square miles. Fifty-one ordained clergymen and about forty students have to cover this great area of sparsely settled territory maintaining many White missions and forty Indian missions. They have to do a great deal of travelling, using all mehods of transportation, and are forced to live in very squalid houses on account of the lack of money for the work.

The work of the missionaries is to teach Christianity and improve conditions throughout the territory. Great obstacles stand in their way among which is the fact that in the diocese hardly one half of the residence are English speaking. The majority of the population of the district are suffering from a lamentable lack of all knowledge especially religious. Some have never seen a church and even have never heard of God.

The work of the missionaries is to lok after the type of immigrant who is a potential asset to Canada if he can be raised above his interior surroundings. Rev. Canon Armitage told of a sad lack of money needed to carry on this work and the unebliev-able hardships that the missionaries are undergoing.

Prayers of thanksgiving for the recovery of the King were offered during the service and special music for the occasion was provided by the choir. Part of the musical service was the rendering of the National Anthem.

to proceedings when the boys took the ram into various stores and introduced him to the proprietors, and another, just a bit wilder and more dangerous, was the shooting off of sky rockets from the top of several cars. In this the boys weren't a bit particular which way they went and as a result many citizens had to do some tall stepping to keep out of the way as the rockets hurtled and exploded in most unexpected directions.

Noise makers were handed out freely by the committees in charge and together with the continual blare of horns, laughter, yells and roars of firecrackers, all blended into one memory that will ring in the ears of those who ventured out, in many a nightmare, and for years to come.

And long into the morning did the revellers hold forth, despite the fact that Sunday had dawned, that it rained, or that the streets had long before cleared of interested spectators.

like to complete. Joseph was buried in Egypt, another example of the tragedies of an incomplete life, also the case of Moses who died in the land of Moab, which when translated means, "The Land of Disappointment."

Completed His Mission

Jesus Christ is the only one who completed the mission He set out to do. He died that the world might be saved, saying as His latst words as He hung on the Cross: "It is finished."

Ensign Green praised Sir Wilfred Lawson, who fought and died for a temperate England, but who died with his aim incomplete. However, he said it is infinitely better to have a great aim to lead us on, and fail in it than to have had none. It is a great thing in itself to have noble aims. The source of David's greatness was that he had noble aims, although his son Solomon completed the great temple that his father planned. To-night we are worshipping in a temple that was built through sacrifice and tragedy of three great men who lived several centuries ago.

In closing he urged that those who had no definite aim in life look toward Jesus Christ who stood above us in every phase of completeness, and added to the visiting Orangemen and Ladies, that he hoped the city would continue to receive the benefit of the splendid work they were doing.

INDUCTION SERVICE HELD AT CAVAN UNITED CHURCH

Rev. J. E. Whitham To Take Charge of Circuit—Many Addresses Heard.

REV. POULTER IN CHARGE.

CAVAN, July 8 (Exminer Correspondence). — On Thursday evening, July 4, an induction service was held in Cavan Church for the new pastor, Rev. J. E. Witham. Rev. Mr. Poulter, of Bethany, was in charge of the service. Rev. Mr. Boomhour, of Pontypool, addressed the congregation, using as his text St. Luke 4, 16: "As His custom was He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day." He said what especially appealed to him in that verse was not "that He went into the synagogue." Any person returning to his home usually likes to visit the church. It was the clause "as His custom was" that was of especial importance. From reading the Scriptures we know that Jesus did not approve of all things concerning the synagogue. We read his scathing condemnation of the officials and their doings in the synagogue, but He recognized the fact that the synagogue was the only available place of worship, and in spite of its defects it was the best instrument of its day for the worship of God. He felt He needed its help and the peace which the worship within its walls brought. We should emulate this example. We hear it said that in time past great numbers flocked to the House of God. We do not think that this proves that there is a decline of interest in the House of God. There are reasons for this decline. Rural population has declined and there is an increase of numbers of things that can divert from attendance in the House of God. Among these are the automobile and the radio. Few, of any, public gatherings held as often have any better attendance. Entertainments and political meetings are held at rare intervals. Service in the Church of God is from one to five times weekly and little of the element of the unusual. He said he believed the time was opportune for sounding the call for a more regular attendance. The church needs it. Everybody will admit the Church of God is of benefit to the community and in human lives. It is the best instrument for the promotion of righteousness. The responsibility for its support financially and in every other way rests on each of us. It is reserving of support. Therefore, we are under an obligation that cannot be discharged in any other way. You need the administration of the church. It materially helps us to meet the crises which arise in every life. It helps us to live properly and carry through. For these reasons I call upon you people to emulate the example of our Saviour in the House of God.

Rev. Mr. Poulter then spoke a few words concerning the necessity of this induction service.

Rev. Mr. Whitham was asked to come forward and the induction service was read be Rev. Mr. Poulter. Rev. Mr. Whitham giving the responses and the congregation being called upon to rise, showing their assent to the covenant between pastor and people.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon, Peterborough, addressed the pastor-elect, and also spoke a few words to the people. He chose as his texa Ezekiel 3, 17: "Son of Man, I have made Thee a watchman of the House of Israel."

The minister is a watchman by divine opportunity. He should receive his message direct from God and deliver it to the people. The people should pray for the message and the Church. In the church is this administration and the congregation—the pulpit and the pew. He spoke on the duties and privileges of the minister and people. The minister of the Gospel should be a converted man; must have been to Jesus Christ and know his sins forgiven; he must know the saving grace [illegible] he must know the joys of the freedom that comes from deliverance from sin; he must be divinely called. Jesus called His disciples one by one. Universities and colleges cannot make a true minister. They may qualify him, but a man who would be a watchman for God must be called of God. He should recognize this call by the inward impression of the Holy Spirit. A call from a church to be its pastor should be taken as a call from God to go forth to minister. He must call others to God, see conversions, look for souls as an evidence that God is blessing the messages. The great work of the minister is to preach, and in order to do this he must study. The pulpit is th minister's throne of power. Quietness alone with God helps. Study the people. The pastor must preach to all classes, young and old, educated and uneducated. Seek to have a message for all, one that our congregation can understand and profit by. "Feed my people, feed my lambs." Preach so that the boys and girls will love to go to church. The minister must not only be a student and preacher but must be able to mingle with his people. He should be filled with the Holy Spirit, should tarry until he knows that the Holy Spirit is guiding him in all things.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon then addressed the pews. The members and officials should be converted. They share equal responsibility with the minister in this respect. "You should know God, you should seek His spirit before sitting in judgmen on him and his work. Members should be baptized with the Holy Spirit. Peter preached a wonderful sermon at Pentecost, but there were 119 who were filled with this Holy Ghost and praying. Sin is just as prevalent today as it was 1900 years ago, and must be overcome by divine power. Your minister will succeed just as the members hold up his hands and help him. Ask God's blessing upon him, and your own hearts will be strangely warmed. We have much to do in answering our own prayers. If you co-operate with, pray for, and help your pastor, God will abundantly bless you. Your sons and daughters will be brought into the church, and the cause will prosper. Pray that this year the ministry of your church will be crowned with success."

After the induction service, a reception was held for the Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Whitham, the ladies of the Circuit serving lunch. Short impromptu speeches were made and a social time enjoyed.

There were members present from Mount Pleasant and Ebenezer.

Before coming to Cavan, a social gathering was held for Rev. and Mrs. Whitham at Damascus, and they were presented with a dinner service and a cut glass water service.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BIBLE SOCIETY

Rev. Mr. Craw Principal Speaker at Gathering Held in Warsaw.

WARSAW, July 8. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual Bible Society meeting in Warsaw was held in the Warsaw Baptist church on Wednesday evening. In the absence of the president, William Payne, Rev. W. B. Herrington took the chair. After the usual opening exercises in which Pastor Walling read the scriptural lesson and Rev. Mr. Craw led in prayer, Rev. Mr. Herrington made a few introductory remarks.

Mr. Craw the Bible Society representative, gave a most interesting talk on the work of the society. Previous to the formation of the British Bible Society, Bibles were published with comments by the different denominations. The Society was formed, that the Bible without note or comment, might be given to every man in his own tongue. This year celebrates the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the British and Foreign Bible Societies, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the amalgamation of all the societies in Canada and the United States.

There are more than twelve hundred languages and dialects, and the giving of the Bible to all in their own tongue is not yet accomplished.

There is more difficulty in that than at first dreamed, for more than half of these twelve hundred have had no written language and among those who have there is great divergence in letters and in manner of reading. The Chinese have an immense alphabet and read up and down. The Hebrew reads backwards.

Until March of this year the Bible was printed in 618 different languages. With the desire to reach the largest number possible from the beginning, Bibles were printed in the easiest languages to translate, and those which already had written languages. The six-hundred and eighteen includes practically all written languages, and the six hundred left have no written language.

To reduce a spoken language to a written one it is necessary to catch the sounds and different tribes have sounds which cannot be represented by any English letters or by an known letters. Having caught and represented the sounds, the words are built and the sentence construction is another consideration. The Bible is sold where possible, at cost, and given where needed.

Mr. Craw cited several cases of the good the distribution of Bibles had done. Warsaw givings have steadily increased, and in 1928 they were a little more than one hundred and seven dollars.

W. M. S. MEETS

The Warsaw United Church W. M. S. met in the small class room in the United Church on Thursday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Herrington gave a very interesting lesson on chapter five of the study book, mostly about the life of King Kanjundu who became a Christian and remained a steadfast one.

Group "D" of which Mrs. Arthur Edwards is convener had charge of the meeting, as the president is absent. Mrs. W. Anderson and Mrs. Arthur Edwards each gave readings from another missionary work in Africa, and Mrs. David Miller told of a Zulu, to whom Mr. Miller had given some Farmer's Advocates while in Belgium. This Zulu was greatly interested in agriculture. He was a teacher, the principal of a native school, and had been taught by a mission teacher from Ottawa. He wrote some very interesting letters in a clear hand, and used good English.

The date of the next meeting may need to be changed. It will be in charge of group C., Mrs. John Sargent convenor and is planned to be at the home of Mrs Alex Watts.

Mrs. O. B. McIlvena has invited the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid with their husbands, to a picnic on a shore near her home at Young's Point, the picnickers to go before dinner, have their lunch on the grounds, consider what business they need to, have a game and return home in time for chores.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 8.—Local cash grain prices remained unchanged on Saturday.

Cheese values here Saturday morning were practically unchanged, and the market remained stagnant. Receipts were 12,259 boxes, both from trucks and from boats. Country cheese prices, however, showed a general reduction over the week-end according to reports reaching here from the country boards. Prices generally got below the 18-cent-per-pound mark at these board meets.

The butter market on Saturday closed with prices unchanged from Friday, Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized selling at 37 to 37¼ cents per pound in a wholesale way.

Old potatoes were unchanged, New Brunswick Green Mountains selling from 55 to 70 cents per 90 pounds in bulk. New potatoes were also unchanged. Dressed poultry prices were generally steady.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 8.—The opening was 3⅛c to 4⅛c higher on the local market Saturday morning. Wheat topped all previous high marks for the year in the July future, soaring to $1.47, and then slumped to slight losses for the day when profit-taking swept the market. Values at the close were about 1c under Friday's close.

Offerings swept the pit less than an hour after the opening, and did not ease up until levels had reached those of the previous close.

With cash wheat trading slow and featureless, spreads showed a decline of about 1c for the short session.

A firm coarse-grains market saw only barley prices fluctuate, opening about 2c higher and then dropping for a 2c loss at the close. Oats fell off only slightly and barley and rye remained steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 8. — Hurry to grab profits while the grabbing was good, resulted in sharp set backs for wheat values Saturday. Reactions however came only after the wheat market had outdone the season's high price record. Some moisture relief in the spring wheat drought region was noted and big receipts of domestic winter wheat were also an incentive to sell, both crop advices from both north and south of the Canadian line continued extremely pessimistic, reported impairment in Canada reaching as high as 17 1-2 per cent. since June 15.

Closing quotations on wheat here were unsettled, 1 1-8c to 1 3-4c under Friday's finish. Corn closed 1 1-4c to 1 3-4c down; oats 5-8c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal advance.

Break of 4c a Bushel.

A maximum break of almost 4c a bushel in wheat values took place, as compared with the highest prices reached. Rallies though followed the break and there was considerable reinstating of speculative lines, especially after the Canadian weather forecast was received indicating drought conditions in Canada would continue, and that perhaps profit taking at this stage was more or less premature in view of sensationally radical crop-damage conditions shown by reports from the Canadian wheat growers' organization and reflected by a steep up turn of 4 1-8 pence in closing prices for wheat at Liverpool.

Corn and oats swayed in line with the action of wheat. Besides excellent weather for corn growth tended to promote selling in the corn market.

Provisions were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.

HECKMAN SHUTS OUT DELORO TO PULL PETES UP TO TIE FOR SECOND PLACE IN HOT RACE

PETES WIN 3 TO 0

(By F. D. C.)

To Al. Heckman, veteran of the Petes' pitching staff, goes the honor of pitching the first shut out in the Central Ontario League race this season.

"Heck", serving them up to the Deloro hitters with cunning and perfect control, stopped Bill Regan's boys in their tracks, before a big Old Home Week crowd at Exhibition Park Saturday afternoon and the Petes won handily by 3 to 0, the victory pulling them out of the cellar into a tie for second place with Oshawa.

The dean of the Central League regulars allowed Deloro only four scattered hits, and did not give a base on balls, while his mastery over the Smelters crew is shown by the fact that Deloro got only three men as far as second base and not one reached third. Heckman never had to pitch to more than four men in an inning and with his team mates playing smart ball behind him was in danger at no stage of the proceedings.

It was his day all round inasmuch as he supplemented his superb pitching by cracking out two timely hits and scoring two of his team's runs.

Carl Wood was Manager Regan's choice and the ex-Peterborough boy pitched mighty nice ball too, although it was wasted in the face of Heckman's air-tight demonstration. The Petes bunched three hits in a row to score two earned runs in the first frame and got another that wasn't earned in the sixth, but outside of those two sessions Wood was on top of the batters.

Both teams did some clever defensive work, with Jimmy Hall furnishing the feature play in the seventh when he sprinted far to his right and over the foul line to take Quinn's short fly on the dead run. Rose handled nine chances at second for the Petes in stellar fashion and the rival centre fielders, Legon and Buck, covered a lot of territory in absorbing four flies each.

The one regrettable feature of the game was a collision between Shortstop Scott and Left Fielder Brown of the Deloro team that resulted in both men receiving nasty cuts on the head and in Brown being compelled to retire from the game. Scott had gone back after Legon's fly to short left and made the catch with one hand just as he and Brown collided. The shortstop managed to hold the ball, although he was painfully hurt.

The Play By Innings.

The only Deloro hit for five innings came in the first. Regan rolled to Red Hollingsworth and Quinn fouled to Sweetman. Elliott slashed a doubled to left, but it was wasted when Buck grounded to Rose.

The Petes got two markers after two men were out. Legon fanned and Rose flied to Buck. Swanston started the winning assault with a long single over Brown's head, and Heckman followed with a double to right, a bad hopper to Ralph. Harrison rifled a most timely single to left centre to score the pair, after which Jim Hall rolled to Regan.

In the second Red Hollingsworth made a nice catch of Brown's fly. Ralph popped to Heckman. G. Scott got a life on Red Hollingsworth's low throw but Hughes flied to Len Hollingsworth.

In the Petes' half Red Hollingsworth flied to Buck, a nice running catch. Len Hollingsworth singled past third and advanced on a passed ball but Sweetman rolled out and Legon was out on Scott's one-handed catch. This was the play on which Brown and Scott collided, the former having to leave the game.

Wood, first up in the third, rolled to Rose and Regan and Quinn flied to Jimmy Hall.

Rose for the Petes struck out and after Swanston drew a pass Heckman also whiffed and Harrison retired the side with a bounder to Hughes.

In Deloro's fourth Elliott hoisted to Rose. Len Hollingsworth made a one-handed catch of Buck's drive and Red Hollingsworth tossed out W. Scott.

Rose threw out Ralph and G. Scott to open the fifth. Hughes got two bases when Hall dropped his fly. Wood flied to Legon.

Sweetman started the Petes' half with a single to left but Legon bunted a foul fly to Quinn and Rose forced Sweetman with a roller to Elliott. Rose stole second but Swanston grounded to Elliott.

Deloro's second hit off Heckman started the sixth, a rap on the short stop side of second by Regan. Quinn flied to Legon. Elliott struck out and Buck forced Regan on a roller to Red Hollingsworth.

The Petes added to their lead. Heckman opened with a single through short. Harrison popped to Wood, trying to sacrifice but Hall singled on the ground into right, sending Heckman to third and when Regan let Ralph's throw get away Heckman scored and Hall reached third. Red Hollingsworth fanned and Len Hollingsworth rolled to Wood.

W. Scott gave Deloro a good start in tht seventh by singling through short, but Ralph flied to Legon and G. Scott forced his namestake on a tap to Red Hollingsworth. G. Scott was thrown out trying to steal.

For the Petes Sweetman rolled to G. Scott and Legon to Elliott. Buck gatheerd in Rose's hoist to centre.

Hughes, first up for Deloro in the eighth, fanned, and Wood was tossed out by Swanston. Regan doubled down the right field foul line. Hall made a beautiful catch of Quinn's foul fly to retire the side.

Swanston rolled to Elliott. Heckman walked but was forced by Harrison, and Hall flied to Ralph.

In the ninth Rose tossed out Elliott and Buck in succession, and the game was over when W. Scott filed to Legon.

MONTREAL IN SECOND PLACE

Royals Defeat Bears 6-4 in Each Contest of Double-header.

RAIN HALTS PLAY.

MONTREAL, Que., July 8 (C.P.).—The Montreal Royals leaped into second place yesterday afternoon when they beat the Newark Bears in both games of a double header. The score was the same in each contest—6 to 4.

After winning the first game with comparative ease behind the twirling of Newark's jinx, Herb Thormahlen, the Royals rallied with four runs in the sixth inning of the second game to come through with their fourth straight victory over the Bears. Joe Hartman staked the visitors a 4-run lead, but Buckalew went in in the sixth and held the Bears runless.

The first game was stopped for over an hour, when a torrential rainstorm fell, but after Herculean efforts by the local groundsmen the field was put in condition again. Showers fell intermittently during the afternoon. Ten thousand saw the twin bill.

Sox Take Second Straight From A's

CHICAGO, Ills., July 8 (C.P.).—The White Sox took their second straight game from the Athletics, 9 to 3, yesterday. Some airtight pitching by Ted Lyons, and timely hitting by the Comiskey team were the principal factors in the Chicago triumph. The Sox blasted George Earnshaw from the mound in the first inning when they counted five runs to take a lead they never lost.

Bill Cissell and Willie Kamm, high-priced infielders, accounted for most of the ferociousness of the White Sox's attack.

Rain Soaked Fans See Rochester Win

ROCHESTER, July 8 (C.P.).—Rochester took two from Reading here yesterday, 5 to 2 and 3 to 0, before 12,000 fans, many of whom were soaked in the sixth frame of the first game during a heavy shower. After the rain Rochester went out and scored three runs in its half of the sixth inning, gaining its first safe blows of the game off Green and Holly, who relieved Welch. Five hits in all brought five runs and aided Carleton in winning his eleventh victory to top the hurlers of the league.

Buffalo Bisons Take Black Cats For Two

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 8 (C.P.). — The Buffalo Bisons scrambled away with two last-minute victories over the tail-end Jersey Black Cats here yesterday, both being decided by the same scores—5 to 4.

A rousing three-run rally in the ninth inning featured by Pinch-hitter "Buck" Elliott's homer with a man on base, allowed the Bisons to spoil a nice pitching performance by Paul Hopkins and win the opening game.

FINAL COUNT 5-2.

Combination Tactics Give Local Boys Four Smart Counters—Green Brilliant.

The Canadian General soccer team annexed another trophy to their collection—the Injured Players' Cup—on Saturday afternoon before a good attendance by the score five to two.

In the first half the visitors had the lead of one goal, but in the second moiety the local boys played the combination and close passing tactics to perfection, thereby getting four counters in last halves. It was a real cup tie game and the visitors were sportsmen throughout the entire tussle.

Captain Blowers, C.G.E., lost the toss, and the visitors kicked into the east goal. Early visits were productive of fruitless flag kicks. Both forward lines missed goals through over-eagerness inside the goal area.

Clever Goalkeeping.

The local boys added pressure against the Deloro aggregation, but found a stalwart defence accompanied by a custodian who made clever saves by picking the ball off the players' feet, also a low grounder from McMaster's foot.

Deloro Opened Scoring.

Combination play brought success to the visitors when Brooks harassed the defence with close tactics that proved beneficial when Finch went through the full back to land the ball in the net. Hard tactics crept into the play, also heavy checking in combination left the wing men ample space to move.

Visitors Two Goals Up.

Deloro wing men swung the ball from touchline to touch and had the local defence on the run until W. Brown trapped the sphere just past Figg, to send a bouncing ball over the head of Wade into the net. At the point, the Electric team endeavored to reduce the lead, in fact, B. McMaster scored, but he was adjudged offsides. They continued to maneuver for a favorable position, but the visiting halves covered up to perfection. Rankin being the dangerous attacker. He placed J. McMaster in possession a few yards out who hit the upright with a lightning drive. Then his brother Ben skimmed a rocket shot over the bar.

Mitchell Reduced Lead.

Dilatory play by the visitors allowed J. McMaster to get the opening he was awaiting. He ran towards goal drawing the defence to him, then suddenly he parted the ball to Mitchell who was lying unmarked. The inside left saw a vacant spot that was to his desire and placed it there. Play was in midfield when half-time was announced. Deloro 2, Canadian General 1.

Second Half.

On resuming the C.G.E. boys made tracks for the visitors' goal when Hipson gave away a free kick.

Mitchell Equalized.

The resultant play proved costly when Burgess manipulated the ball on the line. Mitchell awaiting in front of goal gave the visiting custodian no chance to save the equilizer from the former's cross.

Opportunists' Goal.

Raid after raid terminated in scrimmages inside the goal area, until a visit to the Deloro end awarded J. McMaster the opportunity when the full backs waited on each other to clear, he touched the ball from between the two players into the rigging. Two minutes later C.G.E. were awarded a penalty kick that Mitchell failed to convert.

Green Brilliant.

For the next ten minutes the local boys moved around the goal area to gain nothing tangible. Eventually Robb saw the opening left when Deloro were pressing. He carried the sphere down the field, passed along the ground to B. McMaster, who gained possession in a poor clearance and travelled straight ahead to beat Green with a lightning drive. Immediately thereafter the brothers McMaster increased the count to five. Nothing interesting transpired until the finish. Canadian General 5, Deloro 2.

The teams:

Canadian General—J. Wade, goal; F. Wade and Figg, full backs; Robb, Mann and Elowers, halves; Burgess, J. McMaster, B. McMaster, Mitchell and Rankin, forwards.

Deloro—Green, goal; Murray and Savage, full backs; Hipson, Hart and Cousins, halves; Brooks, G. Brown, Finch, Wallace, and W. Brown, forwards.

Referee—Jack Clark.

Linesmen — J. Hodson and A. Aitkenhead.

Indians Hit Ruffing To Take First Game

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—(Canadian Press).—Cleveland and Boston divided a doubleheader here yesterday, the Indians hitting Ruffing at opportune times to cop the first game 4 to 2, and the Red Sox rallying in the fourth inning to take the second, 3 to 0. The latter game was called at the end of the fifth inning because of rain.

"Bib" Falk hit a home run in the first game, his third in three consecutive contests.

Browns Win Out 7-2 To Even Yank Series

ST. LOUIS, July 8.— (Canadian Press).—The St. Louis Browns drove Waite Hoyt from the mound in the seventh inning, and evened the series here yesterday, 7 to 2. Alvin Crowder was effective against the Yankee sluggers for six innings, holding them to three hits. He weakened in the seventh, and 'Chad' Kimsey, who finished the game, kept five Yankees hits scattered, and allowed but one run. Hoyt was nicked for 12 hits. Lou Gehrig went hitless, and "Babe" Ruth was limited to a single.

Detroit Wins 9-1 Tilt From Senators

DETROIT, Mich., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Earl Whitehill held Washington to four hits here yesterday while the Tigers were manufacturing nine runs out of eight hits, and Detroit won, 9 to 1.

Fred Marberry was charged with the defeat, although Irving Hadley, who succeeded him on the mound, was touched for two home runs, a double and two walks in the one inning he pitched. The homers were made by Fothergill and Alexander, first two men to face Hadley.

'LUNGE AT YOUNG'S POINT JAKE SOLOMON'S FINE CATCH

Tom Curvin Shows Him Where They Are and Jake Hooks Them.

Jake Solomon has been enjoying the festivities of Old Home Week since Saturday last, but before he returned to his home in Philadelphia he was anxious to know if he was as good a fisherman as when he left Peterborough and if there was still any fish left in the Kawartha Lakes. He looked up Tom Curvin, who seems to have the 'lunge around the Point in captivity, as he gets them quiet regularly when he takes a friend fishing, and the result was three fine 'lunge, the smallest nine pounds. This completed Jake's trip of joy over the week, and he returned home more than satisfied with the time he spent here.

LEAFS WIN DOUBLE BILL

Stage Series of Batting Attacks To Defeat Orioles 13-3 and 5-2.

TOTAL OF 28 HITS.

TORONTO, July 8. — (Canadian Press).—Flashing a series of batting attacks that have been rarely seen at Maple Leaf Stadium this season, the Leafs literally pounded their way to a double victory over Baltimore Saturday afternoon. The scores were 13 to 3 and 5 to 2.

The five thousand or so fans were treated to an afternoon of solid hitting, with the Leafs providing most of the entertainment in that respect. Four Baltimore pitchers were hit hard and often, while Guy Cantrell and Walter Leverenz divided the mound toil for the O'Neill men and registered victories. It was Cantrell's eleventh win of the season and the veteran southpaw's fourth.

The Leafs collected a total of 28 hits during the festivities, 19 of them coming in the matinee encounter. It was a big day for Toronto batting averages. Warren Cote was the only member of the locals who failed to partake in this pleasantry at the expense of the Birds' pitchers in the first game, but he came through with a timely single in the second fracas. Joe Rabbitt limited himself to one hit, in the first game, but it was one of the features of the day, Rabbitt sharing the home-run honors of the afternoon with Jonathan Stone. Both pelted the ball over the right field fence, Stone's smash doing the most damage, for two runners were on the sacks when he connected. Rabbitt delivered his to start the eighth inning and made the round trip alone.

ARDIEL GIVES TROPHY WINNER A CLOSE CALL

RETAINS CHAMPLAIN CUP.

"Pick'n Shovel" 'From Toronto Upsets On Turn—Driver Escapes Uninjured.

Featured by the remarkable driving of J. R. Ardiel, the 15-year-old youngster who displayed such exceptional skill at the sea-flea meet two weeks ago, Class "C" outboard motor races were held at South Beach on Clear Lake Saturday afternoon with the Brule Trophy at stake.

Weather conditions once more proved ideal for the weekly program of sports, the weatherman providing water as smooth as glass for the humming sea-fleas as they bounded over the waters of Clear Lake on the quadrangular, three-mile course, dashing up the white spray and churning the waters in their wakes.

Many a thrill was provided for numerous spectators as the daredevil drivers of the diminutive race boats urged every ounce of power from their craft in their struggles for the lead. In jockeying for position on the turns, skill and fearlessness was displayed that excited their admiration.

Turns Turtle.

One mishap occurred to mar the sport of the afternoon when "Pick'n Shovel," owned by Lou Marsh and driven by Jimmy Rogers of Toronto, upset on a turn. Considerable damage was done to the motor but the driver escaped uninjured.

The "I'm Alone" from the National Yacht Club in Toronto, driven by Bill Landrigan, captured the Brule Trophy after competing in a field of four. He was given a hard run by young Ardiel who was handicapped by the fact that he used a "B" class motor in the "C" class fixture.

The race was run in two heats. Each heat was twice around the 3-mile course for a total distance of six miles.

Five boats were entered for the event. The "Billy Mack", entered by W. G. McFarlane and powered with a Caille motor was scratched, leaving the "I'm Alone", "Miss Trent", "Miss Windsor" and "Pick'n Shovel."

Led By Ardiel

In the first heat the field was led for the first lap by Ardiel driving the "Miss Windsor", a Century-Cyclone craft built by O'Dette. It was powered with a Johnson 16, "B" class motor. The "I'm Alone", at the hands of Bill Landrigan, with an Evinrude motor, found no difficulty in beating out the lighter-powered craft on the straightaway but young Ardiel gained by skillful maneuvring around the buoys. The sea-sled "Pick'n Shovel" and the "Miss Trent" dropped to the rear shortly after the start.

The discretion exhibited by Landrigan on the turns left him slightly behind Ardiel in the first lap but he covered the second round in smart fashion to beat out Ardiel by a few length, thus winning the first heat.

It was while running a poor third at the finish of the first heat that "Pick'n Shovel" went over, putting it out of the running.

In the second heat the "I'm Alone" again came through, Landrigan idling around the buoys as was permitted him by his superior speed on the straight stretches. At the first heat, Ardiel was a close second again, displaying amazing skill on the turns. Bill Warington in the Evinrude-powered "Miss Trent" brought up the rear.

By Saturday's race, Landrigan retains the Brule Trophy which he won two weeks ago.

The pole boat for the race was the "Miss Cadilac" of Toronto. Gordon Holding of the National Yacht Club acted as official starter and referees were Lorne Ardiel, Charles Turnbull and W. G. McFarlane of Toronto and W. E. Brooks of South Beach.

SID HAL SETS NEW MARK FOR MILE TROTTING

Great Horse Circles Course in 1.03 1-2 To Beat Former Record.

AWARDED PRIZE BLANKET.

Smart Racing Card In Old Home Week Program Is Brought to Close.

Although not featured by the number of close finishes that marked the card of trotting races on Friday afternoon, the bill of races offered at the Exhibition Park on Saturday afternoon was another exceptional one. The two days of smart racing will go down on the books as being one of the best meets ever held on the local track.

The track record went by the boards, a new record of 2.09 for the mile being set up. Sid Hal, the famous free-legged pacer owned by Dr. Whitley of Goderich, did the trick, in a special run in an attempt to break the track record. The old record of 2.10 1-4 was made on May 24, 1927, by James Ackey's great horse, Jack Abbie, running against Leximore, owned by Vic Rountree of Weston.

Sid Hal in his outstanding run was driven by Johnnie Mullen, who, along with his cigar, is known on race tracks throughout the province, just as is the horse. The first lap was done in 1.05 1-2, and it looked much as though the attempt at a record was doomed to failure. In that last lap, however, Mullen gave Sid Hall the reins, and the great horse answered nobly to circle the course in 1.03 1-2.

Awarded Prize.

Sid Hal is one of the few free-legged pacers running on race tracks today, having no leg straps whatever, and never breaking his distance-eating stride. Sid. Hal won the fine blanket presented by Coulter Bros., of Toronto, for the fastest mile of the day.

General Alix, owned by W. Parks of Toronto, ran first in all three of the heats in the 2.24 Class, but he was pushed all the way by Hal E., who trailed him closely. In the first lap General Alix came up in the straightaway on the outside of the rail to beat Hal E., by a nose. Some of the best racing of the day was seen in this class.

CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE NOTES

There has been a considerable shake up in the Central Ontario League race as the result of the games of the past week which saw Deloro drop three fixtures in a row, while Oshawa hit the chutes twice. Consequently Belleville's lead has increased while the Petes, who were in the cellar a week ago, have passed Deloro and are tied with Oshawa for second place. The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Belleville	7	3	.700
Peterborough	5	6	.455
Oshawa	5	6	.455
Deloro	5	7	.417

This will be a crucial week inasmuch as the Petes tie into Belleville for games, a single fixture in Belleville on Wednesday and a double header here on Saturday afternoon. Much depends upon the result of these games and the Petes are full of confidence and determination on the eve of the all-important series.

Incidentally the day of miracles would seem to have not yet passed. You remember how Frank Merriwell the old dime novel sporting hero, always turned up at the crucial moment and won the ball game for his team? Well Belleville have discovered a second edition of the famed Merriwell in the person of one Tom Pointer, left-handed twirler, who made Oshawa say uncle on Saturday. Where does he come from, did somebody ask? Ah, gentle reader, that is not for us to answer. Suffice it to say that the bedtime story now current is to the effect that Mr. Pointer has been in Belleville for many a moon, but hiding his light under a bushel, as it were. No one suspected that up his sleeve was a left arm of steel and cunning. Not even Walter Gerow dreamed that here was a pitcher of useful qualities He simply lived the ordinary life of an ordinary Belleville citizen, so the story goes, and deigned not to toss the horsehide even in a junior game. How he came to be discovered is a phase of the romance that has not yet been disclosed, but at all events Mister Pointer strode out there Saturday in the first innings against Oshawa, when Mister Utronki was showing signs of going down for the third time, and held the Motorists to two hits for the balance of the game. Not bad for a novice who never even pitched a junior game was it?

Of course there are some suspicious individuals who will be unkind enough to point out how remarkable it is that so much talent should have been so successfuly hidden until the season was half over and should only be uncovered when Belleville has three games in a row with the Petes who have always given the Nationals a battle. Pitchers of Mr. Pointer's calibre, it is true, do not usually drop from the clouds and a little curiosity on the part of the Central Ontario executive as to the past of this mysterious left-handed lifesaver might not be amiss. Innocent teams have before this been imposed on by smooth strangers who could make a baseball sing, and it would be a shame if anything were being put over the Belleville management.

Al. Heckman's performance Saturday was a treat to watch. The crafty veteran, did not give Deloro anything good to hit at and the Smelter crew did not hit any more than two or three balls on the nose all afternoon.

* * *

Saturday's game was also remarkable for two other things. Red Hollingsworth went hitless for the first time this season after getting at least one safe blow in ten league and one exhibition fixture. And Jimmy Hall dropped a fly, an event as rare as an Old Home Week celebration here

Puzzling Wind Keeps Scores in Opening Shots Remarkably Low.

BISLEY FORTNIGHT.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 8.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.) — The "Bisley Fortnight," annual Empire meet of the National Rifle Association, opened to-day in a blaze of sunlight. A puzzling wind developed, however, keeping scores in the opening shoots remarkably low. Two marksmen missed the target entirely with all their seven shots in the "B.S.A." service rifle match over the 600 yard range.

The crack shots of the home services together with the Canadian team and other overseas marksmen competed in the first important event of the Fortnight, the Queen Mary shoot, to-day. Entrants numbered 340 in this service rifle event, which called for shooting under service conditions—10 at 60 yards, deliberate, 10 600 to 100 yards, firing while moving, 10 to 300 yards, rapid fire, and 10 at 300 yards, rapid fire, and 10 at 300 yards, snapshooting.

Intensive shooting so far as Canada's team is concerned, does not set in until near the end of this week.

GOLF NOTES.

All members of the Peterborough Cricket Club are asked to turn out to practice on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of this week. These practices are essential in view of the coming matches with Toronto next Saturady at Armour Heights and the Chicago match here on July 17.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Giants registered a paper gain on the rest of the first division in the National League by winning two games from the Reds, 8 to 0 and 8 to 7, here yesterday as the Pirates and the Cubs took one decision each, with the Cardinals lying idle. In the first game Fred Fitzsimmons held the Cincinnati invaders to four scattered hits to hang up his third successive shutout over the Reds in the last two series. Excellent relief pitching by Eppa Rixey and Judd kept the second game from going completely on the loose after wild scoring in the early rounds.

PLANE'S MOTOR HEARD BY RADIO

'Untin' Bowler's Crew Thought To Have Landed Near Cape Chidley.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Although no direct message was received by the Chicago Tribune from its Berlin-bound Amphibian monoplane, the 'Untin' Bowler, the newspaper's low wave length station at Elgin, Ill., heard the drone of the ship's motors from 8.40 o'clock yesterday morning, central daylight time, until 2.04 yesterday afternoon.

It was known, therefore, that the fliers were in the air that length of time because their radio can operate only when they are flying. The paper assumes that the crew had landed at or near Cape Chidley, their first scheduled stop after Great Whale, where they spent Saturday. This would have been a jump of approximately 700 miles.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: West doubles to show distributed values, intending to bid his Spade suit later regardless of his partner's response. East responding with two Hearts and South passing, West then bids two Spades, concluding the bidding.

Contract: Following West's informative double and subsequent bid of two Spades, which shows a re-bid hand and proximately six tricks with Spades the trump, East is justified in assisting the Spades to three. West's bid of four Spades following East's assist may be an overbid of a trick but still with East's free assist, game should be worth trying for.

The Play

North opens the 3 of Clubs, South winning with the Ace. South returns the Jack of Diamonds. West wins with the King and leads a Heart to begin the establishment of the suit. The finesse of the 9 losing to South's Queen, South leads the 10 of Diamonds to drive out Dummy's Ace if possible. Declarer plays Dummy's Ace and takes advantage of the opportunity for a trump finesse. The finesse succeeding, Declarer leads a Heart. South wins with the Ace and two good Hearts are established in Dummy. South's lead of a small Diamond is trumped by West, who then leads the King of Clubs followed by a low Club which he ruffs in Dummy. Declarer leads the King of Hearts from Dummy and discards his remaining Club upon it. Then leading a Spade and finessing, he is able to capture South's King and makes four odd on the hand.

PLANE SANK WHEN PONTOON BUCKLED

Jammed Rudder Believed To Have Caused Lake St. Joseph Tragedy.

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont., July 8.—(C.P.)—Buckling of the left pontoon after the plane piloted by R. K. Rose, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, crashed 400 yards from shore of Lake St. Joseph, was cause of the machine sinking with the loss of one life Friday night, according to reports reaching here. Jamming of the rudder is believed to have caused the crash.

Sandy Morrison recently arrived in this country from Aberdeen, Scotland, sank with the plane. Indians in a canoe saved the lives of the pilot and Claude Hooker, who are in hospital here recovering from slight injuries to the face and arms.

MAN INJURED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO HYDRO POLE

Two Automobiles are Badly Damaged in Traffic Accidents on the Highway.

With his steering gear out of order, and slewing from side to side on the slippery pavement of the provincial highway, the car driven by William Fredenburg, Terrace street, Toronto, jumped the ditch and crashed into a hydro pole near Fraserville, at 5.30 on Saturday evening.

George Drury, 533 Elm street, was an occupant of the car, and was injured about the face, being taken to the Nicholls Hospital for treatment. The driver was badly shaken but otherwise escaped unscathed.

The small car was almost totally wrecked by its impact with the pole.

A half hour later, on almost the same spot, a large Toronto car skidded on the wet pavement, turned around and took a complete somersault, landing upside down. The two occupants, Bernard Mark, 210 Dundas street, Toronto, and L. McLaughlin of the same address, miraculously escaped any injury.

The top of the car and the glass was badly broken, and the steering gear was broken off.

DEATH FOLLOWS LONG ILLNESS.

LONDON, Ont., July 8.—(C.P.)—Following an illness of several months, Mrs. Jessie Meredith, wife of City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, K.C., died at her home here yesterday. Before her marriage she was Jessie Carling, youngest daughter of the late Sir John Carling and Lady Carling.

place this afternoon, but that no bulletin was likely to be issued thereafter.

Large Crowd Was Waiting

A large crowd was waiting outside Buckingham Palace this morning to witness the departure of the Royal household for Sandringham. The throng was still awaiting expectantly when finally the official announcement was issued.

His Majesty had a visit from Lord Dawson last night and it was after this that it was decided an X-ray examination would be advisable. The doctors, it was understood, wished to be thoroughly satisfied that there would be no recurrence of the abscess

It was stated on good authority that there was no rise in the King's temperature and that there should be no alarm as the trouble was purely local.

The removal of the court to Sandringham to-day had been planned for some time and great preparations had been made to receive Their Majesties. Consequently there was keen disappointment to the waiting crowds there when word was received that to-day's journey had been cancelled.

CHICAGO TO BERLIN AIRPLANE IS DOWN

known to have crossed its path, but Tribune officials promptly repudiated reports from Cleveland that another Amphibian had been rented there to search for the 'Untin' Bowler. They were confident they said, that the 'Untin' Bowler had met with no accident, but had probably been kept to the ground by unfavorable weather.

It was at first supposed that the 'Untin' Bowler had flown yesterday from Great Whale to Port Burwell on Cape Chidley, Labrador, the last stopping place before the water hop to Greenland.

The radio station at Mount Evans, Greenland, told the Tribune early today, however, that it had established communication with Port Burwell at 7 p.m., Sunday and that the Amphibian had not arrived there. Two Hudson Bay Trading Company posts are in the desolate Ungava region, across which the plane must fly on its way to Cape Chidley.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

TOO MUCH CULTURE

The thief-taking folk of the future
Will not be all scowls or all sneers,
Nor flattened of feet from patrolling a beat,
Nor abraded abaft of their ears.
They will chat in the language of culture
Using elegant grammar with ease,
But there won't be much kick to the average "dick"
When they all have got college degrees.

I am certain that Barney the burglar
His bit will still busily ply
When he asks "Who is dere?" with a bellicose air
And a soft voice responds: "It is I."
The man who is deft with a jimmy
And equally apt with a "gat"
Will not be afraid to go on with his trade
When he hears conversation like that.

The lawyer, the doctor, the parson
And even the factory boss
In these scholarly days are well versed in the ways
To put erudition across.
But grammar, employed by a person
Whom the erring assume is a cop
Will, to borrow a cliche from the criminals' speech,
Prove merely a pitiful flop.

The people who profit by plunder
Are lacking the graces of mind,
They stand most in awe of the men of the law
Who to violent words are inclined.
The English one learns in a college
Suits most mortal men well enough
But it's simply the truth to insist that the sleuth
Is only efficient when rough.

MARDI GRAS WAS WELL PLANNED

Too much praise cannot be given to the committees who were in charge of the various street parades during Old Home Week. Rain on Saturday night spoiled plans for a parade that would have been a grand climax in the form of a regular Mardi Gras. The queen had been chosen and a robe, gorgeously made, many feet long procured for the occasion; thousands of yards of streamers and souvenirs were ready for distribution, the visiting Canton from Toronto was on hand, with the Rangers' Band to add zest, and everything to the last tiny detail ready and arranged for—all except the rain—that spoiled it. However, in order not to disappoint the public a burlesque was staged in miniature by the more venturesome, who cared not for a downpour.

No calls were received at the fire department yesterday or this morning.

40 CARS OF CEMENT SHIPPED

A record was broken at the Canada Cement Company at Lakefield the other day. The largest shipment of cement ever made was started on its way comprising of forty freight-car loads. The cement was destined for various places in Canada.

NO RAIN IN PARK.

Those who spent the afternoon in Chemong Park yesterday were surprised to see rain falling out in the lake while not a drop fell in the park. On their way home they also found the highway quite wet.

BIG FLOAT AT CHEMONG

What becomes of the floats used in last Monday's parade? One was seen this week-end at Chemong being used as a diving raft.

TWO AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE.

Apparently, according to police report, neglect on the part of one motorist to stop at the Stop sign at the intersection of Reid and McDonnel streets, caused another car accident at 6.20 p.m. Sunday. Both cars were damaged.

H. H. Sutton, of Cavan, was driving south on Reid street, and had crossed two or three yards over the intersection of McDonnel, when struck amidships by a car proceeding east on McDonnel street, driven by Vincent Junkin, Bobcaygeon. Junkin failed to stop at the Stop sign, the police state.

Sutton's car was damaged around the front, front fender, door bent and skirting being broken, while the left front wheel and fender of Junkin's car were smashed. Junkins agreed to pay the damages, according to police.

CARS SLIGHTLY DAMAGED.

Another car accident occurred on Rubidge and Simcoe streets at 3.25 p.m., Saturday. L. W. Scott was driving east on Simcoe street and then turned north on Rubidge street. J. W. Grandy of Springville, was proceeding west on Simcoe and was turning south on Rubidge when struck by Scott's car. Both cars were slightly damaged.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Speaking at the Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, the Rev. P. Costello made special reference to the recovery of His Majesty, King George Fifth, from his recent illness. He spoke of the services of thanksgiving which are being offered to Almighty God in connection with this happy event and said that the present administrator of the diocese of Peterborough, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, of Lindsay, had received word from the Apostolic Delegate in Ottawa, the direct representative of the Holy Father in Canada, to have special thanksgiving services in all the Catholic churches of the diocese.

At the Cathedral, the special liturgical prayer for the King which is incorporated in the Missal was said during Mass and also at the end of the service, while the National Anthem was sung as the congregation rose.

Similar services of thanksgiving were held at the Church of the Sacred Heart and a Te Deum of thanksgiving for the King's recovery was sung at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The Rev. Father Costello made a special affectionate reference to His Majesty, King George the Fifth. He said that we are living in the most wonderful country in the world, where peace and happiness are to be found. Likewise freedom in religion. And this condition of affairs obtains, not merely in Canada, but in all the different sections of the British Empire which go to make up the great commonwealth of nations under the British flag.

"This happy condition is due," asserted Father Costello, "to the magnanimous and just King, George the Fifth, who cements together these different great nations and we are all therefore thankful to Almighty God for preserving him and we pray for his continued good health for many years to come."

SACRED HEART

At the church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday special prayers were offered in thanksgiving for the recovery of His Majesty the King, in accordance with the nation's expressions of gratitude. During benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the conclusion of the last Mass the prayer for the King which is said every day from the Missal was recited followed by the hymn "Holy God We Praise Thy Name" with the benediction and finally the anthem, "God Save the King." Reference was made during the announcements to the church social which will be held on Tuesday on the church grounds.

AVIATORS LED POLICE CHASE

Borden Flyers Cornered in Long Run Following Car Smash.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8.—(C.P.)—Four men led local police a merry chase here yesterday when they attempted to make their escape after fleeing from a wrecked motor car which police said was stolen.

Three of the men, Gordon Kellow, 23, William Windsor, 20, and another who escaped, are members of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Camp Borden. The fourth member of the party was Hugh Getenschatz, 25. All are from Toronto.

In Police Court

"No city cases," was the report at the police court this morning. However a county case of serious nature required the judgment of Magistrate Langley. Gordon Bowen, of Dummer, appeared charged with having liquor in other than a private residence on Saturday, July 6th, and also charged with having been previously convicted, on November 20, 1928, of being drunk in Belmont township.

The man pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three months imprisonment in the common jail, under the new code of penalties in liquor cases, as recently passed by the Ontario legislature.

Unemployed Bus Boy Slashes Girl In Back

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 8 (C.P.).—Charles Delaet, an unemployed bus boy, who confessed to the police that he had killed a woman in Detroit four years ago, to-day slashed Miss Caroline Goodwin, of Rahway, N.J., with a razor at Broadway and Veset streets, as thousands of office workers were on their way to business.

Miss Goodwin, a telephone clerk, who is 19 years old, received a twelve-inch slash across the back. Fifteen stitches were taken to close the wound. Her condition was stated to be favorable.

The attacker had scarcely inflicted the wound when he was knocked out by Joseph Gabarino, of Brooklyn, who held him until the arrival of the police.

PEACE REIGNS STRIKERS WAIT

Street Car Service Held Up Six Days Waiting For Government Decision.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 8 (C.P.) Peace reigned temporarily at least today in New Orleans street car strike as union leaders and public service officials each turned to a separate branch of Federal authority to aid their cause.

Union heads pinned their hopes for a satisfactory settlement on action of the Department of Labor's conciliation forces, while the Public Service hinged its fight on application for a Federal injunction to prevent riotous acts against attempts to operate with non-union labor.

Meanwhile, both sides had to be content to wait until the government wheels could be started to-morrow.

Meanwhile, New Orleans entered its sixth day without street car service.

WOMEN'S CLUBS HOLD CONVENTION

Husband-Getting No Longer Women's Main Life Aim.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Every woman for every other woman, instead of every woman for herself should be the modern woman's motto, Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York, President of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said to-day at the opening of the pioneer convention of the Federation, which will continue through Saturday.

"In bygone days when a girl's main aim in life was to get a husband," Miss Phillips pointed out, there was an obvious reason for the philosophy, "Every woman for herself and down with every other woman."

But we have progressed beyond husband getting as the only road open to women" said Miss Phillips. "And women must realize that to be truly successful in business and professional life as a whole they must boost other women. Knocking reacts to our detriment."

The vanguard of the Federation, 1,2000 women of all ages from every category in the business and professional directory, disembarked at the Island to-day.

CANTON DRILLS SMART FEATURE

Noted Toronto Oddfellows Please Audience at Fair Grounds.

A snappy drill that aroused much applause from its watchers was a portion of the program in front of the grand stand at the Exhibition Grounds, on Saturday evening, when the visiting Canton of Oddfellows, Toronto's Number Seven, put on a series of drills in military style that was very effective.

In single file, in twos and threes and in fours, or in a column that embraced the entire twenty-one members, they marched and turned and wheeled at the word of command. They wore the trim, attractive suits of their sections; dark uniforms of neat type with upstanding tight collars and red-gold epaulettes and trouser stripes. A band of red-gold braid also adorned their dark caps with stiff vizors.

The Canton was in charge of Lt. Col. Ball, with Brigadier General H. W. Ralston, Department Commander of Ontario, in command, and Lt. Col. Gibbs as Chief of Staff. Col. H. W. Davis is colonel of the second Regiment and Captain Taylor is captain of Canton No. 7.

Living up to the caption of "A Mile of Smiles" which is often bestowed on the A.M.O.S. or Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, a local group of this society paraded at the grounds also.

Dressed in Oriental outfits that included baggy green trousers, red blouses and yellow sashes, with a bright red fez and long tassel to finish it off, and carrying large scimitars, they paraded around the grounds with their drum, attracting much attention from the onlookers.

TAKES USUAL WALK

LONDON, July 8. — (Canadian Press).—Although unable to leave London to-day for the royal summer palace at Sandringham, King George was able to take his usual walk in the grounds of Buckingham Palace. His walk was brief owing to the rather chilly temperature.

WORTH A MILLION.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9 (C.P.).—Eleven pieces of baggage brought from China to San Francisco by Mrs. Susie Ying Kao, daughter of the Chinese Minister to Cuba and wife of the Chinese Vice-Colsul here, disgorged a fortune in opium when opened late yesterday by customs officials.

The baggage, which was seized last Friday as the result of reports received from representatives in China of the United States Treasury Department, was opened upon instructions from Washington that Mrs. Kao was not entitled to diplomatic privileges.

Customs officers opened the trunks and suit cases in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Kao and their attorneys, who protested that the act was a violation of a Chinese-American treaty. Mrs. Kao was not detained.

The value of the opium was fixed by customs officers at $1,000,000. Three other trunks, said to contain only personal property of the diplomat's wife were not opened, but were held by customs agents, pending further instructions from the Treasury Department.

Mrs. Kao declared the opium was not her property and that she had not known the trunks contained the drug. She said she had been persuaded by "wealthy and influential friends in China," to bring the eleven pieces of baggage into San Francisco under diplomatic status and believed that they had contained presents for friends in this country.

LEADER RESIGNS

QUEBEC, Que., June 9.—(Canadian Press).—Regretting that he had not been able to lead the party to success, and with the fervent hope that his successor would be able to do, Arthur Sauve, leader of the provincial Conservative party since 1916, formally handed his resignation to the delegates at the opening session of a province-wide convention. There is nothing to prevent the delegates proposing Mr. Sauve, but the terms with which Mr. Sauve announced his resignation indicated that he has no intention of allowing his name to go forward.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER 90 YEARS OLD YESTERDAY

TARRYTOWN, N.Y., July 9.—John D. Rockefeller, master of the fine art of living, celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary yesterday.

Observance of the day brought little deviation from the daily routine by which the veteran oil magnate has learned to be healthy and happy.

The day marks the close of the third decade since, having amassed a $1,000,000,000, Mr. Rockefeller relinquished his business interests to hi. son and began his pursuit of health and happiness.

His birthday was spent with members of his family, three generations of them at his estate, Pocantico Hills.

Mr. Rockefeller's day begins when he arises at 7 a.m. He goes to breakfast at 8, his pockets jingling with the day's supply of shiny new dimes and nickles.

After breakfast there is a game of numerica in which he finds relaxation after every meal. An hour going over business matters with his secretary follows. Then there are nine holes of golf with a neighbor or guest. His score usually is somewhere in the forties.

The term "Eurasian" was first used in India years ago to describe the child of a Hindu mother and a Portuguese father.

OLD LANDMARK BEING REMOVED

Yelland Home on Geo , Street is Being Torn Down.

TO ERECT SERVICE STATION

One of the oldest homes of the city—a fine mansion of bygone days which was the centre of some of the great social events of forty years ago—is being torn down to make room for a gas station. This dwelling, which was more recently J. Nazimok's Fish Market, is the old Yelland homestead on George street, opposite the Y.M.C.A. William Yelland, one time mayor and a man who took a big share in the city's life, lived there for many years.

To-day the roof of the old structure was being rudely torn off, swept away by the march of progress. In two weeks time the whole building will have disappeared, and another historic landmark gone forever from the city.

The property was bought last year from the Yelland estate by McColl Bros., a gasoline and motor oil company, and it is destined to be the site of a modern service station.

The solid workmanship of the carpenters of more than half a century ago is visible in the old house. The plenteous supply of lumber, that could be bought for a song in those days, is also evident. Nothing was skimped. The scantlings are four-by fours and the floor boards are without a knot. The roof boards are from one to two feet wide. All are in a fine state of preservation.

It is not yet certain whether the service station will be erected this summer or be delayed until next spring. However the property will be cleared within the next fourteen days.

IVOR HEATH, Buckinghamshire, July 9. (Canadian Press Cable.) — The party of Canadian newspapermen and women now touring Great Britain, were entertained during the past week-end at Heatherden Hall, by Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Walter Grant Morden.

Some of the visitors were to-day received by the Prince of Wales at York House.

BIG ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT IS BEING PLANNED

Contracts With Eight Firms Totalling $40,000,000 Are Placed.

LONDON, July 9 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Five district schemes have been approved by the Central Electricity Board in the great "grids" which will link Great Britain with national transmission lines from from Cornwall to the Grampian Mountains in Scotland. The five are Central Scotland, Southeast England, Central England, Northwest England and North Wales, Mid-east England.

These schemes will serve an area of 37,656 square miles or 42.8 per cent of the area of Great Britain. They will serve a population of 31,882,712, or 74.6 per cent of the total population. They will supply 85.2 per cent. of the electricity sales of 1925-26. For the first four the Central Electricity Board has already placed contracts totalling over $40,000,000, and the board reports "with special satisfaction" that "so far they have been able to place all their contracts with British firms."

Adopted in March

The mid-England scheme, which was only adopted by the central board in March, will serve the East, West and part of the North ridings of Yorkshire, the counties of Lincoln and Rutland and the northern parts of the counties of Nottingham and Derbyshire. The area embraces densely populated industrial centres dealing with coal mining, iron, steel, textiles and engineering. It also covers large areas of agricultural land and includes a number of important canal, dock and harbor undertakings. Further regional schemes to be prepared will deal with Southwest England (including South Wales) and Norfolk and Suffolk. It is hoped to complete these schemes in the present year, but five or six years will be needed to put all the schemes into operation.

The regional schemes which together will ultimately cover the whole country are prepared by the electricity commissioners. They are then transmitted to the central electricity board which may adopt the scheme with or without modification and must publish it as so adopted. Once a scheme is adopted and published, it is the duty of the board, as the

Two English Craft Collide Off Coast Of British Isles

Submarine H-47 Goes To Bottom With 21 Men On Board When She Is Struck in St. George's Channel By L-12, a Large Vessel.

ONLY TWO OF NORMAL CREW OF 23 ARE SAVED VESSEL IS LYING IN 270 FEET OF WATER

Two Tugs Are Being Rushed From Portsmouth To Scene of Disaster—One Man Is Missing and Another Injured On Second Craft.

LONDON, July 9. (C.P.) — The British Submarine H-47 with 21 of her crew believed dead or trapped within her, to-day was sunk in 270 feet of water in St. George's Channel off the Pembroke coast, to the west of Fishguard.

The undersea craft was struck by the submarine L-12, a larger vessel, and sank so quickly that only two of her normal crew of 23 were saved. These were Lieutenant R. J. Gardner her commanding officer, and Sidney Cleburne of Davenport, telegraph operator, both of whom presumably were in her conning tower.

The L-12 lost one man, Chas. Edward Bull, chief signaller, who is missing, while Arthur Sampson, a seaman, was in a critical condition from injuries he suffered in the crash.

As soon as word of the disaster was received the dock yard tugs 'Resolve' and 'Grappler,' hurriedly prepared to go to sea with salvage from Portsmouth.

Details are Lacking.

Details of the circumstances under which the disaster took place or how badly the submarine was smashed when she went down, were lacking in the first announcements by the Admiralty.

It appeared, however, that the H-47 sank in about 270 feet of water or nearly three times that in which the United States submarine S-4 sank in 1927, and considerably deeper than that to which the S-51 sank in 1925. Salvage operations at such a depth would be exceedingly difficult.

The Admiralty statement said that the H-47 sank after a collision with the L-12 this morning about 22 miles to the northward of Small's lighthouse and about 20 miles due west from Fishguard.

Beyond the details of the two men rescued from the stricken ship and the two aboard the L-12 involved, one being missing and the other critically injured, the admiralty had no further details.

Attempt to Salvage Craft.

Arrangements were being made with all despatches to attempt salvage of the H-47 despite the depth of the water in which it sank.

The submarine H-47 belongs to the sixth submarine flotilla. The submarine L-12 belonged to the second "L" series which were begun by the emergency war program of 1916.

It was of the admiralty saddle tank type and had extensive equipment, such as that for launching baloons.

The L-12 has six torpedo tubes in addition to extensive other armament, refrigerating machinery for storage batteries, directional hydroplanes, and three periscopes. Its length is 229 feet, and displacement 690 tons.

It was the second of the "L" series, three sister ships have been lost, the L-24 rammed off Portland January 1924, the L-10, a war loss, and L-9 which foundered off Hong Kong in 1928. The last finally was salvaged.

Built During War.

The submarine H-47 also was built under the war emergency program. It was smaller than the L-12, with a displacement of 440 tons and a length of 164½ feet. It carried four torpedo tubes.

The sister ship, the H-29 sank in dock at Devonport in August 1926, and consequently was placed on the disposal list.

The admiralty said the H-47 was commanded by R. J. Gardner (Lieutenant) but there was no certainty he was aboard at the time of the sinking.

The H-47, in December, 1926, collided with the H-32 during submar-

SON OF FORMER MAYOR RETURNS TO PETERBORO AFTER 47 YEARS

MAGNIFICENT WEEK

"A truly wonderful week, and a grand old town, worth a trip thousands of miles to see," was the way William Toole of Winnipeg who has been absent from his home town since 1882, expressed himself in a short interview with The Examiner yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Toole is the son of the late William Toole, who was a well-known councillor and mayor of Peterborough many years ago. He (Mr. Toole, Jr.) has been engaged in the plumbing and heating industry in the west now for over 35 years, making his trip home in eighteen too long years, as he expressed it.

In the few minutes Mr. Toole had to spare, (he was leaving for a short visit out of the city, trying to squeeze in as many happy moments before he left, as possible) he spoke very enthusiastically of things in general about Peterborough.

Central Park Then a Cemetery

"Two of the main changes I notice most, he said, is the beautiful Central Park, which is now where the old grave yard used to be with a six foot board fence around it; the other is Victoria Park, which used to be the court house green—they are two of the loveliest parks I have ever seen. There has been a wonderful change in the town, for one thing, the trees are much nicer. I notice them because we have so few out west.

Old Town is Beautiful

It is certainly hard to realize just how beautiful the old town is and it is just as wonderful to get back. Places where I used to take our cow to pasture are now built up. On

PILOT WAS TESTING PLANE AT TIME OF CRASH

J. Kingsley Rose Expects to Leave Hospital Shortly and Attempt to Raise Seaplane.

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—J. Kingsley Rose, pilot of the Royal Canadian Air Force plane which crashed on St. Joseph's Lake near Osnaburgh House post, July 5, said yesterday that he was testing the plane at the time of the crash. He expects to leave the hospital in two or three days and return to Osnaburgh and raise his sunken ship.

W. C. Cain, Ontario Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests and Captain Roy Maxwell, director of the Ontario Air Force, were reported yesterday to have reached Big Trout Lake safely, but they are said to be in ignorance of the crash of Rose's plane.

Both Rose and Claude Hooker, Hudson Bay factor at Osnaburgh, who was also a passenger in the plane, are recovering rapidly.

Several Hundred Children Attend Supervised Playground On Opening Day

Judging by the number of children who took advantage of the Board of Education's supervised playground's yesterday, the opening day, the playgrounds are in for one of the most successfull season's of their history. Over one hundred youngsters romper around King Edward playgrounds in the morning and in the afternoon their numbers had swelled to one hundred and fifty. The same condition was true at the second playground, Central School grounds.

Everything to supply the children with clean active sport and training during the summer is to be found on the playgrounds. Swings, chutes, sand boxes and group games for the younger children; swimming, baseball, softball, volley ball and other group games for the older ones. The girls are taught sewing and basket work, and good stories are told and read them. The girls also play softball, volleyball and are taught swimming.

The whole scheme is aimed at keeping the children off the streets, free from the dangers of traffic and from the evils of gang-life. Two supervisors are present at all times on the playgrounds and their whole time is spent in supervising the play, giving the smaller ones an equal chance to enjoy themselves with the bigger children. The good times in the fresh air at the playgrounds are meant to supply the children with the bodily vigor and good healthy necessary during the long school terms.

James Abraham, a man of long experience with children and playground work, is in charge, and he has four well-trained assistants.

Old Steam Yacht Is Raised From Bottom Of Little Lake By Government Dredge

Many a pleasure cruise up the lakes in the old days was recalled this afternoon as the old steam yacht, which belongs to Odas de Laplante was raised to surface at the George street wharf from below the waters of Little Lake, where it has rested for the past two or three years.

This morning Fred Kiff, a diver, went to the bottom of the harbor and fastened chains and ropes around the once proud craft and after a couple hours' work managed to get things all set for the raising.

In the afternoon the steam dredge was called into use with the tug Bob Hall to assist in the floating of the boat. The arm of the dredge was used as a crane, which raised the bow above the surface.

If the water has not damaged the hull to too great an extent, the craft will be foated once more, but as to what wil be done after that, there is nothing definite yet decided.

Aimee Returns to Former Ontario Home To Unveil Monument On Father's Grave

INGERSOLL, Ont., July 9 (C.P.) — Aimee Semple McPherson, head of a religious sect in the United States, visited her home town yesterday and discussed with reporters who sought her out such things as dancing, smoking and "whoopee."

"Dancing," she said, "is all right, if you are in the world." If you are "converted" though, the evangelist held in was different.

She said she did not object to a certain amount of paint and powder for girls, but she did not think girls should drink or smoke.

"But I see a degree of usefulness in a certain amount of whoopee, if it is good whoopee," she added.

She visited her childhood home, the school she attended, and other points that held interest for her years ago.

The purpose of her visit was to unveil a monument on her father's grave.

TO RENAME ONTARIO'S ROADS PREMIER FERGUSON ANNOUNCES AT CANADIAN LEGION BANQUET

Legislation Will Be Introduced To Voice Fidelity To King.

REMINDER TO FOREIGNER

Provincial Highways Will Be Designated As "The King's Highway."

ST. THOMAS, July 9. (C.P.) — Ontario's Provincial Highways next autumn will cease to bear that prosaic designation, and under projected provincial legislation will become officially known as "The King's Highway."

This announcement featured the address of Premier Hon. G. Howard Ferguson here last night at the fourth annual convention banquet of the Canadian Legion. "I have not said this in the Cabinet yet," said the Prime Minister, and I want you to keep it in strict confidence. "When we meet in the Legislature next year the Government proposes to introduce an act to change the name of the Provincial highways to the King's Highway, as a mark of our fealty to and as an evidence of our respect for His Majesty and the monarchical system around which our people rally.

"Those who come to us from other shores will be told every mile they travel that there is a King at the head of this country, and that we are determined to maintain the Empire's position in the world that she may go on for all time doing good for humanity the world over."

Premier Ferguson struck the keynote of the convention at which nearly a thousand veterans interspersed with serious business war songs reminiscent of the crucial days from 1914 to 1918.

Carry High the Torch

"It is not desirable to bend your efforts in time of peace to carry high the torch the men of Flanders threw to you and to us?" asked the prime minister. "That spirit is strong and active everywhere. Where I have to do with the government I have always striven to permeate the lives of our children with this idea of empire unity and service. The type and spirit of the Britisher lives in no other country in the world. His love of freedom and justice are what have given to Britain her leadership and she will continue to lead. Why, it is inbred in the beggars over there. I often wish it could be more strongly inoculated in our people here." The address of Hon. J. C. Elliott, K.C., representing Premier King and the Federal government, was featured by an assurance that no veteran need fear that any just claim on the government for either pension or hospitalization will be outlawed by any time limit.

An avalanche of applause greeted Sir Arthur Currie as he was introduced by Lt.-Col. F. J. Picking, V.D., of St. Thomas.

The former commander of the Canada expeditionary force declared that during the past year he has motored much, Europe and the nited States To ottend the convention he drove from Montreal, first to his old home, over to Strathroy, and to-day on to St. Thomas.

Not the least of the achievement of the Ferguson government, he said, is the magnificent system of provincial road soon to be named the King's highway.

Turning to "those sometimes happy—always arduous days of the past," General Currie recalled the one aim of all to serve and safeguard Canada and the Empire.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

TORONTO, Ont., July 9. — George Albert Anderson, 63, a member of a pioneer family at Fairbank, a Toronto suburb, was killed yesterday in a motor car accident on his farm at Fairbank.

Mr. Anderson, who is an uncle of Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, leader of the Conservative party in Saskatchewan, was riding in a car driven by Richard Sandles an old friend, from the western part of his farm to the house, when the machine sank in a soft spot on the road, turned over and dropped down a fifty foot embankment, crushing him. David Davidson, Toronto, who was also in the car, escaped injury as did Sandles.

CHEESE CAUSED ILLNESS

OSHAWA, Ont., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—An excessive amount of "Bacillus Enteritidus" in cheese, was the cause of the sudden illness which seized some 60 people attending a church picnic at Maple Grove several weeks ago.

This announcement was made here Saturday by Dr. Sleman, Bowmanville, who investigated the illness. He sent samples of the food partaken at the picnic to the Ontario Research Laboratory, Toronto, who found cheese was the cause.

INSTRUCTOR AND STUDENT ARE KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES AT MONTREAL PORT

Gysy Moth Crashes in Nose Dive Cremating Fliers.

HELP TOO LATE.

Cause of Tragedy Puzzles Airmen — Machine Is Burned.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9 (C.P.).—Captain A. E. Golds, Chief Instructor to the Montreal Light Airplane Club, and C. H. Dowd of this city, a flying student and member of the club, were killed here late yesterday near St. Hubert airport when their plane, a Gipsy Moth, went into a nosedive, crashed to the ground and burst into flames.

The crash occurred three miles from the airport, near the Canadian National Railways tracks, where a number of men were working. Several people observed the accident, but were unable to reach the machine before it was completely destroyed by the flames. The two bodies, when finally removed from the smoking mass of wreckage, were charred beyond recognition. The Director of Civil Aviation was notified and arrangements were made for an official inquiry. Officials of the club said they were completely at a loss as to the cause of the fatality.

Captain Golds, who had joined the club only a few months ago, was an experienced pilot. He arrived in Canada last year from England, where he had been formerly an instructor in the Royal Air Force. He was 28 years of age, and unmarried. Tribute to the worth of Captain Golds, both for his flying ability and for his personal qualifications, was paid by various members of the club.

War Veteran

The other victim of the crash, C. H. Dowd, was well known in Montreal, where he had lived for the past few years. He was employed as an automobile salesman for a local motor firm. He was 33 years of age and was overseas with the Fifth Canadian Mounted Rifles, with which Battalion he gained his commission. He joined the Montreal Light Airplane Club a few weeks ago and had been up about four times.

Omer Beaulac, a farmer, who was in his field near the scene of yesterday's crash, said last night that he was watching the airplane and that it seemed to be looping the loop. It took eBaulac ten minutes to reach the blazing machine, which had struck nose first. He could see the two fliers sitting upright in the seats with the flames rising around them, but apparently already dead. Another eyewitness told the same story.

The number of seeds produced a year by an average radish is about 10,000; by a tobacca plant 360,000; by a false flax plant, 730,000.

Residents Find Cache Of 48,000 Bottles Of Beer

PORT HURON, Ont., July 9. —(C.P. — Approximately 48,000 bottles of Canadian export beer cached by the crew of a rum-runner driven ashore on the beach of Lake Huron when its skipper failed to hold his course, was found by Huron county residents and holiday-makers at the resort here.

The crew carried their contraband from the boat to an old barn near here but they had hardly left the spot before a wild rush for the barn was started by the natives. Motor trucks, cars, toy express wagons and even baby carriages were pressed into service for toting home the beer. Some persons, however, preferred to sit down on the spot and enjoy their good fortune.

AVIATOR LANDS CRIPPLED PLANE

New Pilot Brings Ship Down Safely With No Wheel.

HAD FLOWN LITTLE.

SARNIA, July 9. (C.P.) — Harry Peterson, pilot for a local aviation company, landed a plane here yesterday, which had had one wheel snapped off during the take off. Peterson brought the machine down in expert fashion. When it landed the plane tipped over on the wings but the damage was slight.

Peterson was unaware of his plight until airport officials painted a large sign and placed it on top of the hangar telling the pilot of his mishap and advising him to make a landing in the lake. The pilot circled over the lake for 30 minutes waiting for a boat to pick him up, when he landed on the water.

Airport officials later decided the risk of coming down on the water was too great, and sent another plane up to advise Peterson to come down on the airport, which he did. Peterson had only a few flying hours to his credit.

Plans Meeting Premier King and President Hoover, Simpson Says.

MEETS HON. JAMES THOMAS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 9 (C.P.).—Separate conferences with President Hoover of the United States and Premier Mackenzie King of Canada are contemplated by Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Premier of Great Britain, according to James Simpson, Vice - President of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, who returned to Toronto last night after attending the Labor Congress at Geneva. Mr. Simpson visited Mr. MacDonald while in Europe.

"Mr. MacDonald anticipated a visit to the United States some time in September to confer with President Hoover, and to Canada to confer with our Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King," Mr. Simpson said. "He is determined to make a real contribution to world peace through the process of disarmament if he gets a real opportunity."

Mr. Simpson also referred to an interview he was accorded with Rt. Hon. James Thomas, Minister of Unemployment in the Labor Government of Great Britain who contemplates a trip to Canada. He said Mr. Thomas desired an opportunity to meet representatives of Labor from all parts of Canada. An invitation had been extended Mr. Thomas, he said, to attend the convention of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress which opens at St. John, N.B., August 26. He said Mr. Thomas had accepted the invitation and would deliver an address.

Mr. Simpson added that Mr. Thomas would have some original ideas to submit to the Canadian authorities on the question of immigration from Great Britain.

Mr. Thomas said he had studied the situation in Great Britain closely and was convinced the Labor Government could be trusted to advance a sound program of political, social and economic reforms.

FREAK STORM KILLS THREE

Victims Were Huddled On Golf Course Beneath Umbrella.

POWER LINES DAMAGED.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9 (Canadian Press). — A freak electrical storm visited Montreal yesterday afternoon in two spasms. The first, which lasted less than half an hour, was of such intensity that it caused three deaths and did much damage to electric power and light lines in this district. The second spasm consisted mostly of rain and lasted about as long as the first one.

The storm victims were: Mrs. M. Rubenstein, sister-in-law of Alderman Louis Rubenstein, and mother of Mortimer Rubenstein, well-known Montreal lawyer; Alexander McLean, and Allan Davy, 10-year-old boy, all of whom were struck by lightning and killed instantly while huddled beneath an umbrella on the Rosemount Golf Club course. Mrs. Rubenstein was playing with McLean, while young Davy was acting as the caddy when the storm began. They took shelter under a tree, but when the downpour abated somewhat, they started for the clubhouse.

FIRE BRIGADE IS PACIFIED

Town Will Pay Men in Lump Sum With No Raise.

BARRIE, Ont., July 9 (Canadian Press). — Threatened strike of the Barrie Volunteer Fire Brigade was averted last night, when, after a three-hour conference with the Fire and Police Committee, they announced acceptance of a compromise proposal. Under this, payments by the town will be made in a lump sum, and will be distributed by the firemen under the "mark" system. This means that individual members of the brigade will be paid according to actual service given. Increases in payment were, however, refused.

Why there is no substitute for ENO

Because
ENO's "Fruit Salt" is recognized by the people of every nation as the finest, safest, and most pleasant laxative aid to good health.

Because
ENO first thing every morning is the natural way to ensure internal cleanliness—to eliminate waste matter which causes acid poisoning and intestinal toxicity.

Because
ENO contains only those ingredients which are acceptable to all systems—no purgative mineral salts, no sugar, no flavoring matter.

Because
ENO is non-habit forming, therefore quite safe for anyone to use.

Because
ENO, whatever bought is always the same perfect product, unvarying in quality, composition and purity, and untouched by hand during manufacture.

Because
ENO has triumphed over every test of time and usage—for over sixty years it has been the standard saline laxative. ENO has many imitators but no rival! So if you are offered a substitute refuse it and insist on ENO.

Fashion's Forecast

IT'S CUTE.

THE STYLE No. 2754 is a copy of a little Paris import that you can make in an hour or two. It is pale blue handkerchief linen. An applique border of yellow chicks with running stitch in pale pale green is so effective. It is just as comfortable as it is smart. The front and back of dress are joined to round yoke with faggoting, which also appears on brief sleeves. The full cut of skirt allows plenty of freedom for active little girls who like to play, yet insist upon wearing dainty frocks. It's so pretty in orchid chambray with white pique yoke, sprigged dimity with yoke of organdie in harmonizing tone, yellow shantung, blue and white checked gingham with white pique yoke, and cotton broadcloth in Middy blue with white polka-dots and white yoke.

THE PATTERN contains a Picture Lesson in Dressmaking, as a guide to save time in the making. The dress is shown in Pictures, exactly how it is made, from the time it is cut out until finished. It is designed in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. It is offered at cost price 15 cents as a service to readers who sew. Trans. No. 711 (blue) 15 cents extra.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Farewell! A word that must be, and hath been—
A sound which makes us linger;—yet—farewell!

* * * * * * *

This has been a wonderful week, but even the most pleasant—as the most painful—weeks must end....so, Old Boys and Girls, good-bye!

* * * * * * *

We neighbors of Peterborough hope that you enjoyed your stay among us; we hope that you are leaving laden with memories that will remain in your minds and treasured in your hearts for many years.

* * * * * * *

We enjoyed having you with us. You brought to us a breath of the great wide world; a glimpse of places afar off which we have never visited, but which are now "home" to you. We are glad that you still think of our home as your home town; and we will try to keep it worthy of your admiration.

* * * * * * *

And wherever you may be, and whenever, believe that here in Peterborough you have many friends—friends made in youth, and friends made on this trip, and so

Friend, ahoy! Farewell! Farewell!
Grief unto grief, joy unto joy,
Greeting and help the echoes tell
Faint but eternal—Friend, ahoy!

* * * * * * *

We'll be glad to have you write to us sometime, and tell us about your experiences We'll always be interested in you, because now we feel that we know you.

* * * * * * *

Just address your letters to "The Women's Department, The Examiner, Peterborough", and whoever is then in charge of this section of the paper will be glad to print them for the delight of all the neighbors—and maybe send you a copy of the paper, if you are not on the list

* * * * * * *

My regret is that after having seen you all enjoying yourselves I shall not be here to answer your letters—but I shall read them with great happiness when they are printed.

* * * * * * *

Parting is always a sad business, but it is not so sorrowful when one has the hope of meeting again. Many of you, probably, will return in other years, when the city is running its normal course—but there can never be another Old Home Week just like this one, because many of us will have taken a longer journey.

* * * * * * *

I recall talking with a soldier once, when I asked him: "What is the memory of your years of service that lingers longest in your memory?"

* * * * * * *

I, naturally enough, thought it would be some epic struggle, with armies pitted against each other; or some gladiatorial combat in which he had met one of the enemy single-handed; or some such thrilling experience that would be, to my uninitiated mind, typical of war.

* * * * * * *

But it was none of these of which he told me. "I think," he said, "that I shall longest remember my last night on guard. I was the farthest-advanced sentry at the bridgehead in Germany; to-morrow we were to withdraw from the sector and start homeward.

* * * * * * *

"After four years of war, we were going home—and I paced my beat that night, for the last time on guard for Canada."

* * * * * * *

That was not the answer I expected, and yet it was so much greater than my anticipation that I have never forgotten it.

* * * * * * *

It is the last thing that most affects us—the last glimpse of a loved one, the last hand-clasp, the last letter, the last visit home.

* * * * * * *

They need not make us sad, these things. They should bring us a great gladness—a joy because we have had the privilege of experiencing them.

* * * * * * *

Farewell to Lochaber, and farewell, my Jean,
Where heartsome wi' thee I hae many day been:
For Lochaber no more, Lochaber no more,
We'll maybe return to Lochaber no more.

* * * * * * *

If, through the memory of these days of reunion there runs a minor note of sadness, let the spirit of gladness because of the privilige of meeting and greeting old friends swell out.....

* * * * * * *

Gude nicht, and joy be wi' you a'!

Joseph Paquin makes this smart tailleur in slate grey wool, trimming it with a fancy weave of the same shade.

SLATE GREY WOOL MAKES THIS SIMPLE TAILLEUR.

By Joseph Paquin.

The simple tailleur in wool remains in favor with the Parisienne. This model, which I have included in my summer collection, is in a slate grey wool, and a fancy weave of the same shade has been used for the collar, pocket flaps, and the reverse fold of the skirt. The high waistline is indicated by darts. The Parisienne usually chooses a simple blouse in crepe de chine, and a fox fur to accompany her tailleur.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

DEFINITE TEACHING.

I believe that a child differs from an adult in every particular. I believe too, that because of this fundamental difference children are to be treated differently than adults. For instance.

A child has not the power to vision his future. He cannot in the nature of things, know what lies ahead of him if he makes himself ill. Nor can he measure the importance of making a certain grade by the time he is of a certain age. Nor can he understand the need of accomplishing a given task in a set time to an acceptable standard—acceptable to society as it is now organized. Yet he must master these necessities if he is to live successfully.

There are people who do not agree with that notion. They have a vague idea that children ought to be free souls and that when we impose duties and standards we are fattening the free souls of childhood. Now nothing so fetters a child's soul as ignorance, unfitness, unpreparedness.

An adult failing to meet a certain situation can think rapidly and perhaps turn failure into success. Experience and training rise to his aid. But a child cannot rise to meet this occasion unless he has had definite training, correct information, disciplined control to influence him.

There is such a thing as habit formation. No theory however gently and lovely can overlook that awkward fact. It is easier for a child to form habits of drifting, of starting out on a joyous excursion into the fields of knowledge and losing his way in pleasant pastures. Isn't it the teacher's duty to keep him to the path? He can rest his spiritual eyes on the distant horizon, he can rest a bit by the wayside, investigate a little in the bypaths,—but he must stick to the mainroad and arrive at his destination—or be a tramp.

An intellectual tramp is a sorry sight. "Oh, he has the artistic temperament. You cannot hold him to a standard of work as you would an ordinary child."

There are no ordinary children. Every child needs a definite task, a definite routine, definite training along his OWN road. I would not ask the business boy to get a medal in art. Nor would I hope for honors in science from the child whose gift lay in form and color or music, or literature.

But I would teach a child the truth from the start. You get nothing for nothing. Anything you get without paying full value in terms of personal effort is worth just that—nothing. No field of effort lets you escape drudgery. Power is rooted in hard work. You can choose your field but you must learn your trade in the old way, by the sweat of your brow.

The free child is the disciplined child. The highest discipline comes through work well done to a definite standard. His OWN work, but done to society's highest demand.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

PAIN IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF BACK.

About twice a year I talk about pain in the lower back, because of the large number of individuals who suffer with low back pain, and pain in the hip extending down the leg.

The pain is usually due to a disturbance in the joint between the hip bone and the spine, or between the last large single bone in the spine and the bone on which it rests, that is the sacrum, the wedge shaped bone that fits in between the two hip bones, at the back. Thi disturbance may be due to inflammation from infected teeth or tonsils or to an injury from a fall or blow.

The treatment recommended is to get rid of all infected teeth or tonsils, and to put the part at rest by strpping with adhesive for a week. A brace is then worn for weeks or even months.

However, there are pains in the back just above the hip bones, then further up at the chest region, and then also the "pain in the neck."

Dr. F. D. Dickson, Kansas City, Mo., urges that whenever there is a pain in any part of the back, a careful examination of the spine should be made.

And the only way to get results is for the patient to strip completely and point out the exact location of the pain.

This enables the physician to see if there are any deformities and if there is any loss of motion in the part.

An X-ray examination is likewise made and any evidences of any peculiarity in the structure of the bones can be noted. You see it is quite possible for some defect that has been present since birth to give trouble if the patient puts on weight, does some unusual work, or has a little accident of some kind.

Also it is possible that bad teeth and tonsils can be causing an inflammation at the joints between the bones.

This will "show up" in the X-ray film and could not be detected in any other way.

The pictures are taken sideways, and from front to rear, and at an angle that will show up the little joints well.

Very often these pains are due to tiredness of the muscles due to incorrect standing or sitting.

Because you will notice that the pain occurs most frequently just where the curves come in the spine, that is in the back of the neck, where it curves forward, the upper back where it curves backward, the small of back where it curves backwards, and the extreme lower back where it curves outward again.

And the simplest way to lessen these curves, or sort of flatten them out, is to develop the waist or abdominal muscles. This draws the abdomen backward. The body becomes more erect, and the weight or pull comes off these curves. This means relief from pain. Wearing an abdominal belt will help those who are unable to exercise.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

UNDER THE ROOFTREE
(Contributed by 'O. O.')

Under the rooftree we've gathered today
Brothers and sisters from home far away,
Children are with us and father is here
In the old homestead so dear, so dear.

Changed is the homestead but memory is bright
Bringing back scenes now long faded from sight,
Scenes when we gathered life's blossomings flowers
Fresh from the garden of life's morning hours.

Father is standing so near to the shore,
Mother is waiting to welcome him o'er;
Hence comes the question mid throbbings of pain,
Shall we all meet in the Old Home again?

LITTLE DISHES

High on a dusty shelf,
Tucked out of sight and memory—
Little dishes
With blue and pink flowers.
A jolly, fat teapot, a round sugar bowl.
Plates and tiny cups—
All with blue and pink flowers.
Baby hands are slender now and white,
And little dishes have become frail china
With pale gold bands.
But perhaps the delicate tea things
Do not know the charm
That once belonged to the little dishes.

Warm, summer mornings in the sandpile
Beneath the locusts;
Still, winter dusks when lights were beginning to twinkle,
And fragrant cookies filled the little plates;
Quaint, rainy hours behind white curtains of the nursery.
The slender hands have forgotten these things,
And yet—should they remember—
Perhaps they would give the frailty of delicate china
To have again
The gladness of little dishes.

Should we drink with our meals?

By Kenneth J. Wilbur

I find a great difference of opinion among people as to whether or not liquids of any kind should be taken at meals.

Many health enthusiasts maintain that one should liquify everything he eats with saliva, and that digestion is carried on much more satisfactorily when this plan is followed.

If one were to eat dry food in accordance with this procedure, he would have to have a liberal supply of saliva. The chemical process which takes place in the mouth during mastication would then be complete in every respect.

But you cannot make people follow a plan of this sort; and perhaps it might not be desirable in every way, for eating must be associated with a certain amount of enjoyment.

If food is appetising to you, if you derive a real thrill in eating it, the activities of the glands of the stomach are stimulated automatically, and when the food reaches the stomach, the digestive juices are all ready for their work.

The principal complaint against drinking at mealtime is because of the tendency to wash down food instead of chewing it, which is the real signal to the digestive juices, and also because teeth and gums need exercise just as does any other part of the body.

So if you wish to drink with your meals—and, in fact, whether you do or not—it will be well to include in your diet some foods which must be chewed in order to get complete enjoyment from their flavour. This is the surest safeguard against washing down or gulping foods. One of the finest foods I have in my mind right now is Grape-Nuts. It is crisp and crunchy, and its exceptional deliciousness is enjoyed to the full only by chewing well its golden kernels. Grape-Nuts is also a very nourishing food. And easy to digest.

SPEEDING THROUGH VILLAGES.

Down at Iroquois an argument is being staged over a matter that concerns all other villages and small towns situated along provincial highways.

The Council has been attempting to enforce the speed limit of 20 miles within the town limits, and this action is resented by some of the citizens, who fear it will have an adverse effect upon business in Iroquois.

Apparently, however, it would only be an unreasonable motorist who would quarrel with the policy of the Iroquois authorities, who are prosecuting only the flagrant offenders, the speed fiends who tear through the town at 30 miles an hour or more.

They are right in so doing.

No driver should want to speed through a town or village where lives may be endangered by his reckless driving, and Iroquois is justified in placing the protection of its citizens first—even if the man who drives with his foot down to the floor doesn't like it.

There are hundreds of other places in Ontario which have a similar problem, but whose authorities have not the backbone to deal with the situation.

The law is clear enough—and should be resorted to in all cases where disregard of other people's safety is displayed.

AN ONTARIO ELECTION?

The prediction made by Hon. Hugh Guthrie that there is to be an early election in Ontario and that the official announcement is likely to be made unexpectedly, will occasion some surprise.

Although there were rumors early in the year that the Ontario Government would go to the country before Christmas, these reports were not regarded as authentic, particularly in view of the fact that there is no issue of outstanding importance that would justify an appeal to the people at a time when the Government's legal term of office is not nearly at an end.

Citizens of Ontario generally will not welcome an election this year, in the absence of any important question to be decided.

Attempting to secure a snap verdict from the people is becoming too common a practice of the politicians, in spite of the fact that such tactics nearly caused the defeat of the Rhodes administration in Nova Scotia.

There is no reason, except the hope of securing political advantage, why the Ferguson Government should not complete its term of office without upsetting the country with a premature election campaign which nobody wants and most people will resent.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS.

The opening of the supervised playgrounds will be welcome, not only to the children who have learned to enjoy the facilities for recreation that are provided, but also to parents, who rejoice in the knowledge that for a number of hours each day their children will have a safe playground.

Parents should see to it that their little ones utilize these supervised recreation areas where they will be safe from traffic dangers and where their play will be directed along sane lines that will develop character as well as muscle and brawn.

If there is any fault to be found with the supervised playground system in Peterborough it is that it does not comprise enough recreation areas.

More could be used and give splendid service, inasmuch as the more children who make daily use of these grounds the less the danger of traffic accidents.

The street as a playground has long since passed out of the picture.

It did very well a generation ago when there was no automobile traffic, but to-day the conditions call for safer playing fields—and there the supervised method provides.

Parents should insist upon their children playing at these places and swimming at the supervised beach.

THE CAGED BEAST.

For seven years W. B. Robinson had owned a lion in a travelling show. A few days ago it bit one of his legs and he died of blood poisoning.

Officials of the show said the animal had gone mad because of its long years of confinement in a cage.

Were a human being put in a cage for seven years or more, never allowed out for exercise and never saw anything except the same environment day after day, he would probably go mad, too.

The natural habitat of a lion is the open spaces. Freedom is its life, and confinement in a cage, being an unnatural, unhealthy life, is—maddening.

Lions and other wild animals are comparatively well off in such institutions as the Bronx Zoo in New York, the Regent's Park Zoo in London, and some others, but the fate of a circus lion is tragic.

People are prohibited from keeping certain birds in cages. It is cruelty to cage a robin, a cardinal, or almost any other bird except canaries or parrots. Nearly all birds require freedom, else they die.

Why, then, should lions, tigers and other wild beasts be permitted to be confined in small, cramped cages?

Happily, wild animal turns have been abolished in some shows, thanks, largely, to the work of the Jack London Club, whose members walk out of any place of entertainment where there is a performing animal turn.

Wild animal turns may demonstrate man's dominion over animals. But they create an unhealthy appetite among the spectators, too many of whom live in hopes of seeing a mishap better to be imagined than described.

In any case, it is not pleasant to see wild animals cowed into performing tricks which are utterly foreign to their nature; as foreign as it would be if humans were made to do any of the things which come natural to a lion.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

ANTI-GOD CONGRESS IN MOSCOW.

(From the Argonaut, San Francisco)

Anti-religious sentiment in Russia was concentrated at Moscow in mid-June when the second All Union Congress of the Society of the Godless was opened by Comrade Yaroslavski. Some savet hundred delegates from all parts of the Soviet Union assembled for this anti-God convention, at which also were in attendance professional atheists from Germany, France, Belgium and Sweden.

Fighting religion and promoting the cause of atheism were discussed as presenting the most important problem that confronts the Soviet administration. The program also included a visit to the old Strastnoy monastery, which has now been transformed into an educational anti-religious museum. It also comprised an anti-God carnival which was celebrated June 14 and 15.

Anatol Lunacharsky, the educationalist of the Soviet Cabinet, contributed an article to the official Izvestia on the day preceding the opening ceremonies. In this he asserted that the fight between the forces of religion and atheism are to-day more serious than at any previous period, and he urged that religion be rooted out of the people by means of the most intensive anti-religious propaganda. He also assured the delegates and the world at large that "the mightly hand of the Soviet Government will support the Society of the Godless."

The only suspicion of a jarring note in any of the speeches or published articles even remotely concerning the congress was a letter that was printed in the Pravda the same day that Lunacharsky's tirade against God appeared in the Izvestia. In this letter, Madam Krupshaia, Lenin's widow, severely attacked the "mediaeval methods" resorted to in some Russian schools where the children of Russian priests, no matter how capable and diligent they may be, are persecuted and deprived of various privileges that other children enjoy, and are often expelled from schools and libraries solely because they are the children or grandchildren of priests.

This indicates, anyhow, that the spirit so desired by Comrades Lunacharsky and Yaroslavski and their seven hundred colleagues at the anti-God congress, is being promoted in various Russian schools and libraries in the precise manner that Comrades Lunacharsky and Yaroslavski would like to see adopted.

On the head of all this, it is interesting to read in the London Daily Herald—official organ of Mr. MacDonald's Labor party—a letter from Mr. Arthur Henderson, the new Foreign Secretary, to the effect, inter alia, that he is "personally anxious to see the closest possible relations established between the British and Russian peoples."

This is not only pouring oil on troubled water, it is heaping coals of fire on the head of his enemy. It was of Mr. Henderson and his chief that Lenin spoke and Zinovief repeated the pious sentiment: "We will support the MacDonalds, Hendersons et caetera, as a rope supports the body it hanged."

Since Mr. Henderson showed his serene faith in public diplomacy by announcing in the Daily Herald what the British Foreign Office intends doing, Mr. MacDonald has laid down a rule to which each Minister of the Government has to agree to the effect that none of them shall write for the press during his term of office. This sounds like interfering with public diplomacy; but it sometimes is easier to preform the business of a national administration without bellowing from the housetops all the councils of the Cabinet and the disagreements that occur in such councils everywhere.

O.H.A. SCHOLARSHIPS.

The attention of all matriculation students in Peterborough and district is called to the three scholarships donated by the Ontario Hockey Association to the three leading universities in Ontario.

At the University of Toronto there is the O.H.A. war memorial scholarship, offered for competition for the first time in 1925, value of $100, which is to be awarded annually at matriculation to a male student who has served overseas with the Canadian forces in the Great War of 1914-1918, or to a student who is the son or daughter of one who has so served.

The O.H.A. scholarship at Queen's University, Kingston, has a cash value of $100, and in addition the university allows a credit of $25 on fees for each of four years. The conditions of award are: (1) Academic qualifications; (2) Ontario Hockey Association rating as a clean, effective player. The conditions of eligibility are that the candidate must have played in the O.H.A. district hockey the one winter preceding the award; he must have complete entrance equipment for the course he intends to pursue; must make a minimum of 60 per cent. on each of his competitive papers and will be judged by his six best papers.

The O.H.A. scholarship at University of Western Ontario, London, has a cash value of $100 and in addition he will receive free tuition from the university up to $75 per year for four years, making the total value of the scholarship $400. In making the award the following points will be considered: (1) Academic qualification; (2) financial need; (3) O.H.A. rating as a clean, effective hockey player. The candidate must have played in O.H.A. district hockey the one winter preceding the award; he must have complete entrance requirements for the course he intends to pursus; minimum average for qualifying contestant 75 per cent. and marks on six best papers to be considered.

High school students who qualify under the foregoing conditions and who desire to compete for any of the scholarships should send their applications to the registrar of the university they intend to enter through the principal of their own high school. The matriculation examination results will be announced in August, and candidates for O.H.A. scholarships should get their applications in promptly.

It is well to note that the Queen's and Western scholarships are for hockey players only, those who have played last winter in the O.H.A. or any organization in affiliation with the O.H.A.

The U. of T. scholarship is open to the Province for soldiers' sons or daughters.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With the disappearance of holiday decorations Peterborough is getting back to normalcy. But it is was a great week—while it lasted.

Camp Skookum, the Rotary camp for boys, opened yesterday. If your boy is not already there, why not investigate this scheme of camping-at-cost?

The official registration of Old Home Week showed a total of 7,231 old boys and girls. The success of the celebration is proven by that total.

Peterborough will find it hard work to get back to normal aft er one of the most memorable weeks in the city's history.

Anyway there never was any doubt of the heartiness with which Peterborough people welcomed the old boys and girls.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unha y.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

An unidentified body is found in the tule marsh outside the city. It is burned beyond recognition, but from a small patch of scalp Dr. Cavanaugh identifies it as the body of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. Peter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that he mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her by threatening a breach of promise suit.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh search the boudoir of the murdered woman. The breach of promise papers have been taken, but they find a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter goes on the trail of Orme. He runs him down at an automobile tourists' camp. Orme is an irresponsible, temperamental, artistic and refined man who does not seem capable of committing murder. Finding Orme so helpless, Peter asks Dr Cavanaugh to help him out at the trial. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme. Peter unwittingly sees Barbara destroy a deadly bit of evidence, an comb of Sheila O'Shay's, and he is torn between his love and the fear of her guilt. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other, but Barbara will not let Peter help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else to whom she is bound by a sense of honor. Orme's trial for the murder of Sheila O'Shay comes up, and Peter finds Barbara in the courtroom. He tries to persuade her to stay away, but she refuses. Don Ellsworth, on the witness stand, admits that he was forced into marriage.

CHAPTER 39.

"If you want to know what I thought, I'll tell you," Ellsworth said in a loud, rapid voice. "At first I thought it quite likely that she had run away with some one. If I had known that Orme was about, I might have suspected him, but as a matter of fact, I did not speculate. I did nothing about it because if that was the case it released me from a situation that I regretted with all my soul. But when I thought it over, I knew positively that that was one thing she wouldn't do. My wife was a very emotional woman, but she would never have deliberately given up sure money for the sake of any emotion. She might have relished the excitement of meeting Orme again but she would never have given up her financial position as my wife to go back to him."

Graham and the district attorney were both frantically striving to make themselves heard above the storm. The gavel of the bailiff thumped like a tomtom.

"Silence, gentlemen! Mr. Ellsworth"

The voice of the judge ripped across the turmoil. "The last remarks may be stricken from the record. Mr. Ellsworth, kindly confine yourself to answering the questions."

"I thought your idea was to find out the truth," Ellsworth turned furiously upon the judge, as if confronting a new assailant from an unexpected quarter.

"So it is," the judge said firmly "Nevertheless, you must submit yourself to the rulings of the court. The defense may proceed with the next question."

"You say that you did nothing for several days after your wife disappeared. Did it not occur to you, regardless of your personal feelings towards Mrs. Ellsworth, that the police should be notified."

"It did. But I had already sacrificed a great deal in the effort to keep my personal affairs from being made public It appears that I was to be unsuccessful. But I would have given anything under heaven to avoid-this!" Ellsworth's arm flailed out in a wide gesture, sweeping the press rows, the jury, the bailiffs and lawyers in an inclusive circle.

"Is it not a fact that you deliberately took and concealed certain papers belonging to Mrs. Ellsworth and having a bearing upon the circumstances of your marriage?"

"I object. The circumstances of Mr. Ellsworth's marriage have nothing whatever to do with the case——"

"Objection sustained."

"Let me answer, please. I demand the chance to explain. I've done my utmost, all my life, to keep out of the papers. Now, I want my side to be heard. These insinuations—they will be made public—they already have been. Let them at least have the truth!"

"Calm yourself, Mr. Ellsworth. This case is not being tried in the papers—officially," the judge said sardonically. "If you desire to make a statement, you may do so."

"The papers which I took from Mrs. Ellsworth's safe were the documents in a breach of promise suit which she threatened to institute prior to our marriage. I took them because I feared that they would be considered suspicious evidence against me—give me an apparent motive for—for doing away with her. A psychiatrist tells me that this fear was due to a genuine wish that she should pass out of my life—that I was afraid because I really did have such a motive, although it never was a conscious one. It was a sort of panic. I wanted to keep out of it, as far as possible. I might have known it couldn't be done—that the crash had come. But if I had really wanted to kill Sheila, I'd have done it before I married her. And if I had killed her, I'd at least have had the sense to try to cover her disappearance. It's horrible that I can't even now, be sorry she's dead. But I'm punished for that, punished by having to endure all that I've most dreaded and loathed, punished by this!" Again the rigid arm swept outward. Then Ellsworth's head dropped forward on his arms, flung across the railing before him. "That's all," he mumbled, almost inaudibly. The fierce repression of years had broken down, loosing the torrents in one mighty outburst. Having lost all that he had guarded, he flung the remnants of his wrecked life to them, with a strange relief in the abandonment.

"We will take a recess for ten minutes," said the judge.

The reporters hurled themselves at the doors.

"Great stuff!"

"Too late for the 'home'. The morning papers'll get it, durn 'em."

"Never mind, they'll run an extra on this—see if they don't."

"New lead—add Orme trial"—this over the telephone.

"Copy boy!—Rush this to the office and step on it!" This from the Q and A twins in chorus.

Peter, having telephoned his "flash," left the smoke-filled witness room with its clangor of telephones and stood leaning against the wall at the back of the now almost empty courtroom. He started at the touch of a hand on his arm and turned with surprise to find Don Ellsworth standing, white and spent, beside him.

"I want to tell you something," Don said in a low tremulous voice.

"Take it easy," Peter forgot his own fatigue in the lapse from intense excitement. His gray eyes beamed upon Ellsworth with friendly reassurance and symoathy.

"But I want you to know this," Don rushed on, glancing about to make sure they were not overheard. "I hoped to marry Barbara Cavanaugh—maybe you already knew that, or guessed it. Well, that's over. She told me that you are the man she cares for. And it's true. I thought she cared for me once, but even if I hadn't lost my chance, she never looked at me as she looked when she spoke your name. I wanted to let you know that—personally. And to tell you before I go that I was a fool for blazing out at you when you came to the house."

"Oh, that's all right. All in the day's work," Peter said inadequately. He felt very much as if he wanted to cry, but his gray eyes only shone a little more warmly on the man beside him.

"What I really wanted to say though was this," Don went on. "The other is only between ourselves. But I thought you might like to know that as soon as this is over, I'm going to Africa to hunt big game. I don't know a thing about big game hunting, but I guess it can be learned. I don't know a thing about Africa either—only I have an idea it's a country where there aren't many newspapers." A wan smile flickered across Don's face. "I thought you might like to have that as a scoop for—the Herald, isn't it?"

"Thanks," said Peter briefly. He dared not trust his voice beyond the single word.

The two hands met in a grip that left both sets of fingers aching.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 9 "CANCER".

If July 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9.30 a.m., from 1 p.m.to 2 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. The danger periods are from 5.30 a.m. to 7.30 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

A great deal of happiness may be expected under the good astrological influences which are predicted for this date. Peace, harmony and contentment will make life worth living. A short recess from worries and trouble will be taken.

The child born July 9 will have a very shy and retiring nature, and will not easily make friends. It will be a good student, a conscientious worker, and very dependable. It will be both mentally and physically brave.

You have a marked and magnetic personality, and, like others who possess this quality of personality, you seem to exercise unusual powers of attraction and repulsion. Others immediately react to your presence, liking or disliking you at once. You would be psychologically typed as an extrovert. You strongly, but without effort, impress your individuality on the public.

You are both a thinker, and a man or woman of action. Your nature is a very vital one, and you crave for contact with humanity at large. Any form of solitude enervates and bores you. Your nervous energy will not allow you to loaf, you must be doing something, you long for positive results. You probably do not take the pains, that you should, to make people like you. You care too little for the opinions of others. You have the power to win those whom you naturally antagonize. If you were more willing to play up to the weaknesses in others, you would have fewer enemies, and many less difficulties. It is true that your admirers are legion, that your friends are innumerable and loyal, but it is also true that you have many enemies to offset your friendship assets. You cannot afford them. There is no doubt that you will, to a large measure, win for yourself that success in life that you most covet.

ENNISMORE HONORS FATHER McAULEY

On Return From Rome Purse of Gold is Presented Beloved Priest.

The Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, who returned last week after a three months' absence, during which time he accompanied Archbishop O'Brien to Rome and also spent time in Switzerland, France, Belgium, Germany and the British Isles, was met on his return here by a large delegation of his parishioners from Ennismore and a number of the local clergy.

The assembled party motored to St. Martin's Church at Ennismore, where the majority of the parishioners of the township were gathered, and there presented their pastor with a purse of gold, the gift of the people of Ennismore, and an address, which follows:

To Reverend J. V. McAuley.

Dearly beloved pastor:

At Eastertide when we learned that you were to take a well merited and long delayed holiday, our happiness was increased manyfold. We who have witnessed your toil and solicitude for our spiritual and even for our temporal welfare, would be poor indeed of spirit if we could not sincerely rejoice that you had been chosen by Archbishop O'Brien to accompany him to the Eternal City.

We are indeed honored by your holiday and helped. For we know that our needs are your needs, our joys your joys, our sorrows your sorrows. Hence, we knew that when you were in Rome at the very fount of Catholic devotion and practice, we were intimately in touch with Holy Church and His Holiness Pius XI. We were always in your thoughts and prayers.

We then keenly rejoice with you, beloved pastor, that you had the privilege of meeting the Holy Father, Christ's Vicar on earth, who acts directly for Our Lord and Saviour in ruling the universal church. We were with you in spirit, when you visited the tombs of the Apostles and Martyrs, when you stood in awe, in St. Peter's. When you gazed upon the amphitheatre where the early christians gave up their lives that their faith might come down through the centuries to us; when you visited the great churches of Rome to offer the holy sacrifice of the mass and pray for your people, when you went through Italy and France to visit the great shrines and magnificent cathedrals built by the pious labor of Catholic centuries and now redolent with religious traditions; visible proofs of the indestructibility of our holy religion, "Behold I am with you all days."

You have journeyed to London the heart of our great Empire. You have stood in the place of the mother of Parliaments, a privilege indeed. Your happiness was completed when you reached Ireland, the home of saints and scholars. The Emerald Isle is cogently dear to all of us because from her hallowed shores came those valiant men and women without whom there would be no parish of Enismore, no joyful greeting here to-day. Words fail when we try to portray their accomplishments, language becomes a beggar unequal to the task. God alone could reward them in a fit manner by a place among his elect.

And now, best of all, thank God, our Father you are back safe among us again. In your absence we have learned what it means to have a parish priest, a pastor, a shepherd. We know now and appreciate keenly what our beloved Saviour meant by those beautiful words, "I am the good Shepherd. I know mine and mine know Me." In short, it means that no one can take the place of our parish priest, our pastor, our shepherd. He knows and loves us and we become most attached to him.

We missed you in a manner that we cannot explain. We did not see you every day in some part of the parish going about doing good, and we often, from habit, looked out to see you pass. We did not hear your voice in the holy sacrifice of the mass, nor from the pulpit. We missed your words of encouragement and consolation. In short our pastor though present in our thoughts, was absent in person. We have tried in our imperfect way to make you understand how we felt when you were away from us and in this way to explain our joy and gratitude for your safe return. We are fortified and inspired by presence, we are justly proud of our accomplishment under your wise and pious guidance, and we feel that we can bear with fortitude and resignation our trials, crosses and afflictions as long as we have you to direct us. May God in His goodness, grant you many years among us as our parish priest, our pastor, our shepherd.

As a token of our love and respect, dear Rev. Father, we ask you to accept this gift.

Signed on behalf of the parish—Thomas Cavanagh, Reeve; Daniel Hickson, Herbert Hennessey, John D. Sullivan, Arthur O'Reilly.

First Lady: They do everything so well.

Second Gentleman: What have you seen at the theatre?

Second Lady: Last night we saw the Williamses, the Tinkers, and old Mrs. Corlies.

First Lady: Oh, there's no place like Paris.

First Gentleman: There really isn't, is there?

Second Lady: No. Everything's so French about it. C. G. S.

INDUSTRIES ENTER PROTEST

DUSSELFORD, Germany, July 9—Germany's "heavy industries" yesterday once more registered their judgment that "Germany cannot pay," when the Association for the Protection of Mutual Economic Interests in the Rhineland and Westphalia, passed a resolution that "the Young plan constitutes a political and not an economic solution of the reparations question."

For this reason the association declared that it "declines responsibility for the fulfilment of the plan."

NEW YORK LIST IS IRREGULAR

Market Turns Upward After a Brief Flurry of Selling During Noon Hour.

CALL MONEY FIRM.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—After moving irregularly higher in the early trading to-day, the stock market ran into a brief flurry of selling, only to head upward again in impressive fashion by early afternoon.

Call money held firm at 9 per cent. and there was some calling of loans, giving rise to fears that it might go higher, but it was rumored that some of the larger banks were endeavoring to prevent any further increase.

AJAX OIL GAINS IN HEAVY BUYING

Issues Provide Feature of the Morning's Trading on Standard Exchange.

NICKEL SUFFERS LOSS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Ajax provided the feature of the morning's trading on the Mining Exchange when it advanced under heavy buying to 2.15, a gain of fifteen. At one time it reached 2.19 a new high. Trading was generally light.

Oils again displayed greater activity than the rest of the board. Southwest Petroleum gained 30 to 6.50 while Associated Gas and Oil lost the same amount to 4.50. Home Oil again declined to 13.05 while Alberta Pacific dropped another 25 to 75. Commonwealth gained 5 to 105.

Losses were sustained both by International Nickel and Noranda. Nickel declined 40 to 51.50 and Noranda to 60.50, showing again the mid-day decline. The Golus showed more consistency than the oils providing three stocks which added 5 in Hollinger Consolidate, Teck-Hughes and Dome. Lake Shore went from 25.50 to 26.00 to make the best showing of the group.

Of the Lindsleys, Ventures and Falconbridge were firm, Sudbury Basin advanced 5 to 9.15 and Big Missouri dropped a point, Quebec strengthened fractionally.

Wheat Prices Drop In Early Trading

CHICAGO, Ills., July 9. — (C.P.)—Fluctuating nervously, wheat prices averaged lower here to-day in early dealings. Standing orders to sell on advances were much in evidence and this circumstance did a good deal to offset pessimistic crop advices from spring wheat territory in northwest.

Opening unchanged to 7-8c higher wheat afterwards showed a material setback all around. Corn and oats were likewise easier, with corn starting unchanged to 5-8c up and subsequently undergoing a general sag; provisions inclined upward.

Conditions Improving Throughout Australia

SYDNEY, N.S.W., July 9 (C.P. Cable, via Reuter's).—Although Australia is at present passing through a period of economic depression, the latest trade figures for the financial year ended June 30 last, indicate conditions are improving.

The Commonwealth statistician reports the balance of exports over imports in the past year was approximately $25,000,000, which reversed the balance of trade in 1927-27, when imports exceeded exports by almost the same amount.

TURNER VALLEY GASSERS CALLED MERELY FROTH OF UNTAPPED RESERVOIR

Calgarian Convinced Mammoth Oil Volcano Will One Day "Blow Top Off."

SEARCH CONTINUES.

Foresee Million Barrel Output This Year From Present Alberta Field.

By Wilfrid Eggleston

(Special Correspondence to Examiner)

CALGARY, July 9.—Calgary has a new ambition. It would like to be known from St. John to Victoria as the Oil City. "Cowtown" was once a beloved epithet, but derricks have supplanted heifers and geologists win more notice than cowboys. It is still "The Foothill City," but the enthusiastic citizen mentally notes "Turner Valley" whenever the Foothills are toasted. Even Pekisko and the E. P. ranch of the Prince of Wales are in danger of being neglected in this latest madness about wet gassers and light crude. Once Calgary bothered itself considerably about the wheat pool; now attention is focussed on the oil pool.

"We haven't scratched the surface," explained a big business man in Calgary. "Somewhere under this Alberta of ours there's a mammoth pool of oil. Turner Valley, large as it is is just the froth on the surface. Some day we'll strike this pool and it'll just blow the top off everything."

The speaker's eyes glowed with the immensity of his vision. "Turner Valley is a gas field. Everywhere you probe the earth's surface in that district you strike gas, in tremendous volume, at tremendous pressure. Some of it has blown through and through pools of oil until it's saturated with everything from light naphtha to heavy crude. Where is the oil? That's the mystery! We've been looking for two decades, and perhaps we'll have to look for another two, but we'll drill till we find it. And then — Calgary!

"You see how Calgary is thriving now—new downtown skyscrapers ,the gaps filling up, hundreds of new residences, new schools, refineries, shops. Calgary's a city of 100,000 now. Once we strike that pool of crude it'll jump to 150,000 overnight. The year 1928 was the first real il year. This year is going to be vastly more important. When we produced 490,000 barrels of oil last year we flattered ourselves on the big jump from 1927, but already in 1929...."

The speaker picked up his daily paper. "There's the present list of producing wells. Over 3,000 barrels a day, with several of the heavy wells testing and not included in the figure. A million barrels in 1929! Looks easy now. Anything is possible."

Getting Crude Oil at Skiff

Calgary is the logical centre, they say. From the international boundary to Fort Norman, from the Cypress Hills to the Waite Valley, bits are pounding, rotating, grinding out cores of Benton shales, Blairmore sandstones, dolomite limestones, going 3,000, 4,000, 5,000 feet down, cementing, side-tracking lost tools, fighting artesian water, meeting gas pressure that flings the bits furiously skyward, running casing, pulling casing, setting casing. Glorying in promising formations, or giving up in despair on encountering arid faults. And in the heart of all this activity, say the boosters, sits Calgary, logical centre for the gas wealth of the present and the expected oil wealth of the future.

Calgary, however, will not be permitted to assume the leadership without a fight. Edmonton, Wainwright, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge—each has its own prospect, each its own secret hope, that somewhere near lies the subterranean reservoir of heavy crude—back liquid gold as precious as the diamonds of Kimberley or the gold of Johannesburg—waiting the lucky thrust of the well-driller's lancet to spray the Albertan landscape with wild new hopes of prosperity.

At Skiff, 40 miles southeast of Lethbridge, crude oil flows out of the Devenish discovery well. Bears' Den, the latest Montana crude oil producer, is only a mile across the United States border east of Coutts. The Wainwright field has demonstrated a crude wark oil of asphaltic base. These wildcat discoveries, as they originally were, are taken as straws showing which way the wind blows. That a great pool of crude exists was inferred from the wet gassers of the Turner Valley; the fact that crude has actually been struck in fields hundreds of miles apart seems to make the pool a reality. Each new find gives energy to the adventurers.

Turner Valley is eighteen miles from the nearest railroad town, which is Okotoks, and those eighteen miles of dirt road are converted into mudholes of Flanders whenever a few hours of rain falls. For years the provincial legislature has been importuned to provide an all-weather route to the oil centre, which has 3,000 inhabitants, mainly grouped at Black Diamond or the McLeod corner. At last an agreement, by which the oil interests were to raise $25,000 of a total of $50,000, has been made with the government and the gravelling of this stretch of roadway is now well under way.

Sixty-six Wells

The successful completion of the Home wells has greatly widened the producing field of Turner Valley, which was until a few months ago largely confined to a short radius around the McLeod corner. From the hill that rises half a mile east of that corner I counted 66 derricks, from the Vulcan group at the north to the Home and Calmont wells toward the southeast limit of the producing area, which may be taken as roughly ten miles by a mile and a half wide. At any moment, however, new discoveries may extend this area. A problem that is deeply concerning everyone financially or economically interested in Alberta's oil and gas resources is the disposition of the gas which is being tapped in quantities far in excess of local demand. A red glow against the clouds is visible from Calgary every night, 40 miles away, and the visitor to Turner Valley is impressed many miles before he reaches the wells with the gigantic flames that roar above the field, wasting millions of feet of hot gas every day because there is no summer market. I saw six flames from one hillock, and later examined "Hell's Half Acre", not far from the site of Royalite No. 4, where other millions of cubic feet of gas are daily concentrated against the bank of a small gully, tributary to Sheep creek. No one can blame the oil companies for igniting the gas, but everyone must be sorry to see enough fuel to cook all the meals in Alberta daily dissipating into space in a colorless hiss or throbbing and blazing in a mad inferno.

Last year Canada imported $60,000,000 worth of petroleum products, but since the beginning of the year wells with a capacity of nearly 500,000 barrels of oil a year have been struck in Turner Valley, and it is safe to predict that before the end of 1929 another substantial slice will have been cut off from the adverse item of trade balance.

OIL GOSSIP.

HOME

By August 1, Home Oil expects No. 2 well will have produced enough to pay back to Imperial Oil funds expended on drilling the well and from then on earnings will go into Home's treasury. Meanwhile, production of No. 1 has continued on such a high plane that a 25 per cent dividend is fully expected by end of July.

NEW HIGHWOOD STOCK

Majority of Highwood shareholders signed up to transfer shares into Highwood Sarcee Oils and new certificates are being issued on basis of 12 new for one old.

MID-ROYAL

Mid-Royal, an interesting well on west flank of Turner Valley, has just been spudded in starting in Belly River sands. Holdings are in same section as Midwest.

STERLING PACIFIC

Sterling Pacific No. 1, spudded in last week, is most extreme south well in Turner Valley. It is conceded by geologists to be on structure though not long ago it was contended that structure did not extend that far south.

HARGAL

Hargal Oils No. 1 well adjoining Home will soon be started by Imperial Oil. Company will later announce drilling plans for its 3,500 acres, old British Petroleum holdings, in Wainwright.

HOME NO. 1

Home No. 1 well from February 9 to June 22 produced 84,720 barrels of naphtha which netted company $3.94 1-2 per barrel in field of $334,210.40, or about 42 cents per share.

HOME NO. 3

Diamond drilling of Home 3 now proceeding and at the latest August 1st should see Home with three producing wells.

A. P. CONSOLIDATED

A. P. Consolidated spudding in No. 1 well in Turner Valley in same section as Home wells Tuesday or Wednesday morning, Manager Clark announces. Delay in arrival of boiler inspectors held up spudding over weekend.

ASSOCIATED

Associated drillers made 27 feet during week-end. Now down 5,253 ft. About 75 feet in lime.

FOOTHILLS

Foothills No. 2 made another 8 feet in lime. Now at 4,402 feet. About 135 feet in lime now.

IMPERIAL HIGHWOOD

Imperial Highwood made 17 feet during week-end. Now at 4,312 ft. About 86 feet in lime.

REGENT

Regent No. 2 drilling between 700 and 800 feet.

BALTAC

Baltac's 80 acres lies north of Associated in line of strike of structure. It has been conceded that success of Associated in hitting lime practically proves Baltac ground. Baltac's well already down 50 feet, with Imperial doing drilling.

SPOONER NO. 2

Spooner No. 2 well, now 365 in lime at depth of 5,450 feet, is to be diamond drilled into production.

C.N.R. Earnings

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the nine day period ending June 30th, 1929, were, $7,114,733 as compared with $7,157,206 for the corresponding period of 1928, a decrease of $42,473 or one percent.

GAINS EXCEED LOSSES.

Leaders Hold Firm — Oils Register Movements in Both Directions.

TORONTO, July 9. —(Canadian Press).—Page Hersey Tubes continued their steady advance to-day on the stock exchange rising 3½ to 133½, evidently spurred on by favorable reports and possibility of a stock split. Standard Steel also advanced adding 3¼ to 93¼ in what was generally a quiet market.

On the whole gains exceeded losses and there was no great change in the leaders. Canada Gypsum moved up 1 to 108, and Bell Telephone and Brazilian strengthened fractionally while Fractional losses were sustained by Ford "A" and, International Nickel. Lake Superior Corporation moved ahead ¾ to 19½ and Massey Harris declined ¼ to 56¼. At sales of 25 shares Goodyear Preferred went up 2 to 360 while a fractional advance appeared in Canadian Pacific of which 27 shares changed hands. De Forest Crossley was firm.

The Oils reflected the general attitude, registering movements in both directions. McColl Frontenac advanced and Imperial Oil ¾ to 29¾ while British American also strengthened slightly. Home Oil dropped ¼ to 23.50 and International Petroleum declined the same amount, Superset gained at 1¾ to 35¾.

James Simpson Reviews Work of Labor Congress at Geneva.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9.—(Canada will benefit directly from the promised ratification by Great Britain of the "Eight Hour Convention," formulated by the International Bureau at its 1919 congress in Washington, James Simpson, vice-president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, stated yesterday on his return to Canada after attending the Labor Congress at Geneva. Mr. Simpson reviewed briefly the outstanding work of the Congress, particularly in its relation to Canadian Labor problems. With P. M. Draper, secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress, Mr. Simpson represented Canada at Geneva.

When the "Eight Hour Convention" was adopted in Washington, Mr. Simpson said, it was forwarded to the governments of the world for possible ratification, but Great Britain(despite repeated communications from the Labor Bureau, took no steps in the direction of ratification. While the Bureau was in convention at Geneva a message was received from the new Labor government of Great Britain stating that it would be prepared to ratify the convention.

The significance of this for Canada, Mr. Simpson explained, lies in the fact that France and Germany had previously agreed to ratify the convention whenever Great Britain should do so, and when formal ratification is made in Britain and the necessary legislation is enacted, France and Germany will follow suit. To-day Canada, which, while it had not ratified the convention, nevertheless employs the eight-hour working daly generally, is competing with France and Germany, where long working hours result in greater and cheaper production. When the convention is ratified by these countries, Canada, France and Germany will be placed on an equal footing.

FORCED BACK TO BED.

LONDON, July 9. — A severe cold and a high temperature have sent Sir Austen Chamberlain, former British Conservative Foreign Minister, back to the sick bed which he was able to leave only a few months ago.

The Daily Express said to-day his condition was not alarming but in view of his recent illness complete rest and quiet were thought advisable as a precaution.

In Police Court

A variety of cases presented themselves in Police Court this morning, taking up the whole morning and most of the afternoon

Two serious charges were laid against a local man. They were: assaulting and beating a female, and supplying liquor to a boy under the age of twenty years not being for medicinal purposes. The Crown asked adjournment for one week on the first charge and it was intimated that the charge was not as serious as it sounded. The accused asked time to consider the second charge and to consult a lawyer. Both were adjourned for a week, police assuring the magistrate that the man would appear punctually.

Leo Pilow, an Indian, was found guilty of obtaining money from a bank under false pretences. His counsel, W. Huycke, showed that full restitution had been made. He stated further that Pilow was a returned soldier suffering some mental disorder as a result of his war service, and he asked for a short sentence that the man might go back to Christie Street Hospital. He had a record, but in view of his sickness the magistrate sentenced him to only six weeks in jail dating from June 7, the time he was first imprisoned.

A local man pleaded guilty to speeding over the bridge at Lakefield and he paid a $10 fine and costs of $4.75.

The three Toronto youths, Joseph Brown, Eddie Adams and Jim Taylor, appeared charged with stealing tires. Adams was charged with receiving stolen goods.

Previously Brown had pleaded not guilty, later had changed it to guilty, and this morning he again altered his mind and entered a plea of not guilty.

A Toronto man, Jack Jones, was the first witness called by the Crown. Jones told of overhearing Adams tell the other two accused that he needed two tires 33 by 4 and he wanted them in a hurry. The others had answered, "Oh! Don't worry we'll get them alright." Adams had offered them each a couple of dollars to speed their efforts.

Jones then went to Jack Deannard, on duty at the grounds, and acquainted him with the plans of the accused. Deannard summoned officers McLaughlin and Tompkins, two plain clothesmen, and Jones pointed out the three men, whose plans he had overheard. The two officers trailed the three men.

Officer Tompkins, provincial policeman, corroborated Jones' evidence, and he told of trailing the men around the midway and then up to the Ford garage. Here the men had got out a car and were driving away when the officer blankly asked them for a lift to the Exhibition Grounds. However, they said that they weren't going there. McLaughlin and Tompkins then got a ride in another car to King Edward Park where they saw the accused go behind the parked cars. He arrested them after a chase and found a stolen tire in the car by which they had tried to escape.

The case is continuing this afternoon.

Nurse From Philippines Leads the Discussion.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9.—(C.P.)—Reports from each of the affiliated countries were received at this morning's session of the Sixth Quadrennial Congress of the International Council of Nurses. In the afternoon the Congress was divided into three sections to discuss education, public health and private duty nursing.

Dr. E. Stanley Ryerson, of Toronto, secretary of the Faculty of Medicine of Toronto University, addressed the nursing education group, on the preparation of curriculum. Miss [illegible]araig, of the Philippine General Hospital, led the discussion on the subject.

ONTARIO MAN ILL 15 YEARS; HUSKY MAKES HIM WELL

"This Medicine Enables Me To Eat All Right and Sleep Well, and It Has Given Me a Lot of Strength," He Says.

HENRY COFFERY

Henry Coffery, of 120 Bond St., Toronto, has worked for a wholesale drug house for several years and naturally he knows more about drugs and medicines than the average man, but he says he was never able to find a medicine to relieve his poor health until "Husky" was put on the market.

"For 15 years my health had been terrible," he said, "as a result of nervous indigestion and other trouble that I had. I was very weak and my food didn't give me any strength. I had no appetite and couldn't rest either day or night I was so nervous. I was subject to constipation all the time. It was with the greatest effort that I attended to my work and my condition wasn't because I didn't try to get better. I tried many medicines and treatments and spent quite a while in the hospital.

"I kept right on in this condition, however, until I began using Husky. I hadn't been using Husky long until I knew that I had found a medicine that was going to do something for me. I began feeling better and better. Husky enables me to eat all right and I am getting strength from my food because I can work without tiring now—something I hadn't done for years. Husky makes me sleep well too, and I have gained five pounds since I started it. I am really glad to tell others that four bottles of this medicine have done more for me than anything I ever used in my life."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon you get relief, how food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

Mr. Meharry has been a very successful realtor in Greater New York, so much so that he is now in the position to intersperse a good deal of pleasure with his business as well as giving considerable time to the activities of the Chamber of Commerce of his city, in the work of which he is deeply interested.

Mr. Meharry was much impressed with the appearance of his Old Home Town and did not hesitate to state that he thought that Peterborough from the standpoints of aggressiveness, its industrial and business sections, its factories and its general get up, was the best city of its size he had ever seen.

He had a great week meeting old friends who had previously heard of his successful business career, and took a good deal of pleasure in visiting the old haunts of years ago. His brother, J. J. Meharry, intended to return with him to New York for a visit.

Sense and Nonsense Play Prominent Part at Rotary Club Luncheon.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9. — Both sense and nonsense played prominent parts at the Rotary luncheon yesterday noon at the St. Lawrence Hotel dining room. N. Alex. MacColl, local barrister, etc., was officially placed in the president's chair, and will guide the affairs of the local club for the next twelve months. Dr. H. B. Longmore is the retiring president, and had the honor of being the first president of the club. For the next year he will be vice-president. The other officers, committee, etc., remain unchanged for another term. P. C. Denyes and C. B. Williams, were presented with Rotary pins by Dr. Longmore. Some time ago the doctor presented each member of the club with a button. Robert Scott tendered his resignation from the club. In informing the club of the circumstance President MacColl explained that the resignation was tendered for the sole reason that Bob felt he could not, for the present at least, be of service to the club in the capacity which each member should. E. C. Dolman, secretary is attending the convention of the club presidents and secretaries at Buffalo this week. The nonsense part of the meeting was when Harold Carr officially installed Percy Denyes as Custodian of the club parchment.

Reo Group Again Leads in Attendance at Petherick's Corners Gathering.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 9. —Sixty League members were in attendance at Wednesday evening's meeting in charge of Thomas Fry, devotional convenor with Fred Fry as leader. The Reo group again led in attendance but the Packard's have a substantial lead in the contest yet. The devotional talk and the discussion period led by Rev. F. G. MacTavish and Mr. Thomas Fry were very interesting. A vocal duet by Miss Evelyn Barnum and Fred Barnum was well received.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, July 9.—Trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday was of a decidedly uneventful nature, and both prices and general conditions were very similar to those which have been existing for the past few days. Butter arrivals continued to be fully sufficient to answer all the demands of the trade and were generally conceded to be of the same high calibre displayed in all recent shipments, and, considering the fact that very little butter was passing into storage, receipts were evidently considerably lower than a week ago. Prices were unchanged in the No. 1 grade at 38c per pound, while the No. 2 grade was slightly lower at from 36½c to 37c per pound, with most sales at the smaller figure.

Little activity was displayed on the local wholesale egg market throughout the day's trading and prices were again steady with last week's closing quotations. Although production has fallen off quite noticeably, the drop in movements into storage has easily equalled it, thus rendering the effect almost negligible. The demand for extras has not as yet hit its full stride and there were plenty of arrivals to answer all calls. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c to 22c per dozen.

The wholesale cheese trade was quiet yesterday, with No. 1 large, colored and Government-graded cheese quoted at from 18½c to 19c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Quick right-about-face of many traders, turned the wheat market upward yesterday, with substantial gains all around taking the place of early declines. Contrary to first indications, rains, which had been received by the drought region northwest, were later looked upon as doubtful benefit, some experts contending that a large part of the spring wheat crop, both in Canada and the United States, had been damaged beyond help.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅞c to 1⅛c above Saturday's finish. Corn closed ½c to ⅝c up; oats ¼c lower to ¼c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Some buying of corn was based on an official report showing 232,000,000 bushels of corn raised in Argentina during the present season, against 306,000,000 bushels harvested a year ago.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to upturns both in hog values and in grain.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 9—A drop of 3½c near the opening was soon wiped out on yesterday's wheat market, and final quotations revealed net gains of 2⅜c to 1⅞c for the day. The sudden drop was caused by reports of heavy rains throughout the West. When definite reports were received that the rains were insufficient, and that sections in dire need of moisture had not received any, the market started its upward climb.

Very little export business was reported.

Cash wheat held unchanged to ½c higher in a fairly active market.

Oats advanced ½c, with a good demand in evidence for Nos. 1 and 2 feed grades. Barley recorded a gain of ¼c, but flax and rye held unchanged in a dull and featureless market.

ELEVATOR DEAL JUST COMPLETED

Two Million Bushel Elevator Will Be Ready Soon.

COLLINGWOOD, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—At a meeting of the directors of the Collingwood Terminals Limited, held here yesterday, Mr. John Kellogg of the Stratton Grain Company of Chicago was elected a member of the board. The Terminals Company has contracted with the Stratton Company for the operation of the new two-million bushel elevator now under construction at this port and which will be ready to receive grain between August 15 and September 1.

Mr. Kellogg was present at the meeting to-day and confirmed the offer regarding the operating of the elevator. Hon. E. C. Drury, president of the Board, presided.

MUCH BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY TOWN COUNCIL

Campbellford Civic Officials To Begin Street Operations Early in August.

RAILWAY SERVICE.

Mrs. Hollings Airs Complaint Regarding Damage To Property—Accounts Passed.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — No women sit in the Town Council as members, but the men who guide the affairs of the Corporation heard a woman's opinion last night when Mrs. Hollings waited on the Council to see why something had not been done to relieve the situation in which her home stands with regard to the sand and gravel which is being washed down from the gravel pit whenever there is a rain storm. She claimed that when she first moved on to the property there was a stone as high as herself. Now the stone could not be found. Her oration caused a furore around the Council table which will, it was indicated, result in the work requested being done.

Grant Anderson also pressed the Council to carry out the motion that had been passed with regard to the Saskatoon Avenue sewer and water main. He was assured that the work would be started immediately after Old Home Week. The Council did not think it advisable to have any of the streets torn up during the celebration. Nevertheless, they passed the necessary by-laws, and will do the work beginning early in August this year.

Correspondence Read.

With the exceptions of Reeve Bygott and Councillor Cole, all members of the Council were present to hear the minutes read, a procedure which required fifteen minutes. The first communication was from a firm in Toronto asking permission to erect an electric sign over the sidewalk in front of the Empire Service Station. The letter was laid over till general business came up. At that stage of the meeting it was decided that since the Council were to view several places in town this afternoon, they would also look over the proposition at the service station. A letter from Cincinnati, Ohio, asking for information regarding the town and vicinity, was read and the clerk instructed to reply giving the information requested. The third communication was with respect to the proposed visit of the Minister of Railways and Canals, and his tour of the canal this summer. The clerk and Mayor will comply with the suggestion set down in the letter. A letter from the Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, was laid on the table.

Announcing the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce to be held in Belleville July 5 a letter was read supplemented by a post card which pointed out that since there had been such a poor response to the letter announcing the meeting, the date had been postponed and would be announced later following a meeting of the executive. Dr. Loucks, Town, claimed through a letter that his water pipes to his office on Front street had frozen last winter as a result of the sidewalk having been lowered when the street was paved. He asked that the council take steps to remedy the situation. The doctor was present to speak for his request and claimed that the pipes had frozen between the main and the tap in the cellar of the house. The matter was discussed for some time and finally referred to the Board and Bridge Committee. A. G. Watson requested that a charity account amounting to thirty dollars be paid. The account, it appears, had been running since last July and was for bread for a family which at times is dependent on the town for support. Members of the charity committee claimed that the account had not been authorized, but the matter was left in their hands for adjustment.

Railway Service.

Stirling has expressed the willingness of that corporation to co-operate with Campbellford and the other places concerned, in endeavoring to get a better railway service on the C.N.R. line from Peterborough to Belleville through Keene, Hastings, Campbellford and Stirling. The letter was from the clerk of the village of Stirling and expressed Stirling's willingness to co-operate with Campbellford in whatever way Campbellford thought best. Stirling, so the letter read, was ready and waiting for the next move. The letter was received and filed, with the suggestion that the matter be kept moving and brought to a successful conclusion if possible. It was also pointed out that Hastings village was the only town on the line yet to be heard from.

The last communication was from the Ontario Motor League stating that the league would furnish suitable signs for the town if the council would forward a list of those required and would see that the signs were properly placed. There would be no cost for them. Deputy reeve Stone and Councillor Wiggins were appointed to make a list of the signs required and hand this to the clerk who will order them from the Motor League.

Cow Story

Doings at the town dump were the next worry for the councillors. It was claimed that James Parcels, official dump man, was not doing his duty. In explanation of this charge, the Cow Story came out. It appears that Ed Duff had purchased some cattle and one had died near the weigh scales at the station. The cattle, it appears, were thoroughbred and valuable accordingly. The hot sun and the jolting of the motor truck, apparently, were too much for one cow and she died. Duff made a bargain with the people at the dump to have the cow buried for the price which its hide would bring. Some time later, so the story was told in the council chamber last night, James Parcels told Duff that he wanted five dollars to bury the cow. He claimed that during the night someone had skinned the animal and made off with the hide. Investigation showed that Parcels, himself, had sold the hide to J. H. McArthur and been paid for it. When the situation had been discussed, the council decided to give Parcels notice that his services would be no longer required.

Pay sheets and accounts amounting to $1,566.48 were ordered paid on motion of Deputy Reeve Stone and Councillor Abernethy. The council adjourned at 11.15 p.m.

REV. H. J. BELL IS INDUCTED

Rev. J. V. McNeely Has Charge of Service in Hastings United Church.

WARMLY WELCOMED.

HASTINGS, July 9.—The induction of Rev. H. J. Bell, M. A., B. D., to the pastorate of Hastings United church, took place in the church auditorium on Friday, July 5, at 8 o'clock P. M.

Rev. J. V. McNeely, M. A., B. D., of Keene, presided, relating the steps by which Rev. Mr. Bell came to the charge. He explained that the unanimous invitation of the Official Board was extended to Rev. Mr. Bell after the charge had been left vacant by the call of the former pastor, Rev. A. C. Hie, to Bracebridge. Rev. Mr. McNeely also referred to his intimate acquaintance with the pastor elect, as a former college room-mate, adding a word of personal commendation.

Rev. W. R. Archer, B. A., of Havelock, preached the sermon. His remarks were based upon the text "Stephen—a man full of the Holy Ghost," his theme being the necessity of a spirit-filled life, in order that the duties of the pastorate may be successfully discharged.

The charges to pastor and congregation were given by Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood. In his charge to the pastor, Rev. Mr. Stillman emphasized the need, not only of diligent sturdy and earnest preaching, but also of a close, sympathetic touch with the people were outlined as loyalty to the pastor, and co-operation with him in prayer and service. It was pointed out that very valuable service might be rendered by informing the pastor of the sick and others requiring his attention.

After the induction service refreshments were served in the basement, and pastor and people enjoyed a happy hour together. Rev. Mr. Bell received a warm welcome to Hastings charge, the hope being repeatedly expressed that his work might be pleasant and abundantly fruitful.

LAWN SOCIAL.

Successful Affair Given Under Auspices of Congregation of Saint Thomas' Church.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 9.—The lawn social held at the home of Ivan L. H. Gray, Anne street, on Friday evening, under the auspices of the congregation of Saint Thomas' church, was quite successful, the fine weather helping to swell the crowd, the spirit of hospitality which prevailed, and the evident desire to enjoy the out-of-doors gathering, being other features that made for the thorough pleasure that characterized the whole event.

The large and beau[illegible] grounds made an appropriate setting for the annual strawberry festival, Chinese lanterns, flags and colored streamers, strung among the trees, adding to the attractive picture as the guests, with appetites fully satisfied at the well laden supper tables, walked about the greensward, or gathered in little groups and enjoyed social intercourse.

The rector in charge, Rev. P. W. A. Roberts, acted as chairman and assisting with the program were Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, of Peterborough, whose vocal solos called forth hearty applause with repeated demands for encores. Mr. Coleman of Peterborough, also won popular approval with his selections, and Miss Helen Staples of Scott's Corners, gave a number of readings which were greatly enjoyed.

A horse shoe pitching contest kept the men agreeably employed, this sport, apparently, never lacking a full quota of devotees whenever it is listed on the bill of attractions at any public gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray, with the committee in charge, and the many workers who served in connection with the supper tables, did all in their power to see that the guests had as pleasant a time as possible, and that hospitality never lagged in its efforts to make the evening as enjoyable as possible for those who were in attendance.

Bethany Leads East Peterborough League

Wins From Clubmen 4 to 3

Four Hits in First Frame Gives Bethany Three Run Lead Over Cogs.

PLAY SMART BALL.

Billingsley and Ralph Play Sterling Ball For Local Club.

Doc Hamilton's Bethany club came through with its fifth straight victory last evening, defeating the Cognawaga team 4 to 3 in a smart E.P.L. engagement played on the mountain village park. As a result of the win the Bethany nine passed Crescents in the league race and are now sitting pretty on the topmost peak.

Four walloping hits in the first innings gave Bethany a big lead of three runs. Cogs went to work to get them back, but they came slowly and with difficulty in single counters. The teams were tied three-all when the sixth frame swung around. Cogs went out in order, but Bethany on two hits—on a double and the other a very scratchy single—and a wild pitch, squeezed over the winning run.

With the exception of a wild peg to first by the usually reliable "Deb" Hillier, the game was absolutely free of errors. Both teams showed great judgment in handling hits balls and in cutting off runners at crucial moments. It was sparkling ball throughout.

Jack Billingsley turned in the feature fielding plays of the game out in the right garden, making two great catches of long clouts that were ticketed for doubles, cracked out by McGill and the fence-busting Ryley.

Harold Ralph made another sterling performance on the mound for the winners. He managed to keep the Cogs' hits well scattered and was never in great difficulties, although he walked four.

Garner Four Hits

Perce Vannest started on the mound for Cogs, and immediately Bethany unlimbered their heavy artillery smacking him for four solid clouts in the first frame. After that he managed along nicely until the fifth, when he gave way in favor of "Casey" Masterson. Masterson was steaming them over in great style, but he got into difficulties in the sixth, when after allowing two hits he made a wild pitch which gave way to the winning counter.

The Play

Crary, first up for Cogs, rolled out to third. Cripps hit for two bases into left field. Ross struck out and Cripps was caught trying to steal third.

Bethany started off in a big way. Walton singled to left and McGill hit to centre. Philip flied out. Ryley singled, scoring Walton. Dawe hit for two bases, but was out when he failed to touch first, but McGill and Philip both scored. Johnston rolled to first.

Cogs had a glorious opportunity in the second. Rooke singled, Billingsley fanned and Vannest drew a walk, but was out at second on Hillier's roller to short. Jones walked but Grant rolled a grounder to short and Walton caught Hillier at the bag.

Bethany were kept from scoring in the second by a great running catch by Billingsley.

Tally in the Third

Cogs came through with a run in the third, when Crary, first up, walked, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Cripps struck out, but Ross singled, scoring Crary. Rooke struck out, and Billingsley rolled to first.

Again Bethany were retired in order and Cogs came through with their second run on a double by Hillier, who scored on Jones' single. Cogs repeated in the fifth, Crary hitting for two bases and scoring on Ross' double.

The fifth was uneventful for either team and Cogs failed in their half of the sixth. But in their half eBthany won the struggle. Dawe, first up, hit into right field, the ball bouncing over Billingsley's head and Dawe stretched it into two bases. Johnston beat out a slow roller to short. Smith struck out. Dawe scored when Masterson threw a wild pitch to Ross. Reynolds flied out to Ross and Johnston was caught off third by a smart peg by Ross.

Cripps and Ross each walloped out hard flies deep into the outfield, but both were smartly gloved, and the game was over. Box score:

SMELTERS WIN FROM MARMORA

Plenty of Entertainment Provided in Men's Softball Fixture.

FINAL COUNT 24-22.

MARMORA, July 9.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The much talked of men's softball game between Marmora and Deloro took place on the Marmora fair grounds on Monday evening and this fixture, full of fun and thrills ended with the visitors winners by 24 to 22. Brooks pitched throughout for the visitors but manager Bartlett pulled Dorie, the opening Marmora pitcher, in the fourth, gave McWilliams a sole inning on the mound, and hurled the remaining three innings himself. With the opposing pitchers wild, and fielders unsteady in the first innings, Marmora led by nine runs to four. Then Deloro commenced to hit and to give support to Brooks when Marmora was at bat so that at the end of the third, Deloro had the comfortable margin of 18-9.

The fourth was scoreless for both teams, McWilliams giving a display which seemed to justify his stay in the box. But manager Bartlett had been doing some rapid thinking and being a southpaw, knew of a few queer balls he could deliver, so in he went. More through poor fielding than anything else, Deloro got a single run in the fifth. Marmora then staged the first of two comebacks. Inspired by their manager-captain, they did some good work at the bat and six runs of the deficit were wiped off. Deloro gathered another three runs in the sixth, the Marmora pitcher finding a little difficulty in fielding the ball.

Marmora brought the score even before retiring in the sixth. Bruce Wright in this innings got the best hit of the game, a triple to left field, scoring on the overthrow.

The seventh innings was naturally an occasion for tension on both sides. Deloro obtained two further runs but Marmora's heavy batters were not due for re-appearance and the game was gamely lost by the narrow margin of 24-22.

G. Forestell officiated at the plate and G. O'Neill was base umpire.

Teams:—
Deloro—O. Trumble, l.f.; C. Bergevin 3b.; J. McCrodan, c.; F. Gray s.s.; R. Trowbridge, c.f.; G. Brooks, p.; M. Corrigan, r.f.; C. McInroy, 1b.; C. Quinn, 2b.

Leafs in Tie With Montreal For Second Place When Royals Lose To Bears.

WINGS WIN AGAIN.

Bisons Take Fourth Victory in Present Series With Black Cats 7-6.

TORONTO, Ont., July 9 (Canadian Press). — Nearly five hours of pastiming was done by the Leafs and Orioles here yesterday, but neither went anywhere in particular. The Leafs did crawl into a tie with Montreal for second place when the Royals dropped a tilt to Newark, but the Red Wings won their heat with Reading and are further ahead of the field than ever.

The first game went to the Leafs 7 to 1. The Orioles scored their one run before the Leafs got started, the run being rushed over in the second inning. After that they were fooled pretty badly by Frank Barnes, while the Solman hirelings, once they got in motion, won in a breeze.

The Orioles took the second game 9 to 3 in 12 innings. It was to be a seven-innings affair, but the two teams finished that distance locked in a 3-3 tie. Clarence Fisher, who had relieved Phil Page in the sixth, went to pieces in the 12th, and the Orioles hurried six runs home.

ANOTHER WIN FOR WINGS.

ROCHESTER, July 9 (Canadian Press). — Rochester made it four of five in the present series with Reading by defeating the Keys here yesterday 10 to 9, with Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cards, who owns the Rochester franchise in the press box. "Rip" Collins' double to left broke up the pastime in the eighth as he scored Bell and Toporcer with the tying and winning run. Reading made seven runs in the seventh on seven hits off Littlejohn and Bell. Bell won his third game since joining the club.

BEARS RALLY TO WIN.

MONTREAL, July 8 (Canadian Press).— After dropping four straight to the Royals, the Newark Bears came through with four runs in the eighth inning of yesterday's game to defeat the Royals 7 to 4. Newark gave Al Mamaux a three-run lead in the first inning when West hit a home run over the right-field fence, but immediately tossed it away when the Royals tied it up in the second. Chief Hogsett appeared to have won his own game in the seventh when he propelled a homer over the right-field wall, but the Bears came through again in the eighth, scoring four runs on two hits and two errors and slated the game away.

TAKE FOURTH VICTORY.

BUFFALO, July 8 (Canadian Press). — The Bisons won their fourth victory in the present series with the Jersey City club by trouncing the cellar occupants 7 to 6 in yesterday's game. The visitors got away to a four-run lead in the opening inning, but the locals tied the score in the second. Thomas' double cleared the bases.

Yankees Hold Down Second Place In Loop

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees made second place in the American League safe for New York yesterday by defeating their rivals for the post, the Browns, 10 to 3. The Yanks hammered three Brownie pitchers for 16 hits, including home runs by Gehrig, Meusel, and Dickey. Gehrig's was his twenty-second of the year.

VISIBILITY GOOD AVIATOR REPORTS

Flying Manager of General Airways Covers Vast Northern Route.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9.—(By the Canadian Press).—Coming to Ottawa from his headquarters at Amos, Que., after having flown over Rupert House and Great Whale two days before the arrival of the 'Untin' Blower, Brestislav Pliske, flying manager of General Airways, told the Canadian Press yesterday that flying conditions in that section of the north country are good.

Mr. Pliske flew practically the length of the east coast of James Bay and reports that while he saw considerable ice in the bay itself, there were stretches of open water on which a landing could be made without difficulty.

He could not see very far inland, he said, but from what he could discern of the edge of the vast interior country over which the plane must travel on its way to Port Burwell on its next scheduled hop there was no ice on the lakes.

"I think they are all right this time," he said. "They have an Amphibian machine, and as far as I could make out, they will have no dificulty in coming down on lakes throughout the country.

Mr. Pliske, whose main base is at Amos, said that should information arrive which would lead to the suspicion that the three men might have met with some mishap, or should no information arrive at all, he would go to look for them, as he knows the country thoroughly.

HATTON FEATURES AT BAT AS CANUCKS WIN 8-5 TILT FROM THE KIWANIS BANTAMS

Small Star Drives Two Homers Into Centre Field—Has Two Other Hits.

WINS LOOP PRIZES.

Begley Heavy Hitter For Losers, Getting Four Safeties in Five Trips.

It was a smart exhibition of ball that the Kiwanis and Canucks put up at King Edward School grounds last evening, Canucks winning 8 to 5. It was the first appearance of the new Kiwanis team, and although most of them are small but they play a real brand of ball.

Hatton was the star for the winners, driving out two home runs to deep centre, one coming with a man on the runways. He also had a double with two on, and singled on his other appearance, making a perfect night.

Hatton's first home run was the first of the season in the series and entitles him to the prizes offered by the various merchants. Both his drives were clean cut that gave him plenty of time to run the circuit.

Begley was the heavy hitter for Kiwanis getting four safeties in five trips to the plate.

See-Saw Affair.

The game went along very smoothly until the last half of the third, when Hatton started things with his home run, and before Canucks had finished they had three runs. Kiwanis got two in the fourth and two more in the fifth, putting them one run up. Hatton evened things up in the Canucks' half of the fifth with another home run. Kiwanis fought hard but could not get a man past third in the following three frames.

The sixth was the Canucks last big inning when they got a total of four runs. From then on Sweetman held them scoreless. Clubmen got one run in the ninth.

John Sweetman pitched well for Kiwanis and with the exception of two innings had Canucks well in hand. The winners used two pitchers, Hatton and Wainwright, and both of these boys did very well.

Jimmy Sweetman and Emmett Creighton, of Kiwanis, both made beautiful catches of fly balls, catcher that would do credit to juniors.

Sandy O'Brien of the Canucks made a sparkling catch that kept three runs from scoring. It was a beautiful effort and proved a tough break for Kiwanis. "Bunt" Kingdon played smartly at second base for the winners.

300 COMPETE FOR $50,000 AT C. N. E. MARATHON SWIM

Provided Lake Ontario Plays No Arctic Antics On World's Assembled Natators.

FOURTH WRIGLEY SWIM.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 9.—Lake Ontario has probably the most sardonic sense of humor possessed by any large body of water, granted, of course, that such a trait can be a marine characteristic.

In this vicinity, the lake now gives every indication of a continued period of warmth and many noted human seals are visibly annoyed as a result.

On August 23 and 28, the Fourth Wrigley Marathon for the World's professional title and a total purse of $50,000 will be held at the Canadian National Exhibition. This is the third of the series to be held locally and hundreds of floating marvels from many countries will participate in the mammoth splash. The favorite alibi of earlier events has been cold water and reported frigid temperatures.

In a courageous attempt to acclimate themselves, visiting aquatic celebrities began to arrive on the waterfront before the ice was out determined that, this year, they would train themselves to enjoy a bath which would give an eskimo the croup. Olive Gatterdam, seventeen-year old Seattle flash, was posing for news cameramen against a background of miniature icebergs, before most of the local citizens had put away their skates for the season. Byron Summers, the flying wish of Alameda, Cal., arrived about as soon as the snow was off the ground and has been getting into condition for low temperatures ever since. By the end of June approximately 110 swimmers were scattered about the beaches, laughing up their sleeves, if any, at the edge they would have on the later arrivals from warmer sectors who would not have time to accustom themselves to the beautiful stretches of unheated lake.

But old Lake Ontario has now worked up a temperature on her own account and at the present rate of speed is heading toward the lukewarm mark, according to tests made in the comparatively shallow waters where the great plunge will be staged.

Must Be 58 Degrees

According to the rules governing the contest, there is to be no race unless the water temperature at 8 a. m. on the day of the marine crawl is 58 degrees Fahrenheit or higher and the lake is apparently prepared to cooperate with the officials.

If the cold water hazard is by any chance eliminated one of the most popular of alibis is ruined and good alibis are an integral part of any successful aquatic marathon. At the present time, there are 340 underwater athletes who are confident that they can carry off the world title and its accompaning fortune in certified checks. After the race, there will be 339 of the aspirants explaining why they did not lead the parade through the waves and, under these circumstances, an unprecedented rush for new ideas.

In 1928, one veteran swimmer, after a transcontinental motor trip which brought him to the scene of the race the night before it started, plunged in with the gun and was dragged out exhausted by lifesavers after completing 180 yards of the 15-mile grind Scores of others, this time as on every previous occasion, will never finish the extended paddle unless they show absolutely fantastic improvement. But all are optimists and each one issues the announcement that he feels 1929 to be his year.

Vierkoetter Training

Exhibition authorities estimate that between three and four hundred actual starters will line up. Vierkoetter, German channel conqueror and present world's title holder, has been training for weeks. So has George Young, the young Canadian who won at Catalina. Summers, so far, looks among the most promising of the American contingent which already numbers more than eighty.

Of the various Europeans, England has the time-honored David Billington, a world-beater and international record-holder of 20 years ago, making strenuous efforts to stage a comeback. France has three or four entrants whose capabilities are shrouded in mystery, as well as Georges Michel, channel record-holder and a likely starter. The Scandinavians, as in past marathons, have not met other European or American champions and it is, therefore, almost impossible to tell how much of a threat the Nordic platoon constitutes. On previous performances, the Swedish, Finnish and Norwegian swimmers showed endurance but lacked speed.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE HOME TOWNERS."

Instead of being a drama of rural life, as one might expect from the title, this is decidedly a story of the big city. It is staged in New York, but a small-town man with a "Main street" mind, as he is told forcibly later on, is the central figure through out.

"Pig Head" Van Bancroft from South Bend arrives in New York to be best man for his lifelong friend, Vic Arnold. He is an irascible, obstinate old cuss with a large heart and he instantly forms the opinion that his old friend is being victimized by a family of gold-diggers and that he has been sent by Providence to deliver him from the snare. Acting on this assumption he goes ahead and messes things all around. Before he is finished, the engagement has been broken off and everything is at sixes and sevens. He has quarelled with everybody in sight and his language at times has been distinctly unparliamentary. He speaks his mind with a freedom that is amazing and that has disastrous consequences.

Then he eats humble pie and the lovers are reunited with prospects of a peaceful wedding in the offing.

It is a chuckly, genial picture with plenty of humorous situations in the unfolding of the tale. Bancroft has the character part throughout and does it wonderfully well. His voice and manner and words are exactly suited to the part, while the poise of his friend, Vic, is amazing and very likeable. Robert McWade, Richard Bennett and Robert Edeson have the masculine roles, while the heroine, Beth Calhoun, is played by Doris Kenyon, very attractively, and Gladys Brockwell has the dificult part of Bancroft's wife, Lottie, who has to bear the brunt of his ill temper at most times, but who has a way of answering him back that is just as funny as his irascible characterization.

The audience is in the peculiar position, during most of the play, of being entirely in sympathy with the ideas, if not with the methods, of the interfering "Pig Head", and then finds itself compelled to do the same "about face" as the old man, when the final denouement arrives. The situation is entertaining from all angles.—Jeanette.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS For EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

Softball players are beginning to hit their stride now, and the fans were delighted with the exhibition that the Knights of Columbus and Teco Store crew put up at the Central School last evening. Caseys carved out their first victory of the season, winning 6 to 4. Simmons, the old cricket arm working perfectly, fooled the Teco men with his underhand twisters. The Teco fielders turned in a sparkling evening behind Sexsmith, who was no mystery to the Caseys.

More games like that and the already fair-sized crowds will grow to tax the accommodation.

Sad tidings from Bethany! Cognawagas returned last evening a chastened crew after a 4 to 3 defeat at the hands of Doc Hamilton's galloping tribe. It will likely mean more serious work-outs, and perhaps a few changes in the Cogs' camp.

The game in all ways was one of the best yet played in E.P.L. this season, and there have been some real ones. It must be said that Cogs did not get any of the breaks, and to see the winning run totter in on a wild pitch was heart-breaking to Dorsey Davis and his men.

Jubiliation echoed throughout Bethany as the news spread. Doc Hamilton's fence smashers are smacking their lips on their fifth straight win. That isn't all, either; the victory over Cogs hoisted them past Crescents and right up into the saddle of the league leadership. Not bad for a team that was conceded little chance back in early May.

Crescents and Cogs will have to tend their knitting with diligent care from now on, or when September rolls along they will both be on the outside looking in.

Team standings:

	Won	Lost.
Bethany	5	2
Crescents	4	2
Cognawagas	3	3
Hastings	0	5

Again fans should be advised that they are missing baseball tidbits when they pass up these titantic struggles in the Bantam League. Last evening Canucks and Kiwanis, it is reported, gave a a great exhibition. When it is remembered that most of these ball players are under fifteen, and stand somewhere around five-foot, the brand of ball they play is exceptional.

Young Hatton was the batting giant of the game with two homers, a double and a single. He won the bat offered for the first homer of the league, and will also get a hair cut and shampoo at George Robertson's barber shop.

The performance of Sid Hal in setting up a new track record of 2.09 for the mile at the Exhibition Park will go down in history. This eight-year-old, free-legged pacer, is famous on race tracks throughout the province, but it is doubtful if he ever ran with such speed as in the last lap of the mile on Saturday to break the old record of 2.10 1-4, set up two years ago by James Akey's horse, Jack Abbie. He clipped the second half of the mile in 1.03 1-2.

Again the driving of fifteen-year-old J. R. Ardiel, was the big feature of the sea-flea races held at South Beach on Saturday. This young pilot driving a B class boat, gave "Wild Bill" Landrigan a great whirl in the C class event. He maintained his place against his speedier rival only by his skill on the turns, flipping his boat around in its own length.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE WRONG TIP

When I was in my middle 'teens,
With neither brains nor cash to spare
I pondered much on ways and means
To make myself a billionaire.
I had small doubt that boundless gold
I should be able to secure
For I had frequently been told
That Rockerfeller started poor

If he, wthout a helping hand
And not a dollars in the bank,
Could in a few brief years command
Preeminent financial rank,
I thought that I could do the same
An dreamed of the approaching day
When I should earn the world's acclaim
By giving princely sums away.

Alas for all those fatuous dreams;
My hopes of riches were in vain.
In spite of all my plans and schemes
No fortune did I ever gain.
The wolf is camped outside my door
Arrayed in an expansive grin,
And it may not be long before
He gnaws the lock off and steps in.

And now I'm told that when John D.
Began his riches to accrue
Way back along in '83,
That he was fairly well-to-do
I haven't got a cent to show;
I'm low in mind and sick at heart;
It's too darn bad I didn't know
He had me beaten at the start.

CLUBMEN TAKE 6-4 VICTORY FROM TECO STOREMEN AFTER STRENUOUS SOFTBALL BATTLE

Losers Unable To Connect With Underhand Throw of Knight Hurler.

PLAY ERRORLESS BALL.

Affair Was See-saw Struggle From Beginning To End—Smart Fielding.

The Teco softball team dropped a game to the Knights of Columbus in a fast, hard-fought game on the Central School grounds last evening by a score of 6—4, giving the Knights their first win of the season. The fixture was a see-saw affair from the first to the last, the two teams being evenly matched.

The pitching of Simons for the Knights was the deciding point which gave them the game. The Teco men were unable to connect with his peculiar underhand throw for anything more than easy grounders or a pop fly, which the Knight infield took care of with ease.

Many corrections were made off Carruthers, hurling for the Teca men but the remarkable work of the infield prevented much damage being done. Jake Hall, on third, showed up admirably in this work, trapping an especially neat one right off the bat in the fifth innings. Ted and Lou Lebarr, for the winners, were credited with many assists and put outs that helped their squad a long way toward victory.

A lack of errors was the feature of of game. Both line-ups played airtight ball. There were few walks and few wild throws on either side of the game.

The K. of C. team broke into the scoring early in the game with two runs in the second frame. Each counted one in the following inning. In the fifth when the Teco squad was at bat Westbrooke clouted one deep into the left field, bringing in two runs and making the circuit himself. This ended the scoring for the Teco men and the game was lost when K. of C. brought in three in the last two innings.

The score by innings:

OTTAWA EAGERLY AWAITS CHOICE OF QUEBEC TORIES

Patenaude Victory Would Widen Breach It Is Believed.

HOUDE A "BENNETT" MAN.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

OTTAWA, July 9.—When Arthur Sauvé, provincial chieftain of the Conservative party in the province of Quebec, lays down the leadership at the political convention meeting in Quebec City next Tuesday and Wednesday, there will be so many hands reaching out to grab his shoes that the battle cry of the gathering is likely to be, "Sauve qui peut."

These policitans are prepared to try on Mr. Sauve's boots, not only for the provincial kudos but because there is a belief in many Conservative quarters in Quebec, that the Seven League Boots of Sir Wilfrid Laurier are still unfilled, and that he who wears Mr. Sauve's footgear earns the right in a later day to try on Sir Wilfrid's.

Last May the Conservatives started a federal organization in Quebec, with a committee of 15 to run it. This committee met in Montreal last week on the very same day that their leader, Hon. R. B. Bennett, "chanced" to to be in the city. It is believed he conferred with his lieutenants. There is also some reason to think that Mr. Bennett desired to learn more of the recent meeting in Montreal of the partisans of Hon. E. L. Patenaude, who have not been strong supporters of Mr. Bennett. It is even said that this small convention had in view the creation of an independent wing of the party with C. H. Cahan as leader.

Taking No Public Part

Mr. Bennett, however, is taking no public part in the provincial convention; in fact, was not consulted with respect to it.

Sauvé's resignation has been in the hands of the party leaders for two years. The situation is analagous to that which followed the inability of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to carry the Dominion in the Federal arena. Mr. Meighen resigned and a convention was called at Winnipeg which selected Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Mr. Sauve considered his retirement in order because he has been unable to lead the party to victory or to disturb in any way the reign of Hon. L. A. Taschereau and his Liberals. The provincial Conservatives however, held up the resignation pending the discovery of a successor. No little Napoleon has loomed on the horizon and so the convention has been called at Qeuebec to decide among the many aspirants.

Many Fancy Mayor Houde

Camillien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, with the laurels of the municipal campaign on his brow, is fancied by many, including himself. He has a dynamic personality and makes a good popular speech. Some sections of the party, however, are a little dubious as to his qualifications as an administrator.

Maurice Duplessis, Conservative provincial member for Three Rivers, is the first choice of those who do not love M'sieu Houde. He has a good following and may succeed in getting first place when the ballots are counted.

M. St. Jacques, former member for Argenteuil, is also in the running while Armand Orapeau, present provincial member for Sherbrooke, has acquired considerable backing. There are also other who are ambitious enough to stretch out a hand for the leadership.

The proceedings of the convention will be almost if not entirely, carried on in French, and no English-speaking or non-Catholic Conservatives is considered as having a chance.

The provincial Conservative platform may be revised—or rather the three platforms which have been used at different times may be co-ordinated. There is one federal plank, however, that is certain to be left out of the provincial platform. There will be no "votes for women" on the agenda and it is questionable of a single woman will be present at the convention in an accredited capacity.

HUSH FRACAS DECISION GOES

Toronto Paper Says Johnston Won't Fight Denton's Decision.

CIVIL ACTION PENDING.

TORONTO, Ont., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—No appeal will be taken against the conviction and fine registered against Harry B. Johnston yesterday for assaulting Strathearn B. Thomson, Editor of a local weekly publication, during a fracas at Thorncliffe Park race track last June 1, says the Mail and Empire to-day.

The paper says it was informed last night by persons closely in touch with Mr. Johnston that no appeal would be made. Johnston paid the fine of $300 immediately after Judge Denton had pronounced his decision in the case.

Allan Case, director of the Ontario Jockey Club, and John Bosley, Jr., Baltimore horseman, jointly charged with Johnston were acquitted.

Civil action for unstated damages is pending against the three men.

A signal honor was accorded to J. A. Stewart, manager of the Capitola Theatre here, when he attended the convention of the Famous Players' Canadian Corporation held last week at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, Ontario. He was one of a sextette of managers who are chosen at the annual convention each year, as having performed some outstanding service to the company during the foregoing twelvemonth, and are made members of the Go-Getters' Club of the organization, which has at present only sixteen members. Mr. Stewart wears on his lapel the tiny, ornamental engraved gold button which signifies membership in this Club and carries with him also the fifty-dollar purse of gold which accompanies the presentation of the honor.

To each member present at this managers' convention, the company presented a $5,000 life insurance policy which is paid up as long as the recipient remains in the employ of the organization.

A very unique event which took place at the convention was a conversation between the managing director of the Famous Players' Corporation, L. N. Nathanson, who is at present in Carlsbad, Germany, and the delegates present in the Clifton House at Niagara Falls. At 11.30 a.m. on Friday last, this was accomplished by means of a hook-up through the telephone lines of the Northern Electric Company and the sound equipment which is installed on a miniature scale at the Clifton House. Mr. Nathanson's voice was conveyed to the listeners through the picture screen and the telephone apparatus, in the same way as a talking production. This is the first time such an attempt has been made and the idea was very successful.

COBOURG HERE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Teams Hook Up in Lake Shore Loop Fixture at Exhibition Park.

A Lakeshore game is billed for Exhibition Park to-morrow evening, when the fans will get an opportunity to see the fast-travelling Raybestos nine engage their old enemy, the Cobourg Ponies. The game will start at 6.30 p.m.

Rays need this game badly to aid them in overhauling Port Hope, the league leaders. Port Hope got off to a flying start but the Rays with five straight wins are now right on their heels.

"Sailor" Maudsley is in great trim for the battle and will strive to send as many of the Cobourg sluggers down on strikes. The rest of the crew have taken a firm grip on themselves and are playing the same brand of ball that carried them into the O.B.A.A. finals last year.

JUDGE ISSUES NEW RULING

Police Hold No Jurisdiction Over Rum Runners Who Are Forced Back Into Canadian Ports.

OVER SMITH CASE.

WINDSOR, July 9. (C.P.) — Provincial police hold no jurisdiction over rum runners who are forced back into Canadian ports by stormy weather or other acts of Providence, according to an important ruling handed down in Essex County court today by Judge J. J. Coughlin.

Judge Coughlin upset the judgment last April of Magistrate W. A. Smith at Sandwich, who found Harry Mitchell, master of a rum running craft, guilty under the Liquor Control Act, because his boat had returned to a Canadian port after clearance for Detroit with a rum cargo.

Mitchell's boat after leaving La Salle for Detroit, last November 5, developed engine trouble during a storm. The master of the lugger, Mitchells employer, R. Cignac, was towed into a deserted dock at Sandwich, by a passing vessel. Cignac reported the situation to Mitchell, who said he found the provincial police in charge before he could inspect the load and report to customs.

Judge Coughlin couldn't find, he said "that the landing at Sandwich had been made with an intent to short circuit the cargo back into Ontario for home consumption, but that the vessel actually had been in difficulties and entitled to seek shelter within the provisions of Canadian law."

Mitchell had been fined $300 and his liquor had been ordered confiscated by the Ontario government as he had been convicted of illegal possession of it under provisions of the Liquor Control Act. His employer, Cignac, died before the case came to trial.

525 BABIES ATTEND CLINIC

Well Babies' Clinic Hears Reports on First Half Year's Work.

184 BORN IN CITY

At the last half-yearly meeting of the Board of Management of the Well Babies' Clinic, reports were given by the supervisor, Dr. Jessie Birnie, and the Clinic nurse, Miss Mamie Foote.

Dr. Birnie reported a total attendance of 525 babies for the six months, with an average monthly attendance of 86 and an average weekly attendance of 22. The number of babies born in the city during that period of time totalled 184 and of these, 62, or one third of the number, were brought to the Clinic. Nearly fifty per cent, of this number needed special attention and Dr. Birnie gave details of these cases.

Made 278 Calls

Miss Foote reported total calls as 278 and 52 telephone calls, the latter requiring minor advice and general information regarding the work, also practical suggestions as to the care of infants. The usual number of follow-up cases and special cases were attended to, with a great deal of information given as to food preparation. In one special case, a layette was given and all food necessities.

A pneumonia convalescent was sent to hospital for better care; another child was given food and to the mother was given teaching in the principles of hygiene; a special prenatal case was sent to a physician and the care of a doctor and nurse was secured, also other necessities; the care of a little boy was supervised with steadily improving condition.

"There is a gratifying interest as well as a knowledge of baby welfare work in the city", reported Miss Foote, "which has been accomplished through persistent efforts

"The dangerous baby 'comfort' is disappearing, due to advice given both in and out of the Clinic."

Grateful appreciation was expressed to various organizations: the Wohelo Club of the Y. W. C. A., which gave a useful cot equipment; the Thursday Club for gifts of layettes; Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, who put on a splendid concert in aid of the Clinic, and her assistants; the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association; the various chapters of the Daughters of the Empire ;the Red Cross society and Mrs. Walsh and Miss Dickson, who gave a generous subscription to the Clinic.

The Well Babies' Clinic will be closed from July 10th to August 13th.

MRS. G. L. STEVENS HOME FOR BIG EVENT

Wife of Former Peterborough Boy Wins Honor in World of Poetry

Mrs. G. L. Stevens of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough, is visiting in the city just now. Her daughter-in-law, who writes under the name of V. Valerie Gates, and is married to Farron Stevens, also a former resident of this city, recently had the honor of occupying the front page of the Chicago Sunday Tribune, when a little verse composed by her was used as a motif for a beautifully illustrated Sunday-section front page of that paper, issued for Memorial Day. Farron Stevens is now production manager for the Wood Hydraulic Hoist Company of Detroit.

The following is the little verse composed by Mrs. Farron Stevens, who is a prolific writer of poetry of this type:

UNKNOWN SOLDIER

"He must be weary of marching feet
Treading a rhythm above in the street.
He must be weary of laurel and bay,
And uniformed reverence, and people who pray.
All of his swagger and all of his jest
Are lost in his crying for silence and rest.
But I think the lids of his eyes unfold
When little grey mothers, timid and old,
Come softly at dusk. "My bravest one!
Such a grand, grand grave for my little son!"

Bilious?

Is there anything that makes you feel more miserable?
Bitter taste in the mouth. Nausea. Pain in the stomach. Head, hot and heavy and aching. Bowels constipated. So tired that it's an effort to move.
It's your liver, of course. It's lazy—sluggish—not doing its work—not helping to purify the blood—not giving up enough bile to move the bowels. ABBEY'S will help make everything right for you. It tones up the liver, sweetens the stomach, regulates the bowels, neutralizes uric acid. A sparkling, refreshing glass of ABBEY'S in the morning is the best preventative you can take against those bilious attacks and Bilious Headaches.
Two nice things about ABBEY'S: it is pleasant to take, and you feel much better after taking it. 435

When you have a touch of Indigestion or Biliousness—when Headaches bother you—when the stomach gets upset—when Constipation comes back—when the Kidneys or Bladder seem irritated—ABBEY'S is often the only thing required to set the matter right. For over 50 years ABBEY'S has been correcting these little troubles and preventing them from becoming big ones.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South and West passing, North must also pass, as he lacks the 3 Quick Tricks required for an original Third Hand bid when the values held are in but two suits. East, with a powerful hand of a No Trump rather than of a suit type, bids No Trump to start with. South passing. West has no distributional reason for a take-out. North now shows his Heart suit to direct a lead should East bid further. East, however, with but one stopper in the Heart suit adversely bid, doubles negatively for his partner's best suit bid. In response thereto, West bids two Spades, correctly naming his four-card Major rather than his Minor suit, though much the weaker of the two. As the response is what East hoped for, it obtains the contract.

Contract: South, West and North passing, East, holding sufficient all-around strength to warrant a two bid, bids two Spades preferably to two No Trumps as, while holding all four suits stopped, he holds but two of them doubly stopped.

East, however, then bids three No Trumps, as his distribution favors trying for game at No Trump rather than at a suit bid. Besides, the three No Trump bid offers West the option of Spades or No Trumps as the game bid. West exercises the option by bidding four Spades, as his holding distinctly favors a Spade contract.

The Play

At Auction (played by West): North opens the King of Hearts and Declarer permits him to hold the trick, hoping that the shift may be through Dummy's King of Diamonds. North, however, shifts to Clubs, leading the 9, and East comes up with Dummy's King, rather than finesse, having in mind his intended line of play. He proposes to enter his own hand by ruffing the third round of Hearts in order to lead a Spade for a double finesse. Should the finesse lose, then if South returns a Club, no Club trick need be lost. If South leads a Diamond, the Ace can be forced and the suit established and Dummy's losing Club can be discarded on a good Diamond. There is no necessity therefore for an immediate Club finesse.

Following his plan, Declarer now plays Dummy's Ace of Hearts followed by a low Heart, in order to enter his own hand by ruffing so as to take the double finesse in Spades. The finesse of the 10 of Spades loses to South's King. South then leads a Diamond rather than a Club as North's lead of the 9 of Clubs marks him with a doubleton (unless West false-carded the 7) and also denies the Jack or 10, both of which must be held by Declarer.

At contract (played by East): South, with no indication from partner, opens the 3 of Clubs and Dummy's 10 holds the trick. Declarer leads a low Spade from Dummy, finessing the 10, which loses to South's King. Lacking a good shift, South leads another Club, the 2. East, winning with the King, leads the Ace of Trumps and, both adversaries following, continues with the Queen, exhausting the trumps adversely held. Declarer then establishes the Diamond suit. The adversaries must make, in addition to the King of Spades, the Ace of Diamonds and also a Heart trick, Declarer making four odd.

PATHFINDER IS NOT REPORTED

Airplane Has Been Aided By Tail Winds On Transatlantic Journey.

CARRIES NO RADIO.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 9.—(Canadian Press).— The Rome-bound monoplane Pathfinder, aided by tailwinds and near-perfect flying conditions otherwise, presumably was approaching the European coast today. Flying high and with speed increased by a lightened fuel load.

Although the craft carrying Roger Q. Williams, former aviation instructor for the army, and Captain Lewis A. Yancey, master mariner, had been unreported since 8.50 a.m. yesterday when an escort plane said it was "going fine" 75 miles off Portland lightship, no anxiety was felt for it. Transatlantic planes generally fly high and the airmen in the Pathfinder had a "ceiling" of 6,000 feet, which if attained would keep them out of earshot and sight of any ships at sea. The plane carried no radio.

PARIS, June 9.—(Canadian Press) —French authorities have given instructions at all points along the west coast to keep a sharp lookout to-day for the aeroplane Pathfinder, which manned by Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey left Old Orchard, Me., yesterday bound for Rome.

ROME, July 9.—(Canadian Press) —Undimmed by former failures, interest increased here to-day by leaps and bounds in the fight the airplane Pathfinder was believed to be making to cross from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome.

Premier Mussolini gave orders he was to be informed immediately of any developments in the flight.

LASTING PEACE IS THE SLOGAN AT LEGION MEET

Over 200 Members Present To Discuss Convention Affairs.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman Speaks.

Will Ask King That All Forces Wear Red Vetcraft Poppy On Nov. 11th.

ST. THOMAS, July 9.—With upward of 200 delegates in attendance and with many more expected today, the fourth annual convention of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion got well under way in the vocational school auditorium to-day. The morning session was largely confined to the opening ceremonies and the appointment of convention committees, while the greater part of the afternoon was devoted to the consideration of a dozen or more of the 142 resolutions before the convention. Splendid addresses by Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman of Peterborough, President of the Provincial Command; Mayor William Stokes of this city, Dr. J. D. Curtis, President of the St. Thomas Post, and Mitchell P. Hepburn, M.P. for Elgin West, featured the opening ceremonies.

World Peace Resolution

Immediately following the President's address a special resolution on world peace was presented by Colonel B. O. Hooper of Toronto and seconded by Austin Neame of Timmins. It reads:

"That whereas it would appear desirable at the close of the first decade following the Great War, that a rededication of members of the Legion to its principles be emphasized:

"We, therefore, recommend, that in the name of God and our fallen comrades, we hereby request the Dominion Command to memorialize the British Empire Service League to reassert the desire of the League by proclamation to all members that peace for all time between the nations and individual support of the gospel of good-will be established through the efforts of the League of Nations, the Locarno Conference, and Pact of Paris, to which her representatives have pledged the British Empire, be reaffirmed as our major aim and purpose.

"In advancing this, we propose to re-enlist the manhood of the nation represented by our veterans, in the nobler program of constructive citizenship and thus insure the permanence of the League."

Cablegrams from the Prince of Wales and from Admiral Lord Jellicoe wishing the delegates every success at their convention were read by the Prsident, Admiral Jellicoe's expressing the good-will of the Empire Council now in session in London, England. A letter was also read from Premier Mackenzie King expressing his regret at being unable to attend in person.

Charged Representation

An important committee appointed this morning is to deal with the question of a new system of zoning the Provincial Command to bring about a more equable representation on the executive. Lieut.-Col. Ackerman and Colonel Keiller McKay of Ottawa urged the importance of this move, the former pointing to the fact that greater organization effort is required in Eastern and Northern Ontario where the Legion is not so strong as in Central and Western Ontario. Two representatives for each of the four districts were named on the committee, which will probably report to-day.

Among the important resolutions carried this afternoon is one recommendation that representation be made to King George asking for the establishment in all forces of a custom of Armistice Day observance through the issue on Nov. 11 each year of a small red Veteraft poppy to all those in uniform in the various regular, militia and territorial forces on land, ea and air.

Another resolution urges members of the Legion to assist Canadian industry by purchasing Canadian or Empire made goods whenever possible, while a third resolution asks the Legion branches to purchase poppies manufactured by the Vetcraft and also in purchasing other artificial flowers from Canadian firms whose staffs are wholly or in part composed of ex-service men and their families. Comrade Coster of Waterford, who presented this resolution, told the delegates that he and another ex-service man had been driven out of the artificial flower business in that town by a former partner who, he charged, is importing German-made artificial flowers with the approval of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and is also conducting a premium selling campaign throughout school children in various parts of Canada and rewarding them with fountain pens and other products made in Canada.

INSPECTOR REPORTS ON OTTAWA EXPLOSION

Advises Stringent Regulation in Regards to Sale and Handling of Gasoline

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9 (C.P.).—In a preliminary report on the sewer explosion of May 29, as made to Mayor Arthur Ellis by John Campbell, of Boston, the expert who has been conducting an investigation for the city, Mr. Campbell advises stringent regulations regarding the sale, handling and storage of gasoline, and a revision of the plumbing by-laws, to include provision for adequate inspection and enforcement from the safety standpoint of explosion, fire and public health.

Final conclusions have not been reached by Mr. Campbell, who states that he wishes to make further investigations and secure more data. Another report at an early date is promised.

LOWELL PATTON, AT PIANO, AND ERNEST TOY

Ernest Toy, celebrated Australian violinist, and the inimitable Lowell Patton, pianist, composer, interpreter of life and moods, bring to the coming Canadian Chautauqua here distinctive musical programs of outstanding interest.

Ernest Toy has been the recipient of many high honors within the British Empire. He has had the distinction of touring with Melba and John McCormack, and has been concert master with the leading orchestras in Australia.

Lowell Patton has studied at the Royal Academy, London, in Paris, Rome, Berlin and Vienna. Audiences are charmed with his playing of his own compositions and with his vivid impressionistic dramatic sketches.

Here are concert artists of high rank presenting programs so varied, artistic and unusual that they appeal not only to the genuine music lover, but to the more popular-minded as well.

On the Chautauqua program at Peterborough, July 20-22,23-24-25. An adult season ticket secures admission to the whole series of programs that totals $7.50. Adult admission, $2.20, which includes tax. Child's ticket, which may be purchased by any scholar or student up to 19 years of age or nurse-in-training, is $1.00, and may be had from Examiner, Y.M.C.A., Kent's Drug Store, Bond's Drug Store, Payne's Drug Store, J. PRESIDENTIAL SPEECH GIVEN BEFORE UNION

Only a Few Co-operative Organizations Linked Says W. C. Good.

SMALL MAN DISAPPEARING.

Thinks Movement Should Pay More Attention To Education.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 9. (C.P.) — "Co-operatively we are incoherent, almost a chaos," declared W. C. Good of Paris, Ont., in his presidential address at the opening session of the Congress of the Co-operative Union of Canada in the Parliament Buildings here to-day, speaking of the movement's progress in the Dominions. "As yet only a very few of the co-operative organizations within our borders are linked together in our national organizations; only a few therefore are affiliated with co-operators in other countries through the International Co-operative Alliance," he continued.

"Private business has become national, and frequently international in its scope—co-operators cannot afford to have a more limited vision. It is not to his credit that we profess adherence to the co-operative motto and decline to abide by its implication and responsibilities. As was to be expected our failure have been mostly due to isolation. We simply must awake to the need of solidarity if we are going to succeed in our efforts."

Public or Private Monopoly.

Outlining the benefits of the movement, Mr. Good declared competition is being done away with because of "its inherent wastefulness, and we have now to choose between private or public monopoly in many spheres of activity." In banking and transportation, in manufacturing and merchandisings, the small enterpriser was rapidly disappearing, he said, and great mergers and consolidations, many of them international in scope, were taking their places. Even in agriculture, which does not easily lend itself to centralization, there was rapid formation of commodity pools for the purpose of systematising the marketing of farm products.

Unregulated private monopoly was not to be tolerated, Mr. Good continued, but regulated private monopoly appealed to some people. He did not however think this feasible. Another alternative was state socialism, which roughly means public ownership and operation of industry through state action. He was prepared to consider the advisability of this method as applied to any particular industry, but from the practical standpoint the scheme did not appeal to him "because primarily it does not sufficiently regard the general law of slow growth."

"As against socialism co-operation proposes to bring about a real world revolution by means which do violence to none. Mr. Good declared, "proposes to meet the threat of private monopoly by democratising it, proposes to establish a new order by building it slowly, steadily and surely within the old order." The method was sure because it did not neglect the human factor. "Whether industry shall be socialized in this way or that way, the co-operative movement constitutes a vast school for the training of people in its democratic management," he said.

He thought the co-operative idea was generally applicable. One important opportunity for co-ordination that had had occupied co-operators of late was the relationship between such producers organizations as the wheat pools and such consumers organizations as the co-operative wholesale society. There was no doubt that a mutually advantageous relationship could be worked out and the co-operators should address themselves to the task, he urged.

BRING EDUCATION TO FRONT

Mr. Good declared the movement did not attach sufficient importance to education. British societies, he pointed out, set apart more than a million dollars a year to organise educational facilities for their members. This is supplemented by a substantial portion of the income of the co-operative union. A co-operative college has been established at Manchester for 10 years past. "Surely these facts ought to stimulate action on our part," he declared.

"Another condition calls for some comment," Mr. Good said. "There is a tendency for organizations ostensibly co-operative in character to complete with one another for business in the same territory. Such competition is absolutely foreign to the spirit and methods of the movement and ought not to be permitted."

Is stomach trouble making you miserable? Is constant indigestion, pain, gas, getting on your nerves? Is this condition affecting your whole system, preventing you from eating, sleeping, working properly? Many men and women have suffered just as you are suffering now and have found blessed relief in Tanlac.

For instance, take one of the best known builders and contractors in Ottawa, Mr. Felix Nadeau, 142 George Street. He writes, "Hardly a day passed in fifteen years that Stomach Trouble did not make me miserable. The pain in my stomach and back was so severe that at times I could not rise. But two years ago, Tanlac put me right on my feet. It relieved the Stomach Trouble; and so built up my whole system that I gained sixteen pounds in weight."

This is the great thing about Tanlac—it builds and re-builds health and strength—makes you eat and sleep as normal, healthy people should—and helps you to enjoy life to the full. The cost is less than 2c a dose—and your money refunded if it does not give perfect satisfaction. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day.

C.P.C. Traveller Has Gone To Apsley 281 Times

To travel almost the full distance around the world on trips between here and Apsley has been the experience of Jack Hardill, Sr., now popular traveller for the C.P.C. Mr. Hardill has made the 82 mile round trip to the northern village 281 times by actual count. This figures out to be a total of 23,040 miles, and the distance around the circumference of the earth at the equator is only 25,000 miles, or only 1,960 miles further than Mr. Hardill has gone between here and Apsley. A little over twenty-three more trips and the full distance of the round-the-world journey will have been traversed.

HARBOR'S ICE BREAKS LATER

Need of Off-shore Wind To Start Work At Churchill.

DREDGE READY.

OTTAWA, July 9.—This year the ice moved out of Churchill Harbor, Hudson Bay, on the morning of June 20, leaving the shore ice above low water still in place.

Last year the ice went out on June 17.

Official reports just received here state that on July 1 there was still much heavy ice in the Hudson Bay, which was coming and going in the harbor with the tide. Last year the harbor was cleared of ice for the season on June 23rd. This is a later season and, besides, the wind has been from a general north-easterly direction for some time, driving the bay ice towards the western shore. An off-shore wind is needed to clear the harbor and permit the dredging work to go forward.

One of the orchids is said to produce 74,000,000 seeds from the plant considered as a whole.

RESTFUL NIGHT SPENT BY KING

Arose At Usual Hour To Follow the Morning Routine.

DOCTORS SEE X-RAY.

LONDON, July 9.—(A.P.) —King George, suffering from a set-back in the condition of the old left lung incision, was said authoritatively at Buckingham Palace to-day to have passed a comfortable night.

His Majesty was up at his usual hour this morning and it was said at the palace he carried out his usual routine.

Sir Stanley Hewett, one of his physicians, paid him a brief visit and left shortly with Doctor Henry Martyn, who had spent the night there.

It was understood the doctors would view the X-ray photographs taken yesterday, this afternoon, although it was unlikely a bulletin would be issued to-day.

DRAGOONS LEAVE FOR BARRIEFIELD

Three Companies Will Spend Twelve Days in Camp at Kingston.

SPECIAL TRAIN USED.

The 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons of Peterborough, Millbrook and Norwood left the Canadian Pacific Railway station at 1.40 to-day for their annual twelve day camp which is held at Barriefield.

A special train consisting of six stock cars in which were loaded eighty-eight horses, a flat car, on which were the wagons and the equipment, and two colonist cars and one first-class coach for the one hundred and ten men (all ranks), pulled out for Kingston shortly after one o'clock. The Dragoons will arrive at Kingston about six o'clock when they will immediately march to Barriefield, a distance of about three miles, to spend the rest of the time in military manouevres and riding.

Captain H. G. Mason, adjutant of the regiment, told The Examiner that the horses this year were the best that the Dragoons have had for a number of years to go to camp with.

The turnout of men this year for the camp is more than pleasing when it was found out that the three companies registered for camp duty, over strength, in all instances.

The officers in command of the Dragoons are: The headquarters staff, Lieutenant-Colonel H. Powell, officer in command of the regiment, Major E. H. Wood, medical officer; Major W. T. Rogers, veterinary officer; Captain D. Paterson, chaplain; Captain Cutmore, paymaster; Lt.-Colonel T. D. Johnston, acting quarter master; Captain H. G. Mason, adjutant.

Those who are in command of A squadaron which was recently organized in Norwood, are: Captain E. Johnson, O.C.; and Lieuts. L. L. Meyland and O"Connor-Fenton.

Officers in command of B squadron, Millbrook, are: Major M. D. Sloan, O.C., and Lieuts. B. Dawson and J. Payne.

The officers in command of C squadron, the Peterborough unit, are: Lieut.-Col. C. H. Stuart, O.C.; Captain F. G. Stinson, and Lieutenants A. MacNab, J. Fanning and A. Sharpe.

SON OF FORMER MAYOR RETURNS TO PETERBOROUGH

our way down my youngest daughter Margaret wondered how we could spend a week here, but she is all for staying two weeks now. I notice that busses are used here, and this is a fine idea, and seemingly the prevailing one all over. The streets are kept very fine and clean and I am pleased with the paving plan that has been carried out. In touring around the surrounding country Margaret was particularly pleased with the scenery, saying, that out west they had no such trees or wonderful scenes.

Fast horses were all the go then.

In the days I was here, we played a great deal of baseball and lacrosse, and there were sure some fine ones. We never thought of cars.

PLEASED WITH SCHOOL REUNION

I attended the reunion of teachers last Tuesday and saw my old teacher, Miss Nicholls. I tell you that meeting certainly brought back memories of happy days. As a boy I certainly had some wonderful times going to school. That new Collegiate is certainly a wonderful building.

Out of all the names on the committees, I only recognize two: those of Harry Denne, who went to school with me, and Frank Dobbin, who worked on the old Review. For a number of years, my father was in the council and was also mayor for some time.

Asked to express his views on the temperance question, Mr. Toule thought that our liquor control was an improvement over that of Manitoba, in the fact that there are no beer parlors. Undoubtedly there has been a great improvement over the open bar days when I was a boy—of course then there was a great many lumberjacks in town connected with the large lumber drives, and when those boys hit town, there was usually some fun. However, to-day there are no timber drives and I suppose this fact helps a lot in taming th place down. Speaking of horse racing; we had no race tracks, only the old Locks road, and the ice in winter time, on what we called Little Lake, in front of George street dock, and there used to be some great races put on in the winter especialy. Your track and grand stand of to-day are crtainly a credit to the two.

Election time then were wild days, too, and some pretty interesting situations arose over disputed questions. Then, verybody was either Grit or Tory, which ever your father happened to be—and everybody knew just what you were. To-day everybody seems to be more moderate, going according to their own opinions.

PLEASED WITH FEATURE PARADE

One feature I was particularly pleased with was the 1st of July parade. I have seen a great many parades in various cities, but none that could surpass that one. The committees that planned it are to be congratulated on the success they attained.

Speaking of differences between the East and the West, I think you will find it is a young man's country out there. Our roads are not up to your system here, but we are going ahead with them as fast as we can, considering the vast space we have to contend with, and the scarcity of gravel pits. Our cities are planned on a much larger scale, the two main streets in Winnipeg being 132 feet wide. However, in spite of this I think, should I ever sell my business and interests out there, there is no place I should enjoy coming to retire more than good old Peterborough." In this last statement, his daughter Margaret, a university student in Winnipeg agreed most heartily.

Mr. Toole intends returning to the West through Detroit, Chicago and Minneapolis, and takes back with him memories of one of the most pleasant weeks of his life.

Plot Is Discovered On Officer's Arrest

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 9 (C.P.).—There was absolute quiet throughout Rumania to-while while the authorities continued investigations into a plot against the government which was foiled by the arrest of several army officers.

Reports were current here that the government was put on the scent of the plot Saturday night when two officers who attended a secret meeting of the military conspirators left under plausible pretexts and went straight to the Minister of War. They divulged the plot and thus enabled the Government to watch the movements of the conspirators and to arrest the ring leaders over the weekend.

The Weather

Meteorological Office, Toronto, July 9. — Pressure is high over the Western States and off the South Atlantic coast, and relatively low from the Great Lakes northward to Hudson Bay. A few scattered showers have occurred in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Northern Ontario, as well as the the Mariitme provinces. Elsewhere the weather has been fair.

BIG ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT IS BEING PLANNED

executive body, to carry it into effect. Carrying out of the scheme necessitates costruction or acquisition by the board of the main transmission lines and the making of arrangements with owners of "selected stations" for the operation and, where required, the extension of their stations so as to generate such quantities of electricity at such rates of output and at such times as the board may direct. Owners of selected stations are under obligation to sell to the board all electricity so generated. The board is under an obligation to supply to the owners of "selected stations" and to other electricity undertakers within the area of the scheme all the electricty which they require for their undertaking on the basis of price prescribed by act of parliament.

Coal Is Used

Main factors in determining what stations are to be the "selected stations" are:

(1)—Cost of coal delivered to the station—practically all generating stations in Great Britain use coal.

(2)—Abundance of water for condensing purposes.

(3)—Technical characteristics of the station such as type and size of the plant units, steam pressure, etc.

(4) Proximity to load.

How the selection and retention of certain generating stations and the elimination of others works out in practice may be illustrated from two of the regional schemes. In the southeast England region there are at present 135 generating stations. Of these, the board has selected 31 and four others are to be established. This means therefore 100 fewer generating stations in the southeast England area alone. Of the 35, some half dozen, mostly in London, will supply the base load—in other words will work continuously generating the high power current that passes through the whole system. The others will be one-shift or two-shift stations, working part of the time and helping to provide the extra load required at peak hours.

In the mid-east England area there are now 73 authorised undertakings owning between them 40 public generating stations. Of the 40, 18 have been selected by the board. Base load output will be allocated to five of the 13 stations.

It is estimated that in the southeast England area spare plant will be cut down from 60 to 20 per cent.

Rejection of Prayer Book Before Bishops and Clergy

ATTEMPT MADE TO COMMUNICATE WITH TRAPPED MEN

ARCHBISHOP OF YORK FACES CHURCH'S DISESTABLISHMENT AS NEW POSITION PRESENTED

House of Commons Rejects Revised Book of Prayer.

BISHOPS AND CLERGY MEET.

Parliament Is Not Defied in Resolution Says Archbishop.

LONDON, July 10.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The prospect of disestablishment of the Church of England was fearlessly faced by the Archbishop of York, Most Rev. Dr. William Temple, when the Bishops and clergy of both the ancient ecclesiastical provinces of Canterbury and York assembled to-day to debate the new position caused by rejection of the revised Book of Common Prayer by the House of Commons.

In a sense the clergy who constitute the Lower House of both convocations do not materially enter into the discussions, inasmuch as nowadays they merely constitute the House of Clergy, which is attached to the Church Assembly, the administrative body of the Anglican Church.

Resolution Presented.

The chief interest attaching to today's debate, which will continue until Friday, lies in the resolution sponsored by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, as follows:

"That during the present emergency, and having regard to the fact that the convocations of Canterbury and York gave their consent to proposals for deviation from the Prayer-book of 1662 as set fort in the Prayer-book of 1928, and to the fact that the Church National Assembly voted for national approval of these proposals, the Bishops cannot regard as inconsistent with loyalty to the principles of the Church of England the use of such additions or deviations as fall within the limits of these proposals. Accordingly the Bishops in exercising their legal or administrative discretion will be guided exercising their legal or administrative discretion will be guided by the proposals set forth in the Book of 1928 and will endeavor to secure that practices consistent neither with the book of 1662 nor with that of 1928 shall cease.

Situations Reviewed.

A striking review of the situation as he deems it presents itself to-day was offered at the opening by the Archbishop of York, presiding over the Convocation of York Province, when he laid before the Synod a statement of principles of action "during the necessary interval before the church can revise its own law of public worship with full constitutional sanctions."

Some whose judgment was entitled to more serious consideration, the Archbishop declared, "Urge us to regard the anomalies of establishment as now so serious as to require us to ask the State for freedom which it is held only disestablishment can secure. But it seems we are not confronted with a clean-cut conflict between the Church and State. The House of Commons was led to reject the Prayerbook measure by church members. That any churchman should appeal to parliament against the Church Assembly and Convocations seems to be most deplorable but I recognize my judgment is dictated by convictions which those churchmen do not share.

Cannot Accept Situations.

"The resultant situation is one in which we cannot acquiesce, and if we do not at once demand disestablishment we are bound to set afoot a most serious inquiry into ways and means wherein the evils of the situation may be remedied. Meanwhile, the worship of the Church has to be conducted day by day. It is at

Would Prosecute Parents Who Allow Their Children To Play On Busy Streets

TORONTO, July 10. (C.P.) — "The time will soon come when the Crown will prosecute these parents," said Coroner Dr. M. M. Crawford, at the inquest into the death of Kyril Kiproff, aged three, who was fatally injured when run over by a trolley car here last week. The coroner was remarking on the number of children who are allowed to play on streets congested with traffic. This factor contributes to the high rate of accidental deaths among children in Toronto, he said. A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury.

HOPE TO REACH CITY OF ROME BY NIGHTFALL

Aviators Were Acclaimed By Thousands When They Arrived at Airfiled.

TWO TIRED MEN.

One Hundred and Fifty Gallons of Gasoline Are Loaded On Plane.

SANTANDER, Spain, July 10. — (Canadian Press).—Undaunted by fatigue and illness, the American aviators, Captain Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, set out to finish today what they could not quite conclude yesterday — their flight from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome the Eternal City.

Lifting their plane from the abandoned aerodrome at Albericia, near here at 11:20 a.m. 5:20 a.m. E.S.T. they dipped once in salute and headed due east along the 850 mile route to the Italian capital. They hoped to take less than ten hours for the trip, arriving at Ciampino airfield, south of the city, before dark.

They were two tired and weary aviators. During their long flight from Old Orchard to Aldericia, which ended in a landing forced by lack of fuel at 9:30 p.m., yesterday (3.30 p.m. E.S.T.) the nenrvous tension kept them going.

Very Tired This Morning

But once here the reception sapped the last of their strength and it was difficult to get either Williams or Yancey from bed this morning. Yancey arose first but went back to sleep when Williams would only mutter "yes" to entreaties to get up. Williams finally arose at 8.30, Yancey joining him shortly afterward.

The aviators were acclaimed by thousands when they arrived at the air field. Beautiful Senoritas who only a few weeks ago greeted the French "Yellow Bird" aviators when they landed, threw roses at them a real Spanish farewell, civil governor Saliquet and the English consul gave the official "adios."

They saw their plane was loaded only with 75 gallons of gasoline and had it filled with an additional 75 gallons, providing the 150 gallons they deemed necessary for the flight to Rome. It was believed they would have no difficulty in rising above the Pyrenees.

ROME, July 10 (Canadian Press). —Warned by postponed departure of the American aviators, Captain Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, at Santander to-day that they probably would not arrive here until after dark, the Italian Government authorities switched their preparations to receive them from Littorio aerodrome to that at Ciampino.

Littorio is the commercial aerodrome, and the more suitable for their arrival, but the military field at Ciampino is the only one that can be lighted for landing at night. The field being a military establishment, however, crowds which otherwise would witness the arrival of the Pathfinder will be excluded.

JAPANESE AVIATOR FOUND

SALT LAKE CITY, July 10. — (Canadian Press).—The body of Masashi Goto, 32, Japanese aviator of Los Angeles, and wreckage of his airplane in which he started on a projected trip around the world, were found in a canyon southeast of here late yesterday.

He was backed by Pacific Coast Japanese newspapers and set out from Los Angeles on July 3 and had flown to Salt Lake City. The next morning he left the airport here in his small plane and was never seen alive again.

LITTLE HOPE IS BEING HELD OUT FOR RECOVERY OF 22 SEAMEN ENTOMBED IN BRITISH "SUB"

Impressive Array of Life-Saving Apparatus, the Most Elaborate the British Navy Could Muster, Is Working Over Undersea Craft.

DIVERS ABOARD DIVING SHIP ARE READY TO DESCEND AND FASTEN TACKLE TO THE BOAT

THE ILL-FATED CRAFT.

It is feared 22 lives were lost when the British submarine L-12 rammed and sank the H-47, another British undersea boat, in St. George's Channel, off the coast of Pembrokeshire, in Wales. In announcing the disaster the Admiralty said there were only two survivors from the H-47, whose complement was 23 men. Only one man was lost of those aboard the L-12, which had a complement of 41. The L-12 did not sink following the collision, but the H-47 went down in 45 fathoms (270 feet) of water, a depth which would make diving operations extremely difficult. Photo shows H-47.

PEMBROKE, Wales, July 10 (Canadian Press). — The British submarine L-69 to-day dived in the vicinity of the stricken H-47 and tried to communicate with the 21 men trapped within her, but without avail.

The L-69 tried to communicate with the H-47 by sound telegraphy, using a bell with Morse code, but there have been no answering signals.

Diver Bell, reputed to be the best in the Navy, was taken from the cruiser Renown and equipped with a special German diving suit in which he will try to locate the missing men.

It was considered doubtful, however, that he would be able to descend to the 330 feet depth in which the H-47 lies, the depth being far beyond that practicable for diving operations.

An impressive array of life-saving apparatus — the most elaborate the British Navy could muster — was in position to-day over the spot where the submarine went down.

First efforts were to discover the position of the sunken vessel, which it was believed, may have slipped from its original location in the heavy weather of last night. A buoy was moored at the spot where oil bubbles indicated it went down.

Divers aboard a diving ship were ready to descend and attempt to fasten a tackle to the boat, despite the great depth of 270 feet, as soon as her position was ascertained.

Four mine sweepers, an anti-submarine flotilla of five vessels, and seven destroyers searched the area while the lifting lighters were made ready. All awaited a decision whether the Navy's new deep water diving apparatus could be used with any prospect of success.

WORE OUT MANY SHOES.

LONDON, July 10.—"King of the Hoboes of the United States," Joseph Leon Lazarowitz, dropped off here recently and announced he intended visiting Alaska and Russia soon, the only two places in the world he has not traveled in. The king has been at his occupation of hoboing for nine years and has travelled a distance of 32,500 miles. He was elected to office at a convention in Minneapolis in 1927.

7,000 MILES AT 73.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., July 10.—James B. Foster, 73 year old Kentucky miner, recently dropped in here with the story that he had hitch-hiked 7,000 miles since last December. His route led him south through Texas into California. He struck across the northern part of the country and stopped here. He expects to finish 10,000 miles before reaching home.

PACKING CASES CONTAIN DRUGS

French Officers Find Afghan Minister's Trunks Full Cocaine, Heroin.

VALUED AT $33,280.

PARIS, July 10. (C.P.) — French customs officers believe that they have uncovered a flagrant violation of the diplomatic immunity to cloak wholesale importation of heroin and cocaine into France. An investigation has been ordered.

The customs examiners' curiosity was aroused by the appearance of four packing cases addressed to Sirdar Al Chulam Nasi Khan, the Afghan Minister in Paris, who has just been appointed Ambassador to Moscow.

The customs authorities did not dare to violate the diplomatic immunity on the baggage, which was supposed to contain native tobaccos and other delicacies, but as the cases were being placed on a wagon they noticed a white powder escaping through a crack.

They took a sample, which proved to be heroin. The cases all were opened and found to contain heroin and cocaine to the value of 832,000 francs (about $33,280.)

Antics Of Dog in Water Gives Fire Department Run With City Pulmotor

The antics of a little dog in the waters of Little Lake off the end of Burnham street this morning caused the fire department a run with the pulmotor at 10.35. Some little girls were bathing in the water and a woman nearby evidently mistook the splashing of the dog playing in the water for the struggles of one of the children. She excitedly summoned the firemen with the pulmotor. No casualties resulted from the incident either in the human or the four-footed world.

PRINCE CAROL IS IMPLICATED IN ROYAL PLOT

Documents Found By Government Definitely Implicate Former Crown Prince.

SEVERAL ARRESTS MADE.

Messenger Is Sent To Queen Marie Requesting Her To Return To Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 10. (Canadian Press).—Documents allegedly confiscated by the government in its roundup of military conspirators against the present regime have definitely implicated the exiled Prince Carol in a projected coup d'etat.

The documents comprised proclamations to the people and to the army, all bearing the signature, "in the name of his majesty, King Carol II." It was said that it appeared the exiled prince was fully aware of the preparations for the plot and gave his consent to it.

Prince Regent Nicholas on the other hand, insisted he knew nothing in the connection.

Several more arrests were made to-day and it was said the investigation was proceeding along lines which might implicate various important political personages.

Complete quiet reigned here.

SHOCK KILLS LADY AUTOIST

Chauffeur With Two Lady Passengers, Sideswiped Into Ditch.

NEITHER DRIVER HURT.

NEWMARKET, Ont., July 10 (C.P.).—Mrs. Frances May Logan, wife of S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, died here last night from shock and injuries received when the car in which she was riding was sideswiped in an automobile collision.

Mrs. H. W. Burgess, Toronto, a passenger in the car with Mrs. Logan suffered minor injuries.

Neither John Illingworth, a Bank of Commerce chauffeur, nor E. D. Babcock, Barrie, Ont., driver of the other of the two cars involved, were injured.

Traffic Officer Thompson, stationed at Bradford, stated last night the accident occurred five miles north of Bradford. His investigation revealed, he said, the driver of the automobile carrying Mrs. Logan attempted to pass a truck and as he swung on the roadway was forced into the ditch to avoid another car coming from the opposite direction. The cars came in contact, however, the body of the machine carrying Mrs. Logan being damaged und the windows broken. The other car was stripped of fenders on one side.

An inquest will be held at Newmarket. Mrs. Logan was a resident of Toronto.

He had driven part way over the crossing after letting an eastbound train pass but did not notice a westbound freight approaching.

BRITISH COMMUNICATION DENIES DUMPING CELERY ON MARKET IN UNITED STATES

Irish Free State Government Protests Raise in Wool and Wool Tissues.

SPAIN MAKES THREAT.

Italian Ambassador Declares Italy Has Experienced Unfavorable Trade Balance.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 10 (Canadian Press). — A flood of protests against the pending Tariff Bill sent by foreign trade associations and governments, including one by Spain threatening to denounce the existing modus vivendi of most favored trade relations with the United States were made public to-day by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Spanish representation under date of April 26, and signed by Marques De Estella, Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs, and given to the American Ambassador at Madrid, was submitted to the Senate Finance Committee by Secretary Stimson bearing with it a letter of comment by Secretary Mellon.

The Spanish Government protested against the suggested increases of duty and sanitary regulations on cork, olives, grapes, onions, dried fruits, and revolvers.

Enters Protest.

Great Britain submitted a communication by the Director of Agriculture for Bermuda, in which he denied testimony at the tariff hearings that Bermuda celery was "dumped in the American market." He contended this product did not enter into unfair competition with domestic celery.

The Irish Free State Government expressed particular concern over a possible increase in rates on pickled mackerel, wool and woollen tissues.

The British Government transmitted protests from British manufacturers against higher tariffs on glue and chenille carpets and rugs. And West Riding Chamber of Commerce, said to embrace three-fourths of the wool textile industry of the United Kingdom, asked there be no upward revision on wool textile tariff schedules.

Unfavorable Trade Balance.

The Italian Ambassador in his note declared that Italy had always experienced an unfavorable trade balance with the United States. Memoranda forwarded by him included protests against the increases on canned tomatoes, cheese, edible olive

Youth Has Neck Broken Lives To Tell the Tale

ORILLIA, Ont., July 10 — (Canadian Press). — His neck broken when thrown from a motor truck, as it swerved into a ditch, Harry Hammond, 20, Toronto, lies in the local hospital completely paralyzed except for his speech. He has been conscious since the time of the accident and was able to give a complete account of the accident.

DUKE OF YORK ATTENDS SHOW

Royal Agricultural Society Show Has Exhibits By King and Prince.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

HARROGATE, England, July 10. (Canadian Press Cable).—The Duke of York in a sense deputized for the Queen when he attended the annual show of the Royal Agricultural Society to-day. It was the Queen's earlier intention to visit Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles at their home, Goldsborough Hall, which is within a few miles of Harrogate. The Duke is paying his sister and brother-in-law the first visit at their principal home.

Lord Lascelles is president of the show, which, covering an area of 80 acres, has attracted agriculturists from all parts of the world. The attendance so far exceeds that at Nottingham last year.

Royal Exhibits

Exhibits by the King and the Prince of Wales were among those receiving early awards.

The recent setback in the condition of King George was minimized today by Lord Lascelles, speaking at a meeting on the Royal Show Ground.

"You will all recognize that the news received on Monday of the King's postponed visit to Sandringham was not due exactly to a sudden crisis in his illness, but say rather recognition of the fact that his progress toward convalescence is slow and that a long journey such as that to Sandringham could not be undertaken at the present moment by him, said Lord Lascelles.

LOCAL ORANGEMEN TO HOLD PARADE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Big Celebration Is Being Held in Port Hope This Year.

TO RUN SPECIAL TRAIN.

The roll of drums and the sound of the fifes will not be entirely absent from this city's streets on Friday, July 12. Although the big celebration for the district is being held in Port Hope, the more than 600 Orangemen of the city will hold a parade of their own on their return in the evening.

The special train will arrive back here about 8.30 and the twelve lodges of the city will form up on the Market Square immediately on detraining and march through the principle streets. Officials of the local Order said that neighboring lodges, including Lakefield, would likely join in this parade and it is fully expected that at least 800 will march.

Lay Wreath On Memorial.

The Orangemen will officially pay their tribute to the glorious sacrifices of the Peterborough County men who sleep in Flander Fields, by marching to the Memorial at Confederation Square and laying a wreath upon it. There will be a short ceremony at the Memorial in which the Salvation Army band will take part.

With the local lodges are ten bands, several of which annually win prizes in the Twelfth competitions, and these along with the Salvation Army band will supply music for the parade here. Officials are laying their plans so that this parade may be one of the best ever seen here.

A special train coming through here from Lindsay at 9.15 will carry part of the Peterborough contingent to Port Hope. Special busses have also been chartered to make the trip. Members of the respective lodges will assemble in their lodge rooms and then march to the station and the bus depot.

Federation Recognizes New Altitude Record

PARIS, July 10. — (Canadian Press).—The International Aeronautic Federation yesterday officially recognized as a new world seaplane altitude record the mark of 11,753 metres (38,559 feet), established by Lieutenant Apollo Soucek of the United States Navy on June 4.

Lieutenant Soucek exceeded by 564 feet the record of 37,995 feet made by Lieutenant C. C. Champion of the United States Navy two years ago.

SCARCITY OF RAIN BOOSTS UP WHEAT

Remainder of Market Holds Fairly Steady at End.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 10.—(Canadian Press)—Rainless skies northwest and renewal of unfavorable crop advices from there led to an early advance in wheat prices to-day. The fact that Buenos Aires quotations failed to reflect reports of beneficial rains in Argentina tended also to lift the wheat market here. Opening unchanged to ⅝c off, Chicago wheat later scored material upturns all around. Corn and oats developed firmness, too, with corn starting ¾ to ⅞c to ⅞c down, but afterward showing rallies.

Provisions were easy.

Five-Year Old Sister Attempts to Rescue Her Brother From Drowning in Thomas River

CHATHAM, July 10. (C.P.) — Bernard Brown aged four years, was drowned in the Thames River last night, when, it is thought, he slipped from the concrete breakwater at the rear of A. D. Chaplin's residence, while playing with his five-year-old sister Betty and little Beryl Cummings.

It is believed Betty jumped to her brother's assistance but was pulled into the water. The Cummings boy ran to the home of W. E. Rispin and Miss Margaret Rispin and her sister, Mrs. Jack Templeton. Miss Rispin, stripping her clothes as she ran, dived into the water, and soon came up with the limp body of the little girl.

The little girl was revived at a near-by physician's office, and her first words were: "Get Bernard."

Further questioning revealed the tragedy, but rescue attempts were too late, and the fire department was called, but late last night dragging operations had been unsuccessful.

SEVENTY-TWO CHILDREN PRESENT AS CAMP OPENS IN JACKSON PARK

Houde Is Expected To Be Unanimous Choice

QUEBEC, Que., July 10 (C.P.). —Unanimous selection of Mayor Camilien Houde of Montreal, as leader of the Provincial Conservative party appeared to be indicated to-day as the delegates assembled for the second day's session of the Conservative convention. The election of a leader will take place late this afternoon or early in the evening.

Many delegates stated it was probable that Arthur Sauve, the retiring chief, would propose Mr. Houde as leader and that there would be no opposition.

MANY DIE FROM HEAT

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—A mounting death list to-day marked the continuation of the relentless heat under which much of the country has suffered since Sunday.

Added to deaths attributed directly to the heat were several drownings and scores of prostrations.

Four persons succumbed to the heat here yesterday and one death occurred at Wilmington, Del. Seven heat fatalities were previously reported.

The Examiner Finds Boys and Girls Very Happy On Opening Day.

DAY STARTS AT 8 A.M.

Jackson Park once more is ringing with hearty childish laughter as the camp for the underprivileged children of Peterborough is now open, and to-day seventy-two youngsters whose parents are unable to give them a vacation in the country took advantage of the health-giving air of the park.

The children are all happy and when The Examiner visited the camp this morning, the boys were engaged in a game of baseball. It was a real game with umpires behind the plate and on the bases. The fans watching the game razzed the decisions of the referees and the playing of the teams. There was as much interest taken by these youngsters as the more serious fans take in the big league games.

The girls had separated off into groups and were playing "London Bridge is Falling Down," or were chasing each other in a game of tag while others were busy enjoying the thrills of swinging.

Miss F. Vickers, R.N., who had charge of the camp last year and who is in charge this year, said that the children do not stray very far away, because if they do they are punished and sometimes are not allowed to come back, which to their little hearts is a real chastisement.

Day Starts at 8 a.m.

A day's routine starts about eight o'clock in the morning when two busses from the Border Transit company cover the city, stopping at designated points picking up the youngsters as they anxiously gather in groups to be taken to the fresh air camp.

They arrive at the camp shortly after nine o'clock, when breakfast is served, which consists of cereal, milk

"PATHFINDER" LANDS IN SPAIN

AVIATORS FAIL TO REACH GOAL; GAS IS SCARCE

Pathfinder Lands in Spain After Thirty-one and Half Hours of Flight.

FLEW 3,400 MILES.

Peasants Start Huge Bonfires To Guide Men in Making Safe Landing.

SANTANDER, Spain, Puly 10. — (Canadian Press).—Roger Q. Williams and Captain Lewis Yancey, after a trans-Atlantic air voyage of 3,400 miles from Old Orchard, Maine slept on their laurels here last night before completing their flight to Rome in their airplane Pathfinder.

Want of gasoline forced them down yesterday as night was falling over the northern Spanish coast not far from the very spot where their French comrades of the Yellow Bird had been obliged to land.

"We flew 31½ hours, encountering low fogs, which cut us off from the sight of the sea, for only two hours were we free of the fog and able to see the ocean.

"We didn't sight any ships. Near Cape Ortegal we saw land for the first time and were very glad, but we continued the fight, wishing to go as far as our gasoline would take us."

Rome Disappointed

ROME, July 10—(Canadian Press) Keen disappointment was felt last night in official circles and among the populace of Rome over news that Ooger Williams and Captain Lewis Yan-ey had been forced down near Santander in their airplane Pathfinder.

The Pathfinder appeared over Santander, after flying low over Comillas, just as dark set in, apparently looking for a suitable landing place. Williams and Yancey waved handkerchiefs to show they wanted to land and the peasants started a huge bonfire to guide them.

At 9:30 P.M. (Spanish time) 3.30 E.S.T. they came down on the former airfield at Albericia, which is now used as a military rifle range, amid the shouts of the townspeople.

THESE LAZY MALES!

NEW YORK, July 10.—The woman really does pay in elephant herds. The bull elephants are inclined to be lazy, says James L. Clark, noted animal student. The bull leaves the responsibility of watching for danger, of hunting for feeding grounds and so on to some female. While she is leading the herd he walks slowly behind, taking his time and growing fat.

LABOR GOVERNMENT WINS ON FIRST DIVISION IN HOUSE

Conservative Amendment in Commons Is Defeated By Big Majority.

MANY VOTERS ABSENT.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, July 10.—In its first division the new Labor government last night secured a majority of 120 votes. It came on the defeat of the Conservative safeguarding amendment to the address. That the amendment would be defeated was accepted as a foregone conclusion when it first appeared on the order paper.

As opposed to safeguarding as Labor, the Liberals were certain to ensure its defeat. But so large a majority was scarcely expected. And as the whips announced the figures a roar of cheers broke out from the packed government benches.

From the figures it is obvious a number of Conservatives were either absent or did not vote. There were 261 Conservatives elected in the general elections, or 41 more than supported the Conservative amendment.

On the other hand the vote against the amendment almost equals the combined numbers of Liberal and Labor members returned.

The "guillotine" was scheduled to fall at 11 o'clock. In actual fact the debate ended 17 minutes ahead of time. Closing it, Captain Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India, declared the government's policy was to make Great Britain leader of the world in the ways of peace and arbitration and to bring it back to the paths of economic sanity.

To-day the House discusses the Liberal amendment on Scottish reforms.

The official Conservative amendment read:

"The failure of Your Majesty's Ministers to make any plain declaration of their policy in regard to safeguarding, the McKenna duties and analogous duties, and to the maintenance of imperial preference, creates a condition of uncertainty prejudicial to trade and the employment of the people."

It was moved by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, former president of the Board of Trade.

PARTY FIGHTS NOT EXPECTED IN ELECTIONS

Three of Five Federal Contests On July 29 Likely To Be Acclamations.

INTERNAL DISCORDS.

Conservatives in Lanark and Liberals in Prescott Are Split.

OTTAWA, July 10 (C.P.)—Unless there are unexpected developments, no straight party fight will be staged in any of the five federal by-elections scheduled for July 29. The despatch from Kingston indicating that no Liberal would be placed in nomination in Frontenac where a successor to the late Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative, is to be chosen, apparently eliminated the last prospect of a Liberal versus Conservative contest. Dr. William Spankie of Wolfe Island, has been chosen as the Conservative candidate.

In Lanark the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. R. F. Preston, Conservative, is to be filled, and in Prescott that caused by the resignation of L. M. Auger, Liberal. In both ridings unusual situations have developed. In Lanark, two Conservatives are running, with no Liberal candidate likely to enter the contest. In Prescott the Conservatives are keeping out and letting two Liberals join issue.

The Conservatives of Laprairie-Napierville have decided not to put up a candidate in opposition to Vincent Dupuis, mayor of Laprairie. Roch Lanctot, Liberal member for this constituency, died during the last session of parliament. It is also intimated in Conservative circles that there will be no candidate for their party in the other Quebec constituency of Vaudreuil-Soulanges which was made vacant when Lawrence A. Wilson, Liberal, resigned just before the last session opened.

In Lanark the candidates are T. A. Thompson of Almonte, the choice of the Conservative convention, and W. S. Murphy of Smith's Falls, who claims the party convention was not a fair one and as a protest he and the delegation from Smith's Falls walked out. The constituency is considered a Conservative stronghold, Dr. Preston having 8,122 votes to his opponent's 4,908. The opponent, C. W. Buchanan, ran as a Liberal Progressive.

Prescott Strongly Liberal

Prescott is as strongly Liberal as Lanark is Conservative, perhaps more so. In the last election, L. M. Auger, Ind. Liberal, got 3,846 votes; Evantural, Liberal, 3,134; Dr. H. Kirby, Conservative, 2,504, and R. Labrosse, Ind. 635. In the coming election the battle is between E. D. Bertrand, a merchant of L'Original, and G. Evanturad, who was the member previous to 1926 elections. Mr. Bertrand was the choice of the Liberal convention and Mr. Evantural is running as an Independent Liberal.

The constituency of Vaudreuil-Soulanges has rolled up big Liberal majorities for a number of elections back. In 1926 Mr. Wilson had 5,391 votes against 1,846 secured by his Conservative opponent. Roch Lanctot also enjoyed big majorities in Laprairie-Napierville. Last election he had 4,201 votes to his opponent's 2,844.

The constituency of Frontenac had sometimes changed its allegiance from the traditional Conservative banner. Dr. Edwards was beaten in 1921 by W. S. Read, Progressive, who had a majority of 223. However, after Addington was added to it, the constituency gave Dr. Edwards a majority of 2,644 in 1925, and 2,768 in 1926.

The disinclination on the part of party organizations to jump into contests where they have not been successful in the past is explained here as due to the belief that there will be a general election next year and it would be better to husband their strength and resources for the more vital conflict.

Although more than 150 miles of passageways have already been explored in Kentucky's Mammoth Cave, many miles are still to be seen.

RAIN NEEDED IN GREAT WEST

Crops Are Backward and Probably Will Be Short This Year.

GRAIN IN SHOT BLADE.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 10. — (Special to The Examiner).—According to the weekly crop report issued by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the weather in the west during the last week was generally fair and warm, with higher temperatures in Alberta than in the other two prairies provinces. Strong winds were prevalent throughout the period and combined with comparatively light rain fall proved a severe strain on the growing crops, which were already suffering in a great many sections from lack of heavy June rains. While the absence of extreme heat this spring was probably an asset in view of the moisture situation, the cool atmosphere is responsible for a very backward crop.

Not receiving anything like normal rainfall grain is going to be short, in fact practically all earlier sown grain is now in shot blade at a height varying from six to 18 inches and in some places heading or headed out with the head smaller than usual. Later seeded grains are progressing slowly and will not produce an average crop if rain is much longer delayed. Owing to the variable conditions in the different provinces at the present time it is difficult definitely to forecast the outcome of the present situation. This much is certain the yield will undoubtedly run much short of last year, when at this time there was an abundance of moisture almost everywhere. If immediate heavy precipitation is not forthcoming the outcome will be more unfavorable. In many portions of the three provinces where conditions earlier in the season were described as good they are now fair to poor, and deteriorating, especially so in Alberta where it was very hot in the earlier part of the week in scattered areas principally in the south and southeast of Saskatchewan and in central Alberta farmers have plowed up early sown fields of wheat or are utilizing them for pastures. All rye and wheat are well headed out and while thin in some areas ,due to winter killing, promise fair crop. Pastures are generally in fair condition although short. Live stock situation favorable.

70 MILES OF PAVING COMPLETED IN JUNE

To Complete 1929 Program Two Miles Must Be Laid Every Day Minister States

TORONTO, July 10—According to a statement issued yesterday by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, about 70 miles of pavements—34.4 miles of it in concrete, 34.8 miles of mixed macadam, and 10.7 miles of grading—were completed during the month of June in the Provincial Highways system.

At the present time the mileage of the different types of pavement alone the system are:—Concrete, 749.64; asphaltic, 208.20; penetration, 229.00; M. macadam, 164.76; macadam, 404.60, and gravel, 660.40. A year ago there was a greater mileage of gravel than any other type of pavement, but this season concrete has taken the lead. Total mileage of the system is 2,416.

There have been three lettings of contracts this year, calling, in all, for the construction of 116 miles of concrete pavement, 114 miles of mixed or traffic-bound macadam, and 40 miles of grading. "To accomplish this program" said Mr. Henry, yesterday, "it is necessary to law two miles of pavement every day during the construction season."

COLLISION MISSED.

LONDON, July 10.—The Duke and Duchess of York narrowly escaped a collision yesterday as their automobile swerved and pulled up suddenly just avoiding a skidding bus in Park Lane. The bus swung on to the sidewalk.

CONDITIONS IN HOMELAND TOLD BY NOTED CHINESE DIPLOMAT

Chautauqua Audience Stays To Hear Last Word.

WIDLY EDUCATED.

WARKWORTH, July 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Yesterday evening, the citizens of Warkworth and vicinity were privileged to hear an address by a most eloquent, interesting and gifted speaker, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, who appeared on the program of the Chautauqua which is being presented here this week.

Dr. Hseih is a Chinese with an extraordinary capacity for observing the events of the times. He is highly educated and has occupied several diplomatic posts during the past quarter century. That his address was interesting was evidenced by the fact that almost everyone waited till the very last word. He seems to possess complete mastery of the English language and is never stuck for the word which is precisely correct. What he told regarding the progress of industry and spiritual awakening in China was a revelation to many who heard him.

His lecture last night was typical of the man himself. Highly educated as he is, and known in high diplomatic circles, yet he claims the meanest of his countrymen as his friend. An interview with him is indeed a pleasure. He is not inclined to be at all distant, but eager and ready to make friends as he goes. His quick speech is not easy to note with pencil and paper, but it impresses itself on the mind of the listener so that it is not easily forgotten. His views are modern, patriotic and, so it seems to the average man, reasonable.

Not A Menace

He states clearly that once the yellow race was awakened, they would not menace the world, but would unite with the British Empire and save the world. The awakening wes

OBITUARY

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, July 10.—The funeral of the late Mrs. David Hunter was held from the family residence, Ninth line Cavan, on Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock. Remove the little jacket, and you have a stunning dinner dress. Flowered chiffon and printed voil chic. For sports, select red and white polka-dotted silk crepe, nile green shantung or printed rajah.

THE PATTERN is easy to understand it contains a Picture Chart. This new method shows how the garment is put together by illustrating the instructions in Pictures. It makes it especially easy for the amateur sewer It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust and offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

TO BE on parade before a highly observant miniature audience, bent beyond anything else, upon imitating ones every action, is one of the features of parenthood. To behave as the grown-ups is to prove oneself more than a child, and children do not discriminate between desirable and undesirable qualities to copy.

If the members of the older generation who constitute the "players" in the pageant which the little folk are watching, do not "take stock" of themselves, they will find themselves being an example in ways not always desirable. So there is a certain discipline in being a parent which is to stress the characteristics that are worthy of duplication.

• • •

This is a healthy condition for both the old and young, for whatever tends to make one emphasize the best in oneself is something for which to be grateful. So a certain debt is owed the children for making one wonder what it is really fine in the adult world. One's manner of speech is among the first things to be copied. I correct English is spoken by parents and associates it will be repeated by the youngsters, just as also the reverse is true.

• • •

Where lying is common between the older folks, a quick realization of deception comes to the children. Untruths will fall easily from their little lips, and discipline cannot take the place of example to correct it.

• • •

Quick to absorb as well as to imitate, a cultural background or the lack of it, will become evident in children's lives. To lives in an atmosphere of too much erudition without sufficient outdoor contacts and youthful companions, makes a little fellow into something very like a prematurely "old man", like one whom the writer know.

• • •

His father was so full of scientific knowledge, and the child's horizon was so narrow that "a cross section of a brain" was what the youngster was ready to discuss in lisped terms of erudition. Such a situation is unnatural and undesirable although not without its humorous side.

• • •

To be financially able to do everything possible for the children of the household is the deep desire of many parents who have not the means. Heavy expenses and limited incomes are not conducive to the raising of a family when one wants "to do everything" for the child. This, which passes for generosity, sometimes turns out to be more of a luxury to the parents than the child, as children who have everything done for them are seldom either the happiest or the most brilliant.

The best preparation for life is not a luxurious childhood. So far it is from being that, that someone has said rather sweepingly "no one who has too opulent a childhood ever amounts to anything." Although this is an extreme statement, a great deal of truth underlies it. There is a challenge in lack which no amount of luxury can supply. Biographies of great men often begin with early years spent in the most difficult surroundings. A famous British novelist and playwright had not even enough to eat as a child. He learned how to cope with circumstances however.

• • •

Parents who give their children the most are not those whose bank account are the largest, but those who circumstance offer enough joy and hardships, and whose hearts give enough love and sympathy to establish true values More important than the best private school which can be afforded only for one is the companionship of a brother or sister whose entrance upon the scene would be regarded by some parents as a hindrance to the continuance of certain "advantages." While it is hard to deny anything to children whom we love, it is well to remember that, many persons who have developed the best in later life, have actually benefitted rather than suffered through lack of indulgences during childhood.

To watch poor children invent games and improvise toys is to realize that a creative spirit is at work which might find no outlet if everything for amusement were at hand, ready made. The wisdom of the ages would be required to say just how much hardship should be the portion of every child for his or her best development, especially since there is so vast a difference in children and their individual needs.

• • •

Probably fate has taken a hand in it in every household where there are children of limited means. Character, ingenuity, and ability, early developed, may be the factors compensating for the financial lack. Parents who think they are doing the least for their children, may in reality be doing the most.

Printed mousseline de soie with deep borders of black is used for this dinner frock, which Joseph Paquin has named Soir d'Eté.

DINNER FROCK FOR SUMMER WEAR IN MOUSSELINE DE SOIE.

By Joseph Paquin.

The dinner frock for summer wear is likely this season to be in printed mousseline de soie, and in this model I have combined a figured design with black, using the black in wide borders on the cape-like bertha, and on the skirt, with its backward sweep. The low decollete is one much favored by the Parisian woman.

THE HAPPY BABY

A healthy baby is a happy baby. One of the best ways to establish and maintain this happy condition is strict adherence to schedule. The baby that is certain of care at the set time rarely frets. The body of the child that is fed on schedule time is a harmonious body, seldom causing unrest or trouble to any other body.

If one bathes a child at a convenient time—eight-thirty this morning, eleven ten another morning, along toward dinner time of another day, one is likely to have a cross baby to bathe. The body soon forms a time habit and any disregard of established ways is likely to bring on protests and tempers and illness.

Bedtime ought to happen along at the same time every night. If it is not convenient to put the baby to bed at the usual time but long after that, one is not to be surprised to have an irritable child on one's hands for the next few days. Nothing disturbs a little one more than the disregard of its bedtime.

I have no belief in the magic stroke of the clock. I do not believe that a child will come to grief merely because his mealtime was skipped once in a blue moon. Nor do I believe that he will come to an untimely end if he gets a sweet cracker or a bit of chocolate between meals. Children get hungry regardless of schedule and an extra bite of goodies will ease them over a trying hour while meal time creeps along.

I am begging that there be a basic schedule of bathing and sleeping and feeding, of play and rest and work. The children are not machines ready to get out of order at the slightest deviation from the plans of every-day existence. They are reasonable little creatures ready to respond to ordinary care and management. That anybody can give any child in his care.

There is a happy medium in the matter which produces happiness in the baby. "He's very fretful today but then you can't blame him. I've had so much to do this week that I haven't taken him out once. If he doesn't get out every day he gets fussy" Wouldn't you?

"She doesn't want any supper because she ate a plate of ice cream and a few crackers just an hour ago. Spoiled her supper." Well, if the child ate enough, she ate enough. Why try to have her eat supper? AND?

I believe, as I have said, that it is better to train a child to adapt itself to emergencies but before there can be any adaption worthwhile the child must have mastered his routine and technique. For that there must be a basic routine, a basic principle. Upon that we can hope for the development of a healthy, happy child.

Under the pen-name of "Cecile" Mrs. P. A. Hodgson of Collingwood, formerly of this city, conducts a column in the Collingwood paper. Recently, while on a trip through the States, she sent in a little bit of apt description which runs thus:

"The studio on East one hundred and twenty-fourth street, New York, of Antonio Ajello is a busy place just now and has been for many weeks, for in its artistic confines this far-famed wizard of wax is working on an exquisite set of candles to be burned during the marriage ceremony of "Senorita Anita and Carlos" as the Mexican people love to call Lindbergh, the "lone eagle" and his bride-to-be. The candles are made of specially prepared beeswax odorous with the perfume of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. They are seventy eight inches high and taper gracefully to the finest of wicks. The bases are carved to resemble the bloom of these flowers.

"In his own sphere Ajello is probably as far famed as Lindbergh. For the past few generations he has catered to the greatest celebrities of the world. His masterpiece is probably the memorial candle he designed and built in honor of Enrico Caruso. Lighted once a year at the tomb of the great singers, it is figured this huge pillar of wax weighing at least a ton and standing eighteen feet high will last eighteen centuries. This master candle maker also made the candles for Valentino's funeral. His studio is one of the wonder places in a city of wonders."

An old negro woman gives the following recipe for the subjugation of men: "Feed 'em, soft soap 'em and boss 'em."

A movie wiseacre, on the other hand, gives the masculine version with regard to the fascination of ladies. Phill Parker, a hosiery salesman in "Silk Legs" delivered this axiom, in speaking of his method with women: "Feed 'em, flatter 'em, fondle 'em and forget 'em."

He was a little boy with a cool duck suit and a very discontented expression. The reason for the latter lay in a baby carriage which he pushed in front of him, on a hot day. One can imagine the conversation:

"Johnny, take the baby out for a walk."

"Aw, Maw, I want to play ball this afternoon.

"Do as I tell you and don't talk back. The baby is hot and he needs an airing."

"A gee, Maw, I never have no fun at all, pushing this kid around.

"Do as I tell you, or I'll see what your father has to say about it when he comes home."

Exit Johnny with the baby carriage.

For eight cents in the old days, a housewife could buy many useful things. This sum would purchase a box of matches, or a rolling pin, a whisk, a fire shovel, a bottle of castor oil, two cakes of castile soap, a slate or a towel.

Baking soda cost five cents a pound then, starch was seven cents a pound, and toilet soap, two cents a cake.

A man could get a suit of Scotch tweeds for $15, in 1881, and "Prince of Wales" chewing tobacco was advertised at thirty-nine cents a pound.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

WHAT RADIUM HAS DONE WITH CANCER.

As you read daily about the terrible ravages of cancer with its tremendous toll of useful men and women, you are only too pleased to read of the large sums of money that are being bequeathed to the search for the cause of cancer.

Meanwhile the attempt to prevent cancer goes on apace, and all types of irritating sores on surfaces are given most careful treatment.

For cancer itself there has been the knife, and the X-ray treatment, with some use of radium.

In 1921 St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, begun the radium treatment in a systematic manner, and the director of the surgical unit that gives a record of the results obtained.

It must be admitted that these results were at first discouraging. Of four patients treated in 1921, one was alive; of five treated in 1922; one; of four treated in 1923, two; and of four treated in 1924, all are dead.

In 1924 it was decided that radium should be more widely distributed, and needless containing radium were put around the growth like a barrage.

This method gradually began to show results in 1927 of thirteen patients treated, ten were alive. Of thirty nine treated in 1928, all are alive.

The director was able to show forty nine cases, each with a drawing of the condition at the beginning of the treatment and now apparently cured. "Tumors shrivelled, ulcers healed, and glands cleared up."

You will agree that this is a wonderful record, and shows the value of persistence with this wonderful substance radium.

The thought then is that if the cause of cancer, is not at present known, we should continue to do two things; give money for research men to continue their efforts to find the cause, and also subscribe money so that the hospitals will be equipped with radium to use on cases who cannot afford to pay for it themselves.

The British government has agreed to put up half the money to buy one millions dollars worth of radium if municipalities will put up half the amount.

The above report from this well known hospital is worthy of thought.

DONT'-YOU-WORRY-TOWN.

Contributed by (Red Wing.)

There's a town called Don't-You-Worry
On the banks of the River Smile;
Where the Cheer-Up and Be-Happy
Blossom sweetly all the while.
Where the Never-Grumble flower
Blooms beside the fragrant Try,
And the Ne'er-Give-Up and Patience,
Point their faces to the sky.

In the Valley of Contentment,
In the province of I-Will,
You will find this lovely City
At the foot of No-Fret hill,
There are thoroughfares delightful
In this very charming town,
And on every hand are shade trees
Named the Very-Seldom Frown.

Rustic benches quite enticing
You'll find scattered here and there;
And to each a vine is clinging
Called the Frequent-Ernest Prayer.
Everybody there is happy
And is singing all the while,
In the Town of Don't-You-Worry,
On the Banks of the River Smile.

HOW OFTEN DO YOU BATHE?

YOUR body is constantly giving off perspiration—from one to two pints every 24 hours. This moisture dries so quickly that sometimes you do not realize its presence.

Health authorities everywhere say that, to preserve your own good health and self respect and out of consideration for others, this film of dried moisture should be washed off daily.

Gently, soothingly, Lifebuoy's creamy antiseptic lather washes away this film. It penetrates and cleanses the countless tiny pores of the skin—opens them up—lets them breathe—relaxes tired, tensed nerves and muscles, makes the world look brighter.

And more—Lifebuoy's antiseptic ingredient will stand guard as an invisible shield against infection.

Every day let Lifebuoy purify the pores of your skin and keep them clean—antiseptically clean—and sweet.

THE KING'S HIGHWAY.

Naming the provincial highways "The King's Highway," as Premier Ferguson has promised the Ontario Government will do at the next session of the Legislature, is a pretty piece of sentiment that will doubtless be approved.

The very name, "The King's Highway" has a dash of romance that recalls the old days when travel was all done over the King's roads, when stage coaches offered the swiftest form of transportation and footpads preyed upon the traveller.

And, in addition, the name has a significance that should not be missed.

The Premier himself stressed this point in his announcement.

"Why are we doing it?" said Mr. Ferguson, "as a sentiment, if you will, around which our people can rally, as a constant reminder to the public of the great organization which has the sovereign at its head—as a daily lesson to our children—so that those who come to us from other shores will be told that there is a King at the head of this country; that we pay fealty to him; that we propose to rally around him on every occasion, and maintain the Empire's great position in the world, leading the van in civilization and doing good the seven seas over."

UNEMPLOYED FOR CANADA.

The coming to Canada next month of Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Minister of Unemployment in the new British Government, is an event of much importance, particularly as, in addition to attending the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, Mr. Thomas will confer with Hon. Robert Forke, Canadian Minister of Immigration, and Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, with reference to the immigration of some of the surplus workers in Great Britain.

This is a matter of great interest to Canada, and it is to be hoped that the conference will be successful in developing a policy that will prove beneficial to the country and to Great Britain.

It is understood that the British Minister hopes to be able to place a number of British workmen on the land, in lumber camps and similar occupations, and does not contemplate the bringing out of industrial workers.

Such a program would seem to be feasible, offering good chance for success, while, on the other hand, any proposal to send unemployed citizens to Canadian cities would be sure to draw sharp opposition from labor leaders and the rank and file of organized labor.

THE DAIRY COUNCIL.

The question is sometimes asked, "What is the National Dairy Council?" and in the majority of answers there is a vagueness that indicates that most people have at best only a hazy idea of the organization and what it is doing for the dairy industry in this country.

That industry is well worth fostering when it is realized that the dairy business represents an investment of over 50 million dollars, exclusive of dairy farms, and that in 1928 it had a revenue of $265,000,000.

And so the National Dairy Council was formed, composed of 33 representative men elected by dairy organizations in every Province in Canada and from every branch of the dairy industry from the producer to the exporter.

In Ontario, for example, the members are Charles Johnston, Canadian Creamery Association, London; J. P. Griffin, secretary of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, Toronto; Burness Whitmore, Canadian Creamery Association, Harriston; Morden Neilson, Canadian Ice Cream Association, Toronto; A. E. Gracey, Western Ontario Dairy Association, Simcoe; G. B. Levis, condensed and powdered milk interests, Toronto; J. A. Sanderson, Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, Oxford Station; Hon. F. C. Biggs, Canadian Ayrshire Association, Dundas, and Elsworth Plant, Holstein-Freisian Association, Brantford, Ontario.

With such a representative organization the National Council is well equipped for useful work in the interest of dairying, and it has to its credit many achievements on behalf of that industry.

CITIZENSHIP WEEK.

The present week is being sponsored by Canadian Kiwanis Clubs as Canadian Citizenship Week, a campaign right in line with Kiwanis' constructive program and of general importance.

The objects aimed at in inaugurating this special week's endeavor are explained in a letter issued to all Kiwanis Clubs in Canada by Harold M. Diggon, of Victoria, B. C., chairman of the committee on public affairs for Canada.

"It is the mind and purpose of Kiwanis," Mr. Diggon says, "that every reasonable opportunity be utilized to further that which is one of the main objectives of our organization, namely, the promotion of an intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship. Canadian Citizenship Week presents Kiwanians throughout the Dominion with the opportunity of embarking on real energetic effort to arouse the public consciousness to a more active and intelligent interest in the affairs of the nation, or, in other words, Canadian public affairs."

Obviously there is need of such a campaign in this country, where a large percentage of the electorate refuses to accept its responsibility seriously and where there is a general lack of interest in and lack of knowledge of political problems and issues.

It is a safe assumption that the average person met on the street couldn't name off hand fifty per cent. of the members of either the Federal or Provincial Cabinets, and there is similar apathy in regard to public affairs generally.

If the Kiwanis movement does anything to stir up interest in the duties of citizenship it will be of great value to the whole country.

It isn't the heat; it's the stupidity.—Toronto Saturday Night.

CANADIAN BRAINS.

One of the most interesting analyses of Canadian-American trade balances has been made by Dr. William Mayo, famous United States surgeon. With a billion dollars of American capital in Canada, says the doctor, the United States is enjoying the benefits of ten billion dollars' worth of Canadian brains.

Probably few people in America are better able to judge of this than Dr. Mayo. One of the chief features of his stock-in-trade consists of brains, medical brains, which have made his clinic world-famous. The fact that 20 per cent. of this capital which he controls is of Canadian origin proves that he was indulging in no empty and fatuous phrases of praise.

Nor is Dr. Mayo alone in this appreciation of the merits of natives of the Dominion who have contributed to the medical knowledge of his country. Ten per cent. of the members of the American Surgeons' Association are also Canadians, he points out.

The United States has a population of 120,000,000 people. That of Canada is less than 10,000,000. The proportion of medical men to those in other callings is probably about the same in each country. This means, then, that there are probably more Canadian doctors practising in the United States than there are in Canada.

Figures on other professions are just as striking. Canada has a right to feel proud of the record she has made. There is, of course, a natural feeling of regret that so many of her educated sons have sought their livelihood across the border, but men such as these, ministering to the ills and sufferings of humanity at large, are servants of the whole world.—Border Cities Star.

COCKTAILS AND STOMACHS.

(From the New York Herald-Tribune)

The latest American to be welcomed, open-throatedly, by European society is the cocktail. It has become, says no less cautious an observer than the editorial writer of the London Lancet, "a part of the social life of every European country." Not only the wine agents view this newest phase of the American invasion with alarm. In Paris the distinguished medical man, Professor George Guillain ascribes to the cocktail cult a progressive deterioration of the French digestion, once proverbially omnipotent. In England Professor W. E. Dixon shares Professor Guillain's apprehension — and goes farther. He explains the bodily mechanism which makes cocktails, in his opinion, so much more dangerous than equal quantities of alcohol otherwise imbibed.

The blessing and the curse of the cocktail are the oils and bitter principles and aromatics which one adds to provide the characteristic flavors. Most of these substances, Dr. Dixon points out, are highly irritating, like the oil of mustard or of pepper. A few seconds after the cocktail has been swallowed these oils act, he explains, to enlarge the tiny blood vessels of the stomach lining and to engorge these with blood, very much as a mustard plaster acts to draw excess blood into the skin. This is why a cocktail is an appetizer, for the increased blood supply spurs the muscles and glands of the stomach lining to increased activity which creates a false hunger when real hunger is lacking. But this increased blood supply has another and less fortunate effect. It also quickens and makes more complete the absorption of alcohol. The average cocktail, Professor Dixon reports, has about four times the stimulating and intoxicating effect that the same quantity of alcohol taken in light wine or beer has.

That quick stimulation which the cocktail produces is blamed by the European physiologists both for its popularity and for its dangers. Used as an appetizer, a single cocktail passes muster with tolerance if no approval. The trouble is, as Americans also have been known to observe, that the immediate stimulation of the alcohol quickly absorbed from the first cocktail cries insistently for company. To bring a little blood to the stomach may be merely a healthy flush. To repeat the dose may cause overcongestion and temporary paralysis of the digestive machinery. Many youngsters resort to cocktails, Dr. Dixon believes, as a remedy for shyness—and effective remedy because of the quick stimulation, but a dangerous one because of the urge to a repeated dose. "Take one cocktail for our stomachs sake" might be good advice. Too many of the same the European experts regard with justified apprehension.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Children should make use of the supervised playgrounds, which are there for their safety as well as for their entertainment.

Just when the city is beginning to get back to normalcy after the Old Home Week re-union along comes the celebration of July the Twelfth.

The majority of old boys and girls are by this time back home again and busy in telling their friends that the old town is better than ever.

A Thought

TO MY SON

"Do you know that your soul is of my soul such part
That you seem to be fibre and core of my heart?
None other can pain me as you, son, can do;
None other can please me or praise me as you.
Remember, the world will be quick with its blame,
If shadow or stain ever darkens your name,
'Like mother, like son' is a saying so true
The world will judge largely of mother by you,
Be this then your task—if task it shall be—
To force this proud world to do homage to me,
Be sure it will say, when its verdict you've won,
'She reaped as she sowed; this man is her son'."

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 10.
"Cancer"

If July 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9.15 p.m.

"Sufficient unto the day" will be the attitude prevailing on this date and you will be short-sighted in your actions. A little more thought for to-morrow is advised. Premonitions will warn you, however, and if wise, you will heed them.

A child born July 10th will be very quiet, sober and serious-minded. It will be most affectionate, but not in the least demonstrative. It will also be very sensitive and easily hurt.

The strength, beauty and charm of your character lies in its simplicity. Women born on this date possess many Victorian traits and qualities of heart, mind and character. They are dignified, courteous, and kindly. They have considerable fortitude and stability. They possess Victorian loyalties and fidelities, and homespun integrities and simplicities. They make patient, self-sacrificing wives and mothers. Their goodness is not negative or passive—it is actively benignant and benevolent. The bigness of their hearts is felt by all that know them. They are anxious to mother anybody and everybody who needs someone to shelter and comfort them.

Men born on July 10th possess very stern characters. They aim to be fair and square, but they have little tolerance towards those who step out of what they consider the straight and narrow path of righeousness. They are not self-indulgent, and it is not their desire to pamper others. They can stand on their own legs, and they expect others to do the same. They are not prodigal of words, and they so repress all signs of affection or admiration, that they run a danger of sterilising all their generous emotions. Like the women born on this date, however they are extremely loyal, have a high degree of integrity, and are both physically and mentally courageous.

ORANGE LODGES ATTEND SERVICE

Large Representation Takes Part in Annual Parade at Millbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 10.—The annual parade of the district L. O. L. to attend divine worship took place on Sunday evening, a large representation of the various Orange Lodges turning out for the march from the local L. O. L. Hall to the United Church, where Rev. W. W. Jones, B. D., himself a member of the Order, delivered a stirring message appropriate to the trend of the times, and to the occasion.

A male choir of fifty voices led in the worship of song, their selections including, "Win Them One by One", and "Christ Will Our Pilot Be". A duet, "Hail to the Lord's Anointed", by W. H. Coombe and M. McDowell, was also much enjoyed.

Rev. Mr. Jones chose the scriptural passage upon which he based his remarks from Genesis 28 where Jacob's vision at Bethel is recorded, his topic being, "Rungs in the Ladder of Orange Principles".

Preceding the sermon were words of warm welcome, on behalf of the pastor and his people, to the visiting Order, the minister going on to mention that as the altar and the throne are the emblems of Orangeism, they formed the ideals upon which his text was founded.

Speaking of Jacob as a very human character, deceitful, contradictory, beating his brother out of his birthright by trickery, and when he thought himself alone, coming into this wonderful vision of the ladder of angels, and God, the speaker added, "I doubt if he was blushing. We are all capable of his ways, and but for the grace of God would even go beyond Jacob in his unlovely activities. Many boys are called upon to leave home, and it is often a heart-piercing experience. It is easier to quiet a guilty conscience in company; that is why some men do not pray, they are afraid to be alone with God."

The attitude of the Orange Order toward those distinctly opposed to their principles is "We wish you no harm but we must keep hewing along this line."

The rungs in the ladder of Orangeism, dealt with in as much detail as time would permit, were listed as (a) the Bible, upon the teachings of which the Orange Order is founded, the members holding it as their rule of faith and conduct; (b) the freedom of the individual in mind, conscience, action, and in respect to the honor of the franchise; 'Protestantism is the rebirth of religious thinking, and we do not like to think of the great price paid in blood, nor of the rough way we have come to this fair day in this fair land; (c) the complete separation of church and state; not that there is to be no connection between them for the church is the spiritual ministry through which the state expresses its faith; 'there is a mutual interlacing of life, but we claim complete freedom from crushing control,' (4) 'we claim for every man the right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience'; (5) the fixed determination on the part of the Orange Order that these principles shall not depart from this realm.

Illustrating his points from examples in history, with Mexico as the most modern of these, the speaker gave emphasis to his remarks, and held the large congregation in close attention throughout. "May God help us to repair our altar and throne on these principles, keeping us faithful to their upholding and practice, and thus making us a blessing to nations yet unborn."

At morning worship in the United Church the special thanksgiving service for the king's recovery was observed, the hymns which were King George's personal choice for the day being sung. A reception service followed when three young men were received into membership, and immediately afterward the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist, learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body found in the tule marsh outside the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears him tell this to Peter. The latter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman, a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other, but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else.

CHAPTER 40.

The appearance of Mrs. Kane on the witness stand caused a ripple of uncontrollable delight to sweep across the rows of press seats.

She stalked up the narrow aisle, her voluminous skirts almost brushing the chairs on either side. With the unswerving directness of an ocean liner, she had already stepped to the platform before the astonished clerk could check her progress.

"Mumble—mumble — mumble — nothing but the truth, so help you God," chanted the clerk.

Mrs. Kane fixed him with severity in her eyes.

"That's what I'm here for," she announced succinctly.

The judge blew his nose behind his handkerchief. The bailiff with rigid, contorted countenance, banged his gavel. The sketch artists seized their pencils with furious haste.

"It ain't possible," one of the Q and A twins nudged the other.

"As the farmer said when he saw a giraffe. 'There's no such animal!" murmured his companion.

"Silence in the courtroom, please!" admonished the bailiff, with the harassed air of a teacher trying to maintain discipline over a class of unruly youngsters.

Mrs. Kane surveyed the room with a disapproving stare which said as plainly as words, "What have all these people got to do with it, anyhow? They'd better go home and mind their own business."

"Mrs. Kane," began the district attorney with wary courtesy, "Do you know the defendant, David Orme?"

"Well, I ought to," clicked Mrs. Kane, viewing the questioner with manifest scorn of his stupidity.

The roll of fat across the back of the district attorney's neck reddened.

"I didn't ask you whether you ought to; I asked you whether you did. Answer the question Yes or No," he said sharply.

"I already said so."

The district attorney cast an imploring glance at the judge, who was sedulously staring out of the window.

"What were the relations between Mr. Orme and Mrs. Ellsworth at the time when you first knew him?"

"Just what they are now. He was and is Miss O'Shay's husband."

"What?"

A rustle of astonishment passed over the court room. The lounging reporters straightened and leaned forward as if pulled by invisible wires.

"You heard me," Mrs. Kane remarked caustically. "He left, and Miss O'Shay let him go. She never got a divorce from him."

"Your honor, I object!" Graham leaped to his feet as if galvanized by an electric shock. "The witness cannot possibly know this of her own knowledge."

"I certainly do. There's precious little about Miss O'Shay that I don't know of my own knowledge."

"Objection sustained. You may reframe your question."

"Will the reporter please read the question? I—I seem to be a little confused as to what the witness was answering."

The court reporter bent over his notes.

"The last question of the district attorney was, 'What' ", he announced in matter-of-fact tones.

The angular face of the judge became a deep mahogany color. He glared out of the window a moment, then gave it up and seized his handkerchief. From the bench came a series of choking sounds, interspersed with snorts. The men in the press rows rocked back and forth, throwing decorum to the winds. The bailiff drummed an unheeded tattoo with the hand holding the gavel, while the with other he wiped his eyes.

"The court will please come to order," said the judge, emerging from cover. "Proceed with your next question, Mr. District Attorney.

"What, if any, evidence have you as to the relations existing between the deceased and the defendant?" The district attorney was decidedly jumpy. He looked as if he were handling a firecracker which might go off unexpectedly.

"If you mean Miss O'Shay and Mr. Orme, Miss O'Shay told me herself. Orme simply disappeared. She was afraid if she started divorce proceedings he might turn up. Besides, she didn't want to wait. She was afraid she might lose her chance of landing Mr. Ellsworth."

"Just a moment. She told you all this?"

"Of course she told it to me!" Mrs. Kane's teeth wobbled dangerously, but clicked into place. "Did you think I made it up?"

"The witness is admonished to confine herself to answering the questions."

"You knew Mr. Orme by sight at the time of this marriage?"

"Yes," snapped Mrs. Kane, glaring balefully at the judge who had presumed to clip her utterances.

"Can you fix the date of the separation?"

"It was a year ago come April."

"And when did you next see Mr. Orme?"

"He came to Mr. Ellsworth's house and brought this letter they've all been talking about. I told him that Miss O'Shay wanted him to go away."

"And then?"

"I saw him hanging around the house. I spoke to him and told him it was no good waiting, but he said he would not leave till he had talked with her."

"And what was the last time that you saw him, prior to this trial?"

"On the evening of March 18—the last night I ever saw Miss O'Shay alive she answered a telephone call from the extension in her boudoir at about half past eight o'clock. I remember the time, because she had only just come upstairs, directly after dinner. She threw a cloak over her evening dress, and went out immediately, without telling me where she was going. I went to the hall window at the front of the house to see what she was up to. When I looked out, I saw Miss O'Shay and Mr. Orme walking down the driveway towards the street together. That was the last I saw of her—she never came back."

PROMOTION MEANS LESS PAY

TORONTO, Ont., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Provided she accepts "promotion" to the staff of the Edith L. Groves school, Miss M. Petrie, teacher in the Hillcrest school, will receive $150 less than her present salary. Miss M. Petrie has drawn the attention of the advisory vocational committee to the matter.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"Hm! I knew someone was reading over my shoulder!"

FOOD GLORIES

As one walks in the streets, particularly in those streets that attract grocers and market-men, one gradually realizes that there are a lot of new shops in them. Very glorious new food shops have broken out—brilliant in their displays of fruit, preserved things and wares of the sort that have been known as delicatessen.

There have always been delicatessen shops and there have always been grocers and fruiterers, but these new ones appeal to the eye in a fashion that is new. It dawns on the intelligence gradually that the saloons are gone and that the decorative talent that used to assist the dispensing of drinks is now behind the distribution of food. These food shops, candy stores and the innumerable eating places are the successors of the saloons.

The eating in New York must be pretty good. It always had attention, and now, besides that, it gets all that drink had. Concentration of so much talent cannot but bring results.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

One effective answer to the recent bearish report on Frood operations by a mining service is seen in results secured by deep drilling. One hole put down from 2,800 feet level has intersected the ore body at a point 500 feet below that horizon, or a depth of 3,300 feet. Here a horizontal width of 100 feet of ore has been disclosed, with nickel averaging 6 to 8 per cent., which is much higher grade than at the levels above.

SUDBURY OFFSETS LTD.

Arrangements have been completed for resumption of exploratory drilling, commencing August 1st, by Sudbury Offsets Limited, on their property on the Foy offset. A contract has been let for an additional 6,000 feet of drilling. Work to date has been very encouraging.

GEORGE COPPER

Six thousand feet of diamond drilling has been done on George Copper, Portland Canal, B.C., by Consolidated Smelters at 1,100 feet depth from out cropping mineralized zone opened 10 feet. LAKE GENEVA.

By September it is expected that about 600 men will be engaged in construction work on new copper refinery at Copper Cliff. At present, plans for plant are virtually completed and temporary construction buildings have all been finished. It is anticipated the main buildings should be under cover by winter time. Stock holdings in refinery company, capitalized at 5,000,000 shares, are understood to be as follows: International Nickel Company and American Metals Company, 4,000,000 shares; Consolidated Smelters, 1,000,000 shares. Buprt rose to 60 for a gain of 2. Ford Motors, Famous Players and Canada Dredge were steady while three other important stocks, Bell Telephone, Brazilian and International Nickel declined fractionally.

No great activity was noticeable in the Oils beside Imperial which lost fractionally at 29⅝ to sales of 2310. McColl Frontenac and British American both receded by a fraction. The same hesitancy was noticeable in the other groups.

RECORD NET SHOWN BY UNITED AIRCRAFT

New York. — The United Aircraft and Transport Corporation reported that its net profit for the first five months of 1929, after all charges including Federal income tax, was $3,327,614. Of this amount $1,803,471 was earned in the first quarter and $1,523,943 in April and May. These earnings are said to be the largest ever reported by an aeronautical company for similar periods.

Commenting on the report, Frederick B. Rentchler, president, declared that unfilled orders of the company's equipment subsidiaries were increasing, in spite of its large production and shipments. On May 31, he declared, unfilled orders totalled $10,000,000, while in June $6,000,000 additional business was received.

"Shipments and unfilled orders have been well distributed between the military air service and the commercial field." Mr. Rentschler said, "lending stability to the operations of the equipment companies. Moreover, experience has proved that engaging in army and navy design and production adds greatly to engineering prestige and progressive development of the companies.

"It is expected that the rate of shipments will continue to improve during the rest of this year. The Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company one of United's subsidiaries, established a new high level for shipments in June. The May net profit of United Aircraft was also considerably higher than for any similar period.

"The Boeing Air Transport Lines, one of the transportation subsidiaries of the corporation, has now completed 5,750,000 miles of flight of which 2,500,000 were flown at night. Approximately 12,000 miles are flown daily by Boeing over the transcontinental route between San Francisco and Chicago and the route between Los Angeles and Seattle."

FAMOUS SCOUT SHOOTS BEARS

Great Killing Was Done With a Camera Instead of Gun.

TALES OF AFRICA.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 10. — Dick Douglas, world famous boy scout, left Vancouver this morning via C.N.R. after having short two hundred kodiak bears in the islands off Alaska. "Incredible as it may seem I shot 200 bears while on my trip," said Dick. One hundred and ninety-nine with a camera and one with a gun, the latter only measured 9½ feet, and they said he was a small one, but he looked plenty big enough to me when I saw him first about 50 yards away."

Douglas, who accompanied Martin Johnson during his last African trip, will write a book covering his trip across Canada and to the Kodiak Islands. He spent part of his time while here with four young scouts from Queen Charlotte Islands who are making their first trip to a city. He recounted for them some tales of his trip to Africa as well as his adventures in Kodiak. Douglas is stopping at Jasper National Park en route to protograph some of the animals and scenery for his new volume.

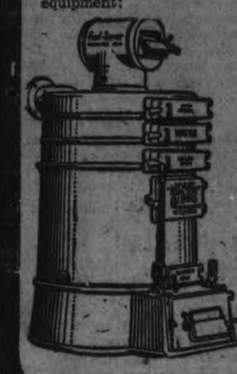
Pease "MOGUL" BOILER

Here is the letter of another well-pleased Pease owner who is very emphatic in his unqualified endorsation of Pease Heating equipment:



"The Pease Boiler is quite satisfactory. I knew what I was getting when I replaced the old one with the same make. Your boiler certainly delivers the heat when needed, and is very light on the fuel."

Consider the "Mogul" in detail. The water joints, for instance, are metal-to-metal to form the most perfect joint known—a joint infinitely superior to rubber gasketed or packed joints. A detailed description is yours on request. Write for it now.

ARCHBISHOP OF YORK FACES CHURCH'S DISESTABLISHMENT

present attended by great disorder.

"The bishops have a responsibility to discharge without waiting for the report of a commission or legislative action. The commons merely refuse to act. It introduced no new legislation. The only law which exists is the law which the Royal Commission on Church Discipline pronounced too narrow.

"At present all of us are more or less lawbreakers. The Bishops hold the law ought to be so altered as to bring within it certain practices which now lie outside. How can we leave under the stigma of law-breaking those men whose deviations from existing law we have declared to be loyal to Anglican tradition?

Parliament Not Defied.

"In the course we propose no defiance of Parliament is offered or intended," the Archbishop declared in conclusion. "We cannot at present fall back upon the law. We are bound continue in such a position as that to do our best during a transitional period apart from the law. No society can wholesomely consent to in which we are now placed."

When the House of Bishops last December declared it could not regard as inconsistent with loyalty to the Church's principles, the use by the clergy of the revised book, a great many protests including objection from a number of clergy themselves, was aroused. Fourteen hundred clergymen of the Diocese of London voted against authorizing the Bishop of London to use his discretion on employment of the revised book. The Book went on sale last winter with a note saying its publication did not imply it could be regarded as authorized for use in the churches.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 10.—Killers in Monday's offering of cattle were practically cleared in the late trading with prices firm on all classes at the Union stock yards. There were some two hundred left-overs, consisting mainly of western stockers.

Bids continued firm yesterday, though trading at the start was slow owing to the late arrival of about half of the fresh supply of 1,000 head. Sales to 11 a.m. showed butcher grades selling firm.

Choice steers made from 11¼ to 12 cents a pound and good cows 8½ to 9¼ cents.

Good butcher bulls were steady at 8½ to 9 cents a pound.

Bolognas were stronger than last week, at 7½ to 8 cents a pound.

Store cattle trade was rather dull, most offerings lacking quality. Light stockers sold Monday at 8 to 9 cents a pound and a few moved at that range yesterday.

Best native feeders were quoted at 10 to 10 ½cents.

Calf trade continued active. Prices were a shade stronger than last week, with 14 to 15 cents a pound for choice veals and 10 to 13 cents for medium quality. Grassers were worth 7 to 8½ cents a pound.

Lamb supply was heavy, there being only a few dozen sheep in an offering of over 1,300 sheep and lambs. Lamb prices were steady at 16 cents a pound for the bulk of choice. Medium lambs brought from 15 to 15½ cents, with culls at 12 to 14 cents a pound.

Sheep were slow at Monday's decline, plain to choice showing a range from three to six cents a pound.

The hog market was strong with packers bidding 12¾ cents f.o.b. and 14 cents off cars for select, for an advance of 50 cents for a hundredweight for the week. Salesmen were asking another quarter higher in the hope of securing 13 cents f.o.b. and 14¼ cents w.o.c. in view of the strong markets outside.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 10.—An easier tone prevailed on the local butter market yesterday. Wholesale prices for Eastern Townships No. 1 fluctuated between 36¾ to 37 cents per pound. Retail prices were 39 cents per pound for solids and 40 cents per pound for reprints. Receipts amounted to 23 boxes, compared with 80 for the same day a week ago.

Local cheese prices were again lower to-day. Ontario No. 1 white and colored sold at 18½ to 18½ cents per pound. Receipts were 8,445 white and colored at 17⅞ to 17½ cents per pound. Receipts were 8,455 boxes, as compared with 6,790 boxes for the same day of last week.

No changes were announced in the local egg prices. Retail prices were as follows: Fresh extras, 38 cents per dozen; fresh firsts, 31 to 32 cents per dozen; fresh seconds, 27 to 28 cents per dozen. Receipts were 3,062 as compared to 3,490 cases for the same day last week.

Old potatoes continued high on to-day's market, selling from 60 to 85 cents per 90 pounds in bulk. New pottaoes were steady at $6 for No. 1, $4 for No. 2 and $3 for culls per barrels of 165 pounds.

Live poultry sold at 30 cents per pound for heavy fowl and 38 to 40 cents for spring chickens.

The local grain market was unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 10. — Sellers far outnumbered buyers of wheat in the late dealings yesterday and prices tumbled down fast. Word of beneficial rains in Argentina together with some prospects of moisture last night both north and south of the Canadian line, tended alike to stimulate selling and curtail demand toward the last, would-be purchasers meanwhile apparently holding off to await United States and Canadian Government crop reports, due to-morrow.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 2 1-4c to 2 7-8c under Tuesday's finish. Corn closed 1 1-8c to 2 1-8c net lower; oats, 3-4c to 1 1-4c off, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 7c.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat. Generally favorable weather over the corn belt counted also in favor of sellers. There was talk, too, that recent rains northwest had improved the oats crop outlook.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 10.—Wheat trading displayed little activity yesterday and prices, following an advance of 1½ cents near the opening, were forced lower by profit-taking and final quotations revealed losses of 1 7-8 cents to 2 7-8 cents for the day. Very little export business was in evidence.

Cash wheat prices were generally unchanged to 1-2c. higher in an inactive market, due mostly to the light offerings. Coarse grains were also dull with oats dropping fractionally and flax easing 1-2c. Barley and rye moved forward fractionally.

Rain is still urgently required throughout the Prairie Provinces. During the past 24 hours very little rain was reported. Temperatures have dropped, in some cases almost to the frost line.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, July 10. — Butter prices slipped a trifle in dull trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday. The reason advanced by prominent local dealers was that in the past day or so a certain amount of early storage butter has been offered on the market and the additional supplies have had the effect of forcing quotations down slightly. Rain has had a detrimental effect on the quality of the No. 2 grade in particular, and a little larger spread became noticeable yesterday between the two varieties. Supplies continue to arrive on the market in quantities quite sufficient to answer all demand and the storage offering, which had been laid away at lower prices than are now prevalent, was sufficient to cause the slump in bidding. The No. 1 grade creamery sagged to from 37¾c to 38c per pound, while the No. 2 grade was quoted at from 36c to 36½c per pound.

The local wholesale egg market continued in the draggy trend of the past few days, and it was reported that country dealers were experiencing difficulty in moving supplies. The local demand for extras continued to pick up, although both firsts and seconds showed a noticeable slackening off regards in particular for the almost no call in yesterday's trading. The comparatively cool weather of recent days has been instrumental in continuing the arrival of fairly heavy shipments and the demand has not been up to the supply quite as much as would be considered entirely normal. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; firsts, 25c per dozen; seconds, 21c per dozen.

The local wholesale cheese market was very slow yesterday and dealers state that the product is not moving into either consumptive or export channels with any amount of ease. Prices again registered a decline and the No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded variety was quoted at from 18½c to 19c per pound.

CONDITIONS IN THE HOMELAND

in progress at the present time, and the industrial progress, he claimed, was due to the spiritual awakening. He quoted facts, figures and circumstances to prove his statements. The fact that China still lived and remained powerful although other great powers had risen and waned, was a fact not easily sidestepped. There were the three great fours, a civilization more than 4,700 years old an area of 4,500,000 square miles, and a population of 480,000,000 souls. Of these, only twenty-five percent were considered literate, the remainder were unable to read their own characters. Christianization was proceeding by leaps and bounds, and industrial progress was enjoying similar progress.

From the lowly Oriental who runs the little laundry nearby, or the "Chink" who keeps the stuffy little restaurant just around the corner, to the highly educated Dr. Hseih, is a far cry in many ways. Yet these men, he calls his friends. This may be doubted by many, but it has been proved in at least one case. The doctor generously presented a leaflet to the reporter. On it was his picture and a press notice from a western Ontario paper. In the bottom right hand corner was a space filled with Chinese characters. Dr. Hseih wrote underneath this, "Introducing Mr. J. S. Dickson to my fellow countrymen." His signature was in Chinese. Curiosity is often the failing of a newspaper reporter so he went directly to a Chinese restaurant after leaving Dr. Hseih, and made inquiries of the proprietor. It was like getting money from home, in so far as the worthy Cantonman invited the reporter to have supper and the treats were "on the house." It was evident that at least one of the less fortunate Chinese agreed with his learned countryman.

People Being Educated.

The old days of oppression of the masses were gone. Mass education was going ahead rapidly. French German, Spanish and Latin were being taught in the schools as optional subjects, but English was compulsory. China, he claimed was, alive to the situation. He did not expect his country to show results over night, but was contented to wait the result of time. The changes he so strongly urged and worked for, he admitted might not come till long after his time, but he was content to think that he was doing all he could to bring them about. I have consecrated my life to this work, he said.

Dr. Hseih is not only a gentleman, but a highly educated gentleman. He possesses the degree of Doctor of Literature (English) from Pekin, China. He is a graduate of St. Peter's College, Cambridge University, England, of the class of 1901 From there he obtained the degree of Arts Bachelor. From Columbia University, U.S.A., he obtained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. From Tufts College, Boston, Mass., he received the degree of Doctor of the Learned Law.

At the present time Dr. Hseih occupies the position of managing director of the Chinese Trade Bureau for the United States. This office also places him largely in control of the Chinese trade to Canada as well. He is also the special correspondent to the Chinese National Chung Wha News Agency of Shanghai, China. As a diplomat, he has been Chinese Consul at the Straits Settlements, Australia, and South Africa. He was also the economic expert at the Chinese Embassy at Washington in 1922. In 1925 he was the Chinese representative at the Williamstown Institute. His experiences cover many years and a large portion of the world. He is a man of unusual mentality, and well worth knowing.

Picnic Enjoyed

Wednesday was the day set for the Apsley United church picnic, but owing to the steady downpour of rain was postponed until the next day which fortunately turned out fine. The postponement affected the attendance but a good time was spent in the afternoon with sports and races.

Brothers Win Race

Stanley and Vernal Windsor brought fame to Apsley in winning the double paddle canoe race in Peterborough. The victory was more creditable in that they had not paddled together this year, had no practice, and were not like their competitors, fitted out in racing togs. In the single canoe race Vernal came second and Stanley third. With a course of training these two men would be hard to beat in any big event.

Institute Erects Signs

Tourist welcome signs have been placed at the south and north entrances of the village under the auspices of the Women's Institute, the lettering being done by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, at their request.

Contributes to Fund

In answer to an appeal from the St. Joseph's Island Branch of the Red Cross society, whose hospital was destroyed by fire last February, the Apsley branch has sent $25 towards the rebuilding of the outpost.

Prize List Prepared

The Fair directors met on Saturday and decided to erect an addition to the main building. A very attractive prize list has been prepared and children's classes added this year. The value of the prizes has been increased and it is expected that the "Bigger and Better" slogan of the secretary-treasurer will be demonstrated successfully on the Fair dates, September 9 and 10. More special prizes would be very heartily welcomed by the directors.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED REGARDS TRENT RIVER DANCE PAVILION

Hall in Limelight Again Following Dispute Among Residents of District.

OPPOSE OPERATION.

TRENT RIVER, July 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Whether or not the dancing pavilion at Trent Bridge, known as Coral Gables Casino, will run full time, part time or not at all, for the moment at least, is in the hands of G. A. Payne, Police Magistrate in the town of Campbellford. For some time past, this pavilion has been in the limelight in one way and another, till the present situation has arisen and the life of the hall as such, appears to be at stake. Harold E. Burgess, its operator, was brought before Magistrate Payne to answer to a charge of operating the pavilion contrary to by-law 1088 of the township of Seymour. Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C. of Cobourg, appeared for the defense, and N. Alex MacColl was present in the interests of the township. After hearing the evidence, His Worship reserved judgment till Friday, July 12, at eleven o'clock.

Dancing at Trent Bridge has been carried on for approximately twenty-five years. During that time pavilions have come and gone, and the same may be said of the men who owned or operated them. The first attempt was a modest venture with the dance floor situated in what is locally known as the Grove. This spot is located directly across the road from the present Coral Gables, but there are more and newer cottages there now and the dancing pavilion has become a thing of ancient and, by some forgotten history. The next dance floor was also an open-air structure and it was located in Wight's orchard.

But the summer resort was growing rapidly and more spacious requirements were required for dancing. Another pavilion, this time a closed-in structure, made its appearance on the north side of Black Channel. For several years this place furnished till weather and time got in their work and made extensive repairs necessary.

Coral Gables Casino made its appearance about ten years ago. White Hall Gardens appeared almost simultaneously. The dancers favored first one then the other. For the past two years Coral Gables has basked in the favor of the dancing crowd. But its path has not been smooth. On different occasions, the operator has appeared in court to answer to minor charges such as running past the legal closing time. At the present time, the council of the township has withheld his license until certain conditions are agreed upon. One thing led to another till the case was brought to court. Until Magistrate Payne gives his judgment, matters are legally at a standstill.

There is a distinct difference of opinion in the colony at the resort. Some are for the pavilion and others are just as firmly opposed to it. Last Saturday night, it was learned, there was a meeting in the building to discuss the situation. Several of the township councillors were present. Nothing definite resulted since the case was already in court, the evidence taken and only the judgment remaining to be heard.

TO START CUTTING WHEAT IN ONTARIO

Crop Looks Splendid With Heads Filled Out and Straw Long.

CHATHAM, Ont., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Wheatcutting will begin in this district this week. Several fields in Dover and Chatham townships, close to the city, are almost ready for the binders, while reports from other parts of the county indicate similar conditions. Generally speaking, the fall wheat crop looks good. The heads are well filled out, while the straw is a good length.

Exhibition chorus of 2,000 voices accompanied by the famed Goldman Concert Band, of New York, will be heard in four concerts at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. (Examiner Correspondence)

OMEMEE, July 10.—The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary society, of Trinity United church, was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. Blanchard.

Mrs. Blanchard, who was the delegate who attended the sectional convention in Lindsay on June 27, reported that $308 had been forwarded by the society to the branch treasurer thus far this year.

The devotional leaflet "Giving With Method" by Thanksgiving Ann was read by Miss Madeleine Gray.

"Healing Leaves" was the title of the ninth chapter of the study book, "Drums In the Darkness" and was given in four parts by Mrs. R. H. Williamson, Mrs. R. Bradley, Mrs. E. Bradburn and Mrs. W. Brown.

The offering was taken by two little "Wide Awake" Mission band girls, Doreen Morcombe and Wilma Bradley and the meeting brought to a close in the usual manner.

A social half hour was then enjoyed with Mrs. F. G. Sandy, Mrs. W. Henderson and Mrs. R. Bradley as hostess.

DISPUTE CONTINUES REGARDING HALL

Trent River Cottagers Discuss Question With Township Council.

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, July 10.—A meeting of the cottagers was called at "Coral Gables Casino" on Saturday night for the purpose of meeting Reeve Vanvolkenberg and the members of the township council with regard to the pavilion remaining open for the season.

Joseph Pomers, barrister from Chicago, who with Mrs. Powers is spending his holidays here, was chairman for the evening and in his address spoke on behalf of the cottagers who are anxious to have this popular place of amusement open. Among the number who spoke briefly in favor of the pavilion were: Mrs. Hallowell, Thomas Lloyd, Thomas Bennett, Will and Jack Christie, Noel Gill, D. O. Gorman, Will Wright, Oliver Garnean, N. Garnean and James Cork. Will Wright referred to the parking of the cars near the pavilion, and also about road conditions.

Reeve Vanvolkenberg spoke briefly and said he and his his councillors had attended the meeting to hear the cottagers views but would not say anything as yet so that no definite decision was for coming.

MANY PEOPLE ENJOY PROGRAM

Chautauqua Gives Opening Play on Saturday Before an Audience of Eight Hundred.

CHURCH PARADE HELD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 10. — The opening program of the Chautauqua was held on Saturday night in the big tent on the fair grounds. Over eight hundred people enjoyed "The Family Upstairs", a comedy play presented by the Martin Erwin Players.

"The Family Upstairs" deals with the Heller family who are typical of the average family of their station of life. The father, a simple good-natured fellow who sees no sense in eating with a collar on; the mother, a strong-minded woman who likes to put on airs with the neighbors; Willie, the lovable idle son who would rather become a politician than get a job; Annabelle, the delicious flapper sister, whose one idea is to evade her music lessons, and of supreme importance Louise and her "young man" Charles Grant; the Juliet and Romeo of the delightful play. Full of irresistible laughable situations from beginning to end touched off with little moments of pathos that bring a tear-drop brimming to the eyes. "The Family Upstairs" warms the heart with its vivid picture of the little near-tragedies, hopes and ideals crowded into the Heller family life. Eight more entertainments will be given which will be equally as interesting and enjoyable.

Lodge Members Parade

On Sunday evening an Orange service was held in the United church. About forty members of the Orange Order were present.

An interesting address was given by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard. This was taken from Exodus 18:20, "And thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws and shalt show them the way wherein they must walk and the work that they must do."

Before one can be an Orangeman he must declare his belief in God. Principles in the Order are of high standard and each were commended to be true to such principles, not only get them in your minds but in your hearts and live them and in this way you can be effective workers in the world, accomplishing such ideals which one may wish to reach. King William of Orange took his ideals from Jesus Christ and each one present was commended to do likewise. "To be like William of Orange you must be like his master. You will be failures as Orangemen unless you are successful Christians. Be true then to the principles. If we do not live in harmony with the text we are not living up to our ideals."

COMMUNITY HOLDS ANNUAL OUTING

Good Program Provided at Picnic Held at Hermiston Lake.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10.— The annual picnic of the community of Godolphin was held at Hermiston Lake recently, when people were present from Oshawa, Hastings, Warkworth, Toronto and Campbellford.

Early in the morning the people assembled with their large picnic baskets and at noon the tables were set and about sixty people sat down to an excellent meal. There was a booth where ice cream, soft drinks, etc., could be procured.

After dinner the races were run off after which a ball game between Godolphin and Hermiston Lake was staged. During the afternoon the pupils of S. S. No. 13, Percy, (Godolphin) presented their teacher with a set of sterling silver candlesticks, the address being read by Donald Herriott and the presentation made by Eleanor Oliver. Miss Smith has been the teacher at this school for the past three years and is now leaving to accept a position on the Toronto staff. Miss Smith made an appropriate reply, wishing the pupils much success, after which supper followed.

"Before My Baby Was Born"

"I was in very poor health before my baby was born and had to lie down two hours every day. The doctor said I would never carry my baby as I was too weak. My mother persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped me wonderfully. My baby is not very big but he is strong and healthy. I recommend the Compound to every woman I hear complaining and when I feel weak I take it again myself. Everybody says they never saw me looking better. I will be glad to answer letters if I can help other women to be strong and healthy again." —Mrs. William Hardy, 70 Queen Street, Lindsay, Ontario.

FOUR APPEALS ARE ALLOWED

Canadian National Railways Ask Assessment Readjustment From Campbellford Court.

OTHER APPEALS HEARD.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence.)— The Campbellford Court of Revision was generous and allowed each of the four appeals which were brought to its attention. The court met in the council chamber last night at seven-thirty. It consisted of the Mayor, who was elected chairman of the court, Councillors Abernethy, O'Sullivan and MacDonald.

Four Appeals.

The first appeal was in writing from the Canadian National Railways. The letter pointed out that since certain property inside the corporation had been sold to the town by the railroad company, the company's assessment should be reduced. hey had deducted $100 from the assessment as sent to them and remitted the taxes less this amount. The court expressed the opinion that this was a very generous adjustment and it was allowed on motion of O'Sullivan and MacDonald.

Walter Henson wanted his assessment changed to the normal value of property which he occupies. This value was, he said, $2,000. There were twelve lots in the parcel of land, he explained, but he had only purchased four and the buildings. Since that time, most of the buildings had been torn down or removed from the premises. The matter was considered and the amount of the adjustment calculated. On motion of O'Sullivan and Abernethy, Henson was granted a rebate of $115 on his taxes for this year.

R. H. McKelvie was the third to appeal. He asked for an adjustment on his mill property and after consideration, it was granted. It was pointed out that he was only operating part of the mill and his assessment wil lbe the same as last year, $8,100.

Dr. G. A. Hay was the last to appeal to the court. He explained that he had not sent in a notice of appeal because he had done so last year and the court had adjourned before dealing with his case. He asked that he be assessed for his business tax only on the property which he occupied. Although he had a full lot frontage on Front street, the building only occupied thirty-two feet. After discussing the case, the requested adjustment was allowed and his assessment will the same as in 1926.

The court adjourned at 8.40 p.m.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL.

Annual Affair Conducted Under Auspices of Balyduff Presbyterian Church.

PONTYPOOL, July 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—The annual strawberry festival held under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church at Balyduff on Friday evening was a huge success.

The baseball game was the best of the season, the game bing played by the two old rival teams, Yelverton and Pontypool. The final score was 2 to 1 in favor of Pontypool and was one of the best exhibitions of baseball seen here this year. Mitchell, pitcher for Pontypool, was in real form, striking the side out in two different innings, and Yelverton was held to a few scattered hits. Wilson also did some good work for Yelverton and pulled his team out of some bad holes. The batting honors went to Bannon, Mitchell and Lowery, while Capstick, Stewart and Pearlstein performed well in the field.

The line-up was:

Pontypool.—Bannon, c; Lowery, 2b; Stewart, 1b; H. Lowery, cf; Taylor, rf; Clark, 3b; Pearlstein, ss; Mitchell, p; Graham, lf.

This is Pontypool's first win of the season, but the manager, John Payne, cleams before the season is over that his team will be strong contenders for the league cup.

After the game the people listened to a play which was given by the Hampton Dramatic Club.

The total proceeds of the evening amounted to more than two hundred dollars, and the Balyduff people are to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment.

Farmer Is Injured Falling Off Load

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 10.—While drawing hay into the barn on Friday, Charles Pettifer was seriously injured, when instead of getting off the load, he remained on and seeing the doors were too low to enter, he braced his feet against a beam thinking it would help to stop the horses. This failed to stop them, however, with the result that Mr. Pettifer was bent backwards, causing a dislocation of joints in the back bone, just above the shoulders and thus causing paralysis of the lower part of the body. He was immediately taken to Belleville hospital for treatment.

International Loop Leaders Fall Before Keys

LEAFS PROFIT DESPITE RAIN

Wet Weather Prevents Final Game With Birds But Toronto Gains On Wings.

BEARS BEAT ROYALS.

TORONTO, July 10.—The heavy deluge that broke over the city shortly before game time yesterday afternoon prevented the Leafs and Orioles from playing the final game of their series. The Birds departed for Buffalo last night, just as well satisfied to let matters stand as they were, while the Leafs profited to some extent by the defeats suffered by Montreal and Rochester. To-day the locals are sole occupants of second place, while Rochester's lead has been reduced a trifle to eight and a half games.

FEATURE DAY FOR FISHER.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 10. — (C. P.) — The Buffalo Bisons inflicted a double lacing on the Jersey Black cats here yesterday by scores of 14 to 3 and 8 to 5.

The first game was notable for a record performance by George Fisher, who clubbed two homers in the third inning, scoring four of eight runs tallied by the Bisons when twelve men came to the plate against Don Miller.

DROP LEAGUE LEADERS.

ROCHESTER, July 10. (C.P.) — Reading scored a 7 to 3 victory over the Rochester tribe yesterday in an International League match that was halted by rain in the fifth inning. The visitors drove Derringer from the mound in the third inning when all of their runs were scored and thus came from behind to trim the Rochesterites, who had amassed a 3-run lead in the first two innings.

ROYALS WIN SERIES.

MONTREAL, Que., July 10. (C.P.) —The Bears closed their second visit of the season to Montreal by taking a 10-7 decision in a loosely-played and badly-pitched contest yesterday afternoon. The Royals, however, captured the series, 4 games to 2. Chester Falk, the elonagted Royal right-hander, was knocked out of the box before he had got a man out in the first with two runs in and the bases full and although John Leon Pomorsk, the youthful Montreal right-hander, retired the side without further damage, he, too, got into a peck of trouble in the fifth, and Buckalew had to finish the contest.

CLERKS TEAM WINS FOURTEENTH GAME

Tied With St. Andrews For First Place in Campbellford Softball League.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Last night the Clerks won the fourteenth game of the scheduled series in the local softball league when they defeated the Mill by the score of 18-11. The game was played on the high school grounds, and since the regular diamond was slightly muddy from the recent rains, the grass to the north east of the school building was used. By their victory last night, the Clerks are again tied with St. Andrews for first place in the league. The Mill is still in fourth position.

All the way through, the Mill men played a hard game, earning the runs as they got them. The Clerks got away to a good start with seven runs in the first frame against one for the Mill. In their fifth time up, the Weavers began to worry the Office Boys when they started a wholesale steal and collected six runs to make their total up to nine. The actual stealing was responsible for three runs and Wilkes' homer drove in two in front of him. Brown and Cochrane exchanged places and Brown did the twirling for the rest of the game, beginning in the fifth. In the seventh, Charlie Montgomery replaced Scott at left field. For the Clerks, Denike drove a homer in the first frame. He was the second man to bat.

Line up:

Clerks—Maybee, p; H. McArthur, c; Denike, 1b; D. Rumions, 2b; J. Gay, 3b; E. Bush, ss; Atkinson, cf; Richardson, rf; Hendy, lf.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10.— (Examiner Staff Correspondence.)—Another swimmer who is training in anticipation of the big time branch of that sport, has sent his entry to Campbellford for the Marathon swim to be held here August 2nd. Alex Souzan, New Toronto, is at present training at Port Dalhousie for the coming Wrigley Marathon and will swim in Campbellford in the three mile event here during Old Home Week.

CATS HAVE CLOSE CALL

VICTORS 7-5.

A weak left field almost spelt defeat for the Bridgenorth Wildcats in last night's softball fixture at Central School Grounds, which they finally won by a 7-5 score from the C.G.E. The Cats led 4-0 until the end of the fifth stanza, when the Electrics discovered that the left field was the vital spot, and proceeded to hammer three healthy hits into that territory which combined with a complimentary issued by Forsythe culminated into four runs for the Canadian General Electric boys to tie up the game.

The sixth innings for both teams snapped past with a vengeance, while a double play by the Electrics was the high spot, when Playford threw Shearer's grounder to Calladine, catching Connors, who was forced from first on the play. Calladine lost no time in tossing to Munro at first to catch Shearer on the path for the second killing.

The seventh innings also showed good ball playing, the men on both sides retiring in order. In the eighth the Cats began to snap out of their temporary slumber. Galbraith singled and finally scored at the expense of the Electric's errors, as did Weese for a second counter in the innings, nosing the Bridgenorth team two runs in front. the score then stood 6-4 for the Cats. In the ninth Forsythe, the pitcher from the Town of the Floating Bridge, scored the final counter for his team, while Frost scored the only run for the Electrics in the ninth, and after their comeback that they staged in the fifth, making the final score 7-5.

Gillespie at centre field played a nice game for Bridgenorth, and looked especially pretty when he made a nice throw from centre field to the plate, catching Newson on his way home, so ending the frame scoreless for the Electrics when they had a lovely opportunity to add another marker to their column.

Weese at second pulled many a hot fly from the ether, and pulled off a back flip when he caught Munro's Munro's fly for the put-out, and came up smiling with the ball still in his clasp. Baird at third also turned in a nice game for the Cats, while Galbraith looked after his territory and stopped the riot in left field in the sixth when he took over that position.

Newson and Frost were the outstanding players for the Electrics.

The line-ups:

Wildcats — G. Dormer, ss; H. Dormer, 1b; Galbraith, rf, lf; Weese 2b; Baird, 3b; Gillespie, cf; Connors, c; Shearer, lf. rf; Forsythe, p.

C.G.E. — Weir, c; Calladine, 2b; Frost, 3b; Playford, ss; Munro, 1b; Newson, lf; Miller, cf; Powell, rf; Robinson, p.

CAMBRIDGE SCORES 377.

LONDON, July 10 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Cambridge first innings in their match with Oxford University at Lord's ended yesterday for 377 runs, J. T. Morgan bringing his overnight score up to 149.

Oxford batted 50 minutes before the lunch interval and had scored 48 runs for the loss of no wickets, at that time.

QUEEN CITY MERMAIDS CAPTURE ACQUATIC HONORS

No. 1 is Helen McCormack, Dominion champion diver; No. 2, is Dorothy Prior, Canadian representative at Amsterdam and Quebec champion at 100 yards; No. 3 is Miriam Campbell, smart free style expert and No. 4 is Peggy Wood who is noted for her all-around skill.

CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE NOTES

Except that he spells his name with a "y" there is no light thrown upon the mysterious Mister Poynter in the Belleville newspaper reports of Saturday's game in Oshawa. The Intelligencer merely publishes an Oshawa report without comment, while Mister Tice of the Ontario raves to the extent of half a column about the pitching of the new lefthander without a word as to where he comes from or how he happened to be out there Saturday in a Belleville uniform. The Ontario does, however, tell us that Poynter is "a youth in age, but a veteran in experience." The Central Ontario League officials ought to be a little bit interested in the question of where he got that experience. It was certainly not obtained in Belleville, and it would be nice to know just where this accomplished stranger, who could step out in a pinch and pitch in mid-season form, really hails from. So far there hasn't even been a newspaper explanation of his presence in Oshawa Saturday, and frankly we're from Missouri, even if the Central Ontario League executive apparently is not.

Here is what the Intelligencer says about him:

"Another real assistance was added to the National hurling corps when Tommy Poynter, a youth in age but a veteran in experience, on Saturday literally stood the Motor team of Oshawa on their heads in the latter town and won a well played game by a score of 5-2. By the win the Nationals considerably increased their lead in the Central Ontario League race, and by winning all of their remaining home games can come home in front. Poynter gave about the neatest exhibition of pitching that has been seen in the league to date, and the fact that he throws from the left side of his body, makes the hurling all the more impressive. Relieving Utronki, who was as wild as the proverbial hare, in the second frame after he had walked two without an out being registered, the youth stepped to the mound in this tight position, assumed a most nonchalant air, and proceeded to set down the heavy hitters of the Motor squad with regularity. Not only did he relieve the situation in that frame, but until the end of the pastime he was complete master of the play and restricted the willow wielders to four scattered hits, two of them being exceedingly scratchy. He was exceptionally well handled by Peeney Mills and his teammates fielded perfectly, especially in the pinches.

"Tommy seemed to be at home in the heavy going, his curve ball having plenty of break and his speed tantalizing, as it came up with a half speed motion. He had fine control and his fielding of his position was well executed. Nothing flustered him to any degree and the team were in high spirits when they trotted off the field. With Utronki, Alex. Weir and a lefthander to thrown in against the opposition and all of them ready for work, Walter Gerow is certainly sitting pretty with a doubleheader on deck for next Saturday in Peterborough and a single game on Wednesday. It would be real nice if "Wicky" Ross would join the squad and then the hurlers could be left on the bench to work in their turn."

The attraction of a doubleheader here on Saturday with the league leading Belleville Nationals as the Petes' opposition will draw the biggest crowd of the season over to James Stevenson Park on Saturday. A couple of wins over Belleville this week would be of great assistance to the homesters, who after a slump that promised to be disastrous, have fought themselves back into the race again and are confident that they will improve their position before many more games are played. The first game Saturday will be called at 2 o'clock.

MENIE DEFEATS PETHERICKS 15-13

(Examiner Correspondence)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 10. —The annual garden party of the Rylstone United congregation was held on James Meiklejohn's lawn on Friday evening with a good crowd in attendance, splendid summer weather prevailing. All the booths reported sell-outs and the gate receipts were nearly $120.00. The Northumberland regiment band under the leadership of Mr. Pearson rendered excellent musical program. The new minister of the congregation. Rev. Mr. Bunt, formerly of Enterprise, was present and spent a most enjoyable evening with the members of his congregation and their friends.

Before darkness set in a game of softball was played between the Menie and Petherick's corners clubs. Menie's were weakened by the absence of some regulars, so obtained the loan of four players from Hoards. One of this number, A. Jones, lead batter of the team scored five runs or one third of the teams total of 15. Pethericks could only pound Maybee's offerings for 13 counters and lost out by a narrow margin. Gerald Petherick was the leading batter for the locals with four hits and three runs.

CIRCUIT FOR BOTTOMLEY

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—(Canadian Press).— "Sonny" Bottomley used his trusty war club with telling effect yesterday and slammed out two homers to give St. Louis a 7 to 4 victory over Philadelphia in ten innings.

SENATORS EVEN DETROIT SERIES

Garland Braxton Holds Tigers To Four Hits For 2-1 Victory.

ATHLETICS DROP ONE.

DETROIT, July 10.—(C.P.)—With Garland Braxton pitching four-hit ball, Washington Senators evened their series with the Tigers yesterday by taking the list game 2 to 1. Braxton's control was near perfect. He walked only one man.

One of Heinie Schuble's two errors gave the Senators a run in the first inning, and their second was the result of a triple by Buddy Myer and West's single. His single past Braxton was converted into a run in the first inning when Gehringer later doubled.

CHICAGO, July 10.—(C.P.)— The league leading Athletics dropped the first series of their second western invasion by losing to the White Sox yesterday, 6 to 4.

Old "Red" Faber again was the Athletics' master, holding the Macks to eight hits, scattered, except in the sixth, when Philadelphia scored twice. The win gave Chicago three out of four games in the series.

ST. LOUIS, July 10.—(C.P.)—The Yankees made it three out of four from the Browns by shading the home team 8 to 7 here yesterday for their ninth victory over the St. Louis forces in eleven games this season. The champions increased their margin over the Browns to two games, and reduced the lead of the first-place Athletics to seven contests, as the Mackmen lost in Chicago yesterday.

"Babe" Ruth's eighteenth home run in the fourth inning helped the Yankees.

HEYDLER MAY HOLD COURT ON REDLEGS-CUBS' FEUD

NEW YORK, July 10. — The feud that has apparently sprung up between the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs as a result of incidents on and off the playing field may wind up in President Heydler of the National League "holding court" on the whole situation reports the Associated Press. The League's chief executive, at least is prepared to take whatever action is needed to avoid further outbreaks of the sort that led up to the fine and suspension of Hack Wilson, Chicago outfielder.

The latest development on Monday involved a conference between President Heydler and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds, who called voluntarily upon the league chief in company with Pete Donahue ,the Cincinnati pitcher attacked by Wilson in a railroad station at Chicago last week after episodes of violence earlier in the day upon the ball field.

So far, the suspension of Wilson for three days, a term that expired yesterday, is the only discipline administered by President Heydler in connection with the flare-up between the two clubs. It is understood, however, that the league chief also warned Ray Kolp, Cincinnati pitcher, against "riding" opposing players from the dugout. Kolp's tactics as a "jockey" are familiar throughout the National League circuit, and it was because of his alleged taunts that Wilson left first base to invade the hostile ranks of the Reds at Chicago.

"Abie's Irish Rose", Thursday Friday and Saturday

Nancy Carroll, popular Paramount screen actress recently landed one of the most coveted parts of the present cinematic season. She essays the role of Rosemary in Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose", Thursday Friday and Saturday.

Miss Carroll was personally chosen for the part by Miss Nichols. She fills the requirements to the letter inasmuch as she is an Irish lass, with blue eyes and red hair.

Born of Irish parents on Tenth avenue in New York City, Miss Carroll has been in theatricals most of her life following her graduation from school. She appeared in several New York musicals, and was given the leading parts in several productions staged at Los Angeles. Her appearance there marked the beginning of several screen offers for small parts which she accepted.

Miss Nichols, the author of the play and who supervised the transplanting of the record breaking stage attraction to the screen at the Paramount studios in Hollywood, was convinced that Miss Carroll filled the requirements for the part the minute she first saw her. A screen test was made, with Miss Carroll being assigned the part.

Miss Carroll plays opposite Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Paramount star, and who is the Abie in the screen production of the play.

The little Irish lass is being carefully groomed by Paramount studio officials, and if her reception by the critics and public alike is any criterion of her popularity resulting from her work, there is little doubt that she will soon enjoy that select estate in moviedom.

Others in the cast of the film version of the play are Jean Hersholt, J. Farrell MacDonald, Bernard Grocey, Ida Kramer, Nick Cogley, Camillus Pretal and Rosa Rosanova.

The total value of the Canadian National Exhibition Park is $15,000,000.

WILL COMPETE.

Florence "Jane" Bell, member of the Toronto Ladies' Olympic Club who has left for Vancouver, where she will take part in the women's track meet to be held there on July 12 and 13.

SAYS PELLETS USED NOW ARE LIKE 'BULLETS'

Pittsburg Pilot Praises Own Club—Holds Great Hopes For Winning Pennant.

PREDICTS CLOSE FIGHT.

Reds Will Stage Comeback — Interested in American League Race.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Donie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, thinks his fast traveling buccaneers may win the national league pennant if the lively ball does not kill or main some of his best players.

The Pirate pilot was asked by the Associated Press if the ball is as closely related to a rabbit as has been alleged by some indignant players.

"It's not a ball, it's a bullet," said Donie. "Somebody's going to get killed if they don't watch out. A pitcher who has to put the ball over hasn't a chance. All he can do is to pitch and duck."

However, if the Pirates do not forget to duck, the manager thinks he has a great chance to win another pennant

"We will have to keep our heads up all the way, for this is going to be a fight right down to the finish," said Bush. "The Cubs and Giants will take a lot of beating. The Cards have not been getting the pitching and went into a slump. They all do. When the pitching fails, you are through until you make other arrangements. That's what happened to us last year.

Four Coming Through.

"Our pitching is good now and we have four players who figured to make or break us playing good ball every day. These four are Grantham at second base, Sheely at first, Bartell at short and Comoroskey in left. We know what the rest of the players could do, of course. There was no doubt about the Waners, Traynor or Hargreaves.

"Grantham right now is playing about the best ball he ever played. Sheely is going well at first. He's not the fastest first sacker in the league but he's a wizard on thrown balls and he can hit. Bartell has a world of corage and has fitted into the infield and Commoroskey has made the outfield.

"Our pitching is due to get better. Jess Petty after a slow start, is right and will win a lot of games for us." It was suggested that rumor had linked Petty's name with possible requests for waivers. "Nothing to it" was the emphatic reply. "Petty is a great pitcher. He just couldn't get started. He'll go for us."

"Yuhandle" Very Sweet

Manager Bush agreed promptly with a suggestion that a former Pittsburgh pitcher "Juchandle Johnny" Morrison, has established his right to come back with Brooklyn. "John was a good pitcher when he left Pittsburg. He should never left the league. Yes, he's got a sweet curve ball.

"Brooklyn will cause a lot of trouble before it is over. And Cincinnati, too. The Reds have no business in the cellar. They are hard enough for us to beat."

Donie was interested in the American League race as well as the struggle in his own circuit. He knows all about the Yankees and in 1927 could find little good in them for World Series entertainment. His acquaintance with the league leading Athletics is limited.

"You know," he mused, "I have never seen the three 'big shots' of the A's, Cochrane, Foxx and Simmons, the three clean-up hitters are utter strangers to me. I hope I'll have a chance to meet them som day. This Fall would be a good time."

THE JIGGER IS BACK AGAIN IN FAVOR.

The Jigger is coming back into popularity with both the pros and the amateurs. The club is constructed along the right lines in this way, it has the greatest weight directly behind THE BALL.

The blade being rather shallow prevents this club from being used only on the fairway where the grass if fairly short. In the rough one should use a mashie or a mashie-niblick to allow for an error in case it was necessary to go into the grass.

A jugger is a valuable club when one knows how to use it well. Jerry Travers always favored this club for his approaches or for distances of from fifty to one hundred and fifty yards. When the mashie iron became popular, the jugger lost most of its prestige, but it is back again now in favor.

KNIGHTS TO MEET HARRISON OUTFT.

The revamped K. of C. team that sent the Teco Store men down to defeat this week have a great opportunity to insert an upset into softball proceedings. Caseys play the undefeated Harrison outfit, last year's champs., to-morrow. The Knights are showing an improved line-up on every appearance, and in Simmons they have one of the best pitchers in the league. Another twirler, Sylvester, one of the syncopators in Rye's dance orchestra, has joined the team, and is reported to be able to smoke them in.

The Knights had a team to conjure with several years ago, and they appear to be coming back

OPENING ON BANTAM TEAM.

Any youngster who likes to play ball has one last chance this evening to try for a place on a team. Jack Deannard still has room on his Kiwanis team for some likely-looking players and any such will be welcomed to the team's practice at King Edward School grounds at 6 o'clock.

MONDAY, JULY 15 IS FINAL DAY.

Players and managers are reminded that July 15 the final date upon which players may be signed by ball clubs operating in the O.B.A.A. Players will not be allowed to compete with clubs unless their amateur cards in the Intermediate and Senior, and birth certificates in Minor series, are produced.

All postponed games should be played as soon as possible, and the schedule should be arranged to have the championship club ready to enter the Ontario semi-finals on the following dates: Junior, Juvenile and Bantam, Saturday, August 10; Intermediate, Aug. 17; Senior, August 31.

The O.B.A.A. executive plan to be very strict in having leagues declare winners on the dates set, and the officers declare emphatically that no extension of time will be granted to declare a league championship where the wirners are called upon to play on the above dates.

PLAYS BIG PART IN ATHLETICS' ADVANCE.

Baseball men agree that Jimmy Foxx, first sacker for Connie Mack's destroying Athletics, is the biggest single factor in the rise of the club this season. Foxx is now twenty and he broke into the majors at seventeen from Crisfield in the Eastern Shore league.

He was a sensation before he knew where the locker room was. Just a natural-born ball player; Huggins called the turn on Foxx in midsummer last year, when he said: "If Connie Mack puts that kid on first, and keeps him there, we'll have a tough time beating them." That's just what Connie did.

As a hitter and fielder, critics can't find a weakness in this bright youth. Bucky Harris says you can stop him by keeping the ball close to his wrists but nobody seems to know about that, not even Bucky's pitchers.

PRESS CRITICIZES WRIGHT'S DEFEAT.

Conflicting stories are coming out in the English press to describe the reason for Joe Wright's defeat by three feet by Gunther in the Diamond Sculls. The Times' rowing expert states that Joe depends upon instruction from his father even during the racing, and that Joe, Sr., gave the signal to make the last supreme effort just too late. Young Joe and Jack Guest both pooh-pooh this idea, stating that Joe always rows his own race.

The Daily Telegraph gives the true account of the story:—"When Joe Wright was defeated by Gunther he made a mistake, for he left his final effort until just too late. Had he began it one or at the outside, two strokes earlier, he would have beaten Gunther. Wright made his great effort in the last five strokes. In the last three he gained a length, but the flag fell in time to save Gunther from defeat."

Joe Wright, Senior, not unwisely states that if his son had rowed differently the Dutchman would likely have altered his methods also, and the result might have been the same. Both Wrights give full credit to Gunther, and young Joe says he put everything he had into the race. Joe is reported to have said: "They all say I made my bid too late, but that was just a dying effort."

PRINCE GIVES HONORS.

LONDON, July 10.— (Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales held a private investiture in behalf of King George at St. James' Palace to-day.

Wearing morning dress, the Prince walked from York House to St. James, where he presented insignias to 860 persons on the list of birthday honors.

Draft Price Too Low For Canadian League

WINDSOR, July 10.—There is absolutely nothing to the rumor that the Canadian Professional Hockey League is to sever its present relations with the National League, according to Arthur Scott, manager of the Windsor Arena, where the Windsor Bulldogs have their headquarters. According to Scott, the agreement between the Canadian League and the National has three years yet to run, and there is no idea on the part of Charles S. King, President of the Canadian League, of trying to break it.

Mr. King has, however, more than once expressed himself as dissatisfied with the present draft price of $5,000, and there is little doubt that his league will seek to have it raised when the proper time comes. Last winter he declared himself to this effect, saying that $5,000 was not nearly enough to recompense for the loss of such stellar ice performers as the National League might choose to draft and that it hardly paid for the time and trouble spent in developing the class of players wanted by the National League.

CANADIANS ARE PRACTICING HARD

Will Start Famous Team Events at the End of Week.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 10—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Corespondendent.—The Canadian marksmen competing in the National Rifle Association's Empire meeting which opened on Monday to-day were largely occupied in gaining more practice at various distances. Some of them engaged in the various sweepstakes, the program being generally clear of all except rapid-fire competitions and public school events. The Canadians wil start heavy shooting at the end of the week, going into the famous team events and the King's prize next week.

The weather continued fine to-day but the sky was covered with light clouds, while moderate and variable freshening breezes prevailed.

HALIFAX STAR.

The nineteen-year-old Halifax star, Gertrude Phinney, who was the pet of the women's championships at Montreal. Miss Phinney was only beaten by the Olympic star, Miss Myrtle Cook of Montreal, by a scant few inches in both the 60 yards and 100 metres dashes. She also won the broad jumping.

Suspension Imposed Upon Max Schmeling

NEW YORK, June 10. — Max Schmeling, boxing's man of the hour and the outstanding contender for the vacant heavyweight championship, was suspended yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission, along with his American confidant and manager of choice, Joe Jacobs, "until such time as Schmeling shall go through with his contract to box Phil Scott at Ebbet's Field.

Fresh from his recent victory over Paulino Uzcudun, the slugging Teuton is now engaged in a barnstorming tour and was unable to comply with the Commission's summons to appear to-day.

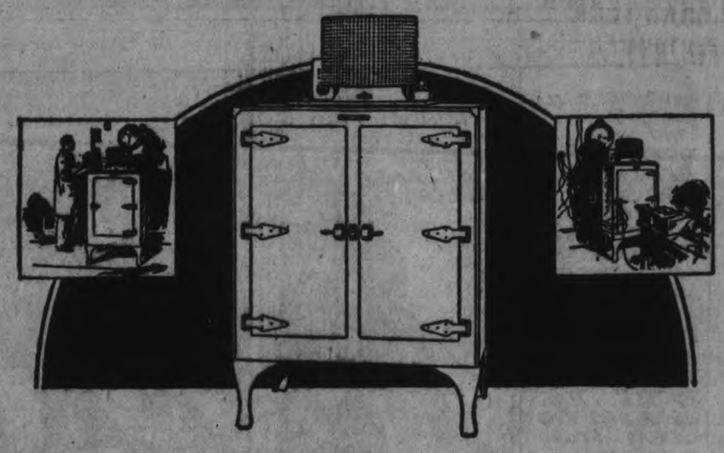
What effect the suspension will have in States affiliated with the Commission, as well as Canada, on Schmeling's current tour the Commissioners did not venture to say. Certain it is, however, that the disciplinary action has created a definite impasse which must postpone indefinitely any negotiations planned by the Madison Square Garden Corporation to bring Schmeling and Jack Sharkey together here in the fall. Jacobs has mentioned a possibility of matching Schmeling and Sharkey in Windsor, Ont., but the Garden, which has Sharkey tied up, diclaimed any such idea. Furthermore there is the obstacle presented by the Canadian Commission's alliance with the New York State solons.

Meanwhile, the triumphant Fugazy, impressario of Ebbet's' Field, emerged from the Commission's Council room wreathed in smiles. He announced arrangements for the Scott bout are rapidly being concluded. The English boxer, he said later in the day, is to sail for this country Saturday, and arrive here July 19.

The optimistic Signor professed confidence that Schmeling, in spite of the obstinacy he showed on a previous occasion, would acquiesce to the wishes of the Commission and take on Scott.

The Roman mile was considerably shorter than the American mile, being about 1,620 yards compared with 1,760 yards.

DISTINCTIVELY ELECTRIC



GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator, designed and built after fifteen years of painstaking development by the Research Laboratories, is an electrical achievement and the outstanding electric refrigerator. Among the 250,000 users of the General Electric Refrigerators, not one has spent a dollar for service or repairs.

All its mechanism is assembled in an hermetically sealed steel casing and placed up on top, leaving the entire cabinet space for food storage. The mechanism, thus enclosed, is dirt-proof, worry-proof, so automatic you do not even oil it, so quiet you hardly know when the motor is running.

It preserves food always at the scientifically correct temperature, well under 50 degrees. It has an easily accessible temperature control for governing the speed of freezing ice cubes or frozen desserts.

Come to our display rooms and see the new all-steel cabinets that will not warp. You can buy any model on deferred payments. GR-1429X

Y.W.C.A. GIRLS AT EAGLE MOUNT

Are Having Time of Their Lives Fishing, Tennis, Also Doing Nothing.

"Inglestane", the new Y. W. C. A. camp at Eagle Mount, Stoney Lake, has a jolly party of fgirls who are taking advantage of all the luxuries and conveniences of the big, pleasant house. The following is the first letter to be received from the camp:

"Dear Girls:

Well here we are first campers at the new Y. W. C. A. camp. It is a lovely camp. We have explored it all from tower to stone, fruit cellar and all pretty walks and paths and the bathing beach and fireside rock. A prettier and more comfortable place could not have been found. We had great fun showing two campers all around, and also quite a number of callers who came to visit camp on Sunday.

On Monday we cut the grass and marked the tennis court and then had a game. It is deck tennis we play and it is lots of fun. We also had a trip to McCracken's Landing and Juniper Island for supplies and a lesson or two in rowing on the way. The days go so quickly with exploring, swimming, reading, eating and say the meals are good, and then some games and stories and sing song in the evening by the fire.

Tuesday we had a picnic. Took our dinner and cooked it on the rocks after a row across the lake exploring the islands and a pretty little channel where we got water lillies and blue flags. Then back for supper, scolloped salmon, fried potatoes, salad, hot biscuits, cake and fruit. In the evening we climbed part way up Eagle Mount which is the other end of the island and had a splendid view of the lake.

The evening boat brought us two more campers and after a lunch by the fireside and hearing the Peterborough news we hiked off to bed and a good nights rest, to be ready to welcome the next campers, 10 of whom arrive to-morrow. At camp this week are Jean Shearer, Lillian Cork, Doris Wheadon, Dora Shepherd of Toronto, Mrs. R. V. Canning, Verna Huffman, Vera Wildman, Mary Brooks, Alice Davis, Margaret Wedlock, Daisy Adlam, Edith Long, Musa Cox, Leta Brownscombe.

We hear there are lots more girls coming on Saturday. Camp will certainly be the jolliest, happiest and nicest pl.ce on all the lake and we hope every girl will be able to enjoy a holiday this summer like we are having.

A welcome awaits you at the Y camp.

Yours truly,
"One of the First Campers".

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South passing, West, with high-card values in Diamonds and Clubs and a secondary Heart bid, opens the bidding with one Diamond. North passing, East bids one No Trump. This bid enables West to show his secondary suit by bidding two Hearts, which proves to be the best bid of the combined hands for game. It is well to note here that had West deemed his hand too weak to bid originally, the hand would have been passed out, as East's holding is far too weak to warrant an original Fourth Hand bid.

Contract: West's opening Diamond bid permitted East, with his distribution, to bid two No Trumps. The subsequent procedure was the same at Contract as at Auction except that West took out with three Hearts and East then bid four. Thus a game contract was reached through a minimum Second Hand bid with a hand which, but for such bid, would have been passed out.

The Play

North leads the Queen of Spades, Declarer winning with Dummy's Ace. Declarer leads a low Heart from Dummy, playing his 9 and North wins with the Ace. A second lead of Spades is trumped by Declarer and another round of trumps taken, both adverse trumps falling, South winning with the King, leads a spade, Declarer ruffing. Declarer then enters Dummy with the Ace of Clubs to take the Diamond finesse. The double finesse, that of the 10 of Diamonds, is not attempted since Dummy holds but two Diamonds. The finesse of the Queen winning, Declarer leads the Ace of Diamonds followed by a low Diamond, which is ruffed in Dummy. Declarer leads a Club from Dummy, winning with the King. Declarer then ruffs his remaining Diamond in Dummy and concedes a Club trick, losing in all only this one trick and the two tricks with the Ace and King of Trumps.

CHURCH SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

Sacred Heart Grounds Gay Scene With Decorated Booths.

SPLENDID SUPPER.

Despite the showery weather of yesterday, the annual social of the Sacred Heart Church was just as successful as this event has proven itself to be in many years past. The mild evening and the excellent entertainment provided brought out the usual enthusiastic patrons of he social, both for supper and for the hours which followed, when there was plenty of amusement and recreation provided at the various booths.

Supper was served at long tables covered with white cloths and decorated with vases of flowers and an excellent repast of home-viands was enjoyed. A corps of energetic ladies had charge of this section, and men and women of the parish also helped in the different booths, which were arranged with colored paper, flags, and Japanese lanterns.

The band of the Peterborough Rangers provided splendid music during the evening, playing popular and favorite melodies for the entertainment of the crowd.

The long overhead rows of electric lights gave the usual excellent illumination to the grounds.

The booths included sections where useful and fancy articles and clothing were sold; a lottery booth with a large crowd of patrons; a sale of home-made cooking and candy, sales of soft drinks, ice-cream and cigars, a bingo game, and a fish pond for the children.

DR. SPANKIE WON BY ACCLAMATION

Liberals and Progressives Decide Not to Contest Seat.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 10.—(C.P.)—Liberals and Progressives, in an executive meeting held here yesterday, decided not to place a candidate in the field in opposition to Dr. W. Spankie, who was yesterday at Harrowsmith chosen as the Conservative standard bearer in the by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards. This will mean that the seat will remain Conservative by acclamation. It was pointed out at the meeting that the time was too short from now until election day, and it would be better if the Liberals perfected their organization for the next general election.

ORANGE LODGES ATTEND SERVICE

Brethren From District Take Part in Annual Parade at Marmora.

MANY ADDRESSES

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, July 10.—On Sunday afternoon officers and brethern of Marmora L. O. L. 319 accompanied by members of Harmony L. O. B. O. 600, Marmora Juvenile Orange Lodge, No. 34 and sisters and brethren from Springbrook, Havelock and other surrounding places, paraded to St. Paul's church for divine service at 2:30 p. m.

As at the morning service at this church, prayers and thanksgiving were offered on behalf of King George. Using "Jacob's Dream" as his theme Rev. A. B. Caldwell delivered a forceful sermon, bringing out many truths as suggested by the Patriarchs vision. Very appropriate hymns were used and with psalms and lessons having their own significance, it was felt by those participating in the service that it had been truly commemorative.

After service, adjournment was made to the Orange Hall where excellent addresses were given by Marmora brethren and visiting sisters and brethren. The three Marmora lodges were represented at the evening service held at Havelock United church when a good number of visiting sisters and brethren joined with the Havelock lodges in its annual church parade.

President Robert Creig Will Open Conference

FIRES CAUSE DELAY.

OTTAWA, July 10. (C.P.) — The Hudson Bay Railway will probably not be in condition to handle passenger traffic before the end of October, it was stated yesterday at the Department of Railways and Canals. The celebration of opening the road by driving in the golden spike, will it is expected, be delayed until next spring.

The chief cause of delay has been the necessity of fighting bush fires. Difficulty in taking sand from frozen gravel pits this spring also slowed down the construction work.

Two thousand men are at work and eleven work trains are in operation. At least 1,000,000 yards of train fill are yet required to put the road in shape.

CHURCH PROTESTS ASKS PROPER NAME

Presbyterians Ask Council to Respect Its Own Rule.

TORONTO, Ont., July 10.—(By the Canadian Press.)— By resolution of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, at its meeting in Ottawa recently, a communication was sent to the Alliance of the Reformed Churches Holding the Presbyterian System assembled in Boston, U.S.A., June 19, protesting against the name of this church used in certain of the Alliance records, "a name never used, owned, or acknowledged by this church" and expressing the confidence "that the Council will in this matter have respect to its own rule, and recognize the rights of this church to be enrolled in the name The Presbyterian Church in Canada by which it freely and rightly chooses to be known.

The rule referred to is: "The Council shall have power to decide upon churches desiring to join the Alliance, but shall not interfere with the existing creed or constitution of any church in the Alliance or with its internal order or external relations."

A special committee reported to the Business committee two recommendations, the second having been adopted from a motion presented in the Business committee meeting. These recommendations were:

"That the Council decline to participate in a controversy over the precise or appropriate name of any of its constituent members.

"That until an authoritative decision has been reached and made effective, the Council shall designate this church as "The Presbyterian Church in Canada" and shall protect its own records by a foot-note to the effect that "This designation is in dispute and is here used without prejudice, implying neither approval nor disapproval on the part of the Council."

The Mosquito's Lay

Mr. W. Green, secretary at the Oddfellows' Temple, gives us the following bit of poetry, composed by one of the Old Boys of Peterborough, and applicable to July weather. It is entitled "The Mosquito's Lay":

"Weary stangers, won't you rest awhile?
You've labored hard all day,
Plying rod and gun and paddle,
Rest and listen to our lay.

"Pitch your tent and spread your blankets,
Poor, toil-worn, weary man,
And whilst we hover 'round you,
Slumber sweetly—if you can.

"We will keep a faithful vigil,
We'll be near you all the night,
Nor cease our soothing lullaby,
Unless it be to bite.

"And should you kill a few of us,
As you slap your hands and face,
We've a host of blood relations,
Who will gladly take our place."

Stoney Lake, Aug. 28, 1882.

Fears For Pilot Husband Drives Wife To Take Life

LONDON, July 10 (C.P.)—The story of a wife who committed suicide through fear for her husband's safety since he had taken up flying was told at an inquest here. The woman was Helen Ada Burt, of Hyde Park Terrace, and she died from poison self-administered.

Stewart John Burt, the husband, told the coroner, that he was a motor engineer, and took up aviation about three years ago. Since then his wife had been very nervous because she considered flying dangerous. He took her up twice to convince her that it was quite safe, but she was not convinced.

His wife told him that she would poison herself, and also that she would use an automatic pistol, which he gave her during the war, but he did not pay any attention to those remarks. Before he took up flying his wife was always very cheerful.

"When I arrived home in the evening after flying in Buckinghamshire," he said, "my wife told me that she had been terribly anxious and thought I had been killed. She was distressed and very excited. I suspected she had taken something, and sent for the doctor, who said he thought she had been poisoned."

NORTH SEA WRECK PROBABLY SOLVED

Mysterious Explosion May Be Explained by Eighteen Rescued Sailors.

LONDON, July 10. — (Canadian Press).—With rescue of 18 survivors of the Swedish steamer Botte, wrecked near Yarmouth on a sand bank Saturday night, an explanation has been offered of a mysterious North Sea explosion which led to fear of major sea disaster.

A Dutch steamer took the officers and crew of the Botte off when it was seen she would founder. Later the steamer Arneberg in the same locality wirelessed Lloyd's here an unidentified ship had sunk nearby after an explosion.

Captain Borreson of the Botte, after examining the Arneberg's reckonings, said he was convinced the explosion was due to the Botte's hatches blowing off when the tide came up and it slipped off the sand bank into deep water, long after the crew had been taken off her.

The crew of the Botte were landed at Hull yesterday.

FURTHER EXPLOSIONS FEARED BY RESIDENTS

Cracks in Sidewalks Are Cause of Groundless Fears.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 10 (Canadian Press). — Cracks and upheavals in the sidewalks of this city have caused some uneasiness among citizens and some of them have expressed fear of explosions similar to those which recently occurred with such serious effect. A few days ago a resident of Bank Street became alarmed and telephoned to the engineering department in the City Hall that the sidewalk had "blown up." Members of the engineering staff hurried to the scene and found the cause of the alarm was a small upheaval in the sidewalk.

Several such alarms have occurred within a few days, cracks or upheavals in sidelwalks or pavements being reported. Commissioner of Works A. F. Macallum, however, states that these have nothing to do with the recent sewer explosion, but are particularly noticed at present because the nerves of many people are "jumpy" as a result of the big explosion. Deputy Commissioner F. C. Askwith says there are about 50 sidewalks and pavements in various parts of the city with recent cracks or upheavals, but such things occur annually, and are observed after sudden changes in the weather. These are due to sudden expansion, to roots of trees causing sidewalks to heave up, and other causes, he says.

The Ottawa sewers are all in good condition, according to W. F. M. Bryce, sewer engineer.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon, the pastor, took charge of the service with Mr. Prest, superintendent of the Sunday school, assisting. Splendid music was furnished by the two choirs.

The life of St. Andrew, the apostle was the subject of study in place of the regular international lesson. Though so few references were made of Andrew in the scriptures, Mr Dudgeon brought to his large class a vivid word picture of this man, who is remembered chiefly as "the one who brought his brother, Simon Peter, to Christ."

Andrew is first seen as a disciple of the Baptist and when the twelve were sent forth it was not stated with whom Andrew was paired when he went to work with the others.

It was Andrew who drew attention to "the boy with the five barley loaves and two small fishes," when the Saviour took the opportunity to feed the minds and the bodies of the vast multitude.

Very little more is known of Andrew, nor is tradition able to give us many facts, but in the few places he was mentioned in the scriptures, he is shown to have been (after Christ) the first class leader, the first Sunday school teacher, and the first missionary and to have won many converts to Christ.

There is hardly any doubt of his death by crucifixion, and because the cross on which he died, formed the letter X, it is known as St. Andrew's cross. Thus, in simple, direct language, the meagre recorded history of St. Andrew was made an interesting and instructive narrative, holding the closest attention of all.

NEW TYPE OF THIEVES.

Horseradish thieves are the latest members of the crime cult in the city. There is nothing particularly appealing about horseradish, as far as anyone can see. Its value lie usually in the smallness of the portion that is ladled out for culinary use. But anyone possessing a fine large clump of horseradish in his back garden is liable to wake up some fine morning and find it gone, lock, stock and barrel, or, as one might say, roots, stalk and flower. The midnight marauders who help themselves to horseradish roots do it thoroughly, and there are said to be quite a few instances where gardens have been pilfered of this pungent weed. To-day you have it. You may not have noticed it often, but to-morrow you will probably find a gaping hole where the horseradish grew yesterday.

DECORATIONS COMING DOWN.

Peterborough is rapidly losing the carnival aspect of last week. The hot dog stands which graced the streets have been dismantled and the proprietors have moved on to other celebrating towns in the district.

NO FIRES.

Another day of inactivity is reported by the fire department for yesterday. No fire calls were received.

REPAIRING ROOF.

The large roof over the C. P. R. freight sheds on Water street is being repaired.

TOURIST SALES LIMITED.

One business in town seems to be in the fortunate position of not needing to advertise; in fact the liquor operators find it necessary to cut down on the business.

By circular letter from Ontario Liquor Control Board all the vendors stores in Ontario have been enjoined to limit the sales to tourists who have no settled place of temporary abode but who are on the move. The limits set are roughly as follows:: Two bottles of spirits, or a gallon of wine or two cases of beer. If bought at the store only half a dozen bottles of beer will be sold to such a tourist, but the larger quantity may be had at the brewery warehouse.

KRESGE READY SOON.

Work on the Kresge building is progressing according to schedule and it will be ready for use on August 24 as planned, according to information received from the constructional engineer's office. It may be possible to open it even before that date if the work progresses with the rapidity so far maintained. The builders hope to be able to remove the wooden screens that surround the building in a few weeks.

REGENT TO INSTALL TALKIES.

The management of the Regent Theatre announces that apparatus for talking pictures will be installed in the theatre during the month of August. The apparatus used will be Northern Electric. Few changes will be necessary in the construction of the theatre for the installation.

EFFECTIVE SIGN

The sign—Cook With Gas—erected at the base of the large gas tank, immediately south of the Hunter street bridge is very effective with the huge letters in white against a green grass background.

PLANES HAVE RETURNED

The five airplanes that were doing a rushing business during Old Home Week have returned to their home airport in Toronto.

PAVING CONTINUES

The extensive paving operations around the city are still being carried on. Walton Street in the west end has received the initial concrete base and is the last of the streets in that section of the city to be made ready for the asphalt finish. All is complete now for the final coat in that section.

On Park street south, from the Canadian General Electric to the De Laval, the paving company is busy tearing up the street preparatory to laying the concrete base in that section.

HEAVY LABOR DEMAND

Gains in domestic employment have been registered during the past few weeks according to the report of W. S. Dodds, Superintendent of the Ontario Government employment bureau. The opening of the Royal York created work for a number of dishwashers. There is still a general shortage of waiters, however. With the advent of the haying season a brisk demand for farm hands is apparent. Following the letting of a large number of highway contracts by the department of public highways, it is expected that a number of men will be absorbed in this type of work. Firms manufacturing rubber goods other than automobile tires, report a slackening in their employment. In the professional line there has been a demand for male stenographers, as well as mechanical draftsmen and engineers.

DESERVES CREDIT.

One of the workers who deserves much credit for his industry and enthusiasm in connection with the big Old Home Week parade last Monday, is P. G. Townes of Douro. With the assistance of several from Douro, he constructed nine of the floats that appeared in the parade, a job entailing much work and thought.

72 CHILDREN ARE PRESENT AT BIG CAMP

and the best of foods. Then comes the cleaning of teeth, which the nurse claims is one of the difficult tasks as the children will come back with their cups and brushes claiming that they have cleaned them, when they have not. Each child has to be weighed some time during the stay in the park and a number are weighed daily. Shortly after breakfast is the time set apart for this duty.

Those who are not detailed to this assignment enjoy a recreation period until twelve o'clock, when they are called in to get washed up for lunch, which is at one o'clock.

Younger Ones Put to Bed

Right after dinner the younger ones under the age of six years are put to bed for a time in the rest room while the older ones play around and help in the kitchen with the dishes and the general work. Miss Vickers said that if they did not help, it would be impossible to look after the crowd of youngsters that turn out, and also it is good training for them.

Then at 2.30, the time comes which is dear to all the young hearts in the camp. It is the hour for swimming when all ages dash for the Kiwanis pool and frolic in the water for an hour or so under the supervision of the nurse who lets only the stronger stay in for any length of time and keeps a watchful eye on them all.

About 3.30 they all travel back to the camp and have a rest and recreation period until supper time, which is at 5.30 after which the busses pick them up and drop them off at the various stations near their homes, after a perfect day.

The children are supplied with the best of food and have plenty of milk to drink. This is borne out in the fact that the average attendance of children is 65 and the average milk consumption is 40 quarts a day as well as 5 pounds of butter.

The camp consists of a dining room, kitchen, storehouse and rest room, all of which are substantial, useful and attractive. There is in the equipment—toys, baseballs and bats—everything to make the children happy.

Two Weeks Usual Stay

Two weeks is the usual stay for each child, but those who are not very healthy are kept for a longer period until signs of improvement are shown. The youngster must come each day, as those in charge of the camp cannot be bothered with the transient child who is sent out for a day by his parents as a place of convenience, so they can be free of the care—It is a health camp, and is for the underprivileged children who have not the advantages of the average boy and girl in the city.

This health camp, which is doing one of the finest works in the city is sponsored by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club and the Peterborough Health Association. The ladies of this association visit the various homes in the city and see what children are in need of such a vacation and have them sent to the health-giving Jackson Park. Those in charge of the camp are Miss R. Vickers, R.N., and Mrs. E. Smith, who is responsible for the tasty victuals that are served the children.

WEDDING BELLS

PAYNE—QUINN

A very quiet wedding was held at 540 Water street, Peterborough, by Rev. Wm. Allan, Peterborough, when Janet Edith, youngest daughter of A. Quinn and the late Mrs. Quinn of Lakefield, and Clair Allen Payne of Warsaw, weer united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The young couple were unattended. The wedding was held quietly on account of bride's mother's recent death.

DAWSON—GREER.

The wedding took place quietly at two o'clock this afternoon, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of Grace Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Greer of Peterborough and the late Mrs. Greer, and Herbert Edmund Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dawson of Bailieboro. The Rev. W. Allan was the officiating clergyman. Mr. Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O., played the wedding music.

The church was prettily decorated for the ceremony with a profusion of peonies, daisies, ferns and palms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dainty gown of pale blue georgette with blue hat and blonde shoes and hose. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Mary Greer and Mr. Allan Milburn, sister and cousin of the bride, witnessed the signing of the register.

After the ceremony, Mr. Dawson and his bride, who will reside near Bailieboro on their return, left on a honeymoon trip to Muskoka, the bride travelling in an ensemble of green French flannel with small blonde hat.

Help Yourself

Here's a little advice to the young men: The average college student puts in only about 650 hours of actual study per term of 9 months. Anyone who really wants to gain an education of any kind, can do so by studying that many hours in his own home after work.

The spring-release hitch on McCormick-Deering Tractor Plow saves many a share and many a dollar. Come in and see how nicely it works.

And here's a little advice to the young lady: Don't trust a husband too far; nor a bachelor too near.

You know that automobiles were never really successful until they got away from the plain bearings, such as were used in the old buggy wheels, and adopted ball bearings, which would stand the higher speeds and harder service. Trouble with high-grade ball bearings is practically negligible, so that they are far cheaper in the long run, though they cost more in the first place. That's why McCormick-Deering Tractors have them on their big crankshafts—they last for years with no adjustments or attention whatever.

A cook is a charitable institution, providing food and shelter for needy policemen.

The new McCormick-Deering No. 12 Ensilage Cutter marks real progress in cutter construction. It has a one-piece main frame, automobile-type clever shift) transmission, and reinforced, boiler-plate flywheel. A smooth-running, light-running, long-lived cutter; well worthy of your serious consideration.

Did you ever stop to think how much repairing the human race needs? Think of the doctors, dentists, and lawyers—all repair men—trying to repair something that has gone wrong.

GOVERNMENT HAS ABANDONED FURTHER SALVAGE ATTEMPTS ON THE BRITISH SUBMARINE

Undersea Craft Will Be Left in Last Resting Place With 20 Victims.

DOWN TOO DEEP.

Battleship Rodney Will Pay Last Respects To Those Who Died in Collision.

LONDON, July 11 (Canadian Press). — The Admiralty has decided to abandon all further operations for salvaging the sunken submarine H-47. The announcement of this was supplemented by the statement that this decision had been reached after full consideration of the location of the lost warcraft and the difficulties in the way of salvaging.

The Admiralty's statement says that the facts which guided it in reaching this decision were the certainty that all the missing men perished almost immediately the vessel sank, and that the great depth of water, risk from tides and weather, would render salvage—even if an ultimate possibility—a task involving the divers and others in great and continual danger.

Never Again Fit for Service.

Even if the H-47 were salvaged, the statement adds, the damage through pressure and flooding would render her unfit for service, and salvage operations of such difficulty would not be justified.

The battleship Rodney, flying the flag of the rear-admirals commanding the submarines and other vessels, before leaving the vicinity, will halt over the position where the H-47 lies, and pay last respects to those who lost their lives.

PEMBROKE, Wales, July 11 (C.P.) —Weather in St. George's Channel today made immediate further rescue and salvage work above the sunken submarine H-47 all but impossible.

The extensive crews assembled for the almost hopeless attempts at lifting the submersible and possible saving some of the 20 men entombed in it marked time impatiently, awaiting a change in the direction of the wind and a lessening of the high seas.

The salvage crew withdrew temporarily to Milford Haven, leaving a buoy moored above the spot where the ship slipped to the bottom after it had collided Tuesday with the L-2 and sank. The depth was believed to be 330 feet, far below the level at which divers ordinarily can work.

Twenty Are Missing

A corrected casualty list of the crew of the sunken craft shows that three were saved with twenty now missing. The third man, heretofore listed as lost, was Petty Officer Hicks, who had come up for a breath of air just before the collision.

While new salvage apparatus was being hurried to the scene of the collision, an inquest was started at Milford Haven into the death of Arthur R. Sampson, able seaman of the L-20, who was fatally injured in the crash.

Three Years In Portsmouth Is Sentenced Passed On Girl

GEORGETOWN, Ont., July 11 (Canadian Press). — Elsie Robinson, 25, pretty local girl, was sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate H. P. Moore at Milton yesterday. She was found guilty of passing bogus cheques. Last week she was sentenced to a two-year term, for similar offences at Barrie and Parry Sound. The sentences will run concurrently.

AVIATORS AIM AT 300 HOURS

Pilots Have Flown Second-hand Ship Almost Nine Days.

DROP NOTES.

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 11. — C.P.)—Still unfaltering in their battle against time and gravitation, the two "tough hombres" L. W. Mendell and R. B. Runhart, continued to drive their second-hand biplane in circles above the Culver City airport today. At 4.30 o'clock this morning they had been in the air 213 hours.

That they expected to remain in the air 300 hours or more was indicated yesterday when they dropped a note saying: "Tell that crowd if they want to see us land, to come back next Tuesday. We're gonna stay up another hundred."

It was announced yesterday that their biplane was a second hand ship placed at their disposal by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury.

BOGNOR, Eng., July 11.—(C.P.)—William King, shipmate of King George aboard the old warship Bacchante a half century ago, and a visitor at Craigwell House while the King was here in April, died to-day.

King was a boatswain on the Bacchante when His Majesty, then the Duke of York, was serving on the same ship.

The one-time boatswain, whose home is here, took the opportunity of making a visit to Craigwell House on April 11, to have a chat concerning old times. King George being particularly interested in the Bacchante's logbook which the veteran sailor had brought with him.

108 GOLFERS TEE OFF IN OPENING OF ONTARIO'S AMATEUR CLASSIC

For First Time in History Big Event Is Held Outside of Toronto.

STRONG FIELD.

LONDON, Ont., July 11 (Canadian Press). — Weather conditions were ideal this morning as players teed off in the 18-holes qualifying round of the Ontario Amateur Golf Tournament over the course of the London Hunt and Country Club. This is the first time the event has been held outside of Toronto, and many clubs from that city are represented. There also are players from Brantford, Sarnia, St. Catharines, Ottawa, Simcoe, Kitchener, St. Thomas, and other points. The field is one of the strongest ever entered for the event. By 2 p.m. to-day 108 players will have started, as there were no scratches this morning. To-day will see the qualifying round, the first 16 qualifying for match play in the championship flight and the next 48 for the three consolation flights.

Ross Somerville, London Hunt, present holder of the Canadian and Ontario amateur titles, and Jack Cameron, Mississaugua, Ottawa, were among the first to tee up this morning. Cameron was runner-up for the Ontario title last year, being defeated 2 and 1 by Somerville, and they were paired for the medal round today. Cameron got away to a bad start when he sliced his first tee shot out of bounds, taking a bad six on a par 4 hole.

The Thompson Brothers, Frank and Bill, were in the field to-day, too.

Scores were expected to be low because of the ideal weather and the good playing conditions of the course.

TORONTO OLD BOYS PLANNING PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

Agreed That "Toronto Day" Was Outstanding Feature of Old Home Week.

ORGANIZE IN FALL.

A get-together meeting of the chairmen of the various committees of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys, was held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday, July 10th, the members being the dinner guests of Frank P. O'Connor, general chairman.

It was unanimously agreed that the success of Toronto Day was one of the outstanding features of the recent Old Home Week and much appreciation was expressed for the co-operation and support of the committees in Peterborough which enabled everything to be carried out without a hitch. Their personal contact with with the Toronto committee which worked indefatigably for the occasion, affords that peculiar satisfaction which comes to each and all who discharge a duty faithfully and efficiently.

Mayor Writes Chairman

That this statement is no exaggeration is shown in an appreciative letter which was received by Mr. O'Connor, chairman of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys, from his Worship Mayor Denne. The letter follows:

"We are exceedingly glad that you so thoroughly enjoyed your visit to Peterborough last week, as expressed in your letter of July 6th.

"You owe no thanks to me or to the committee, but we do thank you for the very effective part you took in organizing the Toronto-Peterborough Old Boys for their trip to Peterborough, and the valuable and deeply appreciated contribution the Toronto contingent made to the success of the celebration.

"The Week is over, and while the members of the committee did a

"Spare the Rod and Save the Boy" Slogan of New British Campaign

LONDON, July 11. — Youthful law breakers in England will no longer have to fear the birch rod if a movement to abolish corporal punishment for young offenders is successful.

"Spare the rod and save the boy," might be the slogan of the movement which numbers several prominent magistrates.

W. Clarke Hall, London police court judge, explained his opposition to the widespread practice of "birching" at a conference of 70 judges and presented a report showing that 80 per cent of the boys who had been whipped in a certain court came back again charged with similar offences.

"If you consider the psychology of the child you will get the reason for the failure of "birching," he said.

Very often it is the leader of a gang that is caught. He usually is a ragged little urchin, neglected from birth, his one asset being the respect of the gang with which he works. He cannot show the gang that he is not afraid of corporal punishment, and to prove that he is not afraid he commits the same offence again." Whipping, however, still has its defenders. Capt. C. W. Whitworth, mayor of Harrogate, told the same meeting that too many magistrates failed to administer the birch when it would benefit not only the boy but the community. His opinion was seconded by Hay Halkett, another magistrate.

FIRE DESTROYS FINE RESIDENCE

David Johnston of Campbelford Suffers Heavy Loss From Conflagration.

GARAGE DAMAGED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Just a concrete foundation and a few sticks of furniture are all that remain of the home of David Johnston, which was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Although the house was situated outside the corporation limits, the town fire brigade appeared on the scene and did what little they could to save the situation. In spite of every effort, the dwelling was burned to to ground, leaving only the concrete foundation walls.

Asked how the fire started, Mr. Johnston said that his wife had started a fire in the cook stove early in the afternoon and that when he went upstairs, he found that the pipes were down. The fire made rapid headway and could not be controlled. The nearest hydrant was about eight-hundred feet distant and the firemen could not get sufficient pressure on their hoseline to cope with the situation. The blaze had gained considerable headway before they arrived. The time-honored bucket brigade system got in some good work but availed nothing in the end.

Heat from the burning building was intense. H. G. Tinney's residence a few yards to the south, was badly scorched and blistered. Seven telephone lines were put out of commission for three hours. The garage walls, also a wooden structure, were badly charred, but the touring car was removed with little or no damage done to it. The loss will be a heavy one and is only partially covered by insurance.

Former world's champion swimmer Norman Ross, U.S.A. will be a prominent entrant for the fourth Wrigley Marathon swim at the Canadian National Exhibition.

BRIAND'S IDEA WELL FAVORED

Lay Plans of a Federation Before League in September.

SOME DUBIOUS.

PARIS, July 11 (C.P.)—"The United States of Europe," a confederation for which Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, has longed worked and dreamed of, is receiving increased serious consideration.

Oeuvre, Radical Socialist paper, today said M. Briand had received so many favorable opinions from powers represented on the League of Nations that he hopes to outline his plans for a European Federation to a League assembly in September. He hopes even to call a conference at the end of the year to lay the foundation of organization.

The Foreign Minister's idea is to federate Europe, economically perhaps at first, but politically later, and make the people's conscious of themselves in their own interest and not against that of others.

The idea has been welcomed warmly by many, but it also has aroused some skepticism. "Pertinax" in Echo de Paris, caustically asked to-day how if the League of Nations consistently had failed to realize such a scheme, a special conference called by the French Foreign Minister could have any better luck.

The Weather

Guard's Car Handy For Inmate's Escape

GUELPH, Ont., July 11 (Canadian Press).— A thorough search of the countryside to-night has failed to reveal any trace of Harry Reeves, Ottawa, and Joseph Clement, Oshawa, two inmates of the Ontario Reformatory here, who escaped from the "farm" by using one of the guards' motor cars for a speedy getaway.

B. R. MALLOUGH DIES SUDDENLY

Prudential Insurance Agent Passes Away at Home on Lock Street.

MEDICAL AID SOUGHT.

Having retired to bed last night in normal health, B. R. Mallough, 35, Prudential Insurance agent, 203 Lock street, was found in an unconscious condition in his bed, suffering an acute heart attack, and shortly after 10.30 he died.

Urgent calls were sent to the clinic, hospitals, and doctors' offices in an effort to secure medical aid by frantic relatives without success. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne R. Macdonald, relatives with whom the deceased was residing, and a neighbour, Mrs. Johnston, stated that they phoned doctors for more than half an hour and were told in every case that the doctor was out or busy. Finally in desperation as the man became visibly worse with every speeding minute they summoned the pulmotor from the Fire Hall at 10.34. When the pulmotor arrived some few minutes later, Mr. Mallough was dead.

Dr. A. G. Howson arrived some ten minutes after having been summoned from the hospital by Gordon Puffer, police constable. Dr. Howson said that he could have come thirty minutes sooner, but the person who phoned him at the hospital had, in their excitement, neglected to tell him the address of the house where the man was dying.

Heart Failure.

After a brief examination Dr. Howson said that death was caused through failure of the heart.

Lorne Macdonald, brother-in-law of the deceased, said that he and Mrs. Macdonald had returned from a picnic in Toronto about 2 a.m. this morning. They found Mr. Mallough in normal health, sitting on the verandah. Later, after a chat, all retired.

The Macdonalds, tired after yesterday's activity, slept late this morning, not getting up until about 9.30. It was only then noticed that

Warren Paving Company Is Given Contract To Pave St. Thomas Street.

TO BUILD SIDEWALKS.

Mrs. F. Maloney Complains About Crossing at 288 Park Street.

"That this Council expresses sincere appreciation of the manner in which the citizens supported the Council in the celebration of Old Home Week" was the motion passed at the meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chambers last evening.

Authority was given to the mayor to execute an agreement with the Warren Bituminous Paving Company Ltd for paving St. Thomas street at the same terms and conditions as contained in the agreement with that company for the construction of paving of other streets.

To Pave Sidewalks.

The program of sidewalk paving as drawn up and passed is as follows: The south side of Bonaccord street from Park street to a point 175 feet northerly, the west side of Mark street from James street to a point 60 feet northerly. These were listed as local improvements under the Local Improvement Act.

SWEDISH AVIATORS OFF AGAIN ON DELAYED TRIP TO NEW YORK

No Crowd Watches Fliers As They Hop Off On Hazardous Flight.

REFUEL AT BELLE ISLE.

COPENHAGEN, July 11. C.P.) — There were unconfirmed reports here to-day that Captain Albin Ahrenberg and his two companions of the airplane Sverige, had landed at Ivgtut, Greenland, at 8.00 a.m. to-day. The aviators earlier in the morning were seen flying over Julianehaab.

The Sverige left Reykjavik, Iceland, at 1.45 p.m., yesterday (9.45 a.m., E.S.T.), intending to make Ivgtut, Greenland, and continue the transoceanic flight they began a month ago at Stockholm, Sweden.

The aviators remained at Reykjavik several weary weeks replacing a new engine in their plane and testing it out before continuing to the United States. They landed near here originally several weeks ago when the motor developed trouble.

Their departure excited no comment and there was hardly anyone to see them off. Nevertheless the aviators were in nowise down-hearted.

"The flyers believed that with refueling at Ivigtut, and again possibly at Belle Isle, they would be able to make the trip to New York without difficulty now.

QUEBEC, July 11. Lost in the forest while walking to the home of his parents, near Lac A Noel, he was the object of an intensive search, and a dam had been opened to drain a pond where it was thought his body might be found.

The religious people of the district had summoned the Curate of Stoneham, Rev. Father Gauvreau Pettigrew, who celebrated an open air mass at noon yesterday, at which scores of the searchers received communion. Just at the conclusion of the mass, the lost boy stumbled upon the scene, near collapse, from exposure and starvation.

LA SALLE RUM DOCKS MAY BE CLOSED DOWN

'Place is Dead,' Exporters Admit—Blockade Successful.

MIGRATION STARTS.

Liquor Crews Go To Other Ports—Smuggling Takes Slump.

WINDSOR, July 11.—Shutdown of the LaSalle beer and whisky docks is contemplated by exporters and district breweries, it was learned today. The move, probably, would be temporary, the duration of the shutdown depending entirely on the outcome of the current drive against the rum runners which has rendered the LaSalle-Fighting Island-Ecorse sector of the Detroit river practically untenable for the smuggling craft.

"Place is Dead"

Exporters questioned to-day on the subject, said they would be just as well off if they shut the doors of their LeSalle warehouses, for the present at least. "The place is dead," one of them explained. "An occasional row boat clears with five or ten cases, but that business does not pay our expenses."

Brewery officials quizzed in the same connection, said, "There is nothing definite on the proposal, but the move has been contemplated, certainly."

A shut-down at LaSalle or elsewhere along the border would have one possible effect—it might lull the American prohibition authorities into a definite conclusion that they had stemmed the flow of liquor across the boundary line at this point. But the export business is thriving at other ports while it languishes down-river at LaSalle. Several rum boats are operating out of the new embarkation port of Goderich, according to to-day's dispatches. These crews migrated to Lake Huron from the Detroit river sector. Other river boats have made connection at Port Hope, a Lake Ontario port, it was learned to-day while two other Essex border crews, it was reported, are down on the Belleville front of the same lake.

Agree on Statistics

American and Canadian officials agree on statistics revealing a decided drop in the rum running business in the Detroit river area in the past month. Only 45,000 cases of beer and whisky were exported from Essex border docks in that period as compared with 142,000 cases in the same month of 1928. These figures have been set forth by Canadian customs officials at Ottawa and relayed to prohibition enforcement agencies at Washington.

United States officers in the past month seized 5.4 per cent. of the exports as contrasted with a 4.3 per cent. seizure in June last year. But 36 rum boats including four valued at $4,000 each, were seized last month as against 28 last year in June. Automobiles seizures in June, 1929, were 25 per cent. less than June, 1928. All these figures indicate conclusively less rum smuggling activity along the Detroit river and Lake St. Clair fronts.

FIRE CHIEFS OF DOMINION AT COBOURG

Secretary of Quebec League Says Safety Law Cuts Crossing Deaths.

TAKE TRIP TO ROCHESTER

General Motors Chief Tells of Fine System in Oshawa Plant.

COBOURG, July 11.— By its provincial law requiring all vehicles to come to a stop at railway crossings the province of Quebec has taken a drastic step toward a reduction of the increasing number of traffic fatalities, Arthur Gaboury, secretary general of the Province of Quebec Safety League, told the convention of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs here yesterday.

"It was courageous legislation," he declared, "and is absolutely compulsory in all cases. It has already proved to be the only solution of the universal of the ever increasing number of accidents at railway crossings.

The Safety League of the Province of Quebec is fully behind this law, and is doing all it can to assist in carrying it out and seeing that it is observed. One thing I must say and that is that automobiles will stop at railway crossings because they must, and the Province of Quebec has made up its mind that they shall stop. This Act was passed at the last session of the Legislature."

Nearly 200 Present.

The Fire Chiefs are in session all week with an interlude to-day in a trip to Rochester. The attendance is slightly less than 200 with a comprehensive representation of the entire Dominion. The President is Robert Harrington, chief of the Fire Investigation Department of the Frontenac Oil Company of Montreal.

An unusually attractive address was delivered Wednesday afternoon by R. P. McKenzie, Fire Chief with the General Motors Company of Oshawa. He reviewed in detail the fire prevention methods practised in the extensive plant of the General Motors.

The complete factory, Chief McKenzie said, consists of two groups of buildings about 60 in number, ranging in height from one to four stories. The ground floor occupied is 40 acres in extent, and the occupied floor space totals 1,966,6 3 square feet. The buildings and equipment are valued at $25,000,000. While at peak production more that 6,000 employees are engaged.

Auxiliary Water Supply.

The company not only has the advantage of the city's water supply, but also has a 75,000 gallon gravity tank elevated at a height of 158 feet above the street level, which maintains a pressure of 70 pounds on the sprinkler system throughout the factory.

The company's fire department consists of a permanent chief and a volunteer brigade of 18 men, who hold regular practices, answer all fire alarms no matter in what part of the plant the men may be employed, and who receive extra pay for this work. In certain parts of the plant where there are extra fire hazards to be met, the employees are instructed in the use of special appliances and their location, so that in the event of a fire they can carry out emergency measures and prevent a fire gaining much headway.

Have 30 Watchmen.

The factory is patrolled day and night by 30 watchmen under the supervision of a Police Chief. Part of the watchmen's routine is to punch in an alarm from different parts of the factory while on their regular beat. The fire hall is the Chief's office where all recording instruments are located, together with the control boards for fire, watch and sprinkler systems.

One of the hazards is the duco or pyroxylin finish. It is highly inflammable. Neither duco or thinner which is furnished for use with duco

Jack Armstrong, 17, Was Training To Become An Air Pilot.

HAD 50 HOURS FLYING.

Stratford Man Who Was At Controls is Seriously Injured.

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Armstrong, 17, Willowdale, a north Toronto suburb, rated as Canada's youngest flyer, was killed and Floyd Banghart, Stratford, was seriously injured, when a Waco biplane owned by the London Air Transport crashed at the Canadian Colonial Airways field here early last night.

Armstrong died during an automobile race with death from the field to Western Hospital. He was a student flyer and had been training two years to become a pilot. He had nearly fifty hours solo flying to his credit.

Banghart, who was at the controls when the plane crashed had both ankles broken and was bruised about the head and body. He is a married man and is at present in the Western Hospital.

The machine was a new one and was being tested at the local field. Just prior to the fatal crash it had been in the air with pilot Jerry Fitton at the controls and Banghart who had brought the plane from Stratford earlier in the afternoon, as pilot and young Armstrong as passenger. While at 1,500 the plane went into a nose dive and vertical spin and crashed just beyond the boundaries of the flying field as employees at the aerodrome and passing motorists looked on.

Imported Virginia potatoes, now near the end of their season, sold at $6 for No. 1 quality; $4 for No. 2 and $3 for culls, per barrel of 165 pounds. There was little demand for old potatoes, although there were plenty for sale from New Brunswick at 60c to 80c per 90 pounds, in bulk.

The local butter market was steady with No. 1 Eastern wholesale at 36¾c to 37c per pound. Retail prices were 39c for solids and 40c for prints. Receipts were 369 boxes, compared with 1,208 boxes on the same day last week.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 11—Wheat prices advanced 1½c to ¾c in a dull and uninteresting market here yesterday. Trading was light and mostly local in character, exporters taking very little interest in the market. Demand for low grades of cash wheat continued good, but light offerings held trading to a light volume. Prices were generally ¼c to 3c higher.

Oats sprang into activity to-day with prices ¼c above yesterday's close. Barley and rye advanced 1c and flax 1¼c.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, July 11.—Butter prices again reacted slightly on the local wholesale produce market yesterday in rather dull trading. A certain amount of early storage supplies is still appearing on the market, and this, combined with the recent draggy feeling, had the effect of imparting a slightly unsteady appearance to the trade. Prominent dealers report that quotations on No. 1 creamery are ranging between 37 1-2 to 37 3-4 cents per pound, with most sales being made at the higher price, while the No. 2 grade is selling at from 36c cents to 36 1-2 cents per pound. Supplies to reach the market continued to be just about sufficient to answer all demands, and the quality of the No. 1 grade in particular was stated as being of the best.

The dull trend of the past week or so again evidenced itself in trading on the local wholesale egg market yesterday, with little activity displayed, and a noticeable falling off in call for the lower grades and seconds in particular. Extras remain the popular grade and all offerings of this type are readily absorbed. Plenty of eggs to answer all demands are arriving locally, despite the production drop in the warm weather, although the past few days has been cooler than usual at this time of the year. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c. to 28c. per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c. per dozen; seconds, 21c. per dozen.

Churning cream on the local wholesale market generally maintained the steady price of 39c. per pound for the No. 1 variety, although some dealers state that sales are being made at 38c, and are of the opinion that the drop in butter prices offers justification for this lower trend, which may or may not continue.

The cheese market yesterday was practically at a standstill, with almost no supplies being moved. The price of No. 1 large, colored paraffined and Government-graded was quoted at from 18 3-4 cents to 19 cents per pound.

WHEAT POOL SUGGESTION TAKEN

N.S.W. SYDNEY, July 10.—(Canadian Press).—A recommendation that a ballot be taken among the wheat growers of Australia on the question of establishing a wheat pool was accepted by the cabinet to-day.

It is understood that banks are willing to guarantee a certain amount in event of the formation of the pool. The government share of the guarantee will be discussed later.

PROVINCE SOLVES BURIAL PROBLEM

Body Was in River at Bala Tied To Tree For Three Months.

TORONTO, July 11.— When I. A. Humphries, acting deputy attorney-general, sent word to Bala yesterday that the province would bear the expense of the buryng of an unidentified man found in the Moon river near there, he settled a problem which has perturbed residents of the famed summer resort ever since the body was discovered on July 1.

The body has never been taken out of the river where, doctors said, it apparently had been floating for three months before it was seen on Dominion Day. It had decomposed beyond recognition. Wired to a bankside tree, it swayed gently on the water's surface as the current shifted Meanwhile, everyone around—tourists, townspeople and boatmen—loudly demanded that someone take it out of the river and bury it.

During all this time local officials were disputing who should pay the cost of the burial. Gibson township officials argued that the Dominion government should bear the cost as, they said, the body was found opposite the Indian reserve. Some townsmen said that the township should pay; others that the province should.

Yesterday morning a Bala undertaker, despairing a decision among the disputants, wired Dr. W. J. Bell, deputy minister of health. The latter immediately referred the subject to Mr. Humphries, as the burials of indigents and others such persons is a matter for the attorney-general's department.

Mr. Humphries telephoned Crown Attorney Johnston at Bracebridge. The latter was informed that the Bala coroner might issue a burial certificate immediately and that the body should be buried at or near the point where it was found. The province would pay the expense up to $35, as the law provides.

Interment will take place today.

FIRE CHIEFS OF DOMINION

can be ignited while being sprayed from spray guns operated under normal pressure. The residue or deposit which may collect in the ducts, spray booths or spray rooms, in which duco is sprayed, is very inflammable and when suspended in the air as a dust cloud in proper proportions, introduces the same explosion or flash fire hazard as sugar, starch, flour, sulphur, wood dust and other inflammable dusts. It is necessary that cleanliness be the watchword and every precaution taken in the storage of large quantities of duco in liquid form.

Storage Accommodation.

Ventilation is essential in all parts of the plant. Elaborate systems of artificial draught have been designed with ducts of substantial metal construction with electrical fans so that there are complete changes of air in all parts of the plants. Duco, enamel and gasoline are all stored in outside, non-combustible buildings.

Consumuing 2,000,000 feet of lumber a month there is naturally a great amount of refuse. Waste pieces of wood go to a conveyor and are sold under contract as fuel. Shavings and sawdust are conveyed through a blower system to cyclone distributors located above the boiler room, whence it is blown to the boilers and burned. At frequent intervals each month the mill rooms where the wood is fabricated are blown over with air in order to remove all accumulation of fine dawdust from the ceilings, walls and pipes, and thus prevent any possibility of spontaneous combustion as a result of this fine dry dust.

Acetylene welders are accompanied by tetra-chloride fire extinguishers.

All machinery is properly cleaned by the operators before leaving the factory. The cleaning of the factory comes under the supervision of the Salvage Department who are responsible for the collection of refuse, the salvage of any material that is not to be burned, and the general cleanliness of the plant.

Chief McKenzie concluded his address by recommending systematic plant surveys that will ensure orderliness and cleanliness at all times. This was the best form of protection.

HON. J. R. STRATTON ASSISTED IN PROMOTING T. & N. O. RAILWAY

Northern Ontario's Great Riches Were Made Available.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE

Development of Rich Mineral Resources a National Asset.

The construction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway by the Ontario Government of which the Hon. George W. Ross was Prime Minister was an enterprise of national importance in the projection of which the Hon. J. R. Stratton, as Provincial Secretary, played an active and determining part. It was one of the most far-seeing public enterprises ever conceived in this country, and its fruits are being reaped today in the great mining industry, the pulp and paper industry, the agricultural development of the clay belt and finally in the upbuilding of many urban centres and the opening of a vast area that is a paradise for tourists.

The actual foresight of the government of which Mr. Stratton was one of its guiding spirits is disclosed in the preamble of the Act which authorized the construction of the T. and N. O. Railway. Such clauses as these reveal as vision that becomes statesmen: "Whereas exploration has shown that in the district between Lake Nipissing and Lake Abitibbi and northwesterly from Lake Temiskaming there are large areas of arable land well fitted for settlement and extensive tracts of merchantable timber, and deposits of ores and minerals that are expected, upon development, to add greatly to the wealth of the Province;...and whereas it is in the public interest that the said district should be, at as early a date as possible brought into a railway should be constructed and operated under the direction and control of the Province, etc., etc....."

Declared to be Waste of Money

The chief criticism that was levelled at the construction of this railway declared that it was a waste of public money and would open up a country that only showed barren rocks and stunted poplar. Few of the members of the Legislature had obtained more definite and accurate information of the possibilities of the northland than Hon. J. R. Stratton, and this knowledge stimulated his support of the railway project.

Northern Ontario has been a source of great wealth not only to Ontario but also to the Dominion of Canada and the British Empire. The metallic production of this province in 1902 was only $6,237,499; but as a result of the development that has taken place since the T. and N. O. railway was built the production in 1928 was $71,199,917. And the aggregate production during the years now exceeds one billion dollars.

Among the gold producing countries of the world in 1902 Canada was not even considered as being even a future propect, but by reason of the discoveries and expansion that has followed the building of the T. & N. O. railway, opening up a land of great mineral wealth, Canada has moved up to third place among all the gold producing countries of the world, and she is rapidly advancing to the second place, crowding her chief competitor the United States.

The Transvaal leads the world as a gold producer; and in 1928 Canada's production of gold was $39,100,000 as against $43,600,000 by the United States. The production of the United States has been declining at the rate of $1,500,000 a year, Canada's output has been increasing at about the same rate.

Opened Up Great Mineral Belt

As a further influence of the construction of the T. and N. O. railway it disclosed a great mineral belt that extended through northern Quebec and northern Ontario reaching through Manitoba to the Yukon. This Ontario railway also gave impetus to the building of the Transcontinental Railway which is also contributing to the disclosure of greater resources of wealth in this country.

When the construction of the T. & N. O. was undertaken by the government in 1902 the estimated expenses of the province that year were only $4,276,025, a fact that demonstrates not only the vision of Hon. J. R. Stratton and his associates in the government of that day, but also their confidence in this province and their courage. Today, as a result of the increasing demands on the government, paved highways, modern educational advantages and accomodation, public institutions, agricultural improvements, and so on, the expenditure of the province is $11 for every dollar that was required at that time.

Hon. J. R. Stratton is also remembered locally for his interest in colonization roads and the opening of the back country; also for a general improvement in the road system in order that farmers might reach their markets with more profit and comfort.

NORMAL SCHOOL FOR PETERBORO

Was Obtained By T. E. Bradburn as Local Member.

WHAT OTHERS DID

While he was a member of the Legislature, Mr. T. E. Bradburn among his other interests presented a plea to the government that one of the proposed Normal Schools should be located here. As a result of his representations his request was granted, and the local city of a large and prosperous territory of Central Ontario was chosen for this educational unit from which many hundreds of young teachers have gone forth to carry the lamp of learning.

James Kendry and James Stevenson were members of the Dominion Government when the completion of the Trent Canal was probably the main concern of this town and the whole Trent area. Both members were active promoters of the canal and its completion, and Mr. Stevenson gave special consideration to Peterborough's need of a new customs house. During his term the government selected the site at the corner of Charlotte and George streets and proceeded with the new building.

MINING PROSPECTS ATTRACT STUDENTS

Classes Are Larger in Courses of Geology and Mineralogy This Season.

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—The steady progress of development in the mining industry throughout Northern Ontario which has caused men and women alike to realize that there is much wealth in mining projects which they are anxious to get knowledge of is responsible for the large numbers of teachers registered for the course in Geology and Mineralogy at University of Toronto.

This was the theory advanced by University instructors today when queried on the reason for this study attracting such large numbers in comparison with other courses.

REVOLUTIONARY IN 1924—STILL MORE SO TODAY

APR 19 1924

"It was inevitable that Chrysler should attract a degree of scientific interest accorded no other car in the past fifteen years. + Engineers, naturally, were first to appreciate that Chrysler, while adhering strictly to soundest principles of design, is a distinct departure from previous motor car practice and performance. + They recognize in Chrysler an advance in automobile engineering as revolutionary as the development of the X-ray in medicine."

—Advertisement April 19, 1924

HOW HAS CHRYSLER DONE IT?

When an unknown motor car sets out—as Chrysler did—to grasp the leadership of a great industry, and with the speed of a meteor, sweeps to a foremost position in popularity and sales, it must possess extraordinary quality and ability.

When the first Chrysler car was placed on exhibition five years ago, the whole industry looked in amazement at what Walter P. Chrysler had accomplished. Within four years, Chrysler had leaped to third place in the industry.

How has Chrysler done it? What is the secret of this success? Simply that Chrysler gave in the beginning—each year since has given increasingly—and today gives in still greater measure—not only a finer grade of basic quality but a higher order of performance, beauty, style, power, acceleration, safety, comfort—all at most reasonable prices.

Such sweeping success must prove inevitably to the buyer of a Chrysler car today that he can count on the most advanced, the soundest, the safest and the most satisfying motor transportation his money can command. Let us prove these facts in a demonstration.

THE NEW PRIZE LIST.

The prize list and program of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, just published, shows, in addition to the regular competitions in all classes, a large number of special competitions that should be of general interest.

It is impossible to enumerate all these specials, but among those of outstanding interest is the grand sweepstake prize of a beautiful cabinet of silver, donated by the T. Eaton Company, Limited, to the exhibitor showing the largest number of exhibits and receiving the largest number of prizes.

The livestock judging competition, the girls' household science judging competition, the Canadian Packing Company's inter-county bacon hog competition, the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association specials, and several score of other specials are all listed, and a glance through the prize list, the size of which incidentally is significant of the growth of the Exhibition, offers eloquent proof of the encouragement and impetus given to agriculture by Peterborough's big fair.

This year's prize list consists of 132 pages, and splendid support has been given by the merchants, manufacturers and other citizens in the advertising sections of the publication.

SHOULD BE CHECKED UP.

The story of a Sarnia aviator who had been flying without a license and who was not detected until a newspaper article told of him making a successful landing after a wheel had dropped from the undercarriage of his machine, will cause some speculation as to the possibility of there being other unlicensed pilots in the flying game.

The matter is of great importance as many flyers are doing a brisk business in operating passenger flights in various parts of the country, and the knowledge that it is possible for airmen to engage in business of this kind for some time without a license is not likely to reassure the public as to the safety of flying under such conditions.

No aviator who has not passed a rigid examination and satisfied competent authorities that he is qualified to engage in passenger flights should be allowed to risk lives in air joyrides.

The public should in all cases have the assurance that when they venture upon a trip through the air the machine that is to carry them is in good mechanical condition and the man at the controls is a licensed and competent driver whose ability has been tested by men who know their job.

It is disquieting to find that in some cases at least unlicensed pilots have been operating.

AN IDEAL CAMP.

The Rotary Camp at Clear Lake was successfully opened this week, and between 40 and 50 boys are settling down for a delightful holiday at this well equipped and efficiently directed camp, recognized as one of the best of its kind in the Dominion.

Camp Skookum will remain open for the balance of the holiday season, which means that there will be plenty of opportunity this month and next for Peterborough boys who want to experience the thrills and enjoyment of camp life under ideal conditions at small cost.

Parents who have not yet decided the question of their boys' vacation should discuss the Rotary Camp proposition with any member of the Rotary Club, or communicate with the Y.M.C.A. where information should be furnished.

The plan of camping-at-cost has taken firm hold, and the present camp as a result promises to be the most successful yet held under Rotary auspices.

It would be as well for those who have decided to go to file their applications without delay as weeks are being allocated in the order in which applications are received.

GOOD HOUSING.

How many Peterborough homes qualify when measured according to the specifications laid down by the Social Service Council of Canada?

The Council declares that a healthy house should have:

1. A dry site, a good aspect; it should be weather-proof and damp-proof.
2. Clean surroundings and not be overcrowded by other houses.
3. Every room of an adequate size; it should be free of insects and vermin of all kinds, and be properly ventilated and lighted.
4. No room overcrowding.
5. Proper sanitary appliances; water-closet, sink, wash-basin and both with hot-water connection.
6. Fly-proof, ventilated food and milk store.
7. Proper heating and lighting arrangement.
8. Proper water-supply and satisfactory laundry facilities.
9. Proper kitchen.
10. Been built under a general town planning scheme.

There are three things necessary, according to the Council, in order to obtain good housing, and these are, in order of importance: 1, education of the public in house hygiene; 2, legislation; 3, law enforcement.

1. Public education: The people must be told what bad housing means, its evil effects upon their own and their children's health, and how the menace may be avoided.

2. Housing legislation: This may take the form of a modern housing law, or be part of a general town planning and zoning enabling act, in which a province would be zoned, and housing regulations applicable to the different zones would be passed by the provincial health authorities.

On the whole, a provincial law is better than a municipal one, because the former would control the areas adjacent to a city which are likely to be annexed in the future, and which, otherwise, would develop into shack towns. This housing law would regulate the construction of all new houses, would compel and supervise improvements and alterations in unhealthy houses and would provide that all buildings be in a sanitary state.

Housing legislation would make it unlawful to have, in any future dwelling house, dark or alcove rooms, rooms without ventilation, would prevent cellar dwellings, room and land overcrowding, would make a bath, a sink and a properly-equipped kitchen requirements for every home, and would prevent the creation of nuisances.

3. Law enforcement: Housing laws must be enforced without fear or favor. The medical officer of health must have the authority, funds and personnel to apply and enforce the law. He should have the authority not only to deal with the ordinary nuisances, but also to close, within four or five days, dwellings unfit for human habitation.

How does Peterborough measure up to this standard?

HOME LIFE.

One of the delightful features of modern life is that one can always find something to worry about. Law enforcement, crime waves, the divorce rate, the younger generation, the rise of billion-dollar corporations—the possibilities, in truth, are almost limitless. Chief among these worrisome items during the last decade has been the steady growth of the apartment house. A few generations ago, the family that did not live in a single home, either owned or rented, was the exception. Those who lived in apartments were pitied. It was felt there could be no normal life unless one had a whole house to oneself. Now, the scales are swinging the other way, particularly in the United States. It is a fact that in some cities across the border line the majority of families live in apartments and no town is so small that it does not have a fair-sized quota of apartment dwellers. Apartment houses in Hamilton have broken out like a rash and have provided the worriers with a great subject. The home, they say, is breaking up, patriotism is decaying and the old-time virtues generated by family life are disappearing. There is no denying that there is something especially satisfying about living in one's own home. A yard and flower garden, no matter how small, give a sense of order and importance to one's life and the added privacy and isolation that a separate house give are often priceless. But too often an improper perspective is applied to this subject of the home. Home is a state of mind, a blending of assorted moods and associations, and it can be found quite as well in a "parlor, bedroom and bath" suite as in a private house. It doesn't take much to make a home and what it takes is just available to the man who can't afford anything but a third-floor flat as it is to the plutocrat who can build a palace. The chief ingredients are love, forbearance, tact and unselfishness. Mixed properly, they produce contentment, without which home is just a meaningless word. Sometimes a room fitted up for "light housekeeping" constitutes a beautiful home and sometimes a costly residence, situated on rolling terraces, is no more deserving of being called a home than is a railroad depot.—Hamilton Spectator.

AN AMERICAN COMMENT.

(From the Detroit Free Press)

The Toronto Globe is attempting to promote "a great national and imperial gesture" against the enactment of the tariff bill now before Congress in Washington. An economic conference with Great Britain and the other Dominions is to be held. They are all to agree to trade with one another rather than with the United States. The gesture is to be timed with an eye to dramatic effect. The day the bill is passed the imperial fist will be raised and right gallantly waved in the face of Uncle Sam.

At times it is difficult to repress the feeling that there are people in Canada who do not know what they want or why, where they are headed or when they will get there. They threatened a tariff war with this country in 1910. A truce was arranged by the Taft-Fielding reciprocity agreement, which Congress promptly ratified. The Canadian Conservatives raised the cry of no truck nor trade with the Yankees, went to the polls and repudiated reciprocity. A Liberal organ now raises the same cry, against the advice of the leader of the Liberal Government; and is demanding that the leader of the Conservative party be summoned to head a bi-partisan rally to save the Dominion!

The right of Canada to pass what tariff legislation it likes is unchallengable. The right of Canada to call upon other parts of the Empire to help it strafe the United States may be equally well founded; but the exercise of that right is not without dangers to the Dominion itself. The least of these arise from the fact that it has more to lose than to gain in a trade war with this country. Great Britain and the Dominions cannot profitably take in each other's washing except on a basis of tariff equality. Are Canadian industries ready to accept even that degree of free trade toward which the present Government in Great Britain is moving? Are Canadians generally prepared for the various other embarrassments that might result from closer identification with the economic interests of other imperial units? The Globe may discover that it is waving the flag over a proposition altogether too artificial to appeal to a nation that is fundamentally practical.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 11 "CANCER".

If July 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9.30 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12.45 p.m., and from 4 p.m. to 5.50 p.m.....

Kindly words and gracious deeds thrown upon what you consider to be hard and unprofitable soil on this date will prove to be productive seeds, and you will live to reap a golden sheaf from them. It will be a good time to make new suggestions and to plant new ideas.

Children born July 11th will have to be taught punctuality, as they will be inclined to be dawdlers with little respect for time. They will be good-natured, easy-going, and rather irresponsible, but loyal, unaffected and sincere.

You are not lacking in ability, you are a deep thinker, and a logical reasoner, but your personality is one which needs forcing. The integrity or strength of your character cannot be criticised, but your personality is not one which remains on the mind—you neither strongly attract or repel others on a grand scale. There are no sharp edges or glaring headlines in your make-up to advertise your presence or activities. In contrast to those born on July 10th, you are an introvert—you are shy, retiring and scholarly, but not a person of dynamic action. You are reliable, very steady in a crisis, and one who can be trusted.

Your staying powers, your level headedness, and your good mind place you, however, as a leader, and not as a follower, in your work. You may not seek recognition, nor receive it as quickly as those who possess more spectacular personalities, but it will come, and your successes will be permanent. You are far sighted and patient—you build step by step, and your structures will last.

You are rather a naturalist, and you not only love birds, trees and flowers, but their study is one of your hobbies, and you are a fighter for their conservation and preservation. You seek not to be ministered unto, but to minister happiness to others.

Voice of the People

A CENTRAL SOCIAL REFORM.

To the Editor of Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The Province of Ontario, in harmony with the prevailing humanitarian urge, is spending liberal sums of money to minister to various social needs. We have our mothers' allowances and will soon have old age pensions. We are developing the activities of the Public Health Department. We are seeking to curtail the social evil with its attendant disease. An effort is being made to care for defective and underprivileged boys, and schemes to rehabilitate prisoners are now approved. In addition to this and other similar efforts, the Province has undertaken to spend some millions on industrial research, in order to stimulate and enlarge production. These undertakings are necessarily costly, but the objects are well worth while.

A wise doctor diagnoses his case and tries to take care of all the factors in his problem. It would seem reasonable, under such circumstances, that our public leaders should consider the relation of the temperance question to these reforms. It is, in a measure, central to them all, inasmuch as the liquor problem impinges on all these efforts.

The need of old age pensions is augmented by drink. The claim for mothers' allowances is, at times, a direct result of the traffic. Indulgence in liquor frequently creates conditions that defeat the efforts of public health. Drinking is a strong ally of the spread of venereal disease. The problem of defective and wayward boys is often closely allied to liquor. The reclamation of our prison population is impeded and our whole criminal problem greatly intensified by access to liquor.

As to our efforts to increase production, it is discounted by the drain of drink. Phillips Snowdon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has stated, basing his remark on scientific experiments in England: "A moderate dose of alcohol has the effect of reducing the efficiency of the workman by one-seventh," while Lord Balfour, speaking to the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Sheffield, declared "prohibition has given the United States twenty per cent. advantage over us (Great Britain) in the competition for the trade of the world."

These social undertakings, of which we have reason to be proud, are all undercut by the presence of liquor, which tends directly to increase every problem attacked.

To boast ourselves of our great social schemes, while tolerating and courting the great anti-social liquor traffic, proclaims us as social students in that degree either superficial, incompetent or insincere.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper reporter on the Herald tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body, found in the tule marsh outside the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hearts him tell this to Peter. The latter, already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else.

The trial of Orme for the murder of Sheila O'Shay begins. Mrs. Kane on the witness stand, states that Orme is Sheila O'Shay's real husband. He disappeared and she had never divorced him.

CHAPTER 41.

This time there was no need of the bailiff's gavel. In the amazed silence that filled the room, the telegraph instrument sounded suddenly loud. The breaking of a pencil point by one of the Q and A twins came as a tiny, sharp explosion of sound.

The district attorney mopped his brow and leaned back with a sigh of relief.

"That is all, Mrs. Kane."

"You may cross-examine."

The young defense attorney eyed the figure in the witness chair as if he were a lion tamer entering the cage of an unknown and highly temperamental beast of prey. His ruddy face had grown perceptibly paler. But he scraped his chair back from the table and advanced to the attack.

"Mrs. Kane," he said, "Is it not somewhat unusual for a lady to confide her intimate personal affairs to her maid?"

"I've nothing to do with whether its is unusual or not. Miss O'Shay did it."

"Will the witness kindly answer the question."

"Your honor, I object! The question is purely rhetorical. The witness cannot be expected to testify as to what is or is not unusual."

"Objection sustained."

"Mrs. Kane, can you explain how Mrs. Ellsworth came to confide her marital and other affairs to you?"

"Yes. It was because I loved her." The face with its slipping teeth and its sausage roll of polished black hair was no longer funny. It was grim, and in a strange way majestic. "Miss O'Shay was a foolish, headstrong woman, but I loved her like my own daughter, and she knew it. I was the one person in the world who never flattered her, to whom she could always turn, in the scrapes she was forever getting into. God knows I did my best to keep her out of trouble. She didn't take my advice, not very often she di in't. She was always wild—always took what she wanted, and never mind the consequences. And that I'd do my best to keep the consequences from hurting her—too much. Always she got what she wanted, and always it hurt her in the end—till the very end of all—" The sunken mouth twisted, the sharp eyes squinted shut, holding back the tears. One of them splashed down on the back of her cotton glove, and she wiped it off with the other hand. "She was nothing but a wayward girl, all those years—a wayward girl, spoiled by all the attention she got playing with fire and thinking it wouldn't burn. Why wouldn't I know?—I, who took care of her from the time when I kept a boarding house and she was hardly-more than a child, half starved, tramping the agencies hunting a job in the chorus."

Graham gripped the table before him with both hands.

"Your honor, I ask that the last remarks of the witness be stricken from the record as unresponsive. The character of Mrs. Ellsworth as interpreted by Mrs. Kane is beside the point."

"The witness answered your question. She has a right to explain her answer. The remarks may stand."

"Why, if you were so devoted to Mrs. Ellsworth, did you withhold this vital information? Why did you refuse to co-operate with Dr. Cavanaugh in his efforts to identify the body?" Graham pounced.

"Your honor!" The district attorney was pained and reproachful. "I object! The question is complex."

"I will reframe the question." Graham had himself in hand now. He faced the old woman in the chair with an air of solemn triumph. "Mrs. Kane, why did you refuse to give Dr. Cavanaugh a hair of Mrs. Ellsworth to compare with the hair of the body found in the marsh?"

The district attorney leaped to his feet.

"Your honor, I object! Is it the intention of the defense to impeach this witness?"

"It is," Graham said sturdily. "I am laying the foundation for that, your honor."

"The witness may answer."

"Of course I may answer. Why shouldn't I—now that it can't be helped?" The black eyes were open now, wrathfully fixed upon Graham. "You needn't think you're worrying me a bit, young man. I'd have you know I've talked down a lot smarter men than you are, in my day—or than the judge either, if it comes to that!"

Graham, beaming like an impresario whose star performer is capturing th audience, waved the point aside.

"You are acquainted with the defendant, David Orme?"

"I am."

"You have examined him professionally?"

"I have."

"Will you kindly explain to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury the circumstances and results of that examination?"

"I have seen the defendant more than once."

Graham looked slightly surprised, but recovered himself promptly.

"Very well; go right ahead, doctor."

"I will be as brief and as non technical as possible. If your honor and the jury will bear with me—" Dr. Cavanaugh glanced upward at the judge's bench—" I will go over the entire circumstances of my dealings with the defendant."

"You have all the time at your disposal that you need, doctor!" Even the judge treated this witness with marked and courteous respect. He no longer stared out of the window or gave his bored attention to the wranglings of Graham and the district attorney. It happened that this was the first case he had tried in which the great Dr. Cavanaugh appeared as expert witness, and he obviously looked upon it as an opportunity full of interest.

"Thank you." Dr. Cavanaugh nodded affably. "I will begin, then, with the early afternoon of a day last month, when I returned to my house from a morning round of golf and found a man whom I now know to be David Orme sitting on the doorstep of my office, blocking my entrance."

Graham's head jerked back, his startled gaze seeking the doctor's face. The district attorney's chair made a scraping sound as he pushed himself back from the table with both hands. But Dr. Cavanaugh, apparently oblivious of the sensation his statement had caused, was turned toward the jury box, his eyes studiously regarding the toe of his shoe as he crossed one knee over the other and leaned back at ease in the witness chair.

"Behold the Ethiopian emerging from the woodpile!" Harry chortled to his "twin" in gleeful excitement.

"Just cast your eyes on Graham—he's getting something he didn't bargain for," the other twin urged, digging an elbow into his mate's ribs for emphasis

"No talking in the courtroom, please!"

Abandoning his futile attempt to catch Dr. Cavanaugh's eye, Graham, with an obvious effort, schooled his voice to non-committal formality.

"And on what date, doctor, did this—this meeting occur?"

"On the fourth of March of the current year."

The district attorney's chair scraped sharply again—forward, this time.

"I beg your pardon? I—I think I must have misunderstood." Graham was clutching the edge of the table before him with both hands. "Will you repeat that date, please?"

Dr. Cavanaugh turned and surveyed his agitated questioner with mild amusement.

"I said"—he raised his voice, as if he had just discovered that Graham was slightly deaf—"March fourth of this year."

"But that—that was before Mrs. Ellsworth disappeared!" Graham seemed hardly able to credit the testimony of his senses.

"The inference," Dr. Cavanaugh assented smoothly, "is quite correct."

WINNER OF EXAMS GETS SCHOLARSHIP

Peterborough County Again Gives $50 Prize To O.A.C. Course.

A scholarship toward the course at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph is to be awarded in Peterborough County again this year. By this, some boy from the county will receive $100 toward expenses of the first year at the college. Fifty dollars of the sum has been voted in the June sessions of the County Council for the purpose and an equal amount is to be provided from the Massey fund of the college.

The scholarship is open to any boy resident in Peterborough County. Applications are receivable now and the scholarship will be awarded early in September. The winner will be decided by a committee composed of the Warden of the county, J. F. Breckenridge, chairman of the Agricultural Advisory Board; James Hawthorne and the county agricultural representative, J. B. Nelson. They will make their selection by means of examinations on general farm knowledge and practice giving preference to boys who have completed the short course of the college. The fall course opens on September 20 this year.

Harry Elmhurst was the boy selected from Peterborough County last year, and has completed satisfactorily his first year. It has been observed that some of the most successful students in the college are boys that come in aided by the county scholarships in Ontario.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"What—no parking here, officer?"
"Well, hardly any."

THAT'S FOR REMEMBRANCE

Peter Neeley Douthright was notoriously, persistently and chronically absent-minded. He forgot to kiss his wife each morning. He forgot to get gas. He forgot the appointment to go to the dentist. He forgot that the doctor ordered him to quit smoking. But one thing he did remember—that fellow who sold genuine Canadian Club at six dollars a quart was named Preston Okley Rohweiddersky, he hung out at number 5623 Nitchburg avenue, and his telephone number was Central-Main 57834, on Thursdays between two and four.

DILEMMATIC

"——and half a pound of black pepper," continued the customer, reading from her shopping list.

"Sorry, Mrs. James," replied the country storekeeper, "but I won't be able to let you have that until my order comes from the city tomorrow."

"But there's a half-pound package right there on the shelf," exclaimed the lady pointing her finger.

"Yes, I know," returned the grocer, "but you can't have that last package; it has always been the motto of this store that we are never out of anything."

The motor car has made picnicking easier. On the other hand, there is much to be said in its favor.

Mrs. Boggs: How did they ever happen to pick you to be a judge in a beauty contest?

Boggs: Why—er—they had seen you, my dear.

ENTIRELY SUPERIOR

Rub: Canadian liquor law sare better than ours.

Dub: So is their liquor!

"Don't you just love hoi polloi?"

"Dear me, no—those Chinese dishes are so fattening."

PARTICULAR

"Here is a thrilling story about buried treasure."

"Liquid or metal?"

INDISPENSABLE TO SUCCESS

It was little Filbert's music hour and he was toiling over "The Marseillaise."

"Oh, Mamma," he cried, "I'll never learn to play this!"

"But you must, dear," responded Mama. "That is, if you ever expect to grow us and be an organist in a movie."

QUIET TRADING ON MINE MARKET

Dome, Falconbridge and Members of Lindsley Group Register Gains.

MAYLAND OIL ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—A fairly quiet market with no extraordinary movements prevailed among the mining stocks this morning. Ajax Oil suffered a reaction after the past two days, dropping 13 to 1.18. Most of the leaders were steady, Noranda halting at 59.50.

Dome Rose 15 to 10.00; Falconbridge added 15 to 13.80 and its fellow Lindsleys, Sherrrtt Gordon and Sudbury Basin each added 5 but Ventures declined 5 to 8.20. Hollinger was steady at 5.65. Base Metals which has done well lately sold off 5 to 4.15.

Mayland Oil showed an advance of 15 to 7.75. Another active oil was Wainwell which moved up 3 points to sales of 30,800.

Wheat Prices Break In Early Trading

CHICAGO, Ills., July 11 (C.P.).—With many traders inclined to regard bullish aspects of government crop reports as having been discounted beforehand, wheat prices suffered a sharp break early to-day. Light rails in drought districts northwest and hedging pressure from the southwest tended also to give an advantage to the selling side. Opening ¼c off to ¼c up, wheat later developed a pronounced downward trend. Corn and oats weakened also, with corn startin gunchanged to 1 cent higher and subsequently undergoing a general setback. Provisions held firm.

PROFITS GOOD, BANK SHARES SHOW ADVANCE

Average Price Better After Stagnation For Month.

TURN NOW FORESEEN.

Six-point Advance Follows Slow But Steady Decline From Last February Price.

TORONTO, July 11. — The average high of the eight listed Canadian bank stocks advanced three points in the week ended July 9 and three points in the week ended July 2, according to the Financial Post.

This gain of six points has followed the four weeks in June when the average high was stationary at 288, and is believed to presage a turn in the values of the bank stocks.

Canadian bank stocks are low compared with institutions of similar strength and standing in the United States and in Great Britain. For at least three years there has been substantial buying of Canadian bank stocks on behalf of New York investors, inluding one or more investment trusts which have specialised in the bank stocks.

"Rights" Were a Drag.

But in the successive recessions in the stock market, the bank stocks have suffered along with other stocks, especially as shareholders in a number of instances were finding cash with which to take up new shares allotted to them. The period of financing these purchases is now about over, which may account for the improvement in values.

Canadian bank stocks have not in Canada any practicable collateral value because of the clause in the Bank Act which prohibits chartered banks from loaning on the security of their own or any other chartered bank stock. This is an added strength but the values may have been affected in some degree in the market weakness by investors' selling bank stocks in order to protect other stocks which they may have considered to hold better chances of immediate appreciation.

FOOTHILLS OIL REGISTERS GAIN

Little Change Noted in Mining List During Morning Session.

SOME FRACTIONAL LOSSES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Little in the nature of aggressive change marked the stock market this morning and no great differences occurred in the position of stocks under fairly light trading. Foothills Oil and Gas advanced 50 cents to 8.50 and Home Oil showed another decline to 22.50.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol declined ¼ to 23. Standard Steel moved back 1¼ and Fractional losses were also sustained by Lake Superior and Steel of Canada.

Ford "A" declined ⅝ to 46¼ and Massey Harris also lost a fraction in the standing. Both International Nickel and Brazilian were firm, the latter recovering a slight decline at the opening.

TWENTY PLANES FOR EXHIBITION

Will Be Sent From U.S.A. At Vincent Massey's Request

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(C.P.)—In response to an invitation from Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to the United States, the War Department will send 20 planes to Toronto, Ont., on Sept. 5, it was announced yesterday. The machines will leave for the Canadian city from Selfridge Field. They will participate in air manoeuvres to be held in connection with the Canadian National Exhibition.

ELECTRICALLY GUIDED

PARIS, June 5.—The airplane of the future will be guided through fog, storms and across treacherous mountain ranges by an electrical cable if the plans of a French inventor work out. He plans to work the system similar to that worked on a ship—an electric cable buried in the ground would influence delicate instruments in the plane's control cabin.

New Nickel Producer Plans to Enter Field

Discussing the future of the nickel industry, the Engineering and Mining Journal says:

Following closely on the consolidation of the International and Mond Nickel Companies—the two leading producers of the world and the only ones of any importance—comes one of the numerous copper-nickel deposits in the vicinity of Sudbury, in northern Ontario, and also that occurrences of nickeliferous pyrrhotite in northern Saskatchewan are being investigated by prominent independent companies. For some time there was question as to how nickel-copper matte from an independent producer might be disposed of, but this difficulty seems to have been solved, so far as the new Falconbridge company is concerned at least, by acquisition of the rights and equipment to use the Hybinette process in Norway. Remains only the selling problem, which should not be difficult of solution, so long as the new production is not a serious thorn in the side of International Company. The New Caledonia producers, represented in this country (the United States) by the United States Nickel Company, of New Brunswick, New Jersey, have been allowed to pursue the even tenor of their way for years, but they are responsible for not more than about five per cent. of the world's output, and the production of other parts of the world is even more inconsequential.

The International company has no monopoly of nickel-ore deposits in the Sudbury district, and any new company that can successfully develop an orebody and market the product has a good chance, provided costs can be kept down. It must be remembered that nickel is not selling for any more than it was before the war. Stabilization, so far as the International Nickel Company has been concerned, has never meant the advancing of prices and their maintenance at high levels. This company has preferred to work for an increased production rather then an increased price. In fact, with the economies no doubt effected by merging the two old companies, and in view of the richness of the orebody under development at the Frood mine, a decline in price in the years to come may well result. Therefore, new companies must not figure too close ,with profit estimates based on 35c nickel and 18c copper; nor can they expect to become important competitors in the world's markets from any orebody so far discovered.

The opportunity to break what is considered a monopoly if it apparently can be done profitably, is always stimulating. But monopolies are not the ogres that so many once were, organized for the purpose of harassing their customers with high prices and the practice of a "public-be-dammed" policy. Increased efficiencies gained by centralized production and control of markets are more and more being used to promote general industrial welfare. International Nickel, producing perhaps ninety per cent. of the world's nickel, is an excellent example of an intelligent understanding of the value of such a policy.

ASSOCIATED APPAREL INDUSTRIES INC

The Associated Apparel Industries, Inc., formerly was the H. W. Gossard Company. As a result of an expansion program in 1927 the concern now operates in seven different divisions and in 1928 the name was changed to its present title. It has seven subsidiairies all of which operate individually and one of which is in Canada and one in England. It acquired two more subsidiaries in December, 1928. It is now the largest maker and distributor of corsets, brassieres, and kindred articles which are widely advertised under trade names and distributed to department stores and retail shops throughout the world. It has 13 sales offices of which 5 are in foreign countries and operates eight factories. The American plants are in Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Sales have been somewhat irregular from 1920 to 1927 but profits increased each year except 1924. Expansion programs begun in 1927 and continued in 1928 greatly increased sales and a gain in earnings of 70 per cent. in the latter year. Profits were $913,387 in 1928 as against $535,595 in 1927. Since the full effect of savings due to consolidations did not make itself apparent in 1928, the company anticipated lower costs this year.

Funded debt totals $1,100,000 in 6 per cent. notes due serially from 1930 to 1932, and $325,000 in mortgages gold 6 per cent. bonds. Capital stock outstanding consists of 200,000 shares of no par value. MOTHER SICK REJOICES TOO

Capt. Yancey As a Boy Always Was Into Some Wild Adventure.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Margaret Yancey, forgot her own illness temporarily last night to rejoice with relatives and friends over the successful flight of her son, Capt. Lewis Q. Yancey, to Rome, in the "Pathfinder."

"He's a crackerjack! I know he'd make it!" she cried.

"Neither Lewis nor his wife told me he was going" she said. "They thought I'd worry. But I followed the newspaper. A great boy, my son. I'm mighty proud of him."

The pilot always was adventurous his mother said, relating that when he was 15 years old he ran away from school and was found four months later aboard a battleship.

"We thought he was going to be a bad one" she declared, "but in 1920 he came home with the Wimbledon Cup, emblematic of the National Long Range Rifle Championship of the United States, and with a medal from President Wilson.

"His father always said he was a world-beater, even when the kid cut the pants leg off Mr. Yancey's new suit to mend his own."

Yancey's father, a Sergeant in the Chicago Police for many years, died eight years ago.

FUTURE BRIGHT.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 11 (C.P.).—A united effort on the part of the great Co-operative Wholesale houses of Britain to open a vast trading field for Canada was signified by Sir Robert Stewart, President of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, and J. A. Wilkins, President of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, England, in addresses before the annual congress of the Co-operative Union of Canada here to-day.

England and Scotland will co-operate to give Canada every assistance in promoting what should become an enormous trade, indicated the heads of the British associations.

Licenses, Licenses, Have You Yours Yet? Soon Need a Brief Case For Them All

How many Peterborough citizens ever realized how many licenses that one must have in order to travel the straight and narrow path of life, and keep from getting in jail. If a car is owned, a license must be secured before it is driven, and still further, one must have a driver's permit to lawfully operate the vehicle. Now, if you want a wife to ride with you, it is necessary to get a marriage license, and if she wants to bring her pet dog along he has to have a license also.

So far the party is all serene, but now that there is a wife, a car and a dog all fully licensed, suppose that a little vacation is planned and a hunting or fishing trip is to be enjoyed. Another five bucks is shot in licenses, to catch the bass and to feel the thrill of the fighting 'lunge. Even to have legal buck fever it is necessary to hand over the cash and get the necessary document.

Not only that, but when one returns home and is a little thirsty, craving for something satisfying and peppy from Sir Henry Drayton's "ten" shop, before even the smallest drop can be secured another license must be purchased.

After a hectic day has been spent wondering if any of the licenses have strayed, and the radio is playing soft and sweet music, a heavy knock comes to the door and in walks the radio inspector who removes the set—because it is not licensed. "The dickens!"—that was one license that was forgotten.

It surely must keep the Government officials busy thinking up new forms of licenses, and before long the leather goods manufacturers will be working overtime making containers large enough to carry all the necessary papers before it will legally be safe to stir from our fireside.

KING'S SPEECH PASSES HOUSE

Debate Ends After Overwhelming Defeat of Liberal Amendment.

PASSES WITHOUT DIVISION.

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Eng., July 11.—Without division the House of Commons last night adopted the first King's speech ever drafted by a Labor government. The debate ended after the overwhelming defeat of the official Liberal amendment on Scottish reforms. The vote was: Nays, 374; Ayes, 51. Majority against, 323.

The amendment asked that operation of the Scottish local government bill of the Baldwin government be suspended pending further inquiry. From the outset the amendment had no chance of success. The Conservatives, who fathered the Scottish act, were bound to vote against the amendment. There was a chance, however, of splitting the Labor vote for both in the last parliament and in the election campaign the Scottish Labor men bitterly attacked the act. When the amendment was moved Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced the government had a bill to suspend the education clauses of the act. As for the rest, an inquiry would be held.

Among the Labor ranks there were some who intimated that had it not been for this announcement they would have voted for the Liberal amendment. And the Labor vote held. Nevertheless, as they trooped into the "No" lobby, the Labor men met much chaffing. James Maxton and his little left wing band did not vote at all. "Ayes to the right and noes to the left," a Liberal member ironically called to them across the floor.

"We are contracted out" a Clydeside member shouted back with a laugh.

FIELD OF WHEAT HIT BY PLAGUE

Eighty-five Per Cent. of William Stewart's Fine Crop Destroyed.

HESSIAN FLY?

A field of fall wheat on William Stewart's farm, west of Keene, has been attacked by some insect which may possibly be the Hessian fly. This crop has been heavily damaged, at least eighty-five per cent. of it having fallen as a result of the boring of the strange and destructive visitant.

The report that reached The Examiner has been confirmed by J. B. Nelson, district representative of the Department of Agriculture, who added that he was not certain of the identity of the insect. He has the field under observation. One circumstance which tends to point away from the Hessian fly is the fact that no other field in the neighborhood has been attacked, nor was there any sign of it last year.

Mr. Nelson intimated that Mr. Stewart's field of fall wheat might be a total loss.

GOOD DISPLAY STORE WINDOW

EFFECTIVE COLOR SCHEME.

The north show window of E. F. Mason's grocery store on George street has attracted the attention of many people. It is a display stressing Todhunter's Famous Coffies and the premium perculator that is given free with every eight coupons. One coupon is given with every half pound of 65 and 50 cent coffee.

The color scheme is carried out in a double blue, the light and dark making a very effective combination. A huge map of the world is used for a background and streamers from this to the various kinds of coffee that are displayed and that are used in the remarkable Todhunter blend tells the spectator where these coffees come from. For example, Bogota coffee comes from Columbia; Maracarbo from Venesuela; Santos from Brazil; Mocca from Southern Arabia and Java from the Island of Sumatra. The product of all these places are made up into the one blend. The difference between the green and roasted coffees is also shown by samples of the two. White rosettes give a very pleasing and finishing touch to the artistic layout.

This window was arranged by E. H. Spencer, who is responsible for the dressing of the windows in the store and who recently won first prize in the Aylmer Tomato Week Window Campaign, which was held recently.

This prize was in the Class B division of Zone 1, which covers all of Ontario with the exception of Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London and Windsor. Much credit is given to Mr. Spencer for his work by the Canadian Canners Limited, as they state in a letter to him: "The judges have awarded your very fine window first prize. In view of the fact that a much larger number of entries was received this year, we think that more than the usual amount of credit is due you for your splendid effort."

Pet Bear Breaks Loose in Sault Ste. Marie And Causes Considerable Excitement

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 11. (C.P.)—Bears break largely into the news here to-day. Muggins, a pet bear at a local service station, and a great favorite with the public, slipped its collar and began to wander around the streets, visiting back doors, and causing some excitement.

When efforts were made to catch it, it climbed a tree and had to be inveigled from its perch by a pot of honey.

Another bear is the central figure of a story told by two Detroit tourists on their return from the Little White River area. This bear apparently became enraged at a motor car, and after getting on top and trying successfully to claw its way into it, made an effort to push it into the river but the blocks which had been placed at the wheels by the owners prevented this.

LIST IS IRREGULAR IN HEAVY SELLING

Failure of Call Loan Rate To Weaken Causes Some Uneasiness at New York.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Persistent selling for both accounts again depressed a wide range of issues in to-day's stock market, but operations for the advance, centreing in the utilities, carried the general list irregularly higher.

Failure of the call loan rate to go below 9 per cent. and uncertainty as to what may be expected from the weekly brokerage loan statement, due to appear after the close of the market, caused some uneasiness and induced profit taking and lightening of committments.

TOURISTS WELL SATISFIED WITH EXHIBITION CAMP

Campers Remark on Accommodation and Cleanliness of Local Camp

The tourist camp at the Exhibition Grounds this year is as popular as ever and the condition in which it is kept draws a great deal of favorable comment from those who stay there. The campers remark especially on the accommodations and the cleanliness of the grounds.

The place, after the Old Home Week celebration and after the Lottridge Shows, has been cleaned up and presents a very neat appearance now.

Some of those who have taken advantage of this up-to-date camp are M. E. Scoble, with his wife and child, J. H. Martin, all of Ottawa; C. E. Blatchford, Ed. Watkins, J. C. Woodside, of Warren, Ohio; J. A. Earskin, of Cleveland; Edward Petrock, Gar Stene and Dr. George Bell of Cookville, Ohio.

R. Langelois and his wife, the old couple who travel with a small car and a trailer house covered with witty slogans and wisecracks, were back again this year after visiting the camp on their diamond wedding anniversary last year, and enjoyed it as much as ever.

In the registration book the campers leave such remarks as: "This camp is one of the very best and I hope that it may be my privilege to visit it again." "Fine camp." Excellent camp; good accommodation; fine people." All these give credit to those in charge of the grounds for the way they look after it.

R. R. HALL URGED SYSTEM OF DAMS IN TRENT AREA

Dominion Government Receives $50,000 a Year From Power Rentals.

SECURED ARMORIES

Compensation of Farmers for Drowned Lands Was Settled.

Perhaps the chief contribution made by R. R. Hall as a member of the federal parliament was the establishment of the system of conservation dams in the Otonabee and Trent river districts, from which the Government of Canaa is today deriving an annual rental of $50,000 a year.

A series of old timber dams had been built on the Otonabee and Trent rivers to assist in the floating of timber in the days when lumbering was an important industry in this district. But they had served their purpose, and when their peculiar usefulness was at an end the stop logs had been taken out and the water was allowed to flow uncontrolled and unchecked. One of the results of this condition was that the flow of the Otonabee receded to an extremely low level during the summer months. Obviously such a condition demanded correction.

One of the first proposals made by Mr. Hall was the Dominion Government should assume from the Ontario government the control of the reservoirs that retained the waters of the Otonabee and Trent rivers in order than a uniform flow might be preserved in these rivers.

Contrary To Custom

The answer of the Department of Railways and Canals was that the Government had never embarked upon any conservation scheme to hold back waters and control them neither for navigation nor power purposes. Mr. Hall pointed out that the sooner the Dominion Government departed from the old methods the better it would be for the country. Finally, in 1905, the Government decided to take over all the dams owned and operated by the Ontario Government, and from time to time have built new concerete dams which have replaced the old timber dams, and have extended a complete system of conservation by which the waters of the Trent system are under continuous control. And as a result of the harnessing off these water powers the Dominion Government is obtaining for their rental the sum of $50,000 a year, which it would not have had if the conservation scheme had not been adopted.

Helped by T. E. Bradburn

At that time Mr. T. E. Bradburn was the west Peterborough representative in the Ontario Legislature. He co-operated with Mr. Hall in every way to further the Federal Government's new undertaking.

Another of Mr. Hall's accomplishments during his membership in the Federal House was the building of wharves along the Trent waterways for the convenience of farmers and tourists at a time when the automobile had not loomed up as a new means of transportation and travel. In this work he was assisted materially by the late Sir Sam Hughes, J. B. McColl, ex-M. P., and George W. Grant, ex- M.P.

Armouries Built Here

Mr. Hall's representations to the Government secured for Peterborough its present very commodious armouries, and because of local circumstances the Government contributed $10.00. toward the purchase of the site; contrary to its established custom by which the local municipalities were required to provide the land for armory buildings.

He also obtained a settlement of the claims from property owners for drowned lands along the waters of this district. It had been a vexed question virtually from Confederation days. Mr. Hall investigated the question as to the legal rights that arose out of the flooding of these lands by the building of dams. As a result the sum of $300,000 was appropriated by the Dominion Government to compensate farmers for their drowned lands.

WOMAN ADMITS SLAYING CHILD

Husband Refused To Give Her Money To Pay Milkman.

BURNED INFANT.

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—Because she was "ashamed to face the milkman" to whom she owed a three weeks' bill, Mrs. Joseph Valente, burned her eight-month old son, Dominick, to death in his go-cart, she confessed to police.

Mrs. Valente, held to-day on a murder charge, declared her husband, Sabintino, 21, refused to give her money for the baby's milk.

"I knew of nothing else to do" she told police.

The young mother said she often tried to help by going to work but could find no job.

"And I couldn't afford to put our boy in a nursery," she explained.

"I knew the milkman would leave us no milk," Mrs. Valente related. "And I got to wondering what I would do. So I got a match and threw it into the baby's carriage after I put him to sleep in it. Then I walked around to the front of the house and talked with my mother-in-law until somebody shouted fire. We ran to the go-cart, but when we got there, Dominick was dead."

Valente, employed by a motion-picture studio, insisted he had given his wife $9 for groceries only yesterday morning.

"Do you need any money?" he asked his wife as she was led to her cell.

"None of yours," she replied.

Detective Lieutenant Frank Condaffer said a $375 insurance policy on the baby's life was issued recently.

The Valentes came to Los Angeles from New York two years ago.

MADAME BEYEA GIVES ADDRESS

Noted Speaker Holds Chautauqua Audience Spellbound by Impressive Talk.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

WAREWORTH, July 11.—(Examiner Corespondence).—The program in the Chautauqua tent on Monday afternoon opened with a musical concert by Moscow Artists under the direc- of Russian music, dancing and sing- of Russian music, rancing and singing which was wonderfully given.

Following this was an address by Madame D. Pirie Beyea a noted lecturer on her chosen subject "Education or Catastrophe". This marvellous address was given in a most delightful manner which held the audience spellbound. The address was based on the mental, physical and spiritual education of boys and girls and how to avoid catastrophe which would surely follow if this education was not carried out.

Absolutely fearless in her handling of the facts of life and adhering to Christian principles, this lecturer brings to every audience an inspiration that has a permanent effect because of its heart-searching appeal to every individual.

Madame Beyea was known as "Mother Beyea" and affectionately known also as "Sunshine" by the boys overseas. As a nurse she was in the major engagements of the war, both with the Allies and Americans and was decorated with the 1914 star, a distinguished service medal given to commemorate the famous battle of Mons So far as careful search of records has revealed, she is the only American woman to receive this honor.

A bracelet composed of her identification overseas medal together with coins from different countries is to her a most precious treasure which money could not buy. Pathetic stories are connected with each coin which makes it dear to her.

She was also a friend of General Foch and at the time of his death Madame Beyea cabled that a rose be placed on his coffin. This was the only flower allowed to remain there.

In her lectures Madame Beyea never fails to pay tribute to the boys who did so much in the war.

Monday evening the entire program was in change of Anatol Frikin and his Russians.

This wonderful Russian company—so rich in native color, in beautiful Russian music and dramatic art, is hard to describe. Nothing like it has ever been presented upon the Chautauqua platform and it is to be doubted if ever before have Canadian audiences been given so vivid a glimpse into the heart of old Russia.

Three scenes were presented, each replete with gorgeous, exotic costumes and scenery.

Scene I portrayed the home atmosphere of a fifteenth century Boyar, or nobleman. Music by such great composers as Tschaikowsky, Karnovaloff and Rimsky, Korsakow were featured.

Scene II was the camp life of the picturesque Cossacks. Always fighting, always in danger, their music reflected the primitive, exciting and alluring atmosphere of their vivid lives.

Always the charm of gypsy life is felt by home-keeping hearts. In scene pictured, Gypsy melodies, folk songs and dances are interpreted with thrilling beauty.

The Russian native instrument, the balalaika was featured in the instrumentation supported by violin and piano.

Anatol Frikin who appeared in person with his noted company was born in Russia and graduated at the Russian college of Art. He is well-known as a baritone soloist throughout Europe, South America and the United States.

NOTIFIES COMMISSION

The North Monaghan Council held a special meeting on June 16, at 8 p. m. at the Court House, Peterborough, with all the members present. This special meeting was called for the purpose of appointing a tax collector for the year 1929.

A resolution was passed and carried, that C. B. Adair be appointed tax collector for the township of North Monaghan. The clerk was instructed to have a by-law prepared, authorizing the township to give a legal notice for taxes by mailing the regular tax bills, instead of the old system of delivering them to the house.

The monthly meeting was held on July 8, at the Court House Peterborough, in the afternoon, with all the members present.

By-law No. 927 was introduced and regularly read, with reference to the collecting of taxes by mailing all tax bills. The Council now holds you responsible for any accident that may happen through your negligence. The work must be done forthwith, otherwise the township will do the work and collect the cost thereof from the Peterborough Utilities Commission."

Another resolution was moved as follows: To all ratepayers of the township: The council hereby notifies all property owners of the township of North Monaghan that no ratepayer may interfere with any street or road in the said township by way of opening up trenches, constructing curbs, or in any way interfering with the said streets without an order from said council. From this date all parties trespassing on the said streets will be prosecuted.

The following accounts were passed for payment: E. L. Payne, $2.90; W. F. Morrow, registrar, $2.50; Archie Patterson, road superintendent, presented the following accounts for payment: Brown's hardware, supplies, $2.65; Brown's Hardware, machine bolts, $1.90; A. A resolution was passed that the deputy reeve and Mr. Kent be a committee to interview Fred Finnie and report back to the council in regard to building a shed for the power grader.

The meeting then adjourned, the next regular meeting to be held at the court house on August 12, at 2 p. m. (standard time).

YOU POOR KID, WHY ARE YOU SO SKINNY

Don't your Mother know how to put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks?

Tell her every druggist has McCoy's in sugar-coated tablets now so that in just a few weeks she can help you get back your appetite—make your body stronger—your feet nimble and your mind keener.

Tell her if they don't help greatly in 30 days she can get her money back.

Tell her that McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are full of weight increasing and energy creating substances and are the most successful flesh producers and health builders she can find.

One sickly thin kid age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

She must ask McDermid & Jury, McDermid's, Bond's, Lynch's, and Payne's, or any good druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—60 tablets—60 cents—economy size $1.00—as pleasant to take as candy.

MORE FREEDOM TO U. S. BUYERS

May Use Own Cars While On Business Trips in Canada Now.

NO COMMERCIAL USE.

OTTAWA, July 11. —(C.P.)— A memorandum is going forward to the collectors of National Revenue today broadening the conditions under which visitors to Canada may bring in their motor cars. The memorandum has been issued by Robert Breadner, Commissioner of Customs.

In the past a tourist from the United States could bring his car in under a tourist permit and go where he wished. However if a visitor desired to combine business with pleasure in this country he was prevented from using his car. For example if a person from the United States wished to attend a directors' meeting in Canada he had to place his car in a garage and leave it there until he was ready to return. If he used his car in the meantime it was liable to seizure. The same applied to a man who came in to purchase pure bred cattle. He had to put his own car in the garage and rent a Canadian car to go out among the farmers, persons wishing to buy real estate, investigate mining properties, attend schools of learning, preach or teach met the same limitations.

The new memorandum will give these persons the same privileges as tourists with respect to the free use of their cars while in this country. It is especially provided however that the cars cannot be employed in such commercial uses as carrying passengers, or in any other commercial pursuits in competition to Canadians.

CLIENT WAS INSANE SO LAWYER PLEADS

Says Charge Laid Should Be Manslaughter, Not Murder

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—At a special sitting of the First Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario counsel argued the appeal yesterday of John Marclay, condemned to be executed August 1 for the murder of Nancy Hudson here last New Year's Eve.

A. R. Hassard, for the appellant, Barclay, argued that two pieces of evidence used at the trial should not have been admitted. These were Barclay's statement to the police after he was arrested, and Mrs. Hudson's ante-morten statement. He pleaded that since Barclay in his drunkenness committed the crime in an insane mental state, the offence should have been reduced from murder to manslaughter.

MORE BABIES BOTTLE FED

Modern Life Not Conducive To Mother-Nursing, Says Dr. Chandler.

HOME LIFE DISAPPEARING.

MONTREAL, July 11.—(By the Canadian Press)—Many things are being laid at the door of modern life, with its changed conditions, and one of the latest is that it leads to babies being bottl -fed. A study of the question of feeding infants has been made by the Child Welfare Association of Montreal, and is summed up in a paper read by Dr. A. B. Chandler, medical director of the C.W.A., before a medical gathering recently.

The conclusions reached by a study conducted in health centres are summed up as follows: (1) Modern life with its housing conditions (apartment dwelling), its fast pace and the training of the rising generation is not conducive to mothers nursing their babies. (2) There is more artificial feeding outside the health centres than there is in them amongst mothers of the same class. (3) Lack of health of the mother seems to be a very important factor in their inability to nurse. (4) A large proportion of the weaning before the right age is due to the fact that the mothers give their babies other feedings as well, while they are still nursing them. (5) The work of the pediatrist in the maternity hospital must include not only care of the child but also the education of the mother in nursing her baby. (6) The training of medical students and pediatrists must include more attention to the nursing of babies by mothers.

More babies are being artificially fed than was the case 10 years ago, investigations prove. Among the causes, Dr Chandler remarks that "the future mother has been reared in an atmosphere of excitement. She has gone to work at an early age in domestic service, factory or office. Home life has largely disappeared so that home is not much more than a place to sleep and store her wardrobe.

WIFE MUST BE PAL.

"The girl is a pal before marriage, and she is taught that she must be so afterwards if she is to retain her husband. One cannot stretch one's imagination to visualize a mother nursing her baby as a 'pal' any more than to regard her training as satisfactory to produce the phlegmatic type of woman who makes the ideal mother for nursing," Dr. Chandler comments.

With the rise of the small apartment life in a crowded section where neighbors must be considered, is not conducive to a mother nursing her baby. At all cost the baby must be kept from crying, and it is apparently easier to do this when bottle feeding is employed.

Figures obtained from a survey made in Toronto in 1917 were compared with those of a similar survey made in Montreal last year, and show a very slight advantage in the case of Montreal regarding the nursing of babies by their mothers. Only 46 per cent. of the infants were weaned at the proper time, 7 per cent. being weaned because the mother was employed. In 16 per cent. of the weaning of babies too early, illness of the mother was the reason. Only 48 per cent. of the babies were nursed to the age of six months, it was found, and only 46 per cent. were nursed until the proper time of weaning generally conceded to be between the eighth and ninth month.

ITALIAN ART BEING SHOWN

Beautiful City Chosen for Great Exhibition of Ancient Work.

VALUABLE DRAWINGS

VENICE, Italy, July 11.—(C.P.)—This summer season in Venice is being marked by a great exhibition of 18th century Italian art. It has been organized by the city authorities at the suggestion of the Prince of Piedmont, who has taken a keen interest in all the arrangements.

Venice forms an ideal setting for commemoration of this kind, for nowhere was eighteenth-century life so gay, so graceful so happy in all its manifestations as in the city of Goldoni, whose comedies reflect the manners and customs of the day, in Venetian places and splendid villas on the Brenta. It was a fairy-tale existence, which vanished like a dream when the first clouds of revolution began to sweep over Europe.

The first section—"Art and Decorative Art" which is much the largest and most important, is housed in the International Exhibitions Palace in the Public Gardens. It includes pictures by Rosalba Carrera, Longhi, Canaletto, Guardi, and Pannini, and frescoes by Tiepolo; a valuable collection of drawings—over 300—by the great Italian masters of the period, engravings, furniture, tapestries, glass and china, costumes, sedanchairs, etc. In a small theatre there is a special show of marionettes and figures representing the characteristic "maschere" of the old Italian stage, and a large Presepio, or Scene of the Nativity ffrom Naples, where these Christmas tableaux were most elaborately got up during the 18th century, with a large variety of tiny figures exquisitely dressed and often of real artistic value.

Trinkets 200 Years Old

The exhibition of "ninnoli," or bric-a-brac, in the Casino Venier, throws interesting sidelights on the social and domestic life of two hundred years ago. Besides fans, snuff-boxes, watches, and clocks, there is a collection of early Italian visiting-cards, which it was the fashion to engrave with a variety of designs, often containing punning allusions to the owner's name or profession.

The musical section at Palazzo Zenobio ai Carmini has on view a very important collection of string and wind instruments. The palace has a wonderfully decorated music room, in which concerts of eighteenth-century music is being given during the summer.

The galleries and museums of all Italy have yielded freely of their treasures to make the Venice Exhibition as complete as possible, and foreign collectors and museums are being generous with loans. Sir Robert Witt is lending, among other things, a superb collection of drawings by Canaletto, and drawings by Tiepolo and Piaggetta are being lent by Dr. Hans Wendland, of Lugano. The Munich Pinacotheka, as a great concession, is sending Guardi's famous picture, "A Ladies' Concert in Honour of the Counts of the North," an enchanting scene of Venetian life which has never before been allowed to leave the Pinacotheka since it was first placed there nearly a century ago.

The exhibition was inaugurated on July 12 by the Prince of Piedmont, and will remain open all the summer.

SHOE SHINES

Let the children shine mother's and father's shoes as part of their daily or weekly work. Given a little, fully-equipped shoe-shining box, any child likes the job and feels proud of the dime thus earned.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

TOO MUCH MOTHER.

We come across children every day who are suffering from too much mother. The very conscientious mother who wants to see everything the child does, hear everything he says, correct whatever does not please her, reduces her child to a state of mental and physical helplessness that calls for th specialist.

Healthy children can stand a deal of letting alone. Babies do not need to be held all the time, rocked whenever they rest, be entertained whenever they are awake. They can stand only just so much attention. After that they need to be let alone. The hardest thing for a conscientious mother to understand that her duty is to render herself unnecessary to her children save in the spiritual realtionship of friend and mother.

It is pleasant to feel that a child leans on you. It is delightful to do things for a helpless child and bring the laughter of joy to his lips. It is a great comfort to be able to lavish all the affection of a motherly heart upon a child. But what if all this mothering costs the child his own strength?

I have seen handsome twelve year old boys who would not cut the meat on their dinner plates because mother had always cut it for them. I have seen beautifully intelligent girls in their teens who could not dress without their mother's help because she had always insisted upon dressing them. I have heard mothers of grown children say, "I really couldn't go away even for a needed rest. The children could never get along without me." Little did they dream what good it might do these same children to be allowed to help themselves a little.

That is one very good reason for sending little children to the nursery schools. It separates the too-maternal mother from her child for a few hours daily and gives each a chance to help himself. Mother can go to a lecture or a play do a bit of shopping, visit a friend, go to the hairdresser, play a little, Mothers are so likely to forget to play and so get out of touch with youth and little children whose chief delight is play.

The summer camps help loosen the too motherly clutch. The child gets away with his companions, learns to carry his share of the life in camp, do his bit of the daily work and be counted as a person. Staying close to home and mother tends to make many a child a shadow of his mother—no substance and no strength save from her presence.

If you find yourself saying, "I cannot go. The children could not get along without me for even an hour," take heed. If you find yourself saying, "My child would die of homesickness in a camp. He or she has never been away from me a single night since he was born," be careful. And if you are thinking, "My child will never be married. His mother is his sweetheart," take scorn to yourself. You are devouring your children. It is better to help them to face life on their own.

WOOLEN SPORTS COAT AN ESSENTIAL IN EVERY WARDROBE.

By Joseph Paquin.

The woolen sports coat is one which finds a place in every wardrobe not only for sports alone, but for travelling and various other needs. I have used a beige wool of a fancy weave for this model, giving it interest through its effect of sleeves and yoke in one, and by the wide patch pockets set on at a diagonal line. The belt slips under a front panel, and the coat is held shut by a single button.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

COMRADES.

(Contributed by "Neighborly Soul")

We from childhood played together,
My dear comrade Jack and I,
We would fight each other's battles,
To each other's aid we'd fly
And in boyish scrapes and troubles
You would find us everywhere;
Where one went, the other followed,
Naught could part us for we were:

CHORUS:

Comrades, comrades
Ever since we were boys,
Sharing each other's sorrows,
Sharing each other's joys.
Comrades when manhood was dawning
Faithful what'er might betide
When danger threatened my darling,
Old comrade was there at my side.

When just budding into manhood,
I yearned for a soldier's life,
Night and day I dreamed of glory,
Longing for the battle's strife,
I said, "Jack, I'll be a soldier,
Neath the Red, the White and Blue,
"Goodbye Jack!" said he, "no never,
If you go, then I'll go too."

I enlisted, Jack came with me,
And ups and downs we shared,
For a time our lives were peaceful
But at length war was declared;
England's flag had been insulted,
We were ordered to the front,
And the regiment we belonged to,
Had to bear the battle's brunt.

In the night the savage foeman
Crept around us as we lay,
To our arms we leap'd and faced them,
Back to back we stood at bay,
As I fought, a savage at me
Aimed his spear, like lightning's dart,
But my comrade sprang to save me,
And received it in his heart.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

DEEP BREATHING LOWERS HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

I saw two army sergeants put their respective squads through some physical training.

When they came to the breathing exercises part of the work, one sergeant had the men take in long deep breaths as they raised the arms from sides to an overhead position, the men meanwhile making considerable noise as they drew the air into the lungs and blew it out again.

Just how deeply they did breath, was known only to the men themselves.

The other sergeant directed his squad to run twice around two large tents at a little distance from the parade ground. When they returned there wasn't any question about the deepness of their breathing; every man had done so much work that he had to breathe deeply

Now you ask "Isn't deep breathing good for you, even if you just take long breaths without running or other exercise?"

Yes.

Research men have been able to show that normally about one fifth of the blood is in the lungs all the time but that if deep breaths are taken this amount can be greatly increased.

Now if you can get an increased amount of blood into your lungs, and keep it there for a little longer period than usual, it is bound to have a most beneficial effect upon the whole system.

And one of the practical ways of using this knowledge is in lowering the blood pressure in cases of high blood pressure.

Persons with small lung capacity, or those suffering from gas pressure in stomach and intestine which prevents the floor of the chest from coming down as low as it should, usually have high blood pressure.

If deep breathing exercises are taken, or if the intestinal condition is corrected so that there is no gas pressure, the blood pressure comes down many points.

So much more blood is able to remain in the lungs at one time that it relieves the rest of the system of just that much and thereby lessens the pressure.

But even if you haven't high blood pressure a few deep breaths two or three times a day will "ventilate" your blood.

"I have used Sunset Dyes with wonderful success for many years. With a family of seven children and little money I proudly feel that my home was always cosy, bright and cheerful, and my children neatly and comfortably dressed. I was able with the indispensable, miraculous help of Sunset Dyes to turn out things really attractive and wearable.

"Certain coats have kept every member of the family warm at some time, made over, cut down, and changed in colour with Sunset. From bleached cloth flour bags dyed with Sunset, I have made rompers, bloomer dresses, aprons, boys' blouses, kitchen curtains, bureau scarfs and even patchwork quilts.

Lady Jurors Barred Account Of Tardiness

LONDON, July 10 (C.P.).—"If women cannot get their lunch in three-quarters of an hour they are not fit to be jurors," declared Mr. Justice Horridge in the King's Bench.

Two women jurors had returned a quarter of an hour late; their explanation being they had had difficulty in getting served at the place where they went for something to eat.

The judge refused to allow them to return to the jury box, the case in which they had been engaged being continued with only ten jurors. The delinquents were ordered to attend the Court every day for the rest of

WEDDING BELLS

BRISTOW—LOCKHART.

A pretty wedding took place yesterday at Knox Church Manse, when Sylvia Muriel, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Lockhart of this city and the late Robert Lockhart, became the bride of Leslie Melville Bristow, son of Mr. Alex Bristow of Millbrook. The Rev. W. McDonald performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of orchid georgette with white hat, white kid slippers and white silk hose. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Reta Head, was gowned in pale green flat crepe with white hat, slippers and hose, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Harry Kesick acted as best man.

Mr. Bristow and his bride left on the noon train for Winnipeg, where they will live. The bride travelled in a beige ensemble with hat, shoes and hose to match.

THIS is an exceedingly busy season for Peterborough housewives. Many call it the canning season and while some housewives are enjoying a vacation, mothers are busily canning fruit and vegetables for the coming winter.

Most housewives will have their supply of strawberries done for the season as this fruit is almost at an end. But there are many more fruits making their appearance on the market.

• • •

Many housewives can such vegetables as peas, beans and corn and have good success, while others can't just get on to the way of doing this, and often their canning is a failure.

• • •

I believe it would be a good idea for those who do not have the success they would like to have, if they would tell in their letters to the women's page, how they go about this work. If there is some little thing done wrong, then those who are successful at this art, may be able to help some of the neighbors out.

• • •

I have noticed that most Peterborough housewives use the cold pack method when canning. Those who use this method invariably have success.

• • •

There was a time when housewives were handicapped in canning because of lack of the proper utensils, but now when the process is much simpler, those housewives, especially those who live in the country, and who cannot get a large quantity of heated water, may can fruit and vegetables readily.

• • •

Of course, all housewives do not use the same type of utensils for canning. Those living in the country, for instance, may not use the same type as those residing in the city.

• • •

Some housewives use the wash boiler or perhaps a large preserving kettle, while others use the water seal canner. Those who use the boiler, use a wire rack in the bottom to prevent the jars from knocking.

• • •

Any type of jar may be used for canning so long as it is airtight. One thing essential in canning is that new rubbers should be purchased each year. Many a jar of fruit has spoiled simply because the rubber was an old one, and don't forget to sterilize the rubbers before using.

• • •

Many jars of fruit or vegetables spoil too, because the choicest of fruit was not purchased. One cannot expect to obtain good results when good fruit is not used.

• • •

By all means do not purchase according to price, but purchase according to quality. It would be much better to get a small quantity of the very best, than a large quantity of less quality.

• • •

It is often the case that when one sells fruit, he sells all the choicest and keeps the rest for home use. There is a mistake in this. It would be much wiser to keep some of the best for home use.

• • •

Then when the season progressed or there is suddenly a drought and growth is stopped, you will not be obliged to depend on fruit or vegetables that have been stunted in any way.

• • •

Many housewives can their fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after they have been picked. The commercial canner, you know, allows very little time to elapse between the picking and the canning.

• • •

So here then, is something housewives should try to follow out, and perhaps their success will be much better. Stale fruit will hot look as nice or taste as good as the fresh fruit.

• • •

It has been found that such vegetables as peas, beans, corn and asparagus, should be done up as soon as they are picked and should not be left overnight.

• • •

To save time you might prepare the jars and the rings the day before, so that when you are doing the actual canning, you can go right ahead, having only to sterilize the jars and rings.

• • •

I have heard some housewives say they would like blanch in steam, but that they did not know exactly how to go about it. Here is the information I was able to get.

• • •

"Tie the greens in cheesecloth and suspend in a tightly covered kettle or steamer. Do not crowd too much in the cloth. Blanche only enough for two or three jars at one time."

• • •

I believe it is better, when blanching in boiling water, to tie the food in cheesecloth and put it into a pan of boiling water. Certain foods take longer than others for this, however.

• • •

After removing it from the boiling water, plunge the bag into cold water for from 5 to 10 seconds as soon as taken from the water. Then when this has been done, pack the vegetables carefully in the jars.

• • •

Then too, some housewives make the mistake of packing the contents in the jars too closely, with the result that the centre does not become thoroughly heated. Do not make this mistake but allow enough room that the contents may move zaround.

• • •

When you have finished packing the jars, place them in the canner and when it is full, have one inch of water above the tops of the jars to prevent evaporation in the jars.

• • •

An attractive little apron with the new flaring skirt silhouette was chosen for the model of this week's help. Every woman needs a few small aprons—whether she does any actual housework or not and the little apron shown in this week's help is especially attractive.

• • •

Even if you do not call yourself much of a dressmaker, you can easily make these little aprons and experience no difficulties, whatever. If you would like a copy of the help, showing a sketch of the apron with a diagram pattern for cutting out the material, please send a two cent stamp, enclosed with the coupon.

539 Dogs Licensed By Police Department

Up to the present there are five hundred and thirty-nine dogs registered in Peterborough at the police headquarters. The favorite canines in the city seem to be the Poms, Boston Bulls and Fox Terriers, which is a combination of beauty, strength and agility. Spaniels, Police dogs and Collies seem to vie with each other for second place, while there are also Bull Terriers, Scotch Terriers, Irish Terriers, Pekineses, Poodles, Sheep dogs and Mongrels registered.

The league leaders in dogdom in Peterborough do not seem to be the favorites in England from the reports, which state: "The fad for small and freak dogs is not eating into the popularity of the wire-haired Terrier, which is still the most popular canine in England. Registration figures of the Kennel Club show that in April wire-haired Terriers led their nearest competitors, the Cocker Spaniels, by nearly three hundred. Alsatians ranked third in the number of registrations."

HEALTH IS OBJECT OF DRESS REFORM

Reformers Would Eliminate Unhygienic Features From Modern Clothing.

LONDON, July 10. (C.P.) — In connection with the movement for reform in men's dress, which is sponsored by Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral, Dr. C. W. Saleeby, president of the Sunlight League, Guy Kendall, headmaster of University College School, London, Dr. Alfred C. Jordan, Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine and London Medical Society, an a number of other prominent people of London, a recent discussion was held in which the following points were made clear:

There was no desire to confine reform to any particular fashion but to eliminate the unhygienic features of existing clothes. On the medical side the question resolved itself into finding something less heavy and restricted than the present dress. The first necessity was the removal of the collar stud, which prevented ventilation. If a man felt the heat to be uncomfortable he could not take off his coat n the street or in a drawing room because the waistcoat was not a beautiful object to look at. Nor could he remove his waistcoat, because his braces were by no means aesthetic. Could anything be imagined more ugly than a pair of trousers? Tennis trousers were absolutely indefensible. Women's tennis attire was much more hygienic than that of men, for whom shorts might easily be adopted.

Dr. Jordan said that his own preference for ordinary outdoor wear was shorts, with a soft collar and open neck. He thought the "boiled shirt" for evening wear would have to go eventually. It was difficult for a male dancer to keep cool in evening dress. An alternative might be knee breeches and buckled shoes, with silk stockings, and a short sleeved or a sleeveless jacket, with an artificial silk shirt and loose open neck or a loose tie under a soft collar. Such fashions had been tried in London, but they had to be introduced as fancy dress. It would be essential to make the evening suits which he suggested in good material or the effect would be unacceptable. There need be no difficulty about the braces for the waist line of the breeches could be made to fit the figure so perfectly that braces would be unnecessary.

PETES TOSS AWAY CHANCES BY FAILING TO HIT IN PINCHES; LOSE EXCITING BATTLE 4 TO 3

Fifteen Left on Bases When Belleville Nationals Win Close Decision.

HARDILL BANISHED

And Hap Harrison Handcuffs Winners for Balance of Game.

(By F. D. C.)

If Vinnie Utronki remains in the Central Ontario League as long as Peeney Mills has done, which is doubtful, he'll never register a luckier win than recorded in his favor yesterday when the Petes were beaten 4 to 3 at Belleville in a game full of excitement and fireworks.

Any time a twirler passes seven men and hits five more and his teammates only make four hits behind him and yet he grabs off a win he can't complain if he is described as lucky.

Utronki had nothing yesterday, not even an idea of where the plate was, and yet the inability of the Petes to crash through with hits when they were wanted, got him out of hole after hole, and fifteen of the visitors were left on the bases.

The Petes got good pitching from a duet of pitchers, Hardill who worked efectively until he was tossed out of the game by Umpire Skitch in the third inning and Hap Harrison, whose fast ball stood the Nationals on their heads for the balance of the battle.

Hardill's banishment came as the result of kicking at Umpire Skitch's work on balls and strikes, and it looked as if the arbitrator was a little hasty in issuing his order of exile. Hardill had been working nicely against the Nationals up to that stage and Harrison stepped right in where he left off. There was one on and one out when the big first baseman went to the firing pit and he got a tough break on the first batter he faced when Johnston, who went to first base, booted Blakely's easy roller. Alex Weir followed with a long double to centre, scoring W. Mills and Blakely. The batter was out at third on a fast Legon to Hollingsworth to Sweetman relay, in trying to stretch his hit into a triple, and M. Green filed to Hall.

The Petes got two back in their half of the fourth. Hall filed to M. Green but Hollingsworth was hit and went to third when Sweetman singled to right on a hit and run play. Hollingsworth scored on a double steal, Sweetman being safe at second. Swanston singled past Scott to score Sweetman. Heckman rolled to Blakely.

Sonny Green walked to start the Belleville half but Utronki bunted a fly to Sweetman and Scott rolled to Rose, who tagged Green on the line and doubled Scott at first, a smart play.

Harirson opened the fifth by drawing a walk and Johnston sacrificed him to second but Hall filed to A. Weir and Hollingsworth popped to V. Weir.

For Belleville V. Weir filed to Hall. H. Mills was passed but W. Mills fanned and Blakely rolled to Johnston.

In the sixth Sweetman fanned. Legon was passed and stole second. Rose filed to Blakely. Swanston walked. A. Weir went back and made a fine catch of Heckman's real bid for a homer. It was a nice break for Utronki for the ball was hit on the rose.

Belleville died in order. Rose tossed out A. Weir and M. Green, and Sonny Green fanned.

Harrison was hit to start the seventh and again Johnston suppiled a sacrifice. Hall, however, fouled to Mills and Hollingsworth popped to V. Weir.

Utronki drew a pass to open Belleville's half and Scott sacrificed. Harrison threw out V. Weir and H. Mills.

For the only time in the game the Petes went out in order in the eighth Sweetman grounded to H. Mills. Legon filed to A. Weir and Rose rolled to H. Mills, W. Mills walked in Belleville's half. Bakey struck out. A. Weir hit to Harrison forcing Mills at second . A. Weir stole second, the Petes kicking at Umpire Nicholson's decision on the play. It cost a run for M. Green singled to right to score A. Weir. S. Green flied to Heckman.

The ninth was full of excitement. It opened tamely for Swanston and Heckman were infield outs, but Harrison drew a pass and Len Hollingsworth, batting for Johnston, also worked Utronki for free passage. When Blakely fumbled Hall's roller the bases were full. Utronki hit Red Hollingsworth forcing in Harrison and leaving the bases still full with the Petes only a run behind. Beavis was selected to hit for Sweetman and Belleville yanked Utronki, sending Alex. Weir to the hill top The Petes thereupon substituted Macdonald for Beavis. The pinch-hitter nearly broke up the game with a drive down the first line that was foul only by a foot or two and then with the count 2 and 2 missed a fast one and the hectic struggle was ended.

Read It And Weep.

Both teams lost a good scoring chance in the first. For the Petes Legon rolled to Scott but Rose was hit and Swanston doubled to centre, sending Rose to third. Heckman popped to Scott and Harrison fanned.

Scott for Belleville rolled to Harrison. Verne Weir singled to right centre but died stealing, Swanston to Hollingsworth. Harry Mills drew a pass. W. Mills was safe when his roller got away from Hollingsworth and Blakely drew a pass, filling the bases. Hardill struck out Alex Weir on three pitched balls, to end the innings.

Utronki's wildness gave the Petes another good opening in the second. After Hardill had nearly knocked V. Weir down with a hot drive the second baseman snared, Hall and Red Hollingsworth drew passes. Sweetman rolled to Utronki. Legon was hit, filling the bases, but Rose struck out.

In Belleville's half M. Green rolled to Hardill. S. Green walked. Utronki flied to Hall and Green went to second the left fielder's wide throw in trying to complete a double. Scott rapped to Harrison for the final out.

Swanston started the third with a fly to A. Weir and Heckman rolled to Blakely. Harrison singled to left. Hardill hit hard to V. Weir to retire the side.

Belleville's half saw the ejection of Hardill. Hollingsworth made a great stop of Weir's hard rap but threw low to first and the runner was safe. H. Mills sacrificed him to second and he stole third to score on W. Mills' single to centre. With Blakely up Hardill objected to Umpire Skitch's calling of balls and strikes and was banished, Hap Harrison going to the mound and Johnston to first base. Johnston fumbled Blakely's easy roller and the break was costly for Alex Weir followed with a long double to centre, scoring W. Mills and Blakely. The batter was out at third on a fast Legon to Hollingsworth to Sweetman relay, in trying to stretch his hit into a triple, and M. Green filed to Hall.

The Petes got two back in their half of the fourth. Hall filed to M. Green but Hollingsworth was hit and went to third when Sweetman singled to right on a hit and run play. Hollingsworth scored on a double steal, Sweetman being safe at second. Swanston singled past Scott to score Sweetman. Heckman rolled to Blakely.

Sonny Green walked to start the Belleville half but Utronki bunted a fly to Sweetman and Scott rolled to Rose, who tagged Green on the line and doubled Scott at first, a smart play.

Harirson opened the fifth by drawing a walk and Johnston sacrificed him to second but Hall filed to A. Weir and Hollingsworth popped to V. Weir.

For Belleville V. Weir filed to Hall. H. Mills was passed but W. Mills fanned and Blakely rolled to Johnston.

In the sixth Sweetman fanned. Legon was passed and stole second. Rose filed to Blakely. Swanston walked. A. Weir went back and made a fine catch of Heckman's real bid for a homer. It was a nice break for Utronki for the ball was hit on the rose.

Belleville died in order. Rose tossed out A. Weir and M. Green, and Sonny Green fanned.

Harrison was hit to start the seventh and again Johnston suppiled a sacrifice. Hall, however, fouled to Mills and Hollingsworth popped to V. Weir.

Utronki drew a pass to open Belleville's half and Scott sacrificed. Harrison threw out V. Weir and H. Mills.

RAYBESTOS TRIM COBOURG OUTFIT BY 10 RUNS TO 4

Fans See Plenty of Hitting in Game at Exhibition Park.

PLAYING IS LISTLESS

Art Armstrong Starts for Homesters, but is Relieved by Maudsley.

By G. W. C.

Raybestos last night beat the game little team from Cobourg in the Lakeshore league at the Exhibition Park by 10 runs to 4 and hence strengthened their hold on second position in the league. Far better ball has been exhibited by both teams this year and before the game closed it had grown into a rather listless affair. Through losses both at home and away and dissention in the team the visitors were only able to field nine men but these put up a real fight and for the first innings had things pretty well their own way when they scored their only four runs.

Art Armstrong started for the homesters but was unable to hold back the onslaught of the Cobourg batters and was replaced by Maudsley in the second and after that "The Sailor" had things pretty well his own way. Errors and poor fielding were numerous on the part of the visitors while the "Rays" failed to play that type of air-tight ball that carried them through to the finals last year.

Harold Nicholls was the hitting ace of the game getting four, nice clean singles in a like number of time at the plate. Hickey and Oscar Nicholls both got triples while Maudsley made the three bags when a line drive of his went through the second baseman and on through the center fielder. Mein and Moore both came along with timely doubles which meant runs for the home team. Armstrong struck out three while "The Sailor" had nine and McMann seven. Armstrong walked three men and coupled with two errors at short and two hits gave the visitors their only runs. McMann who outside of the first was never too steady, issued no passes but was connected for thirteen hits.

The "Rays" big inning was the second when they tallied six of their runs they came back with one in the third and three in the fourth.

MINERS AND MOTOR CITY CREW DIVIDE DOUBLE PROGRAM FOR THE THIRD TIME THIS SEASON

Deloro Winners of Initial Tilt 2-1 But Lose Out in Second 4-3.

SPARKLING EXHIBITIONS.

Inability To Hit in the Pinches Costs Smelters the Second Game.

Team standings in the Central League have not been altered this season by the games played between Deloro and Oshawa. Yesterday in Deloro for the third time these two teams split a double-header, Deloro taking the first fixture 2 to 1, and Oshawa winning the second 4 to 3. Both games were sparkling exhibitions, the tight scores keeping players and spectators alike on their toes.

Deloro came within an ace of winning the second battle in the fifth innings when they chased two runs across, but failed to score runners on third and second with only one down. Inability to knock hits when in a scoring position cost Deloro the second game.

Carl Woods was on the mound for Deloro in the second fixture, and it is the first time in his three years of Central League twirling that the Motorists have been able to win from him. Loose fielding around the middle sack and his own tendency to groove them caused his downfall, along with the failure of his teammates with the bat in the pinches.

Ibey, the Hastings product, and the veteran Matthews hooked up in a twirling duel in the first game. Ibey turned in a great performance, allowing but four hits, but he was wild at times, walking seven batters. He had the ability to steady down, however, and only one of his gifts proved damaging, being Oshawa's only counter. Matthews, on the other hand, had almost perfect control, issuing but one walk and striking eleven. He was touched for ten hits, but not more than two were gathered in any innings.

George Scott was the hitting giant of the first game collecting a total of three safeties in four appearances and his playing throughout the day was sensational. He accepted seven chances on short without a sign of an error.

The First Game.

Oshawa got their only run in the first innings. Carver first up singled through the big gap between short and second, which Elliott and Scott left wide open for nearly the whole sixteen innings of ball. He was out when caught off second, after a successful steal. Gray struck and Penu was walked. He stole second and third to score on Matthews' hit through second. Young filed out.

Deloro came right back in their half to knock two hits and score a run after two were out. After Regan and Elliott had been retired Quinn was safe at first when Little mussed up his grounder. Buck hit to centre advancing Quinn to third. Quinn scored on G. Scott's rap into right field, but Buck was out going into third on a fast relay from Gray to Penu to Young.

Oshawa did not secure another hit off Ibey until the fifth, but several times they were in a position to score when he issued walks. Another opportunity came to them in third as a result of Elliott's overthrow to first on T. Elliott's grounder, with none out. Ibey caught McCallum's tip, issued a walk to Little, and then struck Fair and Carver out.

Deloro failed to cash in in the fourth. Buck first up hit to Young who made an overthrow to first. Buck going to second. He advanced to third on G. Scott's roller to second, but both Hughes and W. Scott fanned.

Deloro had another opportunity in the sixth, a fast relay from right field cutting off their run at the plate. Elliott walked and Quinn sent down a bunt which both runners beat. Buck filed out to Gray. G. Scott hit to right field and Elliott crossed third and continued home, being caught at the bag by a great throw in to T. Elliott by Gray. Hughes struck out.

Deloro got their second and winning run in the eighth. Elliott first up hit to centre field going to second when the ball got away from Fair. Quinn flied out, but Elliott was advanced to third on Buck's sacrifice. Elliott scored on G. Scott's rap to centre field. Scott was tossed out at second to Hughes' roller to third base.

The Second Game

Free-hitting featured the second game, there being one triple and three doubles smacked out. Oshawa got six hits and Deloro four and this represented their scoring punch.

Oshawa wasted no time in the beginning, getting two of their quartette in the first inning. Carver struck out but Gray got to first on Regan's error. Penu flied out and Gray stole second to score on Wills' hit. Young singled through second scoring Wills. Elliot struck out.

Deloro came back with one in their half. Regan struck out, and G. Scott was out on a roller to Little. Quinn drew a walk to score on Bob Elliott's long triple into left field. W. Scott flied out to first.

Oshaaw obtained their other two runs in the third inning. Carver was out on strikes. Gray singled to left to score on Penu's double. Penu advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on Wills' sacrifice fly to right field. Young grounded out.

Deloro came through with two runs in the fifth. Stuart, batting for Ralph, first up, was hit by the pitcher. Hughes flied out. Regan doubled scoring Stuart. G. Scott hit scoring Regan and he went to second and third on wild pitches. Quinn walked, but Bob Elliott and Buck both grounded out.

Oshawa came within an ace of scoring another in the seventh when Fair, who got to first on Elliott's error and was advanced to third on Matthews' hit was caught at the plate on Gray's tap to third. Deloro did nothing in their final inning.

Kid Chocolate Adds To His Victory List

NEW YORK, July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Kid Chocolate, speedy Cuban boxer, added one more victory to his long string last night by defeating Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines in his first important battle as a featherweight. Chocolate had the better of the ten round battle, which opened the outdoor season at Ebbets Field, by a good margin, although he found the going hard in spots. The Filipino weighed 126 pounds to 123 for Chocolate.

KEYS IN TIE WITH ROYALS

Inability To Hit in Pinches Costs Montreal Club Doubleheader.

VICTORY FOR BISONS.

MONTREAL, Que., July 11—(Canadian Press).—Reading swung into a tie for fourth place with the Royals here yesterday afternoon when they took both ends of a double-header, 8-4 and 7-1. Inability to hit in the pinches cost the Royals both games, for they batted Nick Harrison out of the box in the first and had Bob Osborn in difficulties several times in the abbreviated nightcap.

Montreal hurling proved a sad disappointment to a gallery of 2,000 fans and Elam Vangilder, who went the route in the longer contest, proved no great puzzle for the Keys. Chester Nichols lasted but two innings in the second and Joe Hartman, who finished, turned in the best hurling performance of the day.

SPECTACULAR WIN FOR BISONS

BUFFALO, July 11.— (Canadian Press).—The Buffalo Bisons won another spectacular victory here yesterday, this time at the expense of the Baltimore Orioles, edging out a 6-to-5 verdict in thirteen innings for their sixth in a row. Herby Thomas hit a homer with two on in the ninth inning to deadlock the count, and George Fisher drilled a single with the bases loaded and two out in the thirteenth, scoring Barnes with the winning marker

LONG HITS FEATURE

TORONTO, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Leafs rode to a 6-1 victory on the wings of some long hits yesterday in the first game of the series with the Newark Bears.

Joe Rabbit knocked the ball over the right field barricade for his 11th and 12th home runs of the season. Ralph Shinners poled out a triple and Nolen Richardson hit two for the same distance, but only one of the third baseman's figured in the scoring.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Abies Irish Rose" To-day

Charles "Buddy" Rogers whose rise to movie fame has been nothing short of sensational has one of the featured roles in the picturized version of Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose" now showing at the Capitol theatre.

Rogers has been in motion pictures in a little over two years, but in that short space of time has been heralded by all movie fans

Paramount was quick to realize the popularity of the young player and recently elevated him to complete stardom. Perhaps no other player in motion pictures today has enjoyed the record Rogers has made for himself.

Picked from hundreds of candidates by a committee appointed by the motion picture concern some two years ago for the purpose of finding a typical American youth, Rogers was given an opportunity to attend the Paramount Pictures School at New York City. He was given leading role in a graduation picture in which all of the members took part.

Soon after this production was released Rogers was given a role in support of Clara Bow. Then came master epic of the air, "Wings." Rogers was immediately acclaimed for his work in this film and his fan mail leaped with bounds until now he receives more fan mail than any other male star in Hollywood, a sure sign that Rogers is held in the highest esteem by the public.

His first role in "Abie's Irish Rose" will serve to increase his popularity. He portrays the role of Abie, the Jewish boy who falls in love with Rosemary, the little Irish lass. The role of Rosemary is filled by Nancy Carroll, looked upon as a "comer" among those who know screen possibilities of a player. Nancy is real Irish too, having been born of Irish parents on Tenth avenue in New York City. She has red hair, blue eyes, and speaks with a tinge of brogue.

An old railway station in Berlin has been converted into a music hall seating 3,000 people.

WINNERS HAVE EDGE ON PLAY; WILD HURLING

Hillier Issues Ten Passes and Allows Nine Safe Hits.

CLEVER BASE RUNNING.

14-2 Victory Gives Kiwanis Lead in Junior Group Standings.

The Kiwanis juniors forged ahead of the Lockworks team in the junior City League race last night by swamping the hard-working Lockmakers 14-2 at James Stevenson Park.

This battle was a one-sided affair due to the erratic hurling of Hillier, the Lockies' portside pitcher who worked with a will but was as wild as the proverbial hare. He dug himself into a hole in the first innings by walking the first man to face him, and before the game was over he had issued ten free tickets to first base. He had plenty of speed and curves but despite his hard work was unable to get the ball across the plate. The Kiwanis touched him for nine safe hits, including a three bagger and three doubles. He fanned six.

Clever Base Running

The winners worked consistently and had a noticeable edge on the play from the start. A feature of their playing was the clever exhibition of base running which gave them 18 stolen bases and resulted in very few of them being stranded. The whole team performed smoothly behind Crary who turned in his usual brilliant performance on the mound.

The only errors of the winners were divided by the 2nd and 3rd basemen, the former making 3 and the latter 2.

Crory and Madill shared the pitching for the winners, Crary taking the first seven innings and Madill the last two. Eight strike-outs and 2 walks were chalked up by Crary who was touched for two hits, while his team-mates struck out one, passed one and allowed two hits.

Cy Hall the Lockworks' second sacker clouted out his second triple of the season last night when he lifted a long fly into deep centre field. He was the only batter to reach the bases in this innings and he was still on third when the side was retired. To him also goes the credit of the only double play of the game when he gathered in Hope's pop fly and threw to first to catch Crary off the bag.

The Lockworks played their worst ball of the season in this game, and were no match for the winners at any stage of the battle. The outfield was very weak, as was the pitching while the catcher Marocco third baseman Whaley and second baseban Hall, all played fine ball.

FINALS TO-DAY IN TOURNAMENT

Close Battles Feature Northern Ontario Lawn Tennis Championships.

AT HUNTSVILLE.

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., July 11. —(Canadian Press)—A fine day of tennis brought the men's ond women's singles in the annual Northern Ontario Lawn Tennis Championships down to the last eight yesterday. Many of the games were hard fought, one of the closest events being that in which T. Veach, one of last year's semi-finalists was defeated by G. Lowe, of Cleveland. G. Roudebush, who shares with Lowe the doubles championship title of the city of Cleveland, came through another stiff battle when he eliminated W. Carron also of that city.

Leo Hilts of Toronto, showed impressive form to win two matches against H. H. Gay of Owen Sound and C. W. Conway of Huntsville, both without losing a set, A. G. Norgauger of Montreal surprised the spectators by defeating H. Wick of Cleveland, a former finalist, after three hard sets. In the women's events the form shown by Mrs. Woodbury and Miss Currie of Halifax, marked them as likely contenders for the title.

SEEK GAME WITH DELORO KIDS.

The youngsters are all keen ball players down in Deloro and the other evening the juvenile team handed the Deloro juniors a surprising 17 to 13 defeat. Gordon Stewart, little third sacker for the winners, was the big hitter of the free-hitting engagement, crashing out a long triple.

Jules Ether is the manager and coach of the juvenile team, whose players are all under fifteen years, and he still has high hopes of securing a game with a local team.

The Grafton bantam club are anxious to play the Deloro kids, the only difficulty being lack of transportation. If these two teams hook up it would be a smart exhibition. Alex. Kay has already requested the job of umpire.

KNEW POINTER IN MINOR BASEBALL.

This same hustling manager of the Deloro juveniles, Jules Ether, stated yesterday that he knew all the historical background of Tommie Pointer, left hander, who created such a sensation with his win on the mound for Belleville over Oshawa. Mr. Ether, who comes from Belleville, said that Pointer is about twenty years old, and that he started in playing ball on Ether's juvenile team in the Quinte town five years ago. After several years of good work in minor ball he got a job in Corbyville, through his baseball ability, and has been playing on the village team since. He was picked up by one of Manager Gerow's men as a last resort in the Belleville team's absolute need for some kind of a pitcher. No one ever expected that he was anything but average, and, according to his old manager, the Belleville players must have been quite as surprised as the Oshawa team and fans were with his great showing.

"Just a Belleville boy trying to get along in the world," concluded Mr. Ether. So that's that.

CRICKET CLUB IN TORONTO SATURDAY.

The Peterborough Cricket Club have a stiff game on their hands this Saturday when they invade the Toronto club at Armour Heights. The locals have been practising hard all season, and after the extensive program such as they have played, should be in good shape for this important struggle. The team will be composed of Dunkerly, Elliot, Stuart, Monkman, Thorpe, Smith, Mitchell, Dyer, Imming, Wade, Gore and Combe.

A MILE IN FOUR MINUTES.

An American critic took his little pencil in hand and attempted to show that some time in the distant future, the mile would be run by a human being in four minutes flat, and the 100 yards in nine seconds flat.

His prediction started many arguments, and Grantland Rice gave the following opinion:

"It will be a long time before any one crowds the mile close to four minutes, but it might be remembered that in practice Nurmi has run the mile around 4.08. There were many at the Olympic games of 1924, when Nurmi was at his best, who believed he could do it in 4.06, if he would train for that distance.

"Improved equipment and faster tracks have had something to do with many modern records beyond a doubt. Another point is that thousands are training, and being trained to-day, against the dozens of twenty years ago Yet in many instances the improvement of records has been slight. What the human limit is for the 100, the 440, and the mile, is open for debate. No human to-day is equipped to stand up under a nine-second clip. The same is true in regard to running the mile around four flat. As heart and lungs are now made, they could never stand the strain of a four-minute pace without collapsing, or running into serious results.

RECORD CATCH AT RICE LAKE.

Reels are whirling all over the lakes these days and some dandies are being landed. Yesterday, while fishing at Rice Lake J. A. Pellegrini and John Deubel, both of uffalo, caught two fish of enormous proportions—Mr. Pellegrini getting a maskinonge weighing 25 pounds, and Mr. Deubel a pickerel 15 3-4 pounds. Few have been fortunate in hooking a muskie of this weight, but the gentleman who got the pickerel need not expect to catch or hear about many of this size, since they are few and far between in these parts at least.

Down at Crow Lake yesterday a fisherman caught a 'lunge that tipped the scales at 18 1-2 pounds, and J. W. Gravestock has been catching them all sizes in waters closely bordering this city.

INDIANS RALLY TO WIN 9-7 TILT

Hit Four Pitchers To Overcome Five-Run Washington Lead.

A's DIVIDE BILL.

CLEVELAND, O., July, 11.—(Canadian Press).—Hitting four pitchers at opportune times, the Indians overcame a five-run Washington lead and took the first game of the series here yesterday 9 to 7.

A home run by pitcher Wesley Ferrell with one on base and another circuit clout by "Bib" Falk with two on were the most potent factors in the victory.

ATHLETICS SPLIT BILL

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—(Canadian Press).—The St. Louis Browns and the league-leading Philadelphia Athletics taking the opener, 4 to 1, and the Browns winning the final, 7 to 5.

Heine Manush, Brownie leftfielder, hit in both games, running the total of consecutive games in which he has hit safely to 18.

VICTORY FOR McMANUS

DETROIT, July 11.— (Canadian Press).—Marty McManus for the second time this week won a game yesterday for the Detroit Tigers by slamming a home run over the left field scoreboard with the bases loaded. The resultant four runs were the Tigers' margin of victory, the score being 10 to 6.

SOX BEAT YANKEES

CHICAGO, Ills., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Alphonse Thomas defeated the Yankees for the second time in his major league career by pitching the White Sox to a 6 to 3 victory here yesterday in the first game of the series. Thomas held the champions to eight hits, well scattered.

TWIN BILL WITH BELLEVILLE ON SATURDAY HERE

Old Rivals Will Battle in Double-Header That Means a Lot.

THE UMPIRE PROBLEM

Both Managers Protest Appointment of Colling and Kay.

With Belleville Nationals coming here Saturday for a doubleheader, the twin bill should attract the biggest crowd of the year to James Stevenson Park.

The old rivals always battle until the last man is out, and the hectic argument they had in Belleville yesterday will put plenty of tobacco in Saturday's bargain matinee.

The first game, which will be a nine innings affair, will start at 2 o'clock, and the second, seven innings, will follow immediately after.

The Belleville crew may start Alex. Weir and Poynter, their new lefthander, in Saturday's games, although Jack Shea, the ex-Deloro pitcher, has rounded into shape and is due to make his initial appearance on the mound before long.

The Petes have Heckman, Hardill and Macdonald to throw in against the Nationals.

Manager Swanston's crew, disappointed at yesterday's result, for they were hopeful of making a clean sweep of this week's games, are determined to take both ends of Saturday's bill.

The umpiring question is causing some trouble. Ken. Colling, of Belleville, and Alex. Kay, of Peterborough, were appointed to handle the two 'attles, but after yesterday's game Managers Gerow and Swanston waited upon Secretary Thompson and put in a vigorous complaint against the selections. Both stood out for neutral umpires, and the matter was undecided when the conference broke up. The novelty of the situation was that both managers protested against the appointment of the umpire from their own town.

With two games for one admission and so much at stake, Saturday's bill is the best of the season.

Popular Negro Singers at Canadian Chautauqua

JACKSON JUBILEE SINGERS

The popular interest in negro music which has swept the country in the past few years is easily understood when one hears such singers as the Jackson Jubilee company, which will be an outstanding feature of the coming Canadian Chautauqua here. Spirituals, jubilee chants, plantation songs and dances are superbly presented by these negro singers, who have been selected not only for their vocal excellence, but also for their ability to portray the truest types of negro.

Little Van Osborne, famous nine-year-old negro boy entertainer, will be featured on the spectacular Jackson programs. He has proved delightfully amusing to Canadians and will be found altogether refreshing in his inimitable mimicry and flashes of native wit.

On the Chautauqua program at Peterborough, July 20, 22, 23, 24, 25. An adult season ticket secures admission to the whole series of programs that totals $7.50. Adult admission, $2.20, which includes tax, Child's ticket, which may be purchased by any scholar or student up to 19 years of age or nurse-in-training, is $1.00, and may be had from Examiner, Y.M.C.A., Kent's Drug Store, Bond's Drug Store, Payne's Drug Store, J. Auction: On account of his worthless Club doubleton, South makes an introductory Diamond bid rather than bid No Trump. West passing, North, with four Diamonds and the three other suits stopped, bids one No Trump, which East doubles negatively. South passing, West responds with two Clubs and North, with the Club suit doubly stopped, ventures two No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

Contract: North, holding two Quick Tricks and stoppers in the three suits other than the suit bid by partner, and counting on his partner for two Quick Tricks and therefore four Probable Tricks at No Trump, bids two No Trumps rather than one, to invite further bidding by South. The bid of two No Trumps shuts out East's bid of Hearts or a negative double. South bids three No Trumps.

The Play

East, lying over North's probable two stoppers in Clubs, leads the 8 of Hearts, opening his own suit instead of the suit bid by partner in response to the double. North (Declarer) wins with the King of Hearts despite the fact that Dummy's 8 holds the trick, in order to take an immediate finesse in Diamonds, as he has but one other sure entry (the Ace of Spades) and it may be necessary to finesse twice. Dummy's Jack winning the Diamond finesse, Declarer leads a low Spade from Dummy, intending to cover any card West might play, to guard against the possible lead by West of a Club through the King. West playing the 4, North plays the 9, and East wins with the Queen.

East leads the Jack of Hearts and Dummy's Queen holds the trick. Declarer enters his own hand with the Ace of Spades for another Diamond finesse. The King of Diamonds falling, the suit is established. After taking his Diamond tricks, Declarer plays Spades and takes two tricks in that suit. Upon Diamonds and Spades, East discards down to the Ace of Clubs and two established Hearts, with which cards he takes the last three tricks, Declarer making three odd on the hand.

REGISTER Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

WHEN A CHANGE IS BETTER THAN A REST

It is a trite saying, that a change is as good as a rest. What could furnish a more complete change to the average city dweller than a two days cruise over Lake Hurons blue waters and the mighty expanse of Lake Superior. A cruise that touches delightful ports within easy access to popular summer resorts, and abounds in historical as well as modern interests; from the old fur tradin block house built in 1797, at Sault Ste. Marie, to the huge grain elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William.

The seemingly limitless expanse of sunlit waters—the glorious sunset — the summer moon shedding a sheen of silver garnished by the myriad stars that appear in the clear atmosphere surely the change to such beauty must be better than a rest.

You will enjoy the spacious decks, air cabins, luxurious lounges and unobstrusive, efficient service of the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes steamers.

Any Canadian Pacific Agent will be glad to furnish you with complete information and booklet concerning the Great Lakes Cruise.

FREEMAN RINK CAPTURES PRIZE

Five Local Rinks Take Part in Bowling Tournament at Cobourg.

CLOSE SCORES FEATURE.

Harold Freeman and his rink of bowlers brought home one of the first prizes from the Cobourg tournament last night. Four other local rinks arrived home before him empty handed, but after making a decided impression on the score sheets of the three competitions.

Ben Chesler was lead for Freeman, with Dr. Allan playing second and J. Fitzpatrick viceing. Freeman's last game was with Warne of Montreal, and the first prizes were casseroles.

The other rinks were: Nelson Routly, Walter Oke, Jack Bacon. Tom Curvin, skip; Dave Moore, J. T. Braund, J. J. Howden, Joe Bennett, skip; W. Wood, F. M. Seymour, E. Taylor and Charlie Seymour, skip; R. J. Martin, George Sorensen, Alex Anderson and Frank Wise, skip.

Seymour went the farthest in the preliminary competition but succumbed to Morley Smith of Toronto, and in the consolation series he was put out by Bob Wray of Belleville.

Frank Wise was put out of the primary round by Hurley of Belleville, and went down before De Lany of Cobourg in the consolation.

There were thirty-five rinks in the tournament, including one from Hastings, two from Warkworth and two from Norwood.

Peterborough played its annual inter-club match with the Cobourg club yesterday and lost by the very close score of 35 to 34.

The bright light of the match was the game of the stellar golfer, Robert Abbott, who turned in the brilliant score of 31 for the first nine holes, being 4 strokes under par and 67 strokes for the 18 holes, breaking the course record of 68, held by W. J. Thompson, former amateur champion of Canada.

TORONTO OLD BOYS PLANNING

great deal of work, they enjoyed it, for the numbers of former citizens who came and the reunions that took place and the renewing of old friendships was a wonderful success.

"Again, Frank, let me thank you personally, and all the Toronto friends, for the great assistance you gave."

Another ardent worker in the ranks was Secretary William O'Brien, who never ceased his activities. He also is the recipient of a similar letter from Mayor Denne in which His Worship says:

"I wish to heartily thank Frank O'Connor, yourself and all the Toronto-Peterborough Old Boys for the splendid contribution they made to the success of the week. The luncheon was one of the finest features of the celebration. The fireworks you so generously furnished were excellent and the services of the T.T.C. Band were highly appreciated.

"That so many of you left your businesses and came to join in the reunion was most gratifying and we wish to express our deepest appreciation of your visit and of all that you did to assist in making the week the success that it proved to be."

In response to many requests, the executive of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys, it was tentatively decided that a permanent organization should be formed and an annual picnic held in June of each year. Mr. O'Connor has generously invited the former residents of Peterborough, now living in Toronto, to hold such an outdoor function at his attractive five-hundred-acre farm five miles from Toronto on the Dawes road.

Organize in Fall

To the two thousand former residents of Peterborough, now living in Toronto, notices will be mailed early in the fall inviting all to become members of the association.

Before concluding the business aftermath of the recent reunion of "Toronto Day," it was moved by C. E. Sisson and seconded by G. B. Van Blaricom, that a hearty resolution of thanks and appreciation be tendered The Peterborough Examiner for its splendid and admirably arranged "Toronto Edition" which was issued on June 26th, and created favorable comment on all sides. This was carried unanimously, and a vote of thanks was also tendered Mr. O'Connor and Mr. O'Brien for their energetic services and aggressive work as chairman and secretary respectively of the Toronto Association of Peterborough Old Boys.

Among those present at the gathering were Frank P. O'Connor, chairman; W. J. O'Brien, secretary; C. E. Sisson, treasurer; W. W. Stratton, chairman, entertainment committee; and G. B. VanBlaricom, chairman publicity committee. W. S. Campbell, chairman of the transportation committee, which conducted the motorcade from Toronto to Peterborough was not able to attend owing to absence from the city.

Two Sea Flea Races Won By Landrigan

TORONTO, July 11.—Bill Landrigan and Charlie Turnbull's racing outboard hydroplane, "I'm Alone," are still the combination to beat in the racing division of the Canadian sea flea fleet.

Up at the opening night's racing at the new marine speedway off Sunnyside Beach Landrigan crashed "I'm Alone" to the front in both heats of the Ontario Class C championship event and won well in hand. Landrigan's superb driving featured the event. In the first heat he broke on top in a field of 13, and was well ahead after they rounded the first turn. The real battle of this heat was between Tommy McClure, driving Lou Marsh's 1928 boat, "Pick 'n Shovel," and Art Heaven of Oakville, Canadian mile champion, driving his new boat, "Radio Bug II." Radio Bug, always close up, drew even with Pick 'n Shovel only beat Radio Bug a foot. Bill Butler of Guelph was fourth in Meow. Harold Bolaird in Crackerjack finished fifth, but was disqualified for racing without a muffler. Then followed Harry Hague in Bullet I., Jimmie Rogers in Magnus Flyer, Jake Winters in Jumpin' Jake, and Bob Mornson of Hamilton in Baby Zip. Frank Huycke in Baby Tyke split a plank. Huycke promptly drove her high and dry on the sand to save his motor.

AMERICAN BOYS HERE ON VISIT

Tourist Party From Warren, Ohio, To Camp At Chemong Lake For Week.

SEEK BASEBALL GAME.

"Lake Chemong or Bust!" was the inscription on the side of a bus that passed through the city this morning with a load of happy young campers.

The bus was from the Warren, Ohio, Y.M.C.A., and contained sixteen boys out for a holiday in Canada. Every year the trip is made with J. A. Ratcliff, the owner of the bus, and Elmer Kerr, a noticial of the Y.M.C.A. in charge. Boys who can not afford to have a regular holiday are taken along on the trip for a very small charge covering the bare cost.

On the side of the bus the boys have chalked the various large cities they have passed through on their way, in a triumphal manner. The bus was parked in front of a barber shop this morning while two of the more wealthy members of the expedition treated themselves to a trim-up calling forth shouts of derision for their foppishness from the camp-clad boys in the car.

They left Warren last Monday with bag and baggage piled in the spacious bus. They will make camp for which they have complete equipment, on Chemong Lake, and return home some time next week.

The boys are especially anxious to meet the Chemong Park boys in a game of baseball again this year, as they did last year, but they say the Park boys don't seem to want to give them another game on account of the beating.

WEST TORONTO RINK WINS O.B.A. TROPHY

Alex. Downing's Quartet Defeats R. M. Graham's High Park Team.

HMILTON, July 11.—Alex Downing's West Toronto rink accounted for the Ontario Bowling Association Tropy in the final event here yesterday afternoon, defeating R. M. Graham's High Park team by a score of 18 to 12 in a game that was much closer than score would indicate, for it was not until the last two ends that the game was "cinched."

The winners got away to a fine start, being as many as eight up by the time the sixth end was reached, but from then on the High Park quartet came with a rush and at the start of the seventeenth end the ywere only two shots down.

The bowling of the rival leads, M. MacMaster and P. M. Black was a bright feature of the contest, while the draw shots made by Skip Graham on the eleventh and sixteenth ends saved his team from a worse defeat. On the eleventh end Downing was lying four when Graham picked up his last bowl and it appeared impossible for him to draw in on the "jack" but after much deliberation he laid his bow and it travelled between two of his rival's bowls for shot. And again on the sixteenth he made a similar shot.

Considerable progress was made to-day and it is expected that the final will be played to-morrow morning. A start was also made in the singles and the primary doubles.

B. R. MALLOUGH DIES SUDDENLY

Mr. Mallough was still in bed, and that he had not gone to his work at 8 o'clock as was his practice. They remarked the sound of heavy breathing through his partly open bedroom doorway.

Mrs. Macdonald went in to rouse him and immediately saw that something was the matter. He did not answer her call. She gave the alarm. She and her husband and Mrs. Johnston got ice for the man's head and rubbed his arms, but to no avail.

It was then that the Johnston family began phoning the clinic, hospitals and doctors in an effort to get medical assistance.

Mr. Macdonald stated that Mr. Mallough suffered from a weak heart and had repeatedly remarked that some nights he could not sleep for pain.

Mr. Mallough's wife predeceased him last fall, she also having died suddenly. A little son, six years old, survives.

Osteopathy is met at every turn by the eternal interrogation. Someone has said that "man is an animated interrogation point," anyhow

To every suggestion of osteopathy he voices the universal plaint: "But, I don't see how that could do any good."

Does he understand "How" when he takes down his telephone receiver or turns the dial on his radio? No! He gets certain results and that is sufficient; nor does he refuse to resort to the use of these conveniences simply because he does not understand "how."

When the average individual goes to his M.D. and receives from him a prescription calling for the compounding of certain drugs to be taken as directed, does he know "how" it is going to work or by what manner of means it's going to produce an amelioration of his symptoms? He does not! That is taken entirely on faith—on the assurance of his physician that it's what he needs.

Then why this so often manifested skepticism as to the claims of osteopathy? The question raised as to the efficacy of ostepathy might as appropriately be raised in regard to any treatment; nor is the osteopath less competent or less worthy of credence than hte practician of any other school.

OBITUARY

HARRY KIERNAN.

HAVELOCK, July 11.—The funeral of the late Harry Kiernan of town, who was accidentally killed at Peterborough on Tuesday night of last week, was held on Friday from the residence of his widowed mother, Mrs. Joseph Kiernan, at 9.30 a.m. to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated, and the remains laid at rest in the Mount Carmel cemetery in the presence of a very large number of sorrowing friends and relatives.

The unfortunate young man, who was in his 24th year, was married to Miss Myrtle Carr on June 5th last, which makes his death particularly a sad one. The facts of the fatality are meagre, since no one saw him fall beneath the train, and he was dead when picked up.

BOY IS STRUCK ON NOSE.

Roy Fox, 16, suffered a grievous injury yesterday afternoon on the Chemong Road when the trip-lever of his gravel truck slipped, hitting him a forceful blow on the nose. His nose was badly broken and he was conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The boy was driving a truck owned by Fred Nelson of Indian River, drawing gravel for the grading of the Chemong road. These trucks have a lever which spills the load, and in some manner, while the lad was attempting to upset the load, the lever slipped striking him with full force on the nose. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Graham, living near Villiers.

CAMP SIGN ERECTED

The sign directing camping tourists to the local tourist camp at the Exhibition grounds was eercted yesterday at the corner of Charlotte and George streets. This sign is placed on a pole located on the south side of Charlotte street.

OLD LADY TAKES REST

The busy lady who washes clothes in the George street store window of Grant and Thorpe's establishment took a rest this morning. She has been working so hard for some time at the tubful of clothes in front of her that a rest was in order pretty soon, before she collapsed with the heat. With a zinc washtub and a 'Globe' washboard, with some real good yellow soap and gowned in checked gingham with sunbonnet to match, she washes steadily away, much to the delight of the small youngsters who stand on tiptoe to get a good look at her. She illustrates quite admirably the old-fashioned way of cleaning clothes, as compared with the newer and easier method of using an electric washer.

SMART CRUISER HERE

One of the smartest cruisers to ever dock here tied up at the government wharf, George street, last night about eight o'clock. Alice Mary III of Cincinnati, owned by D. F. Houston on her way from Whitby to Lake Simcoe attracted a great deal of attention as she warped into dock.

This boat is seventy-two feet in length and is of the cutter type, giving it a graceful appearance as well as shaped for speed. The beam of this craft is 14 feet, 6 inches and the boat is powered with two Stirling engines capable of pushing it through the water at a speed of 20 miles an hour.

The hull is of solid mahogany and is a beautiful piece of workmanship. The accommodation is the most comfortable that can be built into such a craft and thirteen men at present are housed on board. There is a party of eight and a crew of five who manage the vessel.

NEW STYLE HEADGEAR

Elated creis of "Whoopee!" broke from a group of boys on the curb as a car bearing four young women with the latest idea in hats, sped down Hunter street this morning. These hats are of the Mexican type, braided from rough straw, with large, round shapes and pointed, high crowns. Beneath the rounded brim, which turns up from the face, is a fringe of tiny chenille balls in different colors. The effect is bizarre.

PLANTS FLOURISHING.

Plants and flowers placed on the boulevards throughout the city are doing much toward the beautifying of the city. They are flourishing under the care of the nearby residents who have been carefully watering them.

EXHIBIT PHOTOGRAPH.

A remarkable photograph of the Bell Telephone Company's float in the Old Home Week Parade is on exhibition in the window of Roy's Studio on Hunter street. It is finished in full colors.

GAUDY COLORS FOR MEN

What the best dressed man is wearing in Peterborough is a matter of speculation, but the evidence as seen on George street, seems to indicate extremely gaudy colors A pair of sport flannels appeared on the street last night which had all the appearance of re-modeled pyjamas, or a made-over awning. Plus-fours are being done in all the colors of the rainbow, but a tendency toward the checker-board design seems to predominate. "What's he advertising?" was the question asked by one small but witty boy on seeing an especially conspicuous case of this plague.

WATER TRAFFIC PICKING UP.

The summer tourist traffic on the Trent Canal is rapidly picking up. Peterborough had another visitor when the Triton V, of New York tied up at the George Street dock for a few hours yesterday. It was a cabin-cruiser owned by Dr. W. Steffen of New York City, with a party of five on board. The party are on a round trip on the Trent Canal, having come to Peterborough from Georgian Bay.

BANK CLEARINGS.

The Bank Clearings for the week amounted to $1,042,608.

NO FIRE CALLS.

No fires have occurred in the city for the last three days, and with the exception of a couple of pulmotor runs, the services of the firemen have not been required. The men are very active about the fire hall, finishing the floors and putting things in shape. The assistant chief is in command while Chief Gimblett is is attending the conference of fire chiefs in Cobourg.

ROUNDHOUSE DISMANTLED

Nothing remains of the old C.N.R. roundhouse on King street, but a few stray remnants. The old landmark will be replaced by a new structure, the situation of which has not been decided.

DUMMY HOUSE CAUGHT FIRE AT ENGLISH CHARITY BAZAAR BURNING TO DEATH OCCUPANTS

Building Was To Form Part Of A Rescue Demonstration By Fire Department

SOME WERE SAVED

Spectators Watched Dwelling Burn And Applaud, Thinking It Part Of Program

GILLINGHAM, Eng., July 12. — (Canadian Press)— While laughing thousands watched what they thought part of a fire fighting show, eleven boy naval cadets were burned to death here last night. Six were seriously injured and were taken to St. Bartholomen's hospital in aid of which the fete had been held.

A specially erected model house, designed to be the scene of a gala fire brigade rescue spectacle, became instead the horrifying death trap for the 12 to 14 year old boys who had so eagerly taken part in the festival.

The youngster, dressed in clown suits, made frenzied efforts to get out of the flames, bringing only great applause from the crowd below all unknowing that the realistic acting had suddenly assumed tragic reality.

Fireman Jack Tabrett, who had been the blushing veiled bride in a previous ceremony was standing at the top of the flimsy structure when flames suddenly burst at the bottom. The crowd cheered and laughed, glad the spectacle had begun, but Tabrett knew that something was wrong for the flames should have started at the top and the building cleared of the actors.

Destroyed In Five Minutes

In five minutes the flames had destroyed the oil-soaked canvas and all that was left were the charred bodies of the youths and the gaunt skeleton of the model house.

Frantic mothers and fathers crowded the little mortuary here this morning seeking the bodies of their sons. One tall gray-haired man stumbled from the hospital where he had seen his 13 year old boy died from burns. "My little boy's clothes were all burned and still smouldering as he lay on the ground beside the blazing mass when I got here," said the grief-stricken man. "Only last night he was asked to take part in the mock-tragedy and was so happy that he went even thought I asked him not to."

The bodies were so charred that they were difficult to identify and only five of the eleven dead had been identified to-day including a man motor driver who had taken part in the festival, Ronald Mitchell, previously reported dead, this morning was reported still alive although critically injured.

The untimely blazing of the structure has been given unofficial investigation by the mayor and member of parliament and police and fire investigations are now under way.

Suddenly it was realized that what had started as play had become an intensely real life and death drama. Firemen rushed to the rescue, dashing into the flaming building and pulling victims from the blaze. Some of the spectators at great danger to themselves assisted, as the others watched, horror stricken.

Bodies Badly Charred

The recovered bodies were charred beyond recognition. It was feared one or two others might be discovered in the ashes of the structure which was of the frailest construction and burned in a minute like paper.

An undetermined number were saved, but it was believed there were fifteen boys in the house originally and that five of these were extricated alive. Two of these later died at a hospital.

Generally the disaster was attributed to inadvertent premature setting of the blaze which had been intended to permit a demonstration of the firemen's skill.

"It all happened in an instant," the Scoutmaster at Newton, who was a witness, said. "The huge flames ran up the canvas structure and the heat was so intense rescuers were unable to get anywhere near. A fire escape actually was leaning against the side of the house, but it was impossible to reach it."

The bodies were identified only with extreme difficulty, heart-rending scenes being enacted at the morgue as parents attempted to claim their own. Only nine of the bodies have been recognized.

Ordinary Revenue Shows Big Increase For First Three Months of Year.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press). — The net debt of the Dominion of Canada decreased by $92,620,133 in the twelve months ended June 30 last, according to figures issued through the Finance Department to-day.

At the end of June, 1928, the net debt stood at $2,244,142,450. On June 30 last it amounted to $2,151,522,317.

During the first three months of the present fiscal year, which are covered by the statement issued to-day, ordinary revenue of the Dominion showed an increase of $13,529,153 over the corresponding period a year ago. The increase in ordinary expenditure as shown was $591,266. The statement represents only the receipts and payments which passed through the books of the Finance Department up to the last day of June.

Revenue $144,658,099

The total ordinary revenue of the Dominion of Canada for the first quarter of the present fiscal year, comprising the months of April, May, and June, was $144,658,099. For the corresponding three months in 1928, ordinary revenue totalled $131,122,946. Increases in favor of the present year were recorded in customs collections, excise duties, and income tax. There was a falling-off in sales and stamp tax collections.

During the three months just ended, customs revenue amounted to $50,063,884, or an increase of $4,769,029 over the total for April, May and June of 1928. The amount of excise duties collected was $15,329,382, or $462,020 more than in the first quarter of 1928. Expenditure Increased.

Ordinary expenditure for the three months just closed amounted to $75,483,316, as compared with $74,892,120 in the three months of the previous year. There was consequently, an increase of $591,266. For pensions and national health there was an expenditure of $1,681,467, as compared with $1,255,078. For the month of June alone ordinary expenditures this year were $25,137,060 as compared with $24,506,610 during June, 192[illegible]

17,000 PARADE IN QUEEN CITY

"Glorious Twelfth" Is Being Celebrated in All Parts of Ontario.

PREMIER SPEAKS.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12.—Parades and rallies throughout Ontario featured to-day's celebration of the "Glorious Twelfth" by the Loyal Orange Lodge. Together with women and juveniles, members held demonstrations at centres throughout the province which were marked by oratory and amusements in varying proportion.

Toronto, capital of the Province in which Canadian Orangeism was cradled, saw a parade numbering 17,000 marchers. The stalwarts marched behind their traditional fife and drum bands to Exhibition Park, where the program of speakers was headed by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of the province. The venerability of the movement in Toronto was attested by the fact that one lodge, Nassau, was celebrating its centenary. Sixty brethren from Pittsburg, Pa., walked with the Toronto lodges.

Excellent weather, characteristic of a Toronto Twelfth, brought out thousands to the park.

Meet in Georgetown

Orangemen in towns near Toronto were equally enthusiastic in their manifestations. Georgetown was the centre of a rally of lodges from five counties to celebrate the 239th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne Thirty-five hundred Orangemen of

TIES UNITE COUNTRIES

Kiwanis Club Hears Report of International At Milwaukee.

5,000 DELEGATES.

"The brotherly feeling existing between Canadians and Americans as expressed at the 13th Annual Kiwanis International Convention held in Milwaukee cannot help but draw these two great countries closer together ,and work to the advantage of both," said I. P. McNab, Lieutenant-Governor of Kiwanis, speaking to the local club at their weekly luncheon to-day in the Empress Hotel.

"The unfailing friendliness, courtesy and co-operation of the people of Milwaukee and the American delegates at the convention was a revelation to the Peterborough delegates," continued Mr. McNab. "The Union Jack was draped with Old Glory on all the street, and Canadians, although greatly in the minority, were given an honored place at every meeting of the convention. The Canadian well upheld the traditions of our country, and some of the best speeches heard at the convention were delivered by Canadians."

The report of the convention was read by Dr. J. J. Craig, in the absence of Arthur Reynolds, who had written it.

The convention reported that 1,811 clubs, as again 1,731 last year, and representative leaders from 1,500 places in the United States and Canada attended the delegation to the number of 5,000 delegates. "Wearing" canes, sporting gay sweaters or prominent headgear, the Kiwanians came

Upper And Lower Houses Approve The Prayer Book

LONDON, July 12 (C.P.).—Both the Upper and Lower Houses of the Convocation of Canterbury yesterday adopted resolutions approving use of the Revised Prayer Book in churches where assent is given through the parish council.

The vote in the Upper House was 23 to 4, and in the Lower House 96 to 54.

ICE MENACES 'UNTIN' BOWLER

Big Seaplane Is Being Held Up At Port Burwell, Labrador.

SLIGHT DAMAGE REPORTED.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 12.—(Canadian Press).—With reports last night from Port Burwell, Labrador, of a favorable flying weather, the Chicago Tribune hoped to-day that its amphibian, the 'Untin' Bowler, would be able to escape the ice which menaced it yesterday and resume its flight to Berlin, which it started from here on July 3.

The crew reported by radio that floating ice in the Fjord where the plane was anchored threatened to destroy it and that one jagged piece, blown by the wind, had caused slight damage. Eskimos, mounted police, and the three members of the crew kept a constant vigil to prevent further damage.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—(By the Canadian Press).—A message from the Port Burwell government radio station to the Department of Marine and Fisheries here indicated the Chicago Tribune's Sikorski Amphibian plane is awaiting an opportunity to take off to-day.

The message read:—

"Barometer 29.68, falling, wind southeast, 8 miles an hour, cloudy, visibility 10 miles. Closely packed ice in all directions, but in around the plane moved out last night and lessened chances of further damage. The plane is waiting for ice to move out enough to allow a take-off".

Whether or not the crew of the machine anticipated leaving to-day despite the falling barometer, was not stated.

FLIERS END 240TH HOUR

Endurance Biplane "Angelino" Is Still Going Strong.

REFUELED 37 TIMES.

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 12 (C.P.).—Completing the 240th hour in the air, at 7.29.30 a.m. to-day, the endurance flyers, I. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart, in the biplane Angeleno, began their eleventh day in the skies with the flight progressing smoothly. The ship was being piloted in wide circles now, sometimes dropping out of sight from the airport.

Clinging stubbornly to their avowed intention of outlasting the motor which has kept them in the air ten days, the flyers drove their second-hand plane toward the 300-hour mark.

The fact that the pilots chanced taking their plane out of gliding distance of the airport indicated there was no doubt in their minds that everything was functioning as it should.

Refuelled 37 Times

The thirty-seventh refueling contact was completed at 6 a.m., when 100 gallons of gasoline were transferred.

In their battle to outwear the mechanism that carried them farther and farther on their aerial conquest, the pilots asked no quarter. It seemed that as the hours slipped by they were displaying as much iron as their tenacious motor.

Flyers whose faces are lined with the cares of "keeping the horizon level" for great lengths of time, shook their heads and marvelled with the laymen who watched the astounding flight continue.

The plane has flown more than 66 hours beyond the record of 174 hours 59 seconds, set by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb of Cleveland.

MINISTER EXPRESSES SURPRISE THAT BRITISH CHANCELLOR IS AGAINST PREFERENCE POLICY

Baby Girl Perishes Clothes Catch Fire

TORONTO, July 12. (C.P.)— A lighted match tossed playfully into the air by a ten year old boy fell on to the dress of Marjorie Sackett here yesterday, and set fire to her clothes. The four-year-old girl ran screaming toward her home, just a few doors away but collapsed on a near-by lawn as the flames enveloped her. She died later in an hospital.

Marjorie, it was said, had been playing with a number of children in a neighbor's home, when the boy, oldest of the children, commenced lighting matches and throwing them in the air. One of these fell in little Marjorie's lap.

Hon. J. A. Robb Thinks British People Would Welcome Canadian Trade.

Hansard Shows Mr. Snowden In His Speech To Be Unfavorable.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 12.—(Canadian Press).—Reiterating his statement in Vancouver that Canada had always been favorably disposed toward a joint discussion of problems of mutual interest to the nations of the British Empire and would consider with favor any suggestion from the Labor Government of Great Britain leading to an Empire economic conference, Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, again expressed his surprise here yesterday concerning the reported declaration of Right Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, against Empire preferential policies.

"I believe in British preference and I believe the British people that Mr. Snowden represents welcome the preference given them by the Dominions," Mr. Robb said.

LONDON, July 12. — (Canadian Press Cable).—When word reached London yesterday that Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Finance, at Vancouver Wednesday night had expressed belief that Hon. Philip Snowden had been misquoted in despatches which reported the British Chancellor as expressing opposition to the Imperial Preference Policy, the Canadian Press secured the following excerpts from Hansard, the official report of Mr. Snowden's speech. They were as follows:

Anxious to Promote Trade.

"We are most anxious to promote the closest trade relations with every one of our Dominions and with every part of the Empire, but we do not believe that these relations can be placed on the best footing, upon a footing which would be mutually advantageous to both countries, by a system of preferential tariffs and least of all by such a proposal as that which the right honorable gentleman (Mr. Amery) identified himself and which has been put forward perhaps even more definitely by another right honorable gentleman within the last few days, and also with recklessness and great enthusiasm by Lord Beaverbrook.

Remembers Propaganda.

"I am old enough to remember, unfortunately, Joseph Chamberlain's tariff reform propaganda. Even those who remember it only historically will know that Chamberlain said, 'You could not have an imperial preference without a tax on food.'"

"And raw materials," interjected Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George.

"Yes, and raw materials," Mr. Snowden continued. "And these are the only things that the Dominions and Colonies can send to this country. Therefore, I want to ask the honorable members opposite whether that is their policy. I gather it would

JAPAN WATCHES CHINA CLOSELY

Prepares To Take Measures in Manchuria If Occasion Arises.

CABINET MEETS.

TOKYO, July 12—(Canadian Press) The Japanese government to-day anxiously scanned news from Harbin and considered measures which might have to be taken should any crisis arise.

Officials, while admitting the situation was most grave, expressed the opinion that Soviet Russia was not likely to resort to arms to regain her position in North Manchuria. Nevertheless both the cabinet and general staff to-day considered the Manchurian question. Their decisions were not divulged but it was thought significant that after a lengthy cabinet meeting Premier Hamaguchi retained foreign Minister Shidehara for further discussion.

Maintains Neutrality

A government spokesman emphasized that Japan, while maintaining strict neutrality in the Chinese Russian difficulties even if there should be actual hostilities, would resolutely protect Japanese lives and legitimate interests. It was stated protection would not be confined to the South Manchuria railway zone but would be extended to Harbin if necessary since the large Japanese community there has considerable holdings.

Even if there should be disorders in Harbin—which the spokesman insisted was a purely hypothetical assumption—Japan might even be compelled to send troops or to order her nationals to withdraw.

Concerning the South Manchuria Railway and the Kwantung leased territory, the spokesman averred

UNITED STATES' AMBASSADOR VISITS PREMIER MACDONALD

Conversations Started at Forres, Scotland Are Again Renewed

STATEMENT ISSUED

LONDON, July 12. (C.P.) — Disarmament conversations between the United States and Great Britain initiated as soon as Ambassador Charles G. Dawes reached English shores, were renewed yesterday afternoon when the ambassador spent several hours with Premier Ramsay Macdonald in the Premier's private room in the House of Commons.

The conversations begun by the Ambassador's hasty visit to Forres, Scotland, and his luncheon there with the Prime Minister, were touched upon again yesterday by the invitation of Premier MacDonald.

Ambassador Dawes last night said he had had a talk with the Prime Minister, but could make no further statement at present.

About the same time the following statement was issued from the United States embassy:

"When the Preparatory Commission at Geneva adjourned in May it was for the purpose of giving time for some direct discussion between the governments in regard to the naval problem. The exchanges are now in progress and Mr. Gibson's visit was for consultation in connection with this."

Authoritative British quarters, as well as the American embassy, stated that conversations were in progress over the naval problem. Apparently nothing has yet been decided in the matter, but Premier MacDonald is thought to be ready to visit the United States if he receives an invitation.

SUBMARINES ABOLISHED IS RUMOR CIRCULATED

Labor Government Desires to Make Disarmament Gesture

LONDON, July 12 (C.P.).—There were persistent reports yesterday in the lobbies of the House of Commons that the new Labor Government had decided to eliminate from the current naval building program six submarines and their necessary parent craft.

The decision was said to have been taken at Wednesday's Cabinet meeting, the Ministry being influenced partly by the disaster to the H-47, and partly by a desire to make a gesture of disarmament intention to the United States. It was said also to express a ministerial desire for abolition of all submarine warfare.

Mothers Are Sending Children To Gas Plant For Treatment In Cases Of Whooping Cough

Mothers in this city, it is apparent, will go to any length to get their children swiftly over the diseases of childhood. The extreme that some will go in the treatment of whooping cough, a mild form of which is now sweeping among the city's juvenile population, has just come to light.

A small compartment in the Gas Works is the cure room. And almost daily several mothers compel their children to stand in this closed room and inhale the acrid fumes that escape from iron oxide filings which are saturated with impurities from gas. There the children are confined for at least half an hour; eyes streaming with tears, forced by the strong fumes, sniffling and coughing spasmodically all the while.

These mothers firmly believe the evaporating fumes from these gas filled oxid filings will cure the whooping cough. Workmen at the plant state that the ordeal should cure anything since the odour in the purifying room is "awful."

TWO SMALL CHILDREN DROWNED IN DEEP HOLE

Brother And Sister Step Into 12-Foot Hole In River At Erindale

TORONTO, Ont., July 12.—(Canadian Press).—Wading out in the Credit River beyond their depth, Sheppard Geller, 1, and his sister, Sylvia, 13, of Toronto, were drowned yesterday at Erindale. The children had been enjoying holidays there with their mother. Two other children were playing with the Geller youngsters when they went down.

When local residents were unable to locate the bodies Toronto Life Savers were called. They dragged the river for a short time and located them in a 12-foot hole into which the children had made their fatal plunge. Theirs is the sixth fatality which has occurred at the same spot. No inquest will be held.

Protests Against Terms Bishop of Birmingham Uses To Set Forth Convictions.

MODERNIST LEADER.

LONDON, July 12 (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The Archbishop of Canterbury's expression of opinion in convocation yesterday concerning Bishop E. W. Barnes' choice of terms in which to set forth his convictions —an expression which virtually amounted to an open rebuke by His Grace of this stalwart of the Modernsists—is bound to have wide repercussions.

Intervening in a lengthy protest by Bishop Michael Furse of St. Alban's against the Bishop of Birmingham (Bishop Barnes), the Archbishop said: "The Bishop of Birmingham so frequently uses language of a vehement kind that he must not be surprised if any of his brethren wish to call attention to any of its implications." Later on he remarked: "I think the fact that it is so necessary for him from time to time to give an explanation of the phrases he uses must indicate to him that there is something in them making them peculiarly liable to misconstruction. Every day I receive from every part of the church, both here and across the seas, indignant protests against

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO INVITE SOVIET DELEGATE TO LONDON

Would Discuss Resumption of Relations Between the Two Countries.

TO DEBATE QUESTION

LONDON, July 12. — (Canadian Press Cable).—The British Government this week will forward a communication to the Russian Government which it is hoped will enable a Russian representative to visit London before the end of July, to talk with Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, on resumption of normal relations between the two countries.

It is hoped that during the conversations a satisfactory understanding will be reached, enabling normal diplomatic machinery to be restored.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon expressed the opinion that a suitable opportunity would arise in the House soon for debate on the question of resumption of relations with the Soviet Government, but added he could give no undertaking to postpone action until after such a debate.

May Publish Correspondence.

The Prime Minister also said he would consider the question of publishing the correspondence exchanged between the British and Dominion Governments on the matter, but the stage had not yet been reached where publication was desirable. The Dominions would have to be further consulted, he said.

Asked whether Britain would renew relations with Russia even if the Dominions were not in agreement, the Prime Minister said he was unable to make any statement on this point at present.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, asked if the House would be enabled to consider whether the Soviet replies were satisfactory before relations were resumed.

"No," Premier MacDonald stated. "We will follow the procedure the honorable gentleman himself always followed."

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, then suggested that unless the question was debated before the end of the session the matter might be decided and settled before the House had reassembled after the short summer vacation.

"As far as the Government can settle it, yes," Mr. MacDonald replied. "But the House will still be able to discuss the matter and decide upon it."

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CHATAUQUA

Entertaining Program Provided At Wednesday Afternoon's Performance

PUNCH AND JUDY SHOW

WARKWORTH, Ont., July 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — Wednesday afternoon saw a gala performance for the children in the Chautauqua tent on the fair grounds. Long before time for the program to start a large crowd, grownups as well as children, had gathered. Herb Taylor, Humpty-Dumpty Clown, Master of Funland, was certainly an excellent entertainer.

He is a remarkable juggler, clever ventriloquist and magician.

A great attraction for the children was the Punch and Judy show. His program is full of original entertainments crowded with exciting surprises, novelties and delightful specialties of every sort.

Dancing by Melba, Humpty-Dumpty's partner, was heartily enjoyed.

The grand stand at the Canadian National Exhibition is 725 feet in length.

Six Persons Are Dead From Unknown Malady

SAFFORD, Ariz., July 12. — (Canadian Press). — Six persons were dead yesterday at a little lumber camp in the Graham Mountains, 35 miles from here, victims of an illness which has mystified physicians. A seventh victim was believed to be recovering from an attack of the same malady.

Dr. W. E. Platt, county health officer, said the symptoms resembled cerebro-spinal meningitis, after meningococci had been found in small amounts in the spinal fluid of two of the victims of the disease.

BIG AIRPLANE IS HELD IN ICE

"Untin" Bowler is Hemmed in Ice at Port Burwell.

FAVORABLE WEATHER AHEAD

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—(Canadian Press).—Still hemmed in by ice, but undamaged, is the report received of the "Untin' 'Bowler by officials of the Department of Marine and Fisheries here. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the giant ambphibian, which is endeavoring to make its way over the roof of the world from Chicago to Berlin, was still at Port Burwell, at the eastern entrance of the Hudson Straits. More favorable weather seemed to be in prospect, for the weather report read that the temperature was 34 degrees, the wind 11 miles an hour, the barometer 29.60 and rising.

Visibility at Port Burwell was four miles. There was fairly open ice in all directions, with patches of open water northwesterly.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 12.—(Canadian Press). — With 600 gallons of fuel in its tanks, the "Untin" Bowler awaited favorable weather early yesterday at Port Burwell, Labrador, to dash across Hudson and Davis Straits to Mt. Evans, Greenland, the next scheduled stop on its flight from Chicago to Berlin.

The Chicago Tribune, which is backing the flight, was told by Robert Wood, aviation editor and a passenger on the "Untin" Bowler, that thick fog and unfavorable winds kept the ambphibian out of the air Wednesday. The day was spent, Wood said, in fighting to keep the plane from being crushed by huge ice cakes blown into the fjord where it was anchored.

SETTLEMENT OF MINISTERS BIG PROBLEM IN UNITED CHURCH

Moderators Of Three Former Churches Answer Criticisms In Joint Letter

EACH CASE CONSIDERED

TORONTO, Ont., July 12.—(Canadian Press).—Answering criticisms in a joint letter published yesterday in "The New Outlook" official organ for the United Church, Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn, Dr. George C. Pidgeon and Rev. Dr. James Endicott, moderators representing the former Congregational Presbyterian and Methodist churches, say that the most difficult problem before the United Church is that regarding settlement of ministers.

The trio point out that all three churches brought into the union liabilities as well as assets and the most serious liability is to be found in the methods of bringing ministers and congregations together.

"Sometimes the call system was ideal," says the letter, "but sometimes it was cruel in its effect on both ministers and congregations. Similarly the appointment system was often ideal but often it was equally disastrous in its effect on all concerned.

It is not fair, the moderators contend, to suggest that a congregation has an absolute right to any minister when they may call. Under the Presbterian system each call had to be sustained by one Presbtery and often put into the hands of the minister by another before he was free to accept it. The regulations in the basis of union governing the work of the settlement committee require at least a consideration equally broad of each particular case.

It is equally unfair say the moderators, to suggest that a conference has an unqualified right to forbid a transfer and to block a call solely in the interests of the ministers already in it. They point out that large number of young graduates go to the sparcely settled parts of Western Canada and Ontario and after several years they are called to eastern congregations. "There is nothing in the basis of union to justify a transfer committee in preventing these graduates accepting eastern calls," the moderators st forth.

Last Honors Are Paid 20 Entombed Men

PEMBROKE, Wales, July 12.—(Canadian Press).— At sunset last night the great battleship Rodney led six destroyers and five submarines over the spot where the submarine H-47 sank Tuesday after a collision with the L-I and rendered last navy honors to 20 members of H-47 who lie confined within their ship, 60 fathoms deep in St. George's channel.

The ceremony was arranged in accordance with British naval custom as soon as the admiralty had announced its decision to abandon all attempts to salvage the sunken submarine.

A short memorial service was conducted, wreaths were cast into the sea and the big guns of the battle ship and here auxiliaries paid a last salute to the gallant dead.

CROWN ATTORNEYS ARE ASKED TO GIVE ACCUSED FAIR TRIALS

Mr. Justice Jeffrey Asks Law Officers to Put Forth Every Effort Possible

"PUBLIC DEFENDERS"

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press). — The suggestion made to Crown Attorneys here yesterday by Mr. Justice Jeffrey that every effort should be put forth to see that accused persons obtain fair trial, came at a time when a committee of the Canadian Bar Association is considering the question of the appointment of "public defenders" in the courts throughout Canada.

The committee will present its report on this matter at the annual meeting of the association to be held in Quebec City in September.

Ernest Bartrand, K.C., Crown prosecutor, Montreal, is a member of the committee along with two Toronto men, Magistrate J. Edmund Jones and W. K. Murphy, K.C.

The work of the committee is wide in its scope. It is considering the whole question of providing legal aid for those unable to pay for such services both in criminal and civil cases.

In delivering judgment in the weekly court at Osgoode Hall, Mr. Justice Jeffrey said that the more he heard and saw of convictions made by Police Court Magistrates, the more convinced he became that the Crown counsel should make every effort to see that accused persons get a fair trial.

ORGANIST WINS LEGAL BATTLE

Judge Huycke Delivers Judgment In Campbellford Church Case For Plaintiff

$66.67 IS ASSESSED

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Judge E. C. S. Huycke, of Peterborough, after hearing the evidence in the case of Nesbitt vs. St. Andrew's Church, gave judgment yesterday. The case required practically three court days for the taking of evidence and argument by the counsel for both sides of the question. It was heard in the 11th Division Court for the Counties of Northumberland and Durham. P. Y. Nesbitt was the plaintiff with N. Alex. McColl as his counsel. The defendants were the session of St. Andrew's Church, represented by F. D. Kerr, K.C., of Peterborough.

Written Judgment.

This is an action which has apparently excited much interest and no little bitterness in St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford, and throughout the story has been an extremely unpleasant one. Early in the trial I suggested a settlement, but, finding such result hopeless, proceeded with what was for me a most unpleasant duty.

Generally speaking, a church is allowed to govern itself and proceed according to its own laws, or domestic economy; but, when, as in this case a third party comes in, any church or ecclesiastic body is amenable to the laws of the land, administered in the usual way.

This is an action brought by the

PROTESTS MADE TO GOVERNMENT

Cabinet May Cancel All Liquor Clearances to United States

ACCUSATIONS MADE

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—(Canadian Press)—The impression is growing here that the Dominion government may modify its policy with respect to granting liquor clearances to the United States. In fact it would come as no great surprise to some observers if the cabinet went all the way and complied with the request of the United States to refuse altogether liquor clearances to that country.

Whether these forecasts are correct or not, there can be no doubt that the recent developments along the Detroit River have caused violent repercussions, throughout the country. During the last session of parliament there was scarcely a sitting that petitions were not presented from various religious and temperance bodies asking that clearances be refused. These formal protestations were mild as compared with the telegrams and letters which are pouring in on the ministers of the crown these days.

These letters and telegrams are coming in from every province, and while they are not being made public it has become known that many of them do not mince words in expressing the opinions of the writers about the present policy of permitting the clearance of liquor to the United States in contravention of the dry laws of that nation. The government is accused of facilitating the harboring of armed thugs who attack officers of the law of a friendly country.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (C.P.).—According to a news story published in The Toronto Globe to-day negotiations are under way, which it is understood, will bring about an amicable settlement of the dispute between Conservative candidates in the forthcoming by-election in Lanark.

The Globe says these negotiations call for the retirement from the field of both T. A. Thompson, Almonte, and Dr. W. S. Murphy, Smith's Falls, and the election by acclamation to the vacant seat—provided the Liberal party places no opposition candidate in the field—of Thomas A. Code, Perth.

PETERBORO MAN PRAISES HUSKY FOR RHEUMATISM

"Those Rheumatic Pains of Mine Have Disappeared," He Says in Explaining Results From This Medicine, Which Is Being Lauded By Hundreds Here.

Kerr, well-known Government mail carrier, who lives at 59 Hilliard St., this city, as he told of his experience with this medicine, which is being praised by hundreds here who are being relieved of stomach, liver and kidney disorders and their accompanying ills by its use.

"For the past 18 months I had not been at all well," said Mr. Kerr, "and I was suffering most from rheumatism. I was so stiff and full of pain that I couldn't work on several occasions and I never felt good. I had a poor appetite and none of my food tastes good to me.

"When I began using Husky I started feeling better right away, and now I am happy to say that every sign of the rheumatism has disappeared. My whole system has improved a lot and I am feeling entirely different. I enjoy my meals and am feeling well and strong again. My own experience causes me to recommend Husky highly to any sufferer."

It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, July 12. — In addition to the light fresh receipts by rail there was some 200 stale cattle in the offering at the opening of the market at the Union Stock Yards yesterday morning. A few had arrived late by truck. Wednesday's holdover included a load of butcher cattle which sold yesterday at 11 cents a pound, and a few choice heavy steers made a top at 12¼c.

Killers sold generally steady, although demand for plain to medium quality was not keen. Most of the sales of cattle were plain stockers which sold slowly at fairly steady prices. Only a few head were left over at the close.

The closing quotations on heavy steers were 11 to 12¼ cents a pound, the same range applies on good weighty butchers.

Light steers brought anywhere from 9 to 11¾ cents.

The supply of cattle for the week totalled some 6,400 head, which is about 3,500 head heavier than the week previous. Butcher steers advanced 25 cents a hundredweight for the week and other killers sold steady to firm.

Calves, with a few truck loads in addition to the rail receipts, sold steady at the week's 50 cents a hundredweight advance. Good veal calves brought 15 cents a pound.

Most of the few lambs offered yesterday were choice and sold a quarter higher than Wednesday's advance at 16½ cents a pound.

Very few sheep were offered, and sold unchanged at 3 to 6 cents a pound taking all grades.

Hogs sold firm at the week's advance of 75 cents a hundredweight making 13 cents f.o.b. and 14½ cents w.o.c. for select. Road hogs marked at 13¾ cents a pound.

Cattle receipts: Cattle 22, calves 10, hogs 35, sheep and lambs 10.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 12. — Sudden big swings in price, alternately down and up left the wheat market yesterday at a net advance but greatly unsettled. Extraordinary downpours of rain in the harvest region southwest and increasing drought havoc northwest together with spread of labor troubles in Argentina, were dominating factors that hoisted wheat values as the day drew to an end.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 5-8c to 1 1-8c above Wednesday's finish. Corn closed 1-2c to 7-8c up; oats, 1-4c to 1-2c advanced, and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal gain.

Corn and oats prices were governed almost wholly by the action of wheat.

Provisions averaged firmer, responsive to upturns both in hog values and in grain.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, July 12.—A feeling of uncertainty was evidenced in trading on the local wholesale butter market yesetrday, and no real activity was displayed all throughout the session. Receipts continue to be fairly good and there was a sufficient supply to answer all requirements. In the opinions of prominent local dealers, the uncertainty at present prevailing in the trade is occasioned by the recent high price of butter which sold at 38½ cents per pounds in late June, followed by the steady recession in the price of both grades. Things have now arrived at the stage where buyers are uncertain whether the product will suffer further reactions or not and are standing back as much as possible until such time as a definite standard is attained. No. 1 creamery lost the upper limit of the price range yesterday, and was quoted at a flat 37½ cents per pound, while No. 2 held at from 36 to 36½ cents per pound. The offer of New Zealand shippers to deliver fresh butter in Toronto in December for approximately 37½ cents per pound has rendered it impractical for local houses to store any quantities of the product, and it was stated by several dealers that purchases of the New Zealand variety have already been made for winter delivery.

A fair amount of receipts and very little demand produced an almost stagnant condition on the local wholesale egg market yesterday. The only action at all noticeable was in the extra grade, which was demanded to a certain extent, but the under grades were almost motionless. No eggs are passing into storage now, and until production falls off to an extent that will cause a feeling o fscarcity locally, dealers can foresee no change in general conditions. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 27c to 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c per dozen.

The cheese market was again dull yesterday, with the price of No. 1, large colored paraffined and government graded quoted at from 18½ to 19 cents per pound.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, July 12.—Erratic price fluctuations featured yesterday's wheat market, prices moving within a range of 4c. A break of 3c in the first hour was rapidly wiped out, and values shot upward to finish the day 11-4c to 13-4c above Wednesday's close.

Heavy rains in the winter wheat belt of the United States, resulting in flood conditions, which threaten destruction to much of the wheat, were responsible for the upward swing in prices. Lack of rain was the complaint in the United States spring wheat territory, and this also had a bullish effect on the market.

Rain was reported in parts of Alberta in the past 24 hours, but Saskatchewan still continued without moisture, with high temperatures prevailing.

Cash wheat trading yesterday was slow, and offerings were extremely light. Prices followed the trend in the future market, advancing about 1-2c.

The trading in the coarse grains was confined to low-grade oats, which were 3-4c higher. Barley held firm, and rye moved forward almost 1 1-2c. Although flax trading was rather limited, the price shot up about 7c.

TOO MUCH TEMPER.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 12. (C.P.).—It cost F. W. Schriven, Port Dalhousie, $19 and his time to bring to court, for alleged reckless driving, W. Gemmell, Schenectady, N.Y., Magistrate J. H. Campbell heard the evidence of both men and then dismissing the case, ordered Scriven to pay all the costs. He gave him half an hour to go to Port Dalhousie to raise the money.

"By your own evidence you could have avoided this," the Magistrate told Scriven, "the trouble is with your violent temper which has got you into trouble before. You should have shown ordinary courtesy to these American people. We cannot have visitors to the country treated in such a manner."

On Wednesday afternoon St. Paul's Sunday school held its annual picnic to Lakeside Park, Oshawa. About fifteen cars took a merry crowd to the grounds where all sorts of amusements were enjoyed.

A game of softball was played with James Lemon and Fred Sawyers as captains, and David Cairns acting as umpire. Fred Sawyer's side emerged the winners. Men, women and children took part in this game which was very much enjoyed.

Supper was then prepared by the ladies and about seventy-five sat down to do justice to the good things provided. Nearly all those present enjoyed a trip out into Lake Ontario on the motor launch Miss Oshawa.

organist against the Session of the church for one month's salary. In October, 1928, the plaintiff was engaged for to be organist of the church at a stated salary of $300.00, payable in monthly instalments. Written notice of his employment was given by the Clerk of the Session to him. He at once thereafter entered on his duties, and for some time was apparently satisfactory to all. On February 8th, 1929, a more formal agreement was prepared and executed, signed by Mr. W. W. Clarke, Clerk of the Session, and Prynce Nesbitt, the plaintiff, as organist and choir leader; this was dated and signed at Campbellford at the same time, February 8th, 1929, and provided that the agreement should terminate on the first Sunday of November, 1929.

Prior to this some little difficulty had arisen, not on account of the church services, but from the music used at some and particularly one Sunday evening concert given in the church after service. There were several of these, all similar in character, but the chief difficulty seems to have arisen over one on the last Sunday in January.

The complaint was that the music produced, although beautiful and choice in execution, was not exclusively of a sacred nature. A great deal of evidence was given as to what was sacred and what was secular music. The evidence was very contradictory, and in most cases interesting if not instructive. In the view I take of the case, this is not important. After all this debatable music and concerts were given, a new agreement, above referred to, was prepared and signed. From this I infer that on February 8th, 1929, everyone was satisfied, and faults of the past, if any, forgotten or forgiven. By the agreement of February 8th, 1929, all errors of judgment or otherwise, prior to that time and known to the parties, were condoned, and the written agreement is a new and fresh stage in the history of the relationship. Subsequent to that date no concerts were held and no music was given except of a sacred nature; indeed, the plaintiff played only one Sunday after that date, being the tenth of February, 1929.

The defendants passed a resolution asking for the resignation of the plaintiff. This was not given although he was duly notified. The defendants evidently intended that this should be regarded as a dismissal, and although not a formal one, may be considered as such. If the dismissal was right, and justifiable the plaintiff cannot recover; if otherwise, he can. Therefore the sole question that remains is this: Did his conduct subsequent to February 8th justify a dismissal?

The only thing complained of in this period was his action at the Sunday morning service in requesting the minister to make an announcement which he and other members of the choir had sent in, and some remarks the same day to members of the choir. The minister made an announcement, putting it in his own terms, and as the plaintiff claims, too, stating his own views. Whereas he, the plaintiff, on his own behalf and with the authority and consent of the choir, made the request that the announcement should be given according to the terms sent in. As to these matters, the evidence is extremely contradictory. Some say that Mr. Nesbitt spoke in a loud, rude, and truculent manner, rising from his seat to do so; as many or even more witnesses, say quite to the contrary, that he spoke quietly and respectfully without rising from his seat, but firmly making the request. As to this extremely contradictory evidence I must find in favor of the plaintiff as the onus is on the defence to show conduct ustifying dismissal.

It is greatly to be regretted that the defendants did not consider more carefully the resolution sent to them by the members of the choir regarding the unfortunate incident. They may have thought it peremptory in its tone, although I fail to find nearly as objectionable as apparently considered by them. If they had taken the matter up with the choir, with a little give and take on both sides as invited by the choir, the difference could and should have been adjusted and harmony established with the resultant united and enthusiastic efforts in the cause held so dear by them all. It may be admitted some things said and done by the plaintiff and his choir members were unwise and better omitted; but on the other hand, they are all young people, doing their best to promote the best interests of the church, and deeply resented remarks made in public by members of the Session. They naturally became indignant when told their music was of "a cheap and degrading" nature, a statement wholly uncalled for and wholly untrue.

The plaintiff was engaged for a year and was dismissed during the year without good and sufficient cause. He is, therefore, entitled to payment of the salary claimed by him in the writ.

Judgment for plaintiff for $36.67, and costs to be taxed.

Dated at Peterborough this 10th day of July, 1929.

Later in the course of his speech Mr. Snowden said:

"I hope—and I am not anticipating any budget statement—that before we leave office, if ever we do leave office, we shall have swept away all duties upon food—upon sugar, upon dried fruits, upon all articles of food which are subject to duty at the present time. And, of course, when those duties are swept away the preferences will naturally go with them."

Celebrated Parisian Beauty Expert

advises twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap

Former celebrated opera star, now famous beauty expert, explains why washing the face correctly is a most important beauty treatment.

Lina Cavalieri has stepped off the operatic stage to share her beauty knowledge with the world's smartest women.

Ensconced in her sumptuous salon, on the Avenue Victor Emmanuel III, Lina Cavalieri tells her patrons of a simple home beauty treatment. "I find," she says, "that a soap blended of palm and olive oils, by cleansing the pores thoroughly, leaves the skin in a smooth, healthy condition."

"In addition to my own beauty aids, I always recommend the soap blended of palm and olive oils. By cleansing the pores thoroughly it leaves the skin in a smooth healthy condition."

Lina Cavalieri

"I AM visited by some of the most famous beauties of two continents," says Madame Cavalieri. "In addition to my own beauty products, I always recommend them to use Palmolive Soap."

When dirt, dust, oil, powder and rouge get into the pores they are choked up. To these poisonous secretions Cavalieri attributes blackheads, pimples, enlarged pores, blemishes.

Make a bland lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. For two minutes, massage this well into the skin. Then rinse, gradually cooling the water to icy temperature. For dry skin, a touch of cold cream. Oily skin is refreshed by an astringent lotion and day cream before make-up is applied.

EXTENSIVE PURCHASES.

A Kitchener man appeared in Hamilton police court the other day charged with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and an examination of his liquor permit disclosed a condition that should call for an investigation on the part of the Liquor Control Board.

The magistrate announced that the defendant held the liquor record so far as Hamilton police court was concerned.

"I have never seen such a permit in my time on the bench," said the court. "It is terrible. You've had more liquor than any person to appear in this court. This permit has six pages filled."

A check-up showed that the Kitchener resident had obtained 102 quarts of spirits and 60 gallons and 120 pints of beer.

This Liquor Control Act is supposed to control—but in this particular case it looks as if the only restriction placed on the defendant was his ability to pay.

Apparently he was able to obtain all the liquor he could find the money for, and there should be some searching questions asked by the board with a view to ascertaining what officials were responsible for allowing such wholesale purchases.

It was never intended surely that any one individual could buy liquor on this scale.

WHAT THE COUNCIL ASKS.

A reference was made to the work of the National Dairy Council in these columns the other day, as interesting not only to those engaged in the dairy industry, but to the public generally.

The only organization in Canada, apart from Government services, that is looking after all branches of dairying, the National Council is an unique body whose influence is greatly increasing.

This is remarkable in view of the small amount of income available as compared with the total annual value of the dairy products of Canada.

As a matter of fact, the National Dairy Council functioned last year on $13,775.93, while dairy products showed a total value of $265,000,000.

The dairy firms and organizations of Ontario contributed some $4,660 to the income of the Council, as against a dairy income in this Province of about fifty million dollars.

The dairy statistics for 1927 show that there were 122,875 patrons of creameries and cheese factories in Ontario, plus 30,000 milk producers, supplying 1,040 cheese factories, creameries, condensaries and other dairy plants, as well as several hundred milk producers.

A small contribution from each of these is asked for by the Council—about one cent a week is the sum named—and in return the Dairy Council promises to finance every dairy organization in Ontario to the maximum, and also to provide a substantial contribution to the general work of the organization.

A GOOD REGULATION.

The testimony of Arthur Gaboury, secretary-general of the Quebec Safety League, before the fire chiefs' convention as to the efficacy of the stop-at-all-railway-crossings measure now in force in the Province of Quebec, is of great importance.

Mr. Gaboury described the regulation as courageous legislation, and declares that the provincial authorities were fully behind the measure and determined to enforce it.

Furthermore, he reported that it was already proving effective in reducing the number of level crossing accidents.

The regulation calls upon every driver to bring his car to a full stop at all level railway crossings, and reports from Quebec confirm Mr. Gaboury's statement that respect for the new law is growing, conditions generally are improving, and the measure is being obeyed by the motorists.

In proof of this may be offered the fact that a recent check at crossings in the vicinity of Montreal showed that of five hundred motorists only a handful failed to come to a full stop, and even these slowed down before crossing.

The Quebec law is one that Ontario would be wise in following; it is apparently a regulation that helps materially to induce carefulness on the part of drivers at dangerous crossings.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Criticism of Ontario's old age pension system is again voiced by the Toronto Star, which complains that Mr. Ferguson has surrounded the system with red tape, and that applicants for pensions are referred from place to place and in the end most of them find that they cannot meet the requirements of the law.

But why blame the Ontario Government for that condition?

Surely the Star knows that the restrictions it criticizes are set down in the Old Age Pensions Act of the Dominion, passed by the Federal Parliament, and have as required been incorporated into the agreement between the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and that the regulations laid down for the administration of the system in Ontario have been made pursuant to the provisions of the Dominion Act.

It may be that there is too much red tape, and that the pensions are needlessly restricted, as the Star points out, but for this state of affairs the Federal, and not the provincial administration, must accept the responsibility.

Ottawa lays down the regulations; the Provinces merely adopt them and put them to work.

What would the Star have Ontario do?

Would it prefer to have this Province refuse to participate in the old age pensions scheme because of objections to the provisions of the Federal Act?

Or doesn't it think that it is better in the interest of the needy aged of Ontario to embrace the regulations insisted upon and take advantage of the Dominion's plan?

PEACE AND ARMAMENT.

It was the United States which first called together representatives of the world powers to talk about disarmament plans. It is the United States which continues to hold the lead, vocal at least, in the move to do away with the threat of future wars.

In the United States, a new instrument of war has just been tested. It is a new kind o ftank, more deadly than any which was used in the Great War. It is deadlier because it is faster, can advance to the attack more rapidly, wipe out more lives in a given length of time.

Is this inconsistency on the part of the United States? No more so than that which exists in other great nations. The world to-day is engaged in one of the greatest peace talkfests which has ever occurred in history, and at times it seems that less is being done toward the actual consummation of peace than ever before.

This is not pessimism. It is a mere facing of the facts. Peace will come when every great nation on the face of the earth decides to do away with all armies and all armaments. If one hangs out, then the others, for their own protection, must go on keeping themselves up-to-date in the art of making war. Before such a unanimous decision can be reached, all vestiges of doubt and mistrust must be eliminated.

This means that, to some extent, human nature must be overcome. This is difficult. The best that can be hoped for is that the highest principles in human nature may be made to fight their way to the fore, and this will be accomplished when diplomacy ceases to be high-class and cultivated trickery, and becomes high-minded and high-principled friendliness and co-operation.—Border Cities Star.

CANADA FOR LONELY WOMEN.

Kathleen Redman Strange, an Englishwoman who came to Canada ten years ago with her ex-soldier husband, writes in Canada(London) to dispel the impression entertained by "bright young things" from comfortable British homes that life on a western prairie farm is one of drudgery, a thing to be dreaded by any of the middle classes, used to social activities but more or less "surplus to requirements" in the Old Land. This charming writer was transplanted to Central Alberta following the war owing to the necessity of her husband finding an outdoor existence. Starting on her new life, in a one-room shack, without even the most ordinary conveniences and facing all the problems which a new settler must experience, she relates that she has learned to love it all and that "life on the prairie for me has become rich and wholesome and satisfying."

Mrs. Strange thinks that the failures among British women transplanted under similar circumstances to Canadian farms are numerically unimportant, that there are many others who have made good. She had to work harder than she had ever worked in her life, but she met the situation without complaining and now, after ten years, she views the result of her labor, and that of her husband, with complete satisfaction, a lover of the life and a booster for Western Canada.

A great deal of the routine of life may be called drudgery, according to the viewpoint of the writer, who asks: "What greater drudgery, for instance, than to have to conform to the rules of modern society—to have to attend an endless round of social functions, many of them painfully formal and uninteresting, day after day?" Her philosophy of life may be summed up in this fine paragraph from her letter:

"There is, however, a great deal in the way one looks at a thing. Getting up at five in the morning, for instance, is nothing much of a hardship when one is young and strong, and when one wakens, as is the case in Alberta at any rate, to a stream of golden sunshine, and the bluest of blue skies overhead; even if there are many duties waiting to be accomplished throughout the day—chickens to feed, a cow or two to be milked, much baking and churning and cooking and scrubbing—but good, honest work all of it, with the prairie breezes blowing in through the open doors, the twittering of innumerable birds on every hand, and the familiar sounds of the barnyard every time one puts one's head outside the door. I was never a great advocate of farm life till I came to Alberta. Now I think there is nothing like it in the world. Out here, on my lovely windswept prairies, one has the quiet satisfaction of knowing that one is doing something really worth while—helping to produce food for a hungry world, helping to make things grow, working and striving for a noble end, the happiness and prosperity of a country that offers promise and that does not promise in vain."

In a word, useful work is not drudgery. And modern conveniences, such as the telephone, the radio, motor cars, electric lighting, the proximity of neighbors, labor saving devices all have contributed to make life on the prairie pleasant and congenial and have robbed it of the dread of loneliness such as was experienced by the early settlers of a generation ago. There is very little pioneering. Settlement in remote districts is not encouraged and the Government is wisely directing its colonization efforts to filling up the intervening empty spaces along lines of railway.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

SLOW BUT SURE

We hear of volcanic islands thrown up in a few days to a formidable size, and in a few days, weeks, or months sinking down again, or washed away; while other islands, which are summits of banks covered with weeds and drift-sand, continue slowly increasing year after year, century after century.

The man who is in a hurry to see the full effect of his own tillage should cultivate annuals not forest trees. The clear-headed lover of truth is content to wait for the results of his labors. If he is wrong in the doctrine he maintains, or the measures he proposes, at least it is not for the sake of immediate popularity. If he is right it will be found out in time, though perhaps not in his time.

The preparers of the mummies were (Herodotus says) driven out of the house by the family who had engaged their services with execrations and stones; but their work remains sound after three thousand years.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 12—"CANCER."

If July 12th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m., from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Planetary aspects of this date are quite favorable, and the benign effects promise to be general in character and diverse in result. Financial benefits may be safely anticipated. There will be events in family life that will afford pleasure, and there is a fair prospect of travel.

The child born July 12th will be reckless, and caution must be taught it, both in action and in speech. It will develop a great measure of determination of character and is liable, as the years progress, to become self-opinioniated. Signs indicate that it will awaken and give sincere love and loyal friendship.

Your temperament is a very peculiar one, and quite hard to understand; in fact, it is a moot question whether you even know yourself. You have very high ideals, yet stoop to things that are petty. You love intrigue, and are rather more secretive than is either necessary or politic. Your general outlook on life is of the fatalistic variety, and you are disposed to attribute the blessings of Providence, or the evils of misfortune, to luck. This has rather a dampening effect on the fires of enthusiasm for any endeavor, and often prevents you doing your utmost along the progressive lines of achievement.

Your character is full of inconsistencies: you are tolerant of some, intolerant of others; kind and generous to some, unfair and critical of others. Your judgment is more swayed by emotion, than by an appreciation of facts. All women born on this date jump to hasty conclusions and although they may be convinced of their injustices by after events, they never alter their original conceptions.

The signs denote that you may justly anticipate a considerable degree of business success, and it is presaged that you will, later on in life, travel extensively. In your home life, you will experience "lights and shades"; at times, you will be extremely happy, and at other times, and without any apparent cause, depressed and moody.

PLAN CONGRESS IN MONTREAL

World Parliament of Nurses to Convene Next Month.

WORK TO BE REVIEWED

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—The Cape Argus devotes much space to the World Parliament of Nurses and its South African representatives, foregathering in Montreal now :—

With such a number from so wide a field, organization has been necessary in order that all may draw profit and inspiration from the congress. Trained to organize, the profession has risen well to the occasion and by means of dividing into sections and sub-sections, every aspect of the nurses' work will come under review and every country will be able to contribute its special share to the common pool.

It is interesting to pick out the women who are in charge of conference "tables." Several of them hold high professional positions. The woman in charge) the discussion on the economic aspects of nursing is the Dean of the Faculty of Nursing at an American University. The need of education in mental nursing in the general nursing curriculum will be urged by the matron of the Bethlehem Royal Hospital, London. The president of the Bulgarian Nurses' Association will preside over the deliberations on texbooks and reference books: and that of Poland over the discussions of the curriculum of nurses' training schools.

On rural nursing, a subject of special interest to South Africa, views will be expressed by delegates from Jugo-Slavia, from Budapest, from U.S.A. and Canada. A Swedish M.P. who is also president of the Swedish Trained Nurses' Association will speak on "The Nurse as a Citizen." Norway, Denmark, France, Italy and China will lead discussions through the mouths of representative nurses, not to mention the United States and Canada.

Mrs. Bennie, South Africa, is in charge of the round table handling co-operation between the sister tutors and ward sisters in the training if the student nurse. Miss Mitchell will open the deliberations on the study of the normal child as preparation for public health nursing.

The four South African delegates represent every branch of the profession, the private nurse, the nurse engaged in training, the nurse engaged in public health, and the hospital nurse.

Mrs. Bennie is distinguished as being the first South African born nurse to become president of the South African Trained Nurses' Association. She has never ceased to take a most active part in the welfare of the profession, and her valuable evidence before the Select Committee on the Medical, Dental and Pharmacy Bill (now passed) led to the inclusion of two representatives of the nursing profession on the new South African Medical Council. Mrs. Bennie is one of them. She has done much for child welfare work, and is a member of the executive of the National Council for Child Welfare.

Miss Mitchell, who came from New Zealand to organize the work of the Mothercraft Training Centre when it was started a few years ago as an adjunct to the Lady Buxton Home, has done pioneer work here in insisting upon the need of special study of the needs of the new-born baby and of the mother's preparation for the birth. Under her, a number of nurses have been trained in "mothercraft", and an increasing number of mothers continue to seek her aid.

CHAPTER 42.

"Don't take it so hard." Peter tilted his chair back against the wall at an acute angle which left his long legs dangling in space. "God knows I don't want you to get him off if he's guilty. You're putting on a good show, and that's all that's to be expected."

Graham stabbed the desk blotter before him with the point of an unused pen, as if he found some satisfaction in impaling a series of minute invisible objects.

"The heck of it is," he said, "I don't believe he is guilty."

Dr. Cavanagh, who had eased his large bulk into a comfortable chair by the window, turned a serene gaze upon the worried lawyer.

"That gives you a certain rather impressive sincerity," he said blandly, "but it may not weigh heavily with the jury. Juries are likely to have a general idea that lawyers are an unscrupulous lot. It's partly, of course, because legal procedure seems to them a very elaborate game whose rules are too complicated for them to understand—and human nature has a way of being suspicious of what is beyond its comprehension.

"Whatever makes people ill at ease is likely to make them hostile. The average man would assume you to be an honest person, my dear Graham. You have an open countenance, if I may say so—not at all the sort of person who would misrepresent the value of a stock, for example, or cheat at a bridge game. And yet, because you are a lawyer, they will suspect you of working a magic hocus-pocus to try to throw dust in their eyes, even if you know your client to be guilty."

The three men were gathered for an evening conference in the office of the defense attorney, at Graham's request. The young lawyer's round cherubic face seemed to have lost some of its roseate chubbiness. There were puffy circles of fatigue under his eyes, and his mouth sagged in a discouraged droop. Peter's long face looked even longer than usual, and his cheekbones stood out sharply. His brows were drawn together in an anxious frown, that frown had become so habitual of late that it had etched two lines in parallel grooves above his eyes.

Since the adjournment of court at half-past five, Peter had gone back to the office and written his lead for the next morning's city edition and had stopped only for a cup of coffee on his way to the lawyer's office. Graham had come directly from the courthouse; the calf-bound books marked with slips of blue paper which strewed the desk, and the pyramid of ashes in the brass bowl at his elbow indicated that he had taken no time for dinner. Dr. Cavanaugh had stopped down town for an early and leisurely repast. Of the three, he alone showed no sign of perturbation.

"You know," Peter brought the front legs of his chair to the floor with a thump. "I believe Ellsworth and the Kane woman were telling the absolute truth, queer as their stories were."

"Their testimony was a good deal worse than queer," Graham said gloomily; "it was devastating. And yet, when you go over it in cold blood, dislike of publicity and fear of scandal—especially somebody else's scandal—sound like mighty feeble motives for trying to cover up the facts of a murder."

"That's the trouble with motives." The doctor examined his cigar with calm detachment before lighting it. "The strongest of them so often do seem feeble—to the other fellow. There's the familiar notion, for instance, that all murders are committed from jealousy, anger, fear or greed. And yet there was the woman who took a hammer to her husband because he did not want her to go to a bridge party. A patient not long ago came to me suffering from what we call a compulsion neurosis. He was obsessed by the homicidal impulse to kill his wife because for 20 years she had sipped her coffee audibly from a spoon. Perhaps if one of us had had to listen to that sound for 20 years, we'd be inclined to call it justifiable homicide."

"At any rate," Graham interrupted irritably, "to-day's testimony brought out a perfectly good, recognizable motive—two of them, in fact—for Orme to kill Mrs. Ellsworth. It might have been jealousy, and it might have been revenge. You may call him a psychopathic case, doctor, but those are going to look like mighty sane human motives to the jury."

"Psychopathic or not," Dr. Cavanaugh asserted, "Orme is not the type of personality to be moved powerfully by either of those two particular emotions. If he did kill her, it was for some other reason."

"Well, just try to convince the jury that regardless of motive and opportunity, he simply hasn't the right kind of face for it!" Graham snorted.

"I will, my lad, I will," Dr. Cavanaugh said cheerfully. "I've convinced juries of much queerer things than that. They've almost go into the habit of believing me."

"You've examined him, doctor? What did you get out of him?" Peter's chair was once again poised at its precarious angle.

"As to actual events, no more than you already know. You are in a good position to judge as I am. What do you think?"

"I honestly don't know," Peter said slowly. "I've seen a good many murderers, but I've never seen one like him. Circumstantially, it's a strong case; but circumstances take funny quirks, sometimes.

"Well, I don't believe he did it!" Graham stabbed at the blotter so viciously that the pen stood erect and quivering. "A guilty man would either try to get out of it or throw up the game. But that's not evidence. If it weren't for that belief, I'd never have kept on with the case, not even for you, Peter. He's absolutely no help. He's adopted an attitude of—of passive non-co-operation. And if you'd ever had a client like that, I guess you'd get a few homicidal impulses yourself!"

"You're wearing yourself out to no purpose." Dr. Cavanaugh's calm authority had its effect. Graham plucked the pen out of the blotter and leaned back in his chair. "You leave the evidence to me. That's what I'm here for."

"Is Orme going to take the stand?" Peter inquired.

"He says he is, and I can't very well stop him. But I haven't a ghost of an idea what he's going to say. That's a pleasant position for a man's lawyer to be in, isn't it? I suppose if he's as cracked as Dr. Cavanaugh says he is, he might say almost anything."

"I didn't say he was as "cracked' as all that," Dr. Cavanaugh corrected mildly. "I haven't a notion in the world but that he'll tell the exact truth. Perhaps that's what he's afraid you'll argue him out of, if he lets you know about it beforehand."

"Look here, doctor!" Graham half rose, his face flushing angrily.

"Just a moment," the doctor waved him back with a placating gesture. "Orme may have the idea that the truth will not sound convincing. And since it is your job to be convincing, you might not look very favorably upon that particular brand of truth. It might need a good deal of varnishing. It is just possible that Orme is holding with all his strength of will to his purpose of telling exactly what he knows—and that he is afraid he might weaken under our combined persuasion if he gave us the chance to argue with him. Mind you, I know no more about it than you do! But there is nothing more stubborn than an unstable personality, set on combatting its own instability."

"Well, I've done my best to keep him off the stand," Graham said wearily. "You remain our one white hope, doctor. I was afraid even you would slide out from under, after to-day's testimony."

"Neither Ellsworth nor Mrs. Kane could possibly alter the facts relative to David Orme," Dr. Cavanaugh said. "I am willing to stake my professional reputation on that. In fact, I am hereby wagering a nickel"—and he produced the coin and balanced it on the tip of his finger, "that I shall acquit David Orme. And it won't affect the verdict one particle if you two come out and have the dinner you should have eaten two or three hours ago."

PUBLIC WINS COAL STRIKE

(After Blenheim; also, after Southey)

It was a winter evening,
The housewife's work was done.
She read her evening paper
Announcing, "Coal Strike Won.
Miners and Magnates All Agree
It Was the Public's Victory."

Her infant son, with black-rimmed eyes,
Came running to her knee.
"What is it all about?" he cried.
"What is this victory?"
She stooped and stroked him grimy head.
"We've won the coal strike, child," she said.

"Your face is pale from breathing gas
That made you gag and choke;
The Doctor says I've wrenched my spine
From heaving on that coke,
But what is health, dear heart, if we Have won a splendid victory?

"The house is draped with sooty webs,
The curtains' hue is sad,
The cleaner and the coal-man, dear,
Have wrecked your poor old dad,
But things like that, of course must be
If we're to win a victory."

"I do not understand," he cried,
That little child at play,
"I do not see but what the strike
Has gypped us every way."
"No more do I, dear child," said she,
"But 'tis a famous victory."

THE OLD STORY

All winter long he's been working it out,
He swings like a perfect machine;
He hasn't the slightest suspicion of doubt—
He's good from the tee to the green.

He's putted on carpets and driven in nets,
He's taken the tips from the pro's;
There isn't a wrinkle he ever forgets—
He's hitting the pill on the nose.

He reads all the golf magazines, all the books,
He buys every species of club;
But when he's confronted with bunkers and brooks—
He plays like the usual dub!

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Brazilian Registers Advance in Active Trading—Other Industrials Firm.

NICKEL ADVANCES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (C.P.).—The stock market was generally firm this morning. Activity in Brazilian was fairly marked and this stock advanced 1 to 59.

Other industrials were not unduly active. Page Hersey gained and Massey Harris lost fractionally, while Ford "A" and De Forest Crosley both marked time. Canadian Canners "B" showed an advance throughout the morning of 1⅝ to 25¾. In the steels, Steel of Canada went forward 1½ to 57, but Standard Steel dropped 1 to 92. The oil group shode only fractional changes. Imperial Oil gained ⅝ at 30¼ under fair demand and Home Oil dropped 25 cents to 21.75. After a 50 cent gain yesterday Foothills lost 35 this morning to 8.15.

International Nickel gained ¾ to 50¾; while Walker's the only active offering among the beverages declined ¾ to 21¾. Canada Paving, which gained 4 to 33 yesterday under rumors of a merger with Dufferin and Standard, maintained its position to-day. Standard Paving gained ½ on its Common to 38, and retained its Preferred at 99.

BROKERAGE LOANS SHOW REDUCTION

Utilities and Industrial Issues Advance Under Heavy Buying Pressure.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 12. (C.P.)—With a violent bidding up of utilities and several of the industrials, particularly steels, the bull party celebrated the first reduction in brokerage loans since late May on the stock market to-day. Although the reduction was but $14,000,000, it was interpeted as indicating that the gain of about $485,000,000 during June was due largely to the exercise of rights to heavy new security offerings.

The upturn which took about two score of issues up 2 to more than 20 points to record levels, was too violent to hold ,however, and profit taking broke out in the early afternoon, when the bears launched another drive on the motors. Call money still held at 9 per cent and a less favorable development in the over-night news was the federal reserve condition statements, showing that in the past week the New York banks had not reduced their heavy mid-year borrowings at the reserve institution, and promising, Wall street believed, comparatively firm money for several days more.

WINNIPEG PRICES ADVANCE.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 12. (C.P.)—Bull fever had a grip on the wheat market this morning and prices were run up 3c from the previous close in the first ninety-minutes of trading with the July touching $1.47 1-4 to establish a new high point for the season. Very pessimistic reports from Western Canada, a dry weather map, and high temperatures combined to create a big buying interest in wheat. It looked as though public interest in the market had considerably increased and this together with splashes of buying that may have been in connection with export business sent the market sharply higher.

MINE MARKET LIST IS EVEN

Noranda Features Session With Forty Point Gain at Noon Hour.

PRECIOUS METALS STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press). — The mining market was fairly even this morning and showed little in the way of decisive change. Noranda featured with a rally that reached 61,05 and dropped to 60.00 at noon for a 40 point gain.

International Nickel gained 75 to 50.75, but leaders among the precious metals were steady. Lake Shore and McIntyre and Dome were firm, while Teck Hughes lost 10 to to 8.50, and Hollinger, which has been hesitating around 5.60, returned again to 5.65. The Lindsley group made a fair showing with five-point advances in Sherritt-Gordon and Sudbury Basin and a rise of 15 to 8.40 in Ventures. Falconbridge was firm at $13.75.

Oils were not to the front and did not show much more in the way of change than Associated which gained 20 to 4.50 . Home Oil continued to decline losing 60 cents to 20.40.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Lake Geneva shares have been a strong feature on both the Standard Curb and International Stock Exchange recently. From a period of inactivity the stock came to life recently and is now quoted at 35 to 40. Advices from Sudbury state that three raises have been put up from the 235 foot level of fthe property on the drift to the west of the shaft. The No. 1 raise is reported to have cut ore assaying 9 per cent lead and 4 per cent zinc while the No. 2 is said to have shown assays up to 14 per cent and 6 per cent lead. Lake Geneva has a very strong board of directors, including N. A. Timmins and several Towagmac interests. Towagmac owns 400,000 shares of the issued stock, giving the big exploration company control of the enterprise.

The north vein at the Wright Hargreaves is said to be showing strong at both the 2,125 and 2,250-foot levels. Fracturing is said to show widths of 10 feet with the vein strong across drift width. Values are said to be good.

Assays from the vein at the 1,000-foot level of the Harker Gold Mines are said to run up to $11 across drift width. This vein was cut recently and general conditions are very encouraging.

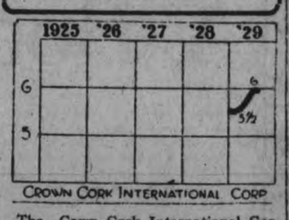
Stadacona has now started drifting on their vein 260 feet north of the work at the 175-foot level is securface and $14.20 across the back. A sample taken across a width off 4 feet from the second round assayed $6.20 across the face and $9.40 across the back. This is said to look decidedly encouraging.

Dome Mines quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share will be payable July 20 to shareholders of record at June 29. It will mean a payment of $250,000 for the quarter. There has been some talk on the street that directors were considering increasing the dividend or else declaring a bonus, as earnings pile up, and that the matter may actually be dealt with before Fall. For the year 1922 Dome did have a dividend payment of $2 per share, or 50 cents quarterly.

Other rumors regarding Dome are to the effect that they are negotiating to take over a nearby property. In addition to Porcupine Vet which lies to the north, another rumor has it that something is brewing with regard to the North Dome, owned by the Temiskaming Co. The Temiskaming has a shaft down to near 400 feet on the North Dome property, which is shallow as compared to general depth of pay ore in the Porcupine camp.

Latest news from the Duparquet Mining Company's operations in Duparquet Township indicate that the work at the 175-foo4t level is securng the results anticipated when they got under the vein system in the No. 1 prospect shaft which went down to 55 feet. It was expected the same values that were found in the prospect shaft would hold good at deeper horizons and as was an average of $20 per ton n gold, future conditions look more favorable than ever for the company.

STOCK A DAY



CROWN CORK INTERNATIONAL CORP

The Cown Cork International Corporation was formed in the autumn of 1928 to acquire and develop companies engaged in the bottle crown and natural cork disc business and other branches of the cork industry outside the United States. Through actual purchase or the acquisition of companies having foreign subsidiaries the company acquired control of companies operating in France, Germany, Spain, England, Canada, Brazil, and also has a United States subsidiary. Through its Spanish manufacturing subsidiary in Spain it has sufficient production to supply requirements of all its companies.

The combined companies have an annual combined capacity of 24,000,000 gross of crown and 20,000,000 gross of natural cork discs. The company is not yet old enough to supply comparative earning statements but the combined sales for 1928 were about 19,000,000 gross of cork discs.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 310,000 shares of Class A stock paying $1 cumulative dividends annually which has no par value and 200,000 shares of no par class B. The class A stock first receives $1 a share. Then when class B has received $1 in any year further distribution is shared equally between the two classes. Class A elects one-third the directors and class B two-thirds. No dividends have as yet been paid. As on Jan. 1, 1929, according to the pro forma balance sheet total current assets were $3,372,102, current liabilities amounted to $658,601 and net working capital was $2,713,501. Book value applicable to the combined A and B stock was $6.49 a share.

Financial News and Briefs

A Special Service to the Examiner

"United International Hotels," Name of Merged Companies.

Niagara Falls. — At a meeting held in the Clifton Hotel recently the directors of the United Hotels Corporation of America decided on a new merge of hotels. Frank A. Dudley, president of that company, admitted that the directors had approved of the merger and that the new company will be known as the United International Hotels, Ltd. Mr. Dudley would not amplify his statement other than that the new corporation will control many of the greatest hotels on both sides of the line. The head offices will be in Niagara Falls, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Mr. Dudley stated that an announcement regarding the new company would be issued to-day and it is expected that an inkling of the terms of the merger will be made public.

Howe Lumber Company Makes Good Showing.

Montreal. — Net profits of $87,862, after provision for depreciation charges are shown in the report of the Howe Lumber Company for the 12 months ended March 31. This is equal to 3 1-2 times the amount required for dividend payments on the first preference shares. Common stock shows a gain of $41,679, placing these shares on a basis of $2.73 profit per share. The profits are carried to the reserve.

The amount of the net assets is $706,925 which comprises net liquid assets of $506,808. The total sales for the year 1928-29 amounted to $1,358,978, while those of 1927-28 amounted to $1,198,869. The general manager reports that both the Shawinigan Falls and Three Rivers plants are operating to full capacity, day and night, and that on July 1st the company had orders amounting to $150,000 that had been received but not yet delivered.

Demand for Steel is Well Maintained.

Pittsburgh. — The steel industry cannot expect as heavy tonnage in the second half of the year as it has had in the first half. A decrease is usual, and while 1928 was an exception, the stepping up in demand a year ago which so improved the second half of the year, was in force with increased vigor in the half year just ended. In the last five years automobile production has averaged a 16 per cent. decrease from the first half of the year to the second half, and as the automobile industry has been absorbing a larger proportion than formerly of the total steel made, this seasonal decrease will have a correspondingly greater influence.

The decrease in rail production will be less than usual as some deliveries intended for the first half have been extended to July and August and there has been additional buying in the last few weeks. Chances are the agricultural implement industry will have a decrease, but it will be a relatively small item against total steel production.

According to such appraisals as can be made, the three lines mentioned would account for no more than ten per cent. decrease in steel production, at the outside, from the first half to the second half. From a survey of conditions in all other lines of steel consumption no decrease at all is visible, nor can any prospect of any material increase be seen.

Big Orders Loom Ahead of Canada Cement Company.

Foremost among the large Canadian companies to benefit from the big construction contracts that will be awarded in connection with the new terminals project stands Canada Cement Company. The erection of the extensive buildings and other works will entail the supply of enormous amounts of cement, and with the commanding position of the company in its particular field it is assured of being called on to furnish what will be perhaps the biggest single order ever handled by the company since the merger was effected over fifteen years ago.

A special advantage that will accrue to the company from the large undertaking will be the spreading over a considerable period a constant supply of cement that will keep many of the plants busy without seasonal slackening, as is usual under normal conditions. While conditions in the construction industry have changed to a great extent, in that work is carried on right through the winter, where years ago it practically ceased with the approach of cold weather, it is still subject to variation according to the time of year. This has made it necessary for the cement manufacturers to build up big inventories during the less active periods, which are worked off as the demand increases. The new terminal construction is expected to level out the peak periods and provide asteady outlet for the company's production over a considerable stretch of time.

With the Beauharnois Power Scheme definitely approved a further big market for a large proportion of the output of Canada Cement looms in the offing. The two big jobs, however will not likely get under way until next year, and the company will not therefore be able to show any revenue from them in this year's results. The outlook for the ensuing few years, however, is for decidedly active operating conditions, with a consequently big improvement from an earnings standpoint.

Reports from Rouyn state that results anticipated from the NB diamond drill hole on the Waite Montgomery are now beginning to come in. If successful this should prove a large and important ore body for Waite. General developments at the property are said to be looking very good.

Crosscutting on the 25th level of the Teck Hughes at a depth of about 2,980 feet is said to have been stopped last week 300 feet south of the shaft, after having intersected the main ore zone for a width of 80 feet. It is reported further that several promising sections were intersected in this zone, and exploration by a footwall drift is now underway east of the crosscut.

Homer L. Gibson, Toronto mining broker, is reported to have taken an option on property of the Flowery Gold Mines, operating south of Virginia City, Nevada, Crosscutting of the vein at several points will be undertaken to determine if the option will be exercised. Roy Hardy, mining engineer of Reno, will direct this work. Equipment at the property includes a 150-ton cyanide mill, a surface tramway, and electric locomotives. Operations have been conducted at unusually low costs for so small a mine. Last year the company, which is owned by the Wise Brothers, made a profit on ore averaging $2.45 per ton, of which 98 per cent was extracted.

E. W. Villeneuve, local director of Seven Troughs Gold Mines, has returned from his second visit to the company's property in Nevada and has issued a statement of his observations to Canadian shareholders. He confirms previous reports as to the increased richness of the ore bodies being disclosed by the latest development work. The new vein encountered 5,100 feet from the entrance to the tunnel is now developed over 800 feet, the latest samples give a value of $190 per ton. Ground has been broken for the first 100-ton unit of a mill which is expected to be in operation in November.

By September it is expected that about 600 men will be engaged in construction work on the new copper refinery at Copper Cliff. At present plans for the plant are virtually completed and temporary construction buildings have all been finished. It is anticipated the main buildings should be under cover by winter time. Stock holdings in the refinery company, capitalized at 5,000,000 shares, are understood to be as follows: International Nickel and American Metals Company, 4,000,000 shares, Consolidated Smelters, 1,000,000 shares. Of the latter, Ventures are understood to hold 50 per cent., or 500,000 shares.

Smelters are said to have taken an option on four claims located on the north end of Jo Lake, on the north nickel range, Sudbury, owned by Gilbert Bennett. A drill has been sent into the property on an exploratory program.

It is announced that the British Columbia Government will immediately construct 30 miles of road into Owne Lake. Mining properties here were recently taken over by the N. A. Timmins interests, Montreal.

City Dairy Spending $150,000 On Plant Renovations

City dairy is re-equipping their Toronto plant and spending $150,000 in new machinery, etc. Alterations starting about three weeks ago, and, according to resident and General Manager W. J. Northgrave, will be completed about the end of the present month. As in the past, all costs are being taken care of out of earnings.

The new equipment will make for more economical operations and should improve earnings for the second half of the current year. According to Mr. Northgrave, the results obtained in the first six months of 1929 were splendid and by far the best for any similar period in the company's history. During the first half of the year City Dairy to to contend with the keenest of competition and the more or less unfavorable conditions which prevailed in the final six months of 1928, showed very little change for the better in the first six months of the current year. However, the company experienced increased business and with the efficiency of their plants this should be reflected in earnings

In the year ended December 31, 1928 profits of City Dairy set a new high record of $327,963 and after all charges there was earned on the common stock $3.02 a share.

In its announced that Mark Bredin has resigned from the board of directors of City Dairy. No appointment has yet been made of a successor to Mr. Bredin. Mr. Bredin joined the board of City Dairy five or six years ago and at that time was president of the Canada Bread Co. Resigning from the management of Canada Bread earlier this year. Mr. Bredin formed his own baking company and wishes to devote his entire time to his own interests and in this connection retired from the board of city dairy.

Nickel Exports Show a 30-Per Cent Gain

OTTAWA—An increase of over 30 per cent is shown in nickel exports from Canada during the first six months of 1929, as compared with the same period of 1928, according to figures issued by the Dominion government. Exports of all grades for the month of June, 1929, amounted to 11,846,600 pounds, valued at $2,627,486, against 7,163,800 pounds with a valuation of $1,655,775 in June, 1928, an increase in value of $971,711.

For the first six months of 1929 the increase in volume above the same period of 1928 was 14,609,300 pounds, and in value $3,375,128.

Marsh Mines Consolidated Passes to Hercules Mining Company

Spokane advices announce that control of Marsh Mines Consolidated, a Coeur d'Alene property adjoining Hecla Mines, at Burke, Idaho and in which many Canadians are interested, has passed to Hercules Mining Co., controlled by the Day Brothers. Figure was not announced, but the unissued treasury shares are reported to have been purchased for around $100,000. Control was then picked up in the open market at current low figures. Marsh has had a checkered career. At one time on an important producing basis, with splendid equipment and leased milling plant, its operation proved unremunerative and the equipment was sold. Company then leased the Russel group adjoining Hecla from Federal Mining and Smelting Co. and it was subsequently proved that the "East" orebody of Hecla, one of the greatest silver-lead dividend payers in the United States, apexed on the Russell ground and that large quantities of ore had been extracted therefrom by Hecla. Litigation which ensued was settled in April, 1921, Marsh Mines receiving $112,500 in cash and other valuable considerations. A small dividend was paid and since then the stock has been quoted at very low figures on the Standard Stock Exchange of Spokane. The new controlling factors own large and valuable acreage adjoining Marsh on the north.

LONDON RELICS SCATTERED FAR

Railings Once Surrounding Statue at St. Paul's Now In Toronto.

COURTED IN CHURCHYARD

TORONTO, July 12. — (C.P.) — Writing of old London's historic structures and monuments a correspondent of the London Daily News and Westminster Gazette refers to the fact that in many cases pieces of the ancient metropolis have been moved to other parts of England and are preserved as relics. In this connection the correspondent mentions a "piece of old London" that forms one of the attractions in High Park, Toronto, the railings that surround the tomb of John G. Howard and his wife.

"Off the Hastings road at Helmhurst," says the correspondent, in dealing with old London, "is a statue of Queen Anne that stood for years near St. Paul's Cathedral. The statue was found in a broken state in an old stone yard in the city by the late Augustus Hare, well-known traveller, and he had the pieces carted down to Hastings with the aid of 28 horses, four trollies and 16 men. The railings that surrounded the statue are believed to be now in Toronto. They are said to adorn the grave of a loving couple who begged for the railings because, in their oung days, they had courted in St. Paul's churchyard."

Iron Post Has Inscription

One of the iron posts at the gate in the railing referred to by the correspondent as surrounding the burial plot in High Park has on it a brass plate bearing the following inscription:

"Saint Paul's Cathedral for 160 years I did Enclose. Oh! Stranger, Look with Reverence.

Man! Man! Unstable Man! It was Thou who Caused the Serverance."

High Park was given to the city of Toronto by the late John George Howard, who died in 1890 in his 87th year. His wife Jemima Frances Howard, beside whom he was buried, died in 1877, age 75 years.

The correspondent of the Daily News and Westminster Gazette refers to old Hungerford Bridge, once at Charing Cross, as now being the Clifton Suspension Bridge, near Bristol.

"Temple Bar," he says, "which, for centuries, marked the division of the City of London and the city of Westminster stands in Theobalds Park, the seat of the Meux family. Under its shadow huntsmen now gather for the chase, and its gruesome associations are forgotten.

"An equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington, which stood at the top of Constitution Hill near Apsley House now has an open position on the heights near Aldershot. The iron steed on which the Duke sits is of such enormous size that on one occasion a party got inside and had a meal."

The total solar eclipse of January, 24, 1925, occurred but 5 seconds later than the time predicted by the astronomers.

CHOOSE CLERGY AMONG ARTISANS

Bishop Scores Remarks Made By Brother Clergyman.

LONDON, July 12.—(C.P.) —"We have reached a stage when the ordained clergy will have to be recruited largely from the ranks of artisans." The assertion came from the Bishop of Durham when the Church Assembly was discussing the training of candidates for the ministry.

The Bishop spoke regretfully of the remarks made some time earlier by another member of the Episcopal Bench, who had allowwed to yourselves," said the Bishop of Durham, "the situation of a clergyman, himself belonging to the artisan class himself having reached his position as an ordained clergyman by the assistance of funds such as many of us have enjoyed at the universities, imagine his position when he is held up to invidious regar by bshop of his own Church. I do not think it is fair, generous, or defensible in any way."

If the motive of these humbly-born men were often mixed, their sacrifices were often great, and their difficulties were always serious.

The Church must face the question of the different kind of training for these candidates. It was vain to ask them to beat their brains out in mastering a modicum of Latin and Greek which would be of no use to them.

He was convinced that there were no higher motives anywhere than the motives which were leading many of their poorer candidates to offer themselves to the ministry.

The Bishop of Manchester said that candidates from poor homes were among the best candidates they were getting, judged by and standards. "I have men who have come from colliers' homes," he added, "who are just as much cultured Christian gentlemen as if they had come from the University of Cambridge."

MORE SAFETY IS PLANNED

Highway Committee Gives Series of Radio Lectures.

FIVE MAIN RULES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12—(By the Canadian Press)—"The Highway Safety committee with the Hon. Geo. S. Henry as chairman, is continuing its campaign to maintain the safety of the roads and streets of Ontario for the motorist, his passengers and the pedestrians," said Dr. P. E. Doolittle, president of Canadian Automobile association, by way of introducing the first of the season's series of safety radio addresses.

"The Hon. G. Howard Ferguson prime minister of the province, is taking an energetic and active part in this movement.

"An elaborate and intensive study of the subject by this committee extending over a number of years demonstrates that accidents on the highway can be largely avoided by the observance of a few simple rules.

"The first rule is that the machine shall be in perfect mechanical condition. It must not only be able to go but it must be able to stop. Brakes should be tested constantly. The brake that is operating efficiently to-day sometimes wil be loose to-morrow.

"Steering gear is another important part of the automobile. A car that will not steer is the most dangerous vehicle on the highways. Parts of the steering gear become worn after the automobile climbs up in mileage. The steering gear should be examined carefully at stated periods, depending upon the age of the car

ADJUSTMENT IS TROUBLE.

"And then there is the headlight which creates a danger not only to the driver of the car, but to all others on the highway. The glare in headlights is not due so much to the type of lens or the size of the bulb, as it is to the manner in which the bulb is inserted in the headlight. There is a simple method for testing and adjusting headlights so that they will not glare. The Department of Highways will gladly send to anyone who writes for it, a copy or a folder describing the method.

"Then there are other simple rules that apply to the operation of the car on the highway The most important rule of all is never try to pass another car unless there is a place ahead on the right side of the road that you can easily reach before being met by oncoming traffic. This applies on straight pieces of road but particularly to curves and near the top of hills, where the vision ahead is obscured.

"Be careful in driving through villages and anywhere children or other pedestrians may be using the highway. The people in the villages and towns of the Province of Ontario are glad to welcome you. They have spent large sums of the local taxpayers' money to connect their streets with the through highways. Apart from every other consideration, the least that the motorist can do in coming through these cities and towns is to show his appreciation of streets and roads provided for him by obeying the law in regard to speed and car."

FAMOUS VASE CAUSES QUERY

Duke of Portland's Figure On Costly Blue Vase Not Reached.

PRINCE ATTENDED SALE.

London, July 12—(By the Canadian Press)—What is to be done with the famous Portland Vase which was put up at auction at Christie's recently and withdrawn by the owner the Duke of Portland, because the reserve bid was not reached. This is a question for the Duke himself to decide though public interest in the matter is keen. The highest bid for the vase was $152,000, which was below the reserve figure placed on it by the owner.

So keen was the interest in the prospective sale of the historic work of art, Christie's celebrated auction rooms were filled by a record crowd, many people arriving an hour before noon, with luncheon baskets, and settling down to wait for the opening of the proceedings at 3 o'clock. The Prince of Wales was a surprise visitor to the galleries in the morning. So great was the crowd that there was an overflow into rooms adjoining that in which the auction was to take place. Several women were carried out in a fainting condition.

The Portland Vase is ten inches tall and is made of glass of an intensely deep blue, decorated with figures in relief in white opaque glass. Reputed to have been found in a sarcophagus under the Monte del Grano, near Rome, it was the chief ornament of the Barberini Palace at Rome until bought by James Byres, the antiquary who sold it in 1770 to Sir William Hamilton.

Bringing it to England, Sir William sold the vase in 1785 to Margaret Duchess of Portland for $9,432 and after her death it was purchased at auction for $5,135 by the third Duke of Portland. After his death the Vase was handed to the trustees of the British Museum for public exhibition.

Forty years later it was smashed by a drunken visitor who was fined $15. The fragments were kept, and ultimately the vase was restored, and for more than 100 years remained one of the British Museum's most treasured exhibits.

The Marquis of Titchfield, the Duke of Portland's heir, was present at the sale, and when asked if disappointed that the vase had not been sold, he said: "On the contrary, I am delighted."

The usual commission charged by auctioneers on unsold articles is 5 per cent., so that the unsuccessful attempt at sale will cost at least $7.500.

The Princes' Gates at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, cost $160,000.

OWNS RARE VIOLIN

BAKER, Ore., July 11.—John C. Hoefer of Cove claims to own a genuine Stradivari violin made in 1736. He bought it years ago in an auction shop for $35. At present it is all patched up and looks like any old violin, but Hoefer claims it's a "Strad" and is willing to sell it for $40,000. The sister to it sold for $70,000, he says.

Political Memories of the Peterborough Ridings

Before Old Home Week fades out of the picture of current events and interests a passing memory should be paid to those men of Peterborough whose names will always be associated with the old electoral ridings of East and West Peterborough in both the Federal and Provincial houses.

Some of those names are John Carnegie, W. H. Scott, John Walton, James Kendry, T. E. Bradburn, John Burnham, Thos. Blezard, John Lang, John Finlay, Hon. J. R. Stratton, T. M. Fairbairn, John Bertram, George Hilliard, James Stevenson, and in our own day W. H. Bradburn, J. H. Burnham R. R. Hall, K.C., G. A. Gillespie, C. A. Peck, M.P., G. A. Brethen, John A. Sexsmith, James Thompson, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Thomas Tooms, Ernest McDonald and others who have appeared in the political arena with success or disappointment.

Probably a summary of the results of the elections that have been held during the lives of the Old Boys may help to bring back for the moment, incidents and persons of those other days. Prior to Confederation, there were prominent figures such as John Langton, Dr. Gilchrist and others, but the union of the provinces effected a new dispensation of political affairs. In fact our present alignments and electoral and parliamentary customs and precedents reach back to the year of Confederation.

West Peterborough.

The following, therefore, are results of the elections in the west riding of Peterborough for the Ontario Legislature:—

1867—John Carnegie, Conservative, defeated John Walton, Reformer or Liberal, of Smith Township, by 671 to 652, a majority of 19.

1871—John Carnegie retained his seat, defeating T. M. Fairbairn by a majority of 53 votes.

1874—An election was held in this year to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Fairbairn. The Conservative nomination fell to W. H. Scott and David W. Dumble carried the Liberal banner. Scott won by 6 votes, the poll being 684 to 678. This was one of the closest elections in the history of the riding.

In 1875—The general elections were held on January 18th, W. H. Scott being opposed by George A. Cox. The result was 970 for Cox and 925 for Scott. The Election was protested by the Conservatives and was nullified on account of an alleged irregularity

1875—Peterborough's measure of election in the provincial field was running over. In October of that year, Scott and Cox fought it out again, the returns being Scott 1,005 and Cox 1,004, a majority of just one vote. An appeal was presented on Mr. Cox's behalf to the effect that the voters' list was incorrect. However, the appeal was withdrawn.

1879—W. H. Scott retained his seat against James Elliott, Liberal, of Smith, and James Hogan, Independent, the returns being Scott 1130, Elliott 878 and Hogan 137.

1883—John Carnegie returned to the Conservative platform and held the riding by defeating James Campbell (Lib.) by 1257 to 1171, a majority of 86.

1886—This year witnessed the entry of J. R. Stratton, who was to dominate the West Peterborough constituency for a long regime that was reflected in many advantages which he obtained for his riding, especially in the improvement of roads even as far as the northern townships.

"J. R." was pitted against the veteran John Carnegie, and won by a narrow margin of 32 votes, the poll being 282 to Carnegie's 250.

1890—John Carnegie's star had set in West Peterborough, but he was chosen again by the Conservatives to meet the young Stratton, but it was a vain effort. The vote was Stratton—1,361 to Carnegie's 1,025.

1894—J. R. Stratton's position and popularity were both established by this time. He had made many friends right in the ranks of the Conservatives, and party loyalty was severely strained and in many instances temporarily severed in some of the Stratton victories. Harry Winch was nominated by the Conservatives. He was well-liked by the people, and was a good party man, but J. R. Stratton simply registered a larger majority than ever, 2280 against Winch's 1,520. Stratton's majority was 760.

1898—John W. Garvin was the next Conservative hope to be thrust into the provincial lists. But the result was another walkover for Stratton.

1902—Col. J. W. Miller, another of the Conservative stalwarts was the next opponent. They were personal friends, the Colonel and "J. R.", and the election was contested in a vigorous but friendly way. Col. Miller was defeated by a majority of 1194.

The Mr. Stratton who had been Provincial-Secretary for years, and a powerful member of the Ross cabinet, retired.

1905—The Conservatives came into power in the Ontario House in this election in which west Peterborough was represented by T. E. Bradburn (Con.) and R. F. McWilliams, (Lib.)—It was the first Tory victory in the riding in more than twenty years, from 1883 to 1905. In redeeming it for his party, Bradburn secured 2,967 to McWilliams' 1,793 votes, a majority of 1174.

1908—George A. Gillespie then an active young Liberal was proposed by his party and gave Mr. Bradburn a close call for his seat. The vote was Bradburn 2561 and Gillespie 2,133, a majority of 428 for Bradburn.

1911—This year brought out two of Peterborough's foremost lawyers, Edward A. Peck, a life-long Conservative, and Robert R. Hall, who had been a powerful factor in the Stratton successes and who was always an ardent Liberal. The vote on December 11 was 2674 to 2,056, a Peck majority of 618.

1914—This was a temperance election, at least the "temperance" controversy was prominent in the hustings debates. George A. Gillespie returned to the Liberal leadership and defeated Robert J. Soden, Conservative, by 2587 to 2481, a Gillespie majority of 169. The Gillespie-Soden election was one of the liveliest and most interesting in recent years.

1919—Sir William Hearst, beloved of his party, went to a totally unexpected defeat in this election. It was the bitterest gall to the Conservatives, for it was alleged that the women had knifed the man who was said to have given them the vote. The United Farmers found themselves loaded with a responsibility they had not anticipated, and E. C. Drury was called upon to form a government. In West Peterborough, Thomas Tooms, Labor man, headed the poll with 4732 votes, George A. Gillespie, was second with 4,047 and R. J. Soden, third with 2,625.

1923—Fortune smiled again on the Bradburn household, and at the same time Thomas Tooms was consigned to political oblivion along with a host of the transitory administrators who owed allegiance to Hon. E. C. Drury.

J. W. Meyers was the Liberal nominee and Mr. Tooms was Independent. The three-cornered set-up was pie for Mr. Bradburn. The figures were: Bradburn, 4,278; Meyers, 3,374; Tooms, 1,990. Some time afterward it was reported that Mr. Tooms had received an appointment from the new Ferguson government.

1926—The last election on December 1st of this year returned W. H. Bradburn and the Ferguson government on their new policy of Government control of the sale of liquor. G. A. Gillespie was the Liberal candidate, but in this election the age-old problem of the sale of liquor upset the party lines again. Many Grits voted for Ferguson's scheme of sale under government control, and many dry Tories were more or less actively working for the Liberal candidate.

The Federal Elections.

1867 — Chas. Perry, Conservative, prominent industrialist of those middle years of the century, defeated John Gordon of Toronto by 682 to 652. The Liberal came into the riding from the Queen City, but this practice was not again recorded in West Peterborough.

1872—John Bertram, father of Hugh Bertram, who lives west of Jackson Park, defeated William Cluxton by 40 votes. Bertram was a Liberal or Reformer, and Cluxton, a Tory. They were both prominent merchants in the old Peterborough of that time.

The election was, however, overturned on a technicality and Cluxton was given the seat. It was shown that Bertram had failed to comply with the demand made on him at the time of his nomination for his qualification papers.

1874—John Bertram defeated the doughty W. H. Scott by a majority of 92 votes.

1878—George Hilliard carried the Conservative banner back to Parliament after defeating John Bertram by 197 votes.

1882—John J. Lundy cut down George Hilliard's former majority, but his effort failed to win a Liberal victory. The figures were, Hilliard, 1,035; and Lundy, 877. Hilliard's majority was 158.

1887—The Conservatives in West Peterborough continued to ride high for years. In this election, James Stevenson (Con.), and George A. Cox, (Lib.), two powerful candidates, fought it out to a narrow Tory win. Stevenson getting 1,280 and Cox 1,264 votes. The Liberals demanded a recount, but without material effect. One vote was inscribed on the back, "George Webber." It was rejected.

1891 — James Stevenson defeated Richard Hall by 1,447 to 1,215, a majority of 235.

1900—James Kendry was re-elected over J. Harris McClellan by 1,750 to 1,399, a majority of 351.

1904—R. R. Hall, K.C., put West Peterborough back in the Liberal list by defeating James Kendry by 2,467 to 2,280, a majority of 187. Mr. Hall served four of the most abundant years this constituency has ever experienced. He was a persistent and far-seeing advocate of Peterborough's needs, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other members of his cabinet fell in with Mr. Hall's representations.

1908—Hon. J. R. Stratton entered the federal arena and defeated J. H. Burnham (Con.) by 2,851 to 2,518, a majority of 333.

1911—This election on September 21st ended the Prime Ministry of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. John Hampden Burnham nosed out a place in the House by 42 votes, the poll being 2,944 to Stratton's 2,902.

1917—Union Government and "Win the War" were the slogans that helped retain Sir Robert Borden in power. In Peterborough, Sir Wilfrid Laurier found a loyal follower in R. R. Hall, K.C., who fought almost single-handed, and in the face of numerous and conspicuous desertions from the Liberal standard. Mr. Burnham was re-elected, and it was his resignation in 1921, on the ground that the Meighen government had not definite mandate from the people, which was one of the causes that led to the ultimate defeat and dethronement of Arthur Meighen.

1921—The famous West Peterborough by-election needs only to recall the result of the polling which sent Hon. G. N. Gordon to Ottawa: Gordon, 4,093; Denne, 2,811; Burnham, 2,595; J. C. Campbell, 2,319, and Thos. McMurray, 1,103. The election was held on February 7. Gordon was the Liberal choice; R. Denne, Conservative; J. H. Burnham, Independent-Conservative; Campbell, U. F. O., and McMurray, Independent-Labor.

1921—In the general elections of December in the same year Gordon defeated J. H. Burnham by 6,890 to 4,732.

1925—E. A. Peck (Con.) defeated Hon. G. N. Gordon by 1,923 majority.

1926—E. A. Peck (Con.) defeated J. J. Duffus (Lib.).

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

The following is a summary of the results of the Federal elections in East Peterborough:

1867—P. M. Grover of Peterborough and Norwood, Conservative candidate, defeated James Anderson, Liberal, by 956 to 644.

1872—P. M. Grover re-elected by a majority of 48 over E. Ingram, Lib.

1874—James Hall, (Lib.) resigned his position as Sheriff of the county to contest the seat against R. D. Rogers, (Con.) of Ashburnham. It was a Liberal victory by 993 to 879.

1878—John Burnham (Con.) of Ashburnham 308 and Thos. Buck of Asphodel (Lib.)—277. A Conservative majority of 31.

1882—John Burnham retained his seat in a contest with W. E. Roxburgh of Norwood by a majority of 196.

1891—In this election T. Rork of Norwood was the Liberal candidate against John Burnham. The result was 1832 and Rork 1803.

1896—John Lang terminated John Burnham's long occupancy of the seat by a vote of 2,353 to 1,738, a Liberal majority of 516.

1900—John Lang of Otonabee was opposed by John A. Sexsmith, reeve of Belmont, who made his first entry as a Conservative candidate. Mr. Lang's majority was 174, the poll being 1,876 to 1,702.

1904—John Finlay of Norwood held the seat for the Liberals but by the narrow majority of 71 votes. He was opposed by J. A. Sexsmith, and the vote was 1,589 to 1,518.

1908—J. A. Sexsmith won the riding for the Conservatives from E. A. Tanner of Lakefield by a majority of 261

1911—J. A. Sexsmith defeated F. D. Kerr, (Lib.) of Peterborough by 1,992 to 1,399.

1917—In the war time election, J. A. Sexsmith was opposed by W. H. Johnston, (Lib.) and retained the seat by a majority of 1 166.

1821—The insurgence of the farmers ended J. A. Sexsmith's tenure of the East Peterborough. George A. Brethen of Norwood, agrarian candidate defeated both Mr. Sexsmith and John Dewart, Liberal.

1925—The old consituency of East Peterborough was merged with part of Hastings and since then has been known as Hastings-Peterborough. In the first election, Dr. A. T. Embury (Con.) of Bancroft defeated G. A. Brethen.

1926—Dr. A. T. Embury defeated J. R. Marshall of Stirling.

The Ontario Legislature.

1867—George Read, (Con.), Keene, 996; Evans Ingram, (Reform), Otonabee, 594; Conservative majority 402.

1871—George Read defeated J. O'Donohue, (Reform), of Toronto by 297.

1875—James Strattan, proprietor of the Peterborough Examiner, and father of J. R. Stratton, was the Reform or Liberal candidate against Dr. John O'Sullivan of Peterborough, the Conservative representative. Dr. O'Sullivan won by 62, but the election was voided.

In September of that year, Dr. O'Sullivan was elected over James Hogan, (Lib.), of Otonabee and William Sargent (Ind.), of Otonabee. The vote was O'Sullivan 722, Hogan, 365; Sargent, 340.

1879—Thomas Blezard, (Lib.), became a power in East Peterborough politics in this election, defeating Henry Calcutt of Ashburnham (Cons.) by 476 to 353, a majority of 123.

1883—George Read was nominated by the Conservatives but failed to make any impression against the popularity of Blezard who was returned by 1,946 to 685.

1886—Blezard, 1,438; Stephenson, (Con.), 1,008; McLeod, (Ind.), 25.

1890—Mr. Blezard was opposed by A. R. Kidd running on the Equal Rights ticket. Mr Blezard's majority was 79.

1894—Thomas Blezard again elected, defeating Lancaster, (Con.) by 1,612 to 1,156.

1898—Thomas Blezard kept the riding in the Liberal fold by defeating Dr. S. P. Ford by 526 to 270, a majority of 256.

1905—Wm. Anderson re-elected over H. A. Moore, Conservative by 118.

1908—And then came James Thompson from the Conservative ranks and from the County Council of which he had been Warden. He defeated P. McNulty by 1,928 to 1,257.

1911—Jas. Thompson retained his seat against Ed. Hawthorne of Warsaw and D. Andrews of Asphodel, (Ind.). The vote was Thompson, 1,651; Hawthorne, 1111; Andrews, 121.

1914—James Thompson defeated W. A. Anderson, (Lib.), by 1,783 to 1,304

1919—The U.F.O. carried East Peterborough, sending E. N. McDonald to the Legislature and James Thompson to the limbo of politicians by 3,623 to 2,604, a majority of 1,019. Mr. Thompson had redeemed the seat for the Conservative party and held it from 1908 to 1919.

1923—Col. T. Dalton Johnston (Conservative defeated E. N. McDonald by 2,550 to 2,321, a majority of 229. Twilight was already descending upon the political ambitions of the U.F.O.

1926—W. A. Anderson defeated Col. Johnston. Mr. Anderson is the only member from either of the Peterborough's who was elected to the seat his father had also won. He is an Otonabee farmer. William Anderson, Sr., was elected in 1902 and 1905.

CARRY JUSTICE INTO ARCTIC

Two Charges of Murder Against Eskimos To Be Heard.

DRAMA OF ICY NORTH.

Edmonton, Alta., July 12, (Special to The Examiner, Copyright).—Carrying the law of white men into what may well be called he uttermost region of the world, a judicial party consisting of judge, crown prosecutor and defending attorney, will leave Edmonton for Aklavik. On arriving at the northern outpost they will proceed with the trial for murder of two Eskimos.

Judge Dubuc, stipendary magistrate of the northwest territories, whose post gives him the power of a supreme court judge, will preside. Claire Darling will represent the Crown, while Joseph Clarke will appear for the accused.

Travel 1200 Miles

Travelling to a point 1,200 miles distant, as the crow flies, over a route easily twice that distance by reason of the meandering of rivers down which they must journey, the members of the judicial party will arrive in Aklavik about July 25. Their trip will be made by rail, boat and automobile.

Last November, Okchina, a member of the Bathurst inlet community, allegedly shot Oksusk, another native, sending a bullet from a heavy rifle through Oksusks's skull as he entered his igloo.

Osusk had a wife, Avaconna, and when he was displeased with her, inflicted such punishment as he deemed fit.

For a time Avaconna endured her husband's blows in silent stoicism. Later there came a day when the absolute limit of endurance was reached and she poured out her story to the ready ears of her friends, who decided that the world would be better without Oksusk.

So accordingly another man, Okchina, was approached and was delegated to perform the murder, which he did.

Mountie Follows Trail

Months later a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, making a patrol, learned of the alleged murder and with little ado, placed Okchina under arrest.

The alleged slayer was taken to Herschel Island under escort to await his trial. In order to meet the court at Aklavik, he is probably even now being escorted to the delta of the McKenzie river.

The other tragic affair, sordid in its details, occurred in Clarence Lagoon, Demarcation Point, Yukon territory. Here an Eskimo girl, fourteen or fifteen years of age, is said to have strangled her babe.

Deep snow had drifted over the grave, when a policeman learned of the affair, which occurred in 1927.

Such are the cases which necessitated the sending of a judge to the far north. In order that the trial may be fair, lawyers to present the case of the Crown and those of the prisoners are being taken. Eskimos, almost aboriginal, thus face a system of justice which has taken centuries to evolve.

If the pair are convicted and sentenced to death, the date for execution of the sentence will be set sufficiently far ahead to allow communication with Ottawa officials in order that the prisoners may have equal opportunity with all for commutation of the sentence.

As early as June 15 there were over 3,000 requests from United States citizens for particulars of the forthcoming Canadian National Exhibition.

SCIENTIST PROVES BLUE SUNOCO'S LEADERSHIP!

The Two Best Ways of Testing Gasoline!

Putting aside all argument, there are two best ways of testing gasoline:—either in a recognized and impartial laboratory, or in your own car.

In the Laboratory

Prof. E. A. Allcut of the University of Toronto has recently completed an exhaustive study of leading gasolines sold in Canada. He found that BLUE SUNOCO unquestionably gives the most miles for the money. Surely you can rely on his unprejudiced findings.

In the Car

Tens of thousands of Canadian motorists have accepted our challenge and tested BLUE SUNOCO in their own cars. The astonishing, never-ending sales growth is evidence that these motorists have also discovered the carefree miles which come with a tankful of BLUE SUNOCO.

But Don't Take Our Word For All This!

Fill your own tank with BLUE SUNOCO and see for yourself how it takes out the knocks and puts in the power you've always wanted! Instead of believing others . . . convince yourself! We challenge you!

FIGURES SHOW BEACH POPULAR

Guard Says Changing Water Level Is Dangerous For Kiddies.

DAILY FIGURES GIVEN.

Inverlea Park Bathing beach seems to be as popular this year as ever, if not more so. Figures compiled by the Life Guard at the beach show that 5,225 people have taken advantage of the cooling waters of the river since June 17th.

July 1st was the big day of the season so far when it was estimated that 550 people used this beach, while the last day of school June 29th was not far behind with 525 bathers.

Old Home Week at the beach was not as lively as it was in some other parts of the city. There were so many attractions elsewhere and the majority of those who returned had their time filled by other pastimes that the beach suffered as far as attendance was concerned.

Bill Hastings, the famous friend of George Young at the time of the Catalina Swim paid a flying visit to the city last week and gave a real exhibition of diving from the Smith street bridge.

Ralph Adair, who is life guard this year and who served so well in that capacity last year, tells that there is a constant changing in the water level at the beach which renders the beach somewhat dangerous to the young bathers.

The ropes and floats that are used to keep the youngester in a safe place often rest on bottom and the young swimmers have to go beyond the safety line to get wet and here is where the danger lies as they are liable to step into a hole. "It all requires constant watching," said the life guard.

People young and old not only gather at this watering place but there are also all types of dogs that assemble to frolic in the cool waters. A terrier the other day swam half way across the river and back.

The daily attendance at the beach as recorded by the life guard is as follows:

RURAL NURSING PROBLEM DISCUSSED AT CONVENTION

Shortage of Nurses in Canada, Claims Elizabeth L. Smellie at International Council.

WORK REVIEWED

MONTREAL, Que., July 12 (C.P.).—How to bring nursing care to the rural districts of many countries was a problem vigorously discussed at a general session of the International Council of Nurses meeting in Montreal to-day.

Miss Elizabeth L. Smellie, Chief Superintendent, Victorian Order of Nurses of Canada, said the chief problem in Canada is the widely scattered population in many sections with different racial groups more or less slowly adapting themselves to changed living conditions. It is impossible in a brief outline such as this to go fuly into the individual activities of the various Provincial Departments of Health, each of which is making yearly an increasingly valuable contribution to the welfare of Canada," she said. "The health unit plan is rapidly growing in favor in Canada and will undoubtedly mean the extension of educational and preventive work to areas at present barely touched. Besides nursing is not included in this program. One of the essentials to ensure success in the development of this plan would appear to be the securing of exceptionally we qualified personnel. Rural work requires the very best type of public health nurse and she can make a much more valuable contribution if she understands thoroughly rural life and needs. Unfortunately, the supply of fully quaified public health nurses in Canada is limited and there is difficulty in obtainihg a sufficient number even for the larger centres, where the staff nurse has benefit of constant supervision and contact with experienced teachers and the best public health facilities are available. The rural group on the other hand has few such advantages and more irregular or no nursing supervision, which means the nurse must necessarily be even more self-reliant and professionally well-qualified and adaptable than if engaged in work on a city staff."

Better Conditions Needed

Miss Smellie said: Living arrangements constitute a great problem for nurses fn smaller and more rural areas just as in the case of school teachers. The necessity for sufficient and graded salary must be recognized. Regular supervision, opportunity provided for attending an occasional refresher course, or a short time off in mid-winter or early spring in addition to the regular holiday, or extending help of every possible kind in the educational way, are essential to the well-being of the nurse working alone under adverse conditions or in an isolated spot, in order that she may carry on her work effectively.

Were there a sufficient number of professionally, well-qualified nurses to meet the demands of the rural as well as of the urban nursing field, a most urgent necessity in different sections of the country would still be a well-planned and professionally-guided training centre to provide field experience in rural nursing, she said.

Advocates Rural Hospitals

To secure the better distribution of physicians and nurses available is a problem requiring the combined wisdom and co-operation of provincial governments, health departments, schools of medicine, medical and nursing associations, directors of training, schools for nurses and the leaders in public life. No one group can handle it alone, she said.

Rural hospitals as health centres for a given area were urged by Miss Mary K. Nelson, Director of Franklin County Memorial Hospital, Farmington, Maine, as a solution to the health question in farm districts of the United States.

"More than 80 per cent of the rural population of the United States, unprovided with official local health service approaching adequacy," Miss Nelson asserted. "Laws providing for county hospitals, however, have been passed in 17 states, the first being Iowa as long ago as 1909."

The friendliness of the county hospital was stressed by the speaker, who said that a close relation was maintained between the hospital and the patients and their families, who thus received an opportunity for health teaching. The same attitude exists between the hospital and the school and country rural nurses, not only for corrective work, laboratory, and isolation service, but in spreading the knowledge of the hospital's value in the health of that district.

Advances Made Abroad

Miss Nikics Bovolini, instructor in the School of Nursing, Belgrade, Jugoslavia, pictured conditions in the rural districts in her country.

"A few years ago," she said, "some districts had neither school nor church. People could not read. They knew nothing of games. Bad housekeep made their homes unattractive. The men turned to the only place in the village where they could find amusement, the wine shop. Ignorance led to alcoholism and to the economic and moral breakup of the family."

When the first graduates of the public health nursing school were asked several years ago to choose where they wished to work, they were almost unanimous in their anxiety to go to the country people and show them some of the simple means of making life more livable.

"Our nurses in isolated districts now have health stations," Miss Bovolini explained, "where she has classes in housekeeping for mothers and young girls who are taught also some of the simple hygienic measure. There are not many nurses in the rural districts, so in case of illness they instruct a member of the patient's family in giving nursing care, and in this way, some help is being brought to the rural population."

The rural nurse in Hungary must have good understanding of all the various problems with which her country people are confronted and must be familiar with the laws, Miss Alexandra M. Wacker, of State Hygienic Institute of Hungary, Budapest, said. No bedside care is given by rural nurses who concentrate on a program of health instruction.

At a meeting of the Nursing Education Section, Miss E. M. Musson, Chairman of the General Nursing Council of England discussed legislation as related to nursing, and Miss Ada Eldredge, Secretary of the State Board of Nurse Examiners of Wisconsin, described state supervision of schools of nursing.

"The success of registration of of nursing schools depends upon the attitude of the members of the boards and the inspectors in going into hospitals and making regulations for the teaching and registration requirements," Miss Eldredge asserted. "We must make the nurses come up for examination feeling that it is not the desire of the state boards to turn them down, but to pass successfully as many applicants as possible."

James Armstrong Richardson, of Winnipeg, head of the grain firm of James Richardson and Sons, was chosen as the new chancellor of Queen's University, to succeed Sir Robert L. Borden, who resigned several weeks ago, on July 2.

The new chancellor, who is only 44, graduated from Queen's University in 1906 and has never forgotten his alma mater. He gave the spacious Richardson memorial stadium to Queen's in memory of the late Captain George Taylor Richardson, one of the university's greatest hockey players.

Following his graduation Mr. Richardson joined the firm of James Richardson and Sons and soon became a notable figure in the wheat and grain markets. He is a past president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and a member of numerous other boards of trade and exchanges.

The grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition has a seating capacity of 16,800.

SINGERS GIVE GOOD CONCERT

Jackson Jubilee Singers Provide Closing Performance of Warkworth Chautauqua Week

PLEASING NUMBERS

WARKWORTH, July 12 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Chautauqua in so far as this village is concerned is a thing of the past for another season. But the nine excellent programs which have been presented by the several troupes and lecturers will long be remembered as the best that has come to Warkworth for some time. Assurance has already been given that next summer will see a return engagement with Canadian Chautauquas Limited. The company, for its part, plans to accommodate an even larger crowd than this year since the seating capacity on this occasion has been far from adequate.

The closing program for the week was presented by the Jackson Jubilee Singers. These artists have mastered the art of negro music, which is their native right. They are seven in number—two women, four men and an eleven-year-old boy, Van Osborne, in his own inimitable way, the headline attraction of the evening. Little Van, as he is known by the members of the cast, has a delightful negro accent. Asked how old he was and how long he had been dancing, he replied,I "Ah'm 'leven yeahs old. Ah've been dancin' since ah was three, and ah've been on the stage since ah was five." Thus the little chap has had six years' stage experience and seems to have reaped a mountain of experience from it. Last night he took five encores in a row for his clever dancing, and got several curtain calls for his witty saving and actions. The members of the trope admit themselves that they do not usually know what he is going to do next.

The singers themselves find not the least trouble in holding their audiences through any length of program. To hear them sing the negro melodies, is to realize exactly how they should be done and how they are done way down south on the plantations and along the levees of the great Mississippii. From "My Old Kentucky Home," which was their opening number to "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," the famous negro spiritual which was their closing number, the singers ran the musical scale through sacred, classic and popular music. Solos, duets, quaretets and many other combinations they elected to use, brought the most ready and generous applause of the entire chautauqua week. There is no stage wait during the entire evening. They open their program and carry it to its conclusion without a pause. From the deep, rich tones of the spiritual, they drift with amazing ease to the plaintive lullabies crooned by the Darkiee mothers. Then, almost in the same breath, they sweep away in the ringing care-free, happy melody of a plantation "Shout." Last night, the ladies of the troupe did the solo work, singing such classics as Del Rigo's "At Dawning. As "Blue" singers, they are master entertainers and when the time comes to change the tempo and jazz it up, they can do it. As glee singers, Warkworth has yet to hear their superiors. All their numbers are vividly sung. The popularity of their music is due not only to the music itself but to the capable way in which it is presented by such skilled musicians.

GOVERNMENTS TO DECIDE COURT OPTIONAL CLAUSE

Canada Would Place Questions With Justice at Hague

LONDON, July 12.—(Canadian Press Cable)— Communications are now understood to be under way between the governments of Great Britain and the Dominions regarding reservations to signature of the optional clause of the world court statues. The British Government wants as few reservations as possible although it is likely that in order to secure unanimity of opinion throughout the Empire one or two reservations would be added by the British government, if necessary.

Canada in conformity with her usual attitude is favoring signature of the optional clause, which would place international legal questions within the jurisdiction of the permanent court of International Justic at the Hague.

ANNUAL SOCIAL AT DOWNEYVILLE

Large Attendance At Enjoyable Affair—Entertaining Program Provided

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOWNEYVILLE, July 12. — "Better than ever," was the report of all who attended the annual social held here on Wednesday evening. Ideal weather and a large crowd of enthusiastic supporters made the social a wonderful success. More than 1000 people took supper, and a large crowd came after supper for the evening entertainment.

Rev. Father Galvin, who organized everything, is responsible for the success, as he works hard for success and then meets the visitors to assure them of a good time. There were a number of amusements, softball, horse-shoe pitching, Bingo, baby show, fish pond, wheel of fortune, a first class entertainer, and a dance in the evening with music supplied by Ray Steens orchestra, from Lindsay. There was a draw for a ten dollar gold piece and another for two wicker chairs — the winners to be announced on Monday night.

The supper was the main attraction, with plenty of chicken, salads, cakes, pies, etc., and was all that could be desired. The many waitresses were courteous and attentive to the wants of every one.

There were three long tables upstairs, each holding 50 people, and one downstairs for 60 people, and these were filled a number of times.

Mrs. Thomas Harrington and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill were the general superintendents.

The baby show was an interesting event, and ten babies were entered from the surrounding districts. It was with great difficulty the judges decided on the ten months old baby of Mrs. Jos. Ellon of Tweed, formerly Rose Downey.

There were ten teams and two men to a team, entered in the horseshoe tournament, which was exciting, as well as interesting. The winners were Albert and Charles S. Lucas of Downeyville, with O. Hicks and R. Hicks of Valentia, next. Those who entered were: J. Burns and L. Burns, W. Free and L. Richmond, A. Clancy and T. J. Morrissey; G. Langdon and S. Endicott; C. H. Lucas and B. Barrett; M. O'Neill and H. Caroll; P. Galvin and N. Robertson; M. Glassford and ... Marks.

The ball game was interesting with West Ops playing Downeyville resulting in a score in favor of West Ops 5 to 3. Downeyville got its runs in the first and third but West Ops could not score until the fifth. Austin Scully pitching for Downeyville had eight strike outs and Cliff Rich, the West Ops' twirler, had three.

The score by innings was:

Downeyville . . . . . .2010000—3

West Ops . . . . . .000041x—5

The following were the teams:

West Ops: P. Glassford, O. Rich, P. Mark, L. Davis, R. O'Leary, R. Hicks, S. Kirley, C. Coughlin and H. Graham.

Downeyville: J. Shine, D. Carroll, G. O'Neill, J. Carroll, A. Hennessey, W. Harrington, R. Sullivan, A. Scully and R. Morissey.

The wheel of fortune was run by Thomas J. Spratt of Lindsay, and was assisted by a number of ticket sellers. There were many beautiful articles on display.

Thomas Hamilton of Toronto, who is a real entertainer, gave some very interesting singing acts, which were enjoyed by all.

The Bingo booth was run by a number of real barkers from Lindsay with the following in charge: Hi Meehan, Peg Murphy, Bazil McIntyre and Guy Mills.

Over twice as many people attend the Canadian National Exhibition as any of the United States Agricultural Fairs.

IDENTITY IS FOUND.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 12. — (Canadian Press).—The body of the man found in the bay on Sunday was identified Tuesday as that of William Hand, 193 Mary street. He was a driver for Webb's Dairy, but because of ill-health he had not worked regularly since last March. He was last seen by his employer about one week ago. Deceased was about 40 years of age and is survived by his widow.

ACTIVITIES OF CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE REVIEWED

Mrs. J. J. Duggan, Edmonton, Speaks At Ninth Annual Convention of Organization.

HELD AT WINDSOR.

League Composed of 453 District Sub-divisions With 40,000 of Membership.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 12 (By the Canadian Press)—The activities of the Catholic Women's League of Canada during the past year were reviewed by Mrs. J. J. Duggan of Edmonton, Alta., retiring president, at the opening of the ninth annual convention of the organization, formed in Edmonton in 1913. The league is composed of 453 district subdivisions throughout Canada with a membership of 40,000 women.

The problems of the league are world-wide, the president said. The members were something more than Canadian—they were part of a great international organization of Catholic women, embracing 27 nations, with a membership of 25,000,000.

"As such it is a happy privilege to tell you that our work and efforts have received the personal recognition of our Holy Father, who in a letter to our international president, says the importance of questions both religious and social, dealt with our organization in conformity with the principles of Catholic doctrine and morals, are indeed agreeable to the heart of the common Father of the faithful," said Mrs. Duggan. Particularly pleasing to His Holiness is our participation as laity in the apostolate of the clergy for the defense of religious and moral principles. In his letter His Holiness also expresses the hope that in our grouping through international organization the Catholic Women's Leagues of the various countries, by unity of opinion and action, may act as a lever for Christian social restoration in what he describes as the sad social and family conditions in the world today.

CONSERVE TRUE CATHOLIC CHARACTER.

"Important also is that part of the Holy Father's letter dealing with affiliation with neutral associations. His letter says: 'To conserve for your union its true Catholic character, its proper objective and its exact compliance to the direction of the Holy See, it is necessary that the leagues individually do not affiliate with neutral associations of women.'"

Mrs. Duggan said as an international body the league was accorded a place on the child welfare commission of the League of Nations last December. Child welfare was as old as the Catholic church itself, she said, and had been an important activity in practically every sub-division, where the results had been very gratifying.

Immigration was at the moment one of the greatest and most vital objectives of the league, the president said. Each year had seen an increase in the chain of hostels and Rosary Halls linking up larger cities across Canada. During this year the league immigration work had received encouragement and recognition through its being affiliated with the newly-formed Catholic Society of Canada for British migration. Through the hostels and Rosary Halls of the league which were recognized by the Catholic Society as their immigration headquarters, would come the follow-up work among the new Canadians who come through the Society. Finding of cottages, and employment for families and domestics, would increase the league's work in the sub-divisions, she said.

WELCOMED BY C.W.L.

Discussing further the activities of the league in immigration work, Mrs. Duggan said the newcomers of the Catholic faith received their first welcome in Canada through the C.W.L. workers and Sisters of Service at the ports of entry. At the larger distributing centres the league's hostels receives girls and women and through their employment bureaus are able to place them satisfactorily, while families going into sub-divisions are extended the hand of welcome on arrival and receive the attentions that make them contented Canadian citizens.

"The sum total of this immigration work in the district sub-divisions, particularly those of the west where there is the greatest number of newcomers," Mrs. Duggan said, "cannot be over-estimated and the personal contact helps so mush in preserving the faith of our newcomers."

The league's Sisters of Service at the ports, in charge of the league's hostels and on the frontier of the western missions, were laboring for the salvation of souls and ministering to the material comfort of those coming with hope and confidence to Canada, she said. "They have a right to expect the protection of those to whose faith they belong," Mrs. Duggan added.

Mrs. Duggan said the league had come to the stage where the members saw the need and realized the true value of united action as compared with the individual, the scattered and oftimes disappointed efforts of earlier times. To this end she urged thorough organization. She felt after two years as president, the need of a field secretary to visit sub-divisions and instruct them in the objects of the league in its broadest terms, and to see they were running smoothly and on progressive lines.

FUNDS ARE NECESSARY

"To attain this end funds are necessary and before this convention comes to a close I would again recommend that allowance be made for organization on a firm and lasting basis."

Mrs. Duggan reported that Miss Kathleen Fears of Calgary, Alta., winner of the first national C.W.L. scholarship, was making brilliant progress at Brescia Hall, London, after one year's work, and that the winner of the second annual scholarship would be announced during the convention.

The far-reaching efforts of educational work in the league's district sub-divisions could not be over-estimated, the president said, and the self-sacrifice and devotion of the members to this cause could not fail to bring reward. Not only had scholarships, medals and libraries been given to encourage pupils, but schools themselves were from year to year wholly and entirely supported through the league in various parts of Canada.

In concluding, Mrs. Duggan urged the members to use the privilege of the ballot like all other good gifts. "By proper organization and careful study we can so use our strength that our influence will count on every issue," she said.

The members must "ever like careful mariners watch the sunken rocks of prejudice, the whirlpool of bigotry and the slightly ruffled shoals of misrepresentation, beneath which so much harm can be concealed," she added. "All this demands earnest watching and to all this must go our best endeavors."

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

WHEN BIG MEALS CAUSE TROUBLE.

Perhaps as you sit at your desk and see some workman on the street doing heavy labor, you are thankful that you are able to earn your living in an easier manner.

And yet as you go out to lunch or home to dinner you are not particularly hungry, and if you have had a hard day in the office the most sumptuous meal does not interest you.

Why?

Because there are three parts about the eating and digesting of food and you lose out on all three of them.

The first part is the brain part, that is the smell, taste, and the sight of food. You are so tired and worried and have so many other things on your mind that the most inviting food doesn't tempt you.

The second part of digestion is due to the fact that the food, the weight of the food, sets the stomach muscles contracting, and there are chemical substances in the food, or the stomach juice acts on these foods, and causes a chemical change.

The third part is when the food has left the stomach, and there is a chemical action taken place between the food and the digestive juices of the small intestine.

Now, although the second and third parts of digestion apparently have nothing to do with the brain, nevertheless if you are worried or tired the brain doesn't send down impulses to the stomach and intestine as often, or as regularly as when you are rested or free from care.

"Worry, nerve strain, unpleasant sations markedly lessen the manufact of juice in the stomach, and cause turbances of the movement of the stomach and intestines."

Now, the point is, if you are an outdoor worker, or play much outdoors, you don't have to think of any of these three parts of digestion; they take care of themselves.

However, as Dr. A. C. Ivy says, "the office or indoor worker must be taught to think of their food and pleasant things while eating, to eat lightly of easily digested food prior and during a day of business worry, mental or nervous strain, and eat a big meal only when the meal can be followed by several hours of leisure and relaxation."

THIN TOAST

Nothing is nicer with salads than thin toast. Made hot right out on the porch where you are serving supper, it is twice as acceptable.

FASHION SERVICE

Red georgette with incrustations of crepe satin of the same tone is used in this Joseph Paquin frock for afternoon wear.

GRACEFUL AFTERNOON FROCK IN RED GEORGETTE.

Georgette is one of the pre-eminently summer fabrics, and I have used a very beautiful shade of red to make this simple afternoon frock, trimming it with incrustations of crepe satin of the same tone. The two-tiered skirt, the drapery on blouse and sleeves, and the scarf collar are all interesting features of this model.

(Cop., 1929, by the Bell Syn., Inc.)

IT'S YOUTHFUL

A graceful one-piece dress individualized by flattering drape to give part one-sided effect. Interpreted in printed silk crepe in novelty dot pattern in blue tones, it is a delightful expression of more feminine mode. The jabot frill of bodice hangs softly from shoulder, reaching to waistline, where it is caught with stitched tab and buckle, which tops the circular flare of skirt, which is a separate section inserted. In fact, the jabot frill, waistline tab and circular skirt section are only extra parts of dress to be stitched in place, after the front and back are joined at sides and seamed at shoulders, and sleeves set into armholes.

Crepe silk in modernistic pattern, sunburn beige flat silk crepe, Royal blue crepe Elizabeth, black crepe satin with the jabot frill, tab and circular skirt section made of the dull surface, almond green georgette crepe, grey-violet tones in sheer tweed, poppy red crepe de chine, and navy blue canton-faille crepe are interesting combinations for Style No. 3404 for real serviceable wear. Pattern for the unusual straightline model can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure, and only take 3 1-2 yards of 40-inch material for the 36-inch size. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred). Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly.

"I got two. And I got new slippers. And I got—"

"I got a new robe. It's all—"

"Do you go to dancing school? My mother got me a beautiful new dancing dress, all spangles. Beautiful."

"That's nothing. I got a diamond ring and a—"

"Ah you have not. But I have a necklace all set with pearls and diamonds and rubies and colored glass and everything."

"My mother has a better one than you got. My father—"

"Pooh. Your father can't do what my father can do. He's rich he is. He can buy the whole world if he wants to."

"He cannot. He can't buy my father's factory."

"He don't want that old dump."

The contestants flew at each other and had to be torn apart.

"Dreadful child," said one mother to the other.

Not so dreadful. Brought up in the atmosphere of competition what else could they be? Each was showing her best side, as she thought, to her neighbor, just as the family had been doing before the neighbors. "I got" was the standard each had seen in action. Why were they so dreadful?

When a family invests money in children they must expect to do without the things it buys in other directions. If you want a healthy happy child you have to be the kind of parent who believes the child worth the price of the new car or the new rug or whatever is offered. Children cost money. The return they offer is not a material one. Most parents are no longer interested in gathering wealth after their children have grown to maturity. The return that cannot be measured in terms of money nor can it be cultivated in the atmosphere that puts money and the things it buys first.

I am not crying down money. I cannot see how a family can be reared without it, but I am decrying the spirit "I got." The spirit that makes folk unhappy because they haven't got what someone else has. A Lizzie is a very good family car but the famiy who owns a high-priced limousine is politely funny at the expense of the smaller one. And why?

I was pleased at the retort of a boy who was driving his Lizzie when his neighbor boy passed him in a big car shouting, "I smell sardines!"

"We pay cash," he called and trundled on.

A pride in one's possessions, a sturdy honesty of living, an acceptance of things as they are when it comes to daily expenses, are what makes for character in children. Never mind what you "got."

You can leave a stone in the dishwater all day

It cannot dissolve . . . it will do nothing . . . but you can depend upon it to "last."

Most soaps are like that . . . hard and "lasting." But this "lasting" quality is deceptive. It means rubbing and rubbing to get suds.

Suds should come quickly and easily . . . as Sunlight suds do. Sunlight is all pure soap. It is purposely made to dissolve freely. No need to rub hard with a bar of Sunlight to get suds . . . and as for leaving Sunlight Soap in the water that's unnecessary—even wasteful.

Yet because Sunlight is all pure soap it is more economical . . . bar for bar it washes more clothes than common soaps.

Do you wonder that millions of women the world over have grown impatient with low quality soaps . . . now use Sunlight . . . and never could be content with any other soap?

Then look for the $5,000 Sunlight Guarantee of Purity. It means real economy—longer life to your clothes—protection to your hands.

The Whatnot

A Column for Little Bits of Everything of Interest to Women Readers

Conducted by Marion (Copyright)

Oh those little, those little blue shoes!
Those shoes that no little feet use.
Oh the price were high
That those shoes would buy
Those little blue unused shoes!

* * *

THESE lines by Bennet are brought to my mind by an incident of last week's reunion. We have written, in our Whatnots and letters, about the training of children, but no one has developed the idea of what baby means to a mother.

* * *

Probably because no one can tell the limitation of that worth! Poets have tried through the ages, but they only touch the fringes. And, since poetry is the only medium of expression for a subject so full of love and warmth, the story has never been told. Maybe, some day, we may have a mother-poet who can put her thoughts into song.

* * *

And what thoughts they must be, as baby laughs and stretches out his arms, and gazes with wide-open eyes, and the little form flutters in an ecstacy of joy!

* * *

Happy, happy, baby!

And how happy the mother who gazes with pensive eyes on his awakening life, "A sweet, new blossom of Humanity, Fresh fallen from God's own home to flower on earth." Does she wonder what life holds in store for him; or is she satisfied that he is here?

* * *

Most mothers, I think, have, even in the earliest months of baby's life, moments of wondering what will become of him, and most delight in drawing mind-practices of his successes and goodness.

* * *

But others, and perhaps it were better to have more, are satisfied to say, as Tennyson has written it:

Beat upon mine, little heart! beat! beat!
Beat upon mine! you are mine, my sweet!
All mine from your pretty blue eyes to your feet,
My sweet!

* * *

I have been told of a mother with two sons. One is a model youth; the other a typically modern youth.

* * *

The first belongs to the church societies, sits at home with his father in the evenings, and is described by his mother as "a beautiful boy."

* * *

The second is interested in sports, is never home in the evening except to eat and change from working clothes into sport togs, and is referred to by his mother as the one responsible for the threatened breaking up of her home.

* * *

The first lad has no girl friends; the second has legion.

* * *

But .....the first boy doesn't like Peterborough, and wishes his mother to break up the home here—a home it has taken her years to build; years of struggle and hardship. "The fellows here are not interested in anything but sports and good times", he says.

* * *

I'm not going to pass any judgment on the boys, the language I might be tempted to use being frowned upon by The Examiner!

* * *

I just wish to say this: no child has any right to force his mother back into years of hardship when she has achieved comfort after the struggle to bring him up. Any son should be man enough to refuse to accept the sacrifice.

* * *

And here is one case where the mother became so wrapped up in the baby, and remained so much his worshipper when he attained manhood, that she cannot realize his selfishness.

* * *

The "good little boy" has turned out to be all that she pictured as she rocked his cradle; the other has disappointed her—and now she is on the verge of allowing the "good little boy" to wreck her chances of comfort and ease when she is on the down-slope of life.

* * *

The high spirit of to-day's youth is probably one of the most disrupting influences of the age.

* * *

The young people are setting a fast pace, and oldsters are running themselves ragged in the effort to keep up.

* * *

It isn't necessary to be able to write a story in order to enjoy a book; it isn't necessary to be able to play ball in order to appreciate a game. In the same way, we mothers do not need to join in the mad whirling of modern pleasures in order to take an interest in our children and their enoiyment of life.

* * *

Keep up-to-date, by all means, but don't forget that after all these are your children, and you can't expect to change your flagging muscles or your mental setting to accommodate them. They will grow up and have problems with their own children, just as your parents had with you.

* * *

Don't let them wear you out trying to keep up with their pleasures; and don't let them wear you out toadying to their fancies.

* * *

If baby is still a baby, cuddle the "tight little bundle of wailing and flannel"; build castles in Spain if you will, but don't forget that by the time baby is twenty the times will have changed. Don't expect him to play the games you now admire, or wear the clothes you now think right.

Maybe by that time it will again be the fashion to sit by the fire and talk politics with dad—and how disappointed you would be!

Chemong Park has been electrified this year and the result is apparent in the lighting of the various summer homes at this popular resort. The residents are now able to have quite a luxurious time of it and go in for all the conveniences of modern times. Their summer cottages are more like well-equipped city homes. Mrs. S. Hartshorn, for instance has an abundance of lighting fixtures in every room, an electrically-wired bell, an electric heater and electric stove with four burners. A radio is another luxury in this cottage. Mr. Dan Sullivan, who, with his chickens, totalling one hundred and sixty, and his promising family of ducks, has a busy time of it, has installed electricity also, with electric iron and toaster, and has running water from taps in sinks and basins. Another item in the list of conveniences for the residents this year is the garbage collection, which is made on Tuesdays and Fridays and takes another worry from the shoulders of the summer residents.

ORANGE LODGES HOLD PARADE

Citizens' Band Leads Procession to Knox United Church, Lakefield

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

LAKEFIELD, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Sunday evening the annual church parade of the Orange Lodge was held from the Town Hall to Knox United Church where Rev. T. M. Wesley preached an appropriate sermon and the choir provided music of an especially high order of merit.

The procession this year had its feminine touch for the first time in the history of the village, as the Northern Light Lodge, L.O.B.A., made their first formal appearance, looking very neat and trim in their dainty white frocks and hats, with sashes of orange.

The Citizens' Band led the procession, with the standard-bearer of the L.O.L. bearing the flag. Then came the Juveniles in white uniforms and blue sashes, marching well, and accompanied by their guardian.

Then the ladies, also accompanied by their guardian, Mr. Allan Gill, and lastly the members of Beresford Lodge, No. 122, in the traditional blacks and silk hats.

About one hundred in all were in the procession, which, after the service, marched down Caroline Street from Knox Church to Bridge Street, north-east on Bridge Street to Queen and Albert Streets, east on Albert Street to Regent Street, up Regent Street to Queen Street, and then returning down Queen Street to the Town Hall.

Special Services Held.

On Sunday last there were services of thanksgiving for the recovery of His Most Gracious Majesty King George from his recent critical illness, held in all the village churches. Special prayers were offered and the hymns suitable for occasions of national thanksgiving were sung.

Season in Full Swing.

Motor cars bearing the license plates of several provinces of the Dominion of Canada and of several states of the United States are to be seen on the village streets, and proclaim the fact that the tourist season is again in full swing. Several motor parties are enjoying camping in the Park, which is becoming more popular as a resort.

NEW PICTURES ARE COLLECTED

National Gallery is Greatly Enriched by Many Rare Paintings.

GALLERY IS ENRICHED

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—(By W. W. Murray, Canadian Press Staff Writer)—The National Gallery of Canada has recently reinforced its collection, and at the last meeting of the Board of Trustees the imprimatur of that august body was set upon a group of purchases which ranged in scope from a Rubens to pictures exhibited for the Viscount Willingdon Art Competition. The early English, Italian, Dutch and German schools, of which the National Gallery possesses a generous representation, have been greatly enriched by the latest acquisitions. All are of great importance and cover a wide range of period, subject and style.

An interesting fact connected with the Gallery's second Rubens, "Christ with the Cross", is that it constitutes the missing Christ figure from the famous set of Christ and the Twelve Apostles which is one of the treasures of the Prado Gallery in Madrid. "Christ with the Cross," a life-sized figure of altogether remarkable quality, is an authoritative and important example of Ruben's best work.

The early English school has been added to by a painting of "Elizabeth, Countess of Meath," by Sir Peter Lely. This famous English painter flourished during the Commonwealth and the reign of Charles II. The work now in possession of the National Gallery is regarded as one of the most brilliant and lovely portraits he ever painted. Coincidentally enough, the subject of Lely's brush was an ancestress of the present Governor-General.

Three pictures represent the late 15th and early 16th centuries—one Italian, one German and one Dutch. The Italian is a picture of St. Jerome by Bartolomeo Montagna, who lived at Vicenza from 1460 to 1523 and became one of the most interesting painters of the early Venetian school. Lucas Cranach the Elder was one of the outstanding artists of the early German school and lived from 1472 to 1553. His picture of "Christ with the Woman taken in Adultery" is remarkable for its brilliant color and masterly characterization of the different types of the accusers. One can not but be struck by the thought, on surveying this work of Cranach's, that the apparent affectation of modernism is not quite so modern after all. Obviously the painter's whole purpose was to portray character, as reflected in the faces of the central figures and the accusers. He had not concerned himself particularly with fitting heads to bodies; nor in the general reaction that the picture compels does the absence of proportion seem at all out of place. Solomon Van Ruysdael painted in Holland between 1600 and 1670 and was contemporary with Rembrandt. As a landscape painter he was without peer and his "View on a Dutch River" is generally acknowledged to be not only his masterpiece but one of the very finest landscapes of his century.

An especially striking if somewhat gruesome, work is Jan can Scorel's Judith with the head of Holofernes." Van Scorel lived in Holland from 1495 to 1562 and became one of the influences of later Dutch school. The painting which has come into the possession of the National Gallery displays a sense of large and simple design and mastery of figure painting.

RATHER COMPREHENSIVE

Young Ladies Cover Wide Field In Resume of Centuries

Apropros of prize giving the Montreal Gazette quotes in its "Fifty Year Ago" column, an account of the closing exercises of Mrs. Lovell's Young Ladies' Class at her residence, St. Catherine street. "The most interesting portion of the programme was the Conversation of History, in which Miss Clark and Miss Wallbank gave a resume of the 18th and 19th centuries, covering the principal social and political events, wars and revolutions, progress of arts and sciences, and the chief actors of the epoch," it said.

Rather comprehensive to say the least!

"When we are married Why, what will you do?"

MODERN WOMAN has every right to ask this question of the man who wishes to marry her.

When a man marries, he gives up nothing. The woman, possibly, gives up a comfortable home, a good job and a certain economic independence. What is her compensation? Very possibly she becomes a hard working wife and mother, without pay. If death comes riding and gathers up the husband, she may be left with the care and financial worry of a young family.

It's well to give presents to a bride, but many a bridegroom might better give his bride a Life Insurance Policy for a few thousand dollars. Such a gift is the true measure of his intention to provide — until death — and beyond.

Write for pamphlet entitled "Protection at a Low Rate of Premium". It is quite interesting. Address:

RECORDS SCARE THE DOUKHOBORS

Fear They May Be Forced Into Army Against Will.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 12, (By the Canadian Press)—In effort to get the Doukhobors of Southern Alberta to register their births, marriages and deaths, J. W. McClung of the attorney-general's department, has recently returned from a visit to the principle Doukhobor settlements at Cowley and Arrowwood.

"Fear that vital statistics may be used against them for military enforcement purposes is the principle reason why these communities object registering their records, says Mr. McClung. They are a remarkable people, who do not destroy living animals for food even when it is a matter of eating; much less would they subscribe to any doctrine that bade them take the life of another person.

The Cowley colony now consists of some 300 persons, Mr. McClung found, and that at Arrowwood, of some 200 people. He was given a warm welcome by the Doukhobors, and was fortunate enough to find Peter Veregin, Jr., son of the famous leader, in the colony. A woman, Anastasia Lords, age about 40, is the present head of the colonies.

After setting forth his arguments Mr. McClung had quite a discussion with the members, which resulted in the Cowley colony agreeing to name a registrar—L. W. Veregin, a grandson of the original Peter. The Arrowwood colony will give the matter further consideration when its heads, who were then in Ottawa, return to Alberta.

The marriage system of the Doukhobors presents a difficulty. There just isn't any marriage ceremony as it is known to the average Albertan. A couple merely go before the elders of the colony, and their parents, and declare that they wish to live together. If the union proves a happy one, it is maintained. If otherwise, the couple go before the elders again and declare that they wish to dissolve their arrangement, and that is an end of it.

The colony takes the view that a union not based on mutual love, is no union at all, and it is not considered un-moral for young people to engage in several of these "trial marriages," before they finally settle down in a union which becomes permanent.

In a community where the closest co-operation exists, and where each pools his resources for the benefit of all, it is not difficult to take care of the children of these unions. The problem, from a vital statistics standpoint, however, is a difficult one to solve.

NATURAL GAS STORAGE PLAN

Hon. Charles Stewart Proposes That All Waste Gas Be Kept Underground.

CONSERVE SUPPLY

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—A suggestion made by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, recently that it might be possible to turn back waste natural gas from the Turner Valley field and store it underground until such time as it might be required for consumption has been favorably received by geological authorities at the University of Alberta. It is stated that such a process has been successfully carried out in some parts of the gas fields in California, and it is thought here that if the sand in the Foremost area are sufficiently porus there is no reason why a similar process should not be used to advantage in southern Alberta.

Hon. Mr. Stewart's suggestion was that the surplus gas from Turner Valley which is now going to waste might be pumped back into the earth and stored there. The gas wells, it is believed, could be capped so as to save the gas until it would be needed. The process of conserving for future use, the gas now being wasted, however, is not definitely known here.

DR. LANG CRITICAL.

Archbishop Frowns On Work of Georgian Lions As Terrible.

LONDON, July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—Most Rev. Dr. Cosmo Lang, Archibishop of Canterbury, speaking at a dinner held by the Stationers' Company recently, referred to certain literature which he said, appeared to him "for the most part to be microscopic study of the ugly and abnormal in human life." He would like to exercise the office of censor by forbidding the young Georgian lions to roar any more for ten years, and feed them meanwhile on the work of the great Victorians. They would then become better men and writers. The first booke he would like to prohibit would be what was called the "best seller," which seemed to be about the worst from of good literature—but that might be his prejudiced opinion, not shared by publishers.

The Archibishop said he could not conceive any form of censorship which would be tolerable. Any kind of taboo in these matters was bound to defeat its own ends. There was only one way to prevent the circulation of bad literature, and that was to promote the circulation of good literature, and the proper way to go about their business of protecting the public mind and particularly the youth of the country, was to see to it that in all our schools the standard, taste, and sense of literature was taught, as it could be, to our children even from their earliest days,so that later on they should go out with real understanding of what real literature was and with the power to enjoy it.

WIFE IS THREATENED

Conservation in Telephone Booth Causes Alarm—Police Called.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (By the Canadian Press)—Many apprehensive people will sympathize with the individual who notified the police that, while in a telephone booth, he overheard a man shouting over the phone to his wife that he was going home to kill her! The police were told that the man jumped into a grey car and drove north on Bay Street. Motorcycles were despatched in search of the grey-colored car. Speed cars also took up the chase in other directions. But there were no murder headlines in the paper next day, even if the car was not found.

QUEEN CONSIDERS ROYAL SERVANTS

Would Not Allow Special Meal to be Prepared for Her.

LONDON, ENG., July 12, (By the Canadian Press)—Always considerate to her servants, the Queen never showed to greater advantage in this respect than during her short visit to Buckingham Palace one day recently.

The domestic staff of the Palace at the moment was depleted, most of the servants being needed at Windsor Castle, so that when the Queen decided to lunch there during her visit to town, the question arose of arranging for the meal in the absence of those whose regular duty it would be to attend to this matter.

When the Queen heard of the difficulty she at once issued instructions that no special meal should be prepared, adding that she would bring food with her, and take it in her own sitting room at the Palace.

In accordance with her Majesty's special instructions, the meal was quite a frugal one, consisting of a few sandwiches and a sweet, carried in a specially constructed case fixed on the running board of the Royal car.

Dress Regulation Is Causing Some Protest

JOHANNESBERG, South Africa, July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—An energetic protest against the motion of the South African Women's Federation at its Pretoria Congress, when members were asked to agitated to get their local school boards to regulate the dresses of women teachers, was made at a meeting of the Groot Marico branch of the Transvaal Onderwysers' Vereniging.

"This meeting views with fright, trembling and strong disapproval the decision of the South African Women's Federation," reads the Afrikaans the motion that was passed by the meeting about the dresses of women teachers.

"Apparently respected women overlook the fact that in our free land, every person has the inalienable right to personal freedom in certain matters and that it lies first of all with the parents of the children and the members of boards to watch over the purity of the schools."

A recent agreement fixed the start of the astronomical day at midnight it formerly started at noon.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

POETRY FOR THE PEOPLE

Do not ever believe you will never attain
The sun flooded heights of renown,
Though luck may regard you with chilly disdain
And fortune may sullenly frown.
Keep a smile on your face and a smile in your heart;
If you're wrecked by the roadside just take a fresh start
And you soon will be famous in market and mart
For you never are out till you're down.

If you haven't a job and you haven't a trade
That is nothing to worry about,
If you haven't a cent and the rent is unpaid
Don't sit in a corner and pout.
Tell the listening world you are going to win
No matter how often you're biffed on the chin
And soon in your Rolls you'll be taken a spin
For you never are down till you're out .

If the sheriff is walking you off to the jail
You're failure you must not admit,
If your friends all refuse to supply you with bail
You need not be worried a bit.
Just observe to yourself "I'll be out by and by
I'll not be cast down or disheartened, not I,
I know I'll succeed in the end if I try
And I'm never the fellow to quit."

If your wife and your children have all left you cold
Observe cheerfully: "What do I care?
I'll be firm and courageous, determined and bold
If the whole world should give me the air."
No matter what kind of a start you have had
Just keep plugging along like a heroic lad,
There is nothing in life that should turn a man sad
Or make him the prey of despair.

INDIAN TRIBE ADOPTS MAYOR

Iroquois Chief Smokes Pipe of Peace and Mayor Gets War Bonnet.

BRAVES SHOUT "WHOOPEE."

MONTREAL, Que., July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—Just outside the city proper a strange and picturesque ceremony took place last month, when Mayor Houde was adopted into the Iroquois Tribe. Chief Deer, on the occasion of the smoking of the pipe of peace said, "We desire to have a representative in the great metropolis of Canada, where the Whites first came to the Indian and where our forefathers roamed the forests. Now that we are in the minority, we go to the White man to adopt him in his own surroundings."

"I am glad to make friends once more with chief of the White men, he is now also our chief. May this voice be heard through all the quarters of the globe."

The Mayor here knelt on one knee while two Indian maidens advanced and held a brilliant shawl about his shoulders. When the Chief had ended a ceremonial song, the shawl was wrapped about His Worship and he remained kneeling while another song preceded the placing of a georgous war bonnet on his head. Through the interpreter the Chief again addressed the initiate.

"The ceremony of initiation may be simple," he said, "but it has all the significance and should carry all the seriousness that goes with the receipt of a university degree. May you be all powerful. Now that you are one of our grand chiefs, you will have to show your subjects that you can dance."

Two braves took the Mayor's arms and danced with him to show him the steps of the snake-dance, and when he had learned he was told to do the dance alone. The Mayor, shy for probably the first time in his career, hesitated a moment then stepped bravely into the serpentine of the Indian dance. "How, how," the Indians cried and some of them adopted the language of the ultra-modern White man and shouted, "Whoopee."

Children's Toys Should Be Chosen Carefully

Toronto, Ont., July 12.—(By the Canadian Press)—Greater care must be exercised by parents in the choice of children's toys, Capt. E. A. Baker, general secretary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, declared at the annual meeting of the council.

"This is one of the first steps in the prevention of blindness," he said "Sharp-pointed toys often are thoughtlessly presented by adults to small children and blindness results. Just a few months ago a woman came to my my office with a 5-year-old child who last lost an eye while playing with a bow and arrow. His playmate had also lost an eye when playing with another sharp-pointed toy."

If all the rain that fell on the earth during the course of a year could be gathered together at one time, it would cover the entire globe to an average depth of 29.13 inches.

WILLYS SELLS BLOCK OF STOCK

Associates Purchase Large Block of Willys' Overland Stock

NOT WITHDRAWING

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 12. (C.P.) — After a five hour session of directors of the Willys-Overland Company and principals interested in the syndicate purchasing a big block of Willys-Overland stock here yesterday, A. B. Qualt, secretary of the company, issued the following statement:

"Late Wednesday afternoon a syndicate including G. M. Hones, president of the Ohio Savings Bank and Trust Co., Marshall Field and Charles Gore, of Field, Gore and Co., Chicago, C. O. Miniger, President of the Electric Autolite Co., and officers of the Willys-Overland Company, purchased from John N. Willys a very substantial portion of his personal holding of Willys-Overland common stock.

"Most of the members of the syndicate have been closely associated with Mr. Willys for a number of years and were already large holders of the company's securities.

"Mr. Willys, who personally negotiated this deal, said that it does not mean his withdrawal from the company, but that no further announcement of plans will be made for a few days."

1928 Canadian National Exhibition attendance eclipsed all previous records with 2,039,000 visitors.

Leafs Are Given Close Call By Newark Bears

ERRATIC PITCHING OF GUY CANTRELL NEARLY PROVES UNDOING OF TORONTO CLUB

Teammates Manage to Pull Game Out of Soup to Beat Bears 5-4

ROYALS WIN OUT 7-6

Rochester Red Wings Take Second Victory From Jersey City By 2-1 Count

TORONTO, Ont., July 12 (C.P.).—Handicapped by erratic pitching on the part of the costly Guy Cantrell, the Leafs managed to win yesterday's ball game from the Newark Bears, 5—4. Cantrell had the fans and his team mates on edge from the throwing of the first ball until he kicked himself out of the pastime in the ninth inning with the tying run on first base and none out.

Cantrell's control of the Spalding was anything but good in spots and in his afternoon's work he walked seven of the enemy. Only two of the walks developed into runs, but the others ran Cantrell into plenty of trouble.

The big right-hander was not hit so hard, the Bears collecting a total of only six hits, but they were able to bunch a pair of singles on top of a pass for one run in the sixth, and two more in the eighth, topped off by an error and a sacrifice fly scored another.

7TH STRAIGHT FOR BISONS

BUFFALO, July 12 (C.P.).—The Buffalo Bisons continued a savage home-run attack here yesterday, bowling the Baltimore Orioles over again by a score of 12 to 2 for the seventh straight local triumph. Thomas, Sheedy and Mueller rammed homers in the first inning, accounting for five runs, and Andy Chambers was shelled from the mound.

BELL OUTPITCHES SHOFFNER

ROCHESTER, July 12 (C.P.). — Herman Bell outpitched Milburn Shoffner yesterday and the Rochester Red Wings took their second straight game from Jersey City, 2 to 1. Sand's single to right in the eighth inning brought Felix home with the winning run. Felix had previously crashed a double down the left field foul line after two were out. Shoffner gave the league leaders only six hits, but was generous with his passes, issuing a half dozen free trips to first base. Bell was nicked for eight blows.

Shopgirls and Touts Bet On Winning Horse

WINDSOR, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press). — Shopgirls, banana men, Chinamen, and race track habitues were among the lucky ones who bet on Calgary Kay in the fourth race at Kenilworth yesterday and split a pool of $32,826 after investing $207 in the pasteboards which are dealt out at the pari mutuel wickets.

Calgary Kay, rated a rank outsider by those who claim to be in on the know, paid $374.10 for each $2.0 0ticket to win, and one of those who had faith enough in the unknown horse to wager on him was Miss Alice Kelso, a Windsor girl who works in a department store across the river.

WESTERN GOLF QUEEN

MRS. SWEENY IS AT PRESENT THE BRITISH COLUMBIA CHAMPION AND ALSO THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST GOLF CHAMPION.

Western Canada's outstanding woman of the links is Mrs. S. C. Sweeny, of the Jericho County Golf Club, Vancouver. She holds two titles at pesent, the British Columbia championship and the Pacific Nothwest Golf Association championship. Mrs. Sweeny has been playing for a long, long time and has won the B.C. title nine times and the P.N.W. crown seven times. She sprang into the golf limelight back in 1905, when she won the B.C. championship for the first time.

Many young stars have sprung up in the meantime and have succeeded at various times in annexing one or both of the championships, but Mrs. Sweeny is always coming back and putting her name on the trophies again. She is the greatest winner in the history of Western golf. She won the British Columbia championship in May by the commanding score of seven and six in the 18-hole final, defeating Mrs. Hew Paterson, another veteran. Mrs. Paterson won the B. B. and P. N. W. titles on several occasions, taking her first crown in 1910.

ERVIN BRAME HOLDS PHILLIES

Traynor and Waner Hit For Circuit to Allow Pirates 6-2 Victory

GIANTS BREAK EVEN

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 12. — (Canadian Press). — Irvin Brame pitched the league leading Pittsburg Pirates to a 6-2 victory over the Phillies yesterday.

He held the Phillies to five scattered hits, one of which was Hurst's sixteenth home run of the season. This hit came with a man on base and accounted for the Phillies' two runs.

Traynor and Paul Waner hit for the circuit off Luther Roy, who pitched the first seven innings. Bob McGraw finished the game. Denny Southern, Phil. centerfielder, after hitting safely in sixteen consecutive games was "collared" by Brame to-day.

GIANTS BREAK EVEN

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 12. — (Canadian Press).—The Giants and the Cubs broke even here yesterday before a large week-day crowd of 35,000 Chicago won the first game by 8 to 3, and New York evened by winning the second, 16 to 12.

The first game went to Chicago when Fitzsimmons was batted hard and poorly supported. McMillan hit a home run with two men on and Mauone, the pitcher doubled with the bases full.

New York knocked Blake out with a five-run assault in the first innings of the second game and continued to sore on Horne and Nehf. Ott hit his twenty-fifth home run, Wilson his twenty-first and twenty-second and Lindstrom his twelfth.

CARDS EVEN SERIES

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 12. — (Canadian Press).—The Cardinals evened the Brooklyn series by winning the second game by a score of 6 to 3. Bill Sherdell allowed a dozen hits but was steady in the pinches. Four Brooklyn pitchers were used.

Babe Herman's long hitting streak was broken when he failed to get the ball out of the infield in five attempts.

SECOND STRAIGHT FOR REDS

BOSTON, Mass., July 12.—(Canadian rPess).—Fred Lucas held the Braves to four hits yesterday and Cincinnati made it two in a row by beating the Tribe 6 to 0. All the Boston blows off Lucas were infield hits.

Lucas was the outstanding performer of the day. He fanned five, walked none and his single in the fourth scored two.

RED SOX SWAMP TIGERS

CLEVELAND, July 12 (Canadian Press). — Leading his team at bat and holding the Indians to 8 scattered hits, Fred Marberry pitched Washington to a 9 to 3 victory over Cleveland here yesterday.

Marberry made three of the Senators' 16 hits. The game evened the series at one victory each.

RED SOX WIN OUT 15-8.

DETROIT, July 12 (Canadian Press). — With a triple play and an unassisted double play to keep the game interesting and 23 runs and three errors to make it amusing, the Boston Red Sox swamped the Tigers yesterday under a 15 to 8 score.

The Sox scored 10 times in the sixth inning on eight hits and three passes. Marty McManus saved the Tigers from great disgrace in the final score by hitting safely five times. Two of his blows were his third and fourth home runs of the week. Alexander connected for his fourteenth home run of the season in the second.

PETES' LEADER STILL AT TOP IN BATTING LIST

Max Swanston Heads Petes With Fine Season's Average of .409.

ROSE IS SECOND

Hap Harrison Still Leads Team in Batting in Runs.

Max Swanston, the Petes' pilot, continues to lead the local squad on the offensive with the neat average of .409 for twelve games. The Peterborough skipper went hitless during the first three games of the season, but since that time has been hitting better than a .500 clip, crashing out 18 hits in 34 times at bat in the last nine games. Ray Rose, another of the veterans of the squad, is next in line with a nice mark of .327 for twelve games while Ash was hitting an even .300 clip when forced out of the game through injuries.

Swanston has made the most hits, 18, and he, Rose, Jimmy Hall and Red Hollingsworth are tied for the honors in run getting with six each.

Hap Harrison still leads in batting in runs, the first baseman having supplied the punch to drive home nine markers.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ARE BADLY HURT

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, July 12.—While riding a bicycle "double" on Tuesday afternoon, Clarice Dafoe and Laura Ross, two small High school girls, met with what might have proved a very serious accident, when the wheel struck a stone and both girls were thrown to the ground and badly hurt. Clarice sustained severe bruises and cuts about the face and hands, while Laura has a badly fractured collar bone. Dr. Eagleson reduced the fracture and dressed the wounds and both are doing as well as can be expected, but are suffering from shock.

The accident is most regrettable, as both girls had planned to go to the Girl's camp at Consecon on Wednesday morning.

Clarice is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dafoe in town, and Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ross of Madoc.

LEAGUE GAME ON SATURDAY

Deloro Failed to Appear Last Night to Meet the Canadian General

IMPORTANT ENCOUNTER

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian Packing meets the Brinton eleven in a league game on King Edward Park. Kick off at 3 o'clock prompt. Referee, A. Aitkenhead.

This will be an important encounter because the Packers are leading the league by one point, and if they win it will give them a good hold on the table; while the Brinton team is still in the running.

Game Not Played

A league game between Deloro and the Canadian General was scheduled to take place last evening on King Edward Park, in the local soccer league, but at the last minute the Smelter Boys intimated that they would be unable to play the game. On Saturday last, the Deloro representative made a verbal statement to the representative that they could not field a team and it was left over to the C.G.E. executive to decide.

At the meeting of the local association on Monday last, the C.G.E. representative demanded that the Board abide by the constitution which states explicitly that a game must be played; if not, forfeit the points.

In the afternoon, the secretary of the association endeavored to get into communication with the Deloro representative but received no answer. The C.G.E. club was notified late in the afternoon and they had their team on the grounds awaiting the visitors.

The C.P.C. team for Saturday will be: Griffin, goal; Westwood and Downer, full backs; Carmichael, Craig and Bromley, halves; Preston, Beggs, Buchan, Foster and Williams, forwards. Reserves — Wilson and Downer.

MANAGER KILLED IN HUNTING RATS

Shoots Self With Rifle As He Climbed Out the Window.

STRATFORD, Ont., July 11. — (Canadian Press). —William Abraham, manager of the Windsor Hotel, St. Marys, died in an ambulance on the way to the Stratford General Hospital this morning as a result of a bullet wound accidentally inflicted. According to information available Abraham was in pursuit of rats which had been providing a nuisance to the hotel. He was climbing out a window at the rear of the building, carrying a 25 calibre rifle when the weapon discharged, the bullet striking Abraham in the head. Dr. J. E. Williams was called and ordered the injured man removed to hospital here but he died en route. Dr. T. J. McInnes of St. Mary's will conduct a post mortem examination.

ALL PARTNERS, SAYS NURSE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 11.—(C.P.) —The citizen, doctor, nurse and Public Health official were all partners in the great adventure of healthy living, Dr. Helen R. Y. Reid, president of the Montreal Child Welfare Association, said to-day in address in gthe Sixth Quadrennial Congress of the International Council of Nurses. The Congress which began here on Monday and will end on Saturday, has attracted about 6,600 nurses from all over the world.

Another speaker to-day was Miss Winnifred Rand, of the Morrill Palmer School, Detroit, Mich.

DOUBLE-HEADER HERE TOMORROW WITH GEROWMEN

Twin Bill Means a Great Deal in Central League Race.

PETES CONFIDENT

Hope to Take Both Ends of Argument From Ontario Champs.

To-morrow's double - header at James Stevenson Park with the Belleville Nationals, last year's Ontario champions, as opposition for the Petes is of great importance.

It comes with Belleville drawing away from the rest of the league and the three remaining teams all tied in a knot, and the double bill will have a very decided effect upon the race.

If the Petes can take both ends of the argument they will not only take a firm hold on second place but they will cut Belleville's lead in two.

Manager Swanston's crew are confident that they can stop the Nationals twice, and they are going into the battle full of fight and determination.

Belleville now have four pitchers ready to work, and it is a cinch that Alex. Weir, who pitched a fine game against Deloro last week, will hurl one of the games for them, while Shea or Poynter may draw the other assignment.

Hardill and Heckman look like the Peterborough choice for this all-important twin bill.

The first game is billed for 2.15 - not 2 o'clock as previously announced —and the second will follow immediately after.

The only double-header of the year, and with Belleville as the attraction should result in the biggest crowd of the year.

Sunset occurs half an hour later on top of the Woolworth building, and sunrise half an hour earlier New York City, than it does in the rest of the city.

BETHEL GAINS LEAGUE LEAD

Defeat Hoards 8 to 5 in West Durham Softball Loop Fixture

AT LAWN SOCIAL

BURNBRAE, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—Bethel practically clinched first place in the league last evening when they defeated Hoards 8 to 5 on the latter's grounds. The game was transferred from Bethel for the occasion and was played on a splendid ground adjoining the Hoard's open air rink where the social was held.

The game was very close, and Hoard's looked likely to win until the fatal sixth, when a few hits followed by three wild pitches gave Bethel the winning margin. Pierce was not as steady in the box as usual though he fielded his position well. Oddie was the fielding star for Hoard's with three excellent catches of hard-driven liners, while Jones was also good in the outer garden. Hume, with two doubles, was the heavy hitter.

Broadworth showed a nice turn of speed in the box, but his hitting was below par. On his last appearance at Hoard's he crashed out a couple of homers.

The Bethel aggregation all fielded well and came through with timely hits when hits meant runs.

While there is a mathematical probability of Bethel being tied for first place or even headed, there is little likelihood of this happening, as the team is playing a fine brand of ball which is sure to win games.

The remainder of the schedule is rather upset, but may be of the following order:

July 12—Menie at Hoard's. July 15—Bethel at Petherick's. July 19—Petherick's at Menie; also Springbrook at Bethel. Springbrook have then a game each with Menie and Peterick's, to be held into the following week. The replay of Bethel-Hoard's tie game will only be in case it has bearing on the cup placing.

Line-up:

Bethel.—G. Broadworth, p; A. Warren, c; M. Gibson, 1b; A. Dodwell, 2b; E. Broadworth, 3b; P. Gibson, ss; G. Carlisle, lf; B. Heagle, cf; W. Warren, rf.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE."

Well, we've had "Abie's Irish Rose" on the stage for many a day, and the shadow of the story of the Celtic-Hebraic mixture of fun and tears never grows less. And we've also had it on the screen under another name. But we haven't had it in the "talkies" yet. Although this story would doubtless offer limitless possibilities to actors with dialect proclivities, it has not been made into a conversational drama. "Abie's Irish Rose," as it is offered at the Capitol Theatre this week, was made before the talkies were projected into the picture of public entertainment, so it is a decidedly dumb drama. It is true that the screen vocalizes itself at unexpected and unimportant moments, when the exasperated Irish father says to the equally angry Hebrew parent: "Is that so?" with an effect so sudden that it would seem as if the screen had to speak to express its emotion at such a moment. And there is an odd interval when the prayer for the dead which Levy, Senior, says for his son, when the latter marries the Irish girl, becomes vocal, and the ancient Hebrew rolls out. Otherwise the action is silent, and the sub-titles tell the story, in the old way.

"Abe's Irish Rose" is good entertainment, no matter how it is dished up, and there were plenty of laughs from the house over the unfolding of the romance of the Irish-born Rosemary Murphy and the Jewish lad, Abraham Levy. But to this reviewer, at least, there seemed something decidedly banal in the dragging in, at the outset, of the hackneyed war scenes and the introduction, at the beginning, of Abraham's father and mother, prior to his birth. The laughs that come so inevitably later on, have their potency reduced by the serious atmosphere of the opening. "Abie's Irish Rose has always been, and always will be, if left undoctored, a laugh-maker par excellence. War time horrors have no place in its presentation.

The cast is excellent. Nancy Carroll is the blithe, pretty young Irish lass who loses her heart to the handsome dark Abie, whose role is taken so well by Charles ("Buddy" Rogers. Rosemary's song, by the way, is vocalized, and she sings it very sweetly. Then there is J. Farrell MacDonald as the hot-tempered Irishman, Patrick Murphy, and Jean Hersholt, who plays the part of Solomon Levy. Nick Cogley is the genial Father Whalen, and Camillus Prestal is the Jewish rabbi.

There are some uproarious moments in the screen drama. "I wish it wasn't against the law to do what I'm thinking," excaims the irate Murphy, doubling his fist under Levy, Senior's, nose in a tense moment. "That don't look like a shamrock to me," remarks the bewildered Irishman, as he regards the Jewish symbol hanging at the door of the Levy residence, when he comes looking for the "Michael Magee" that his daughter is supposedly about to marry. And then he enters, and regarding with a suspicious eye the oranges which have been used as decorations instead of orange blossoms, because of the "economical idea" of the elder Levy as to their eatable as well as decorative qualities, says, with an eye to the color of the fruit: "What sort of an Irishman is this she's marrying?"

The comedy is a decidedly vocal affair, with much noise in its screening. It demonstrates the efforts of amateur singers and dancers to please on "Amateur night," a theatre audience that "knows its tomatoes."

—Jeanette.

GROCER TEAM WINNERS 27-2

Northmen Swamp Knights Despite Absence of Three Regular Players

POOR EXHIBITION

Harrison's Northenders trimmed the Knights of Columbus softball team to the tune of 27-2 in what was scheduled to be a regular twilight softball fixture at Central School Grounds last night.

The Northmen were crippled as it was, three of their regulars out of the line up and Montgomery took over the pitching honors in place of Dundas. He hurled a nice game and was given air-tight support by his teammates, while the Knights literally fell all over themselves when they took the field.

W. Simmons was on the mound for eight innings and the Northerners scored twenty-two runs in those frames. After this Sylvester, the newcomer, took over the pitching honors but was touched for five runs.

The whole game turned out to be a good batting practice for Harrison's men. In the fourth, seventh and ninth innings the Northerners batted all around and in the fourth, eleven men faced Simmons, getting eight runs in the one frame.

Heavy hitting led by Calladine with a homer and a triple, followed by Clark, Ross, Dobson and Smith all with three baggers spelt defeat in capital letters for the Clubmen. While loose fielding and erratic throws finished them as far as good ball was concerned.

Ted Lebarr at short for the Knights and Ray Bennett at third played about the nicest game for this aggregation but it takes more than two men to make a ball team and on a whole the nine failed to give Simmons any support.

The Harrison crew played a more heady game and supported Montgomery with all they had.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLYERS PLANNING FLIGHT TO PARIS

Two Americans Inspect Monoplane Pathfinedr; Old Orchard Club Promises Reunion.

ROME, July 12.—(Canadian Press)—Captain Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, accompanied by Undersecretary Balco and Commander Francesco de Pinedo, inspected the Transatlantic plane Pathfinder today with a view to making a trip to Paris shortly for a reunion of the "Old Orchard Club."

The Americans want to keep their promise to the French Flyers Assolant, Le Fevre and Lotti that they would have a reunion in Montmarte if both crews succeeded in crossing safely.

During the latter part of next week the men will go to England, will have their plane crated and will then sail for home. The flyers also hope to drop off at Bologna to visit Major Ferrarin, noted Italian flyer who is in a hospital there resting after a minor operation.

STARRY PLAYING OF BANTAMS.

Future ball players are certainly being trained in the Bantam series of the City League. Great pitching by Calladine turned back the tight-fielding little Kiwanis team last night. Calladine had a string of fourteen strike-outs in the nine innings, and he allowed but four hits. He wasn't tendered the air-tight support, however, that "Hoot" Gibson, the Kiwanis pitcher, was given. The Kiwanis made but one error, while the Leafs had four misplays.

The quality of the Bantam games is beginning to be recognized, and the City League has arranged to have all future games in this series played on James Stevenson Park. Fans should go over and see these games. The next is scheduled for Monday, between Kiwanis and Grafton's.

RAYS HAVE REAL BATTLE.

Raybestos play in Oshawa this evening in a Lakeshore loop fixture. It is very improbable that the whole regular line-up of the Rays was able to make the trip, and they may encounter difficulties in pulling out a much needed win. In these mid-week games the players find it hard to get away from work.

Oshawa defeated last year's finalists in the opening game of the season, and since then it is reported that "Duke" Dainty has shaken off the years and joined the Motorists.

CASEYS ARE IN-AND-OUTERS.

K. of C. Softball team must be an aggregation of in-and-outers. In winning over Teco stores the other evening they could do nothing wrong, but last night in bowing to a trouncing by Harrison's, they were absolutely at sea. The Northenders got to Simmon's underhand offerings for a total of 27 runs. Against the boots, errors, overthrows and general looseness of the Knights, the Harrison men turned in a sparkling performance.

BOB ABBOTT IN FRONT RANK.

The Peterborough Golf and Country Club list some good golfers on its membership, but none better than Bob Abbott, who again broke into the hall of fame on Wednesday. Abbott, playing in Cobourg on the Peterborough team in the annual inter-club match, turned in the brilliant score of 31 for the first nine holes, being 4 strokes under par, and 67 for the 18 holes.

The class of his playing can be better understood, when it is stated that his 67 score broke the course record of 68, held by W. J. Thompson, former amateur champion of Canada.

Peterborough lost the club match by the close score of 35 to 34.

UPS-AND-DOWNS OF BATTERS.

There have been many quaint changes in the business of manufacturing base hits. It was only a week or so ago that Manager Walter Johnson, of the Senators, actually benched Goose Goslin, American League batting leader of last year, for weak work with the willow. Goslin himself agreed to the move. He could't find his way out of a prolonged slump and thought that a rest might do him good, says the New York Times.

Klein of the Phillies has bobbed up from nowhere in particular, to be one of the leading home-run heroes of the big league campaign. Lefty O'Doul, as alternate left fielder for the Giants, was just a fairly good man with the bat, but with the Phillies he has blossomed out as one of the league leaders. Of course the short right field in the Quaker Village, suits his style of batting, but he has been banging out long hits on other fields, too.

Hughey Critz, of the Reds, has taken a terrific fall in the batting averages this year, and so has Del Bissonette, of the Robins. Bob Meusel of the Yanks, is three fathoms below his usual standing. Wally Schang of the Browns, a strong hitter through all his big league career, has been a comparatively easy mark for the pitchers this year. Luke Sewell is another prominent backslider.

So if some go up, others go down. That preserves the balance of trade.

ENCOUNTERS IN NATIONAL.

Old times are returning in the Major leagues, says a despatch. Umpire-baiting, fist fights and heated arguments are not things of the past in baseball, but are daily happenings around the National league parks these days. Three National League managers have been banished in the past week; Hack Wilson has swung on two Cincinnati players, and frequent word tilts between rival players are reviving memories of real old-fashioned baseball.

EUROPEAN ZONE FINALS.

BERLIN, July 12.—(C.P.)—Germany scored a decisive opening victory over Great Britain to-day in the European Zone Davis Cup tennis finals when Dr. H. Prenn conquered J. C. Gregory in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

The victory for Prenn, youthful German who only made his debut in Davis Cup competition last year, was surprisingly one-sided. Behind his terirfic service Prenn kept up a steady attack that smothered the Englishman, who won both his singles matches last year against Germany and is a veteran of four International cup campaigns.

Canadian Marksmen Begin First Heavy Shooting in National Rifle Association Meet.

UNDER BLAZING SUN.

Put in Finishing Touches On Preparations For Competitions Next Week.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 12.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Canadian marksmen to-day began their first heavy shooting in the National Rifle Association's Great Empire meet, competition in two big service rifle events to-day putting the finishing touch on their preparations for the intensive shooting which sets in next week.

A blazing sun shone from a cloudless sky and its was decidedly warm when the thousands of army marksmen went to the butts to-day to shoot in the Donegal and Conan Doyle Service rifle matches, at 200 yards, and 200 and 500 yards respectively.

The Canadian scores in the Donegall, possible 35, were as follows:

Sergt. Alexander Hilson, Hamilton 33.
Sergt. H. Ruske, Ottawa 33.
C.S.M.G. M. Emslie, Toronto 32.
Sergt. J. H. Regan, Victoria 32.
Lieut. A. C. Carter, Toronto 32.
Pte. T. M. Morton, Hamilton 32.
Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa 31.
Pte. M. G. Collings, Esquimalt, B.C. 31.
Sergt. J. W. Sharpe, Montreal 31.
Lieut. D. Fife, Victoria 30.
C.S.M. A. C. Lucas, Toronto 30.
Lieut.-Col. R. M. Blair, Vancouver 30.
Lieut. J. W. Houlden, Sherbrooke, Que. 30.
A. C. J. Wilkinson, R.A.F., Camp Borden 29.
Corp. J. H. Dayison, Ottawa 29.
Corp. S. M. Beckingham, Toronto 28.

At the same time three other Canadian marksmen, not being winners of Donegall bronze badges, and therefore not eligible to shoot in the Donegall, took part in the Donegall qualifier under the same condition. Capt. J. T. Steel, Guelph, here scored 32, Serget. M. C. W. Foam, Montreal, 31 and Sergt. P. H. Radford, of Toronto, 30.

ONE-LEGGED SWIMMER WILL COMPETE IN WRIGLEY SWIM

Leonard Adams Believes Loss of Limb Will Not Prove Handicap.

IN STRICT TRAINING.

(Special to The Examiner)

WINDSOR, Ont., July 11. — Far from being a handicap one leg is an advantage in a swimming marathon, according to Leonard Adams, youthful merman and entrant in the 25-mile Wrigley contest at Toronto, who considers that the lack of one limb will "aid me as it is less weight."

"I am not hindered in any way at all," declared Adams, who is in his early 20's, pointing out that the Australian swimmer who introduced the Australian crawl, proved that he could beat all competitors who used the old swimming strokes, even when his legs were tied. Leonard lost his leg in a wagon accident some years ago when his foot was caught in the wheel spokes.

He is planning to enter the swim which is to be held in the Detroit River August 4 from East Windsor to Bob-Lo Island. This distance is about 12 miles, half the distance that will have to be swum at Toronto in September, and will be excellent preliminary training, he says.

Leonard points out that he has done a great deal of swimming all his life. He believes that his chances are as good as any of the other entries going into the Toronto swim as far as he knows. "Each day now I am swimming a little farther and a little harder in training myself for the contest," he says.

The Wrigley Trophy combines the body of the Greek god Apollo, with the winged hat and wings of Mercury—symbolic of physical perfection. If Adams, who is a Linotype operator at the Border Cities Star wins the marathon his name will be a unique addition to those already adorning the base of the trophy.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

Moose Juveniles will practice on Saturday afternoon, July 13, at 1.15 p.m. at Exhibition Park. All players are requested to turn out for this practice.

CRICKET

A full practice of the Peterborough C.C. will be held at the Oval to-night at 6.30.

The team chosen to play against the Toronto C.C. to-morrow are asked to meet at the Paragon Tea Rooms not later than 8.30 a.m.

In Police Court

Two men pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being in an intoxicated condition in a public place Each was fined $10 and costs amounting to $4.50.

A fight at a soccer game in which one man had certain highly-prized gold teeth knocked out was aired in court. The case was adjourned without pleading until July 18.

That local motorists are driving with great care is evidenced in the fact that the police had no accidents to report during the past three days.

Contract Bidding

	1st Round
South	Two No Trumps
West	Pass
North	Three No Trumps
East	Pass

It is of interest to note that every hand but one in this deal is a No Trump rather than a suit type of distribution. Also, that in but one suit (Clubs) is there a probable long card trick for the Declarer.

Auction Bidding: South bids one No Trump originally and neither adversaries nor partner have any reason for disturbing this bid.

Salient Points of Bidding

Contract Bidding: While South has one of the requirements for an original bid of three No Trumps, to wit: all four suits doubly stopped, he is lacking in sufficient high card strength (5 Quick Tricks) for such bid. His 4 Quick Tricks and double stoppers are, however, ample for an original bid of two No Trumps which, West passing, North with an Ace in hand raises to three.

The importance of the original two bid with powerful distributed holdings is thus demonstrated. Should South bid one No Trump, North has neither an assist nor a take-out, nor have opponents any sound overcall, with the result that a game score would be missed on this deal.

The Play

West leads initially the 2 of Spades, the 5 is played from Dummy, East the Queen and South wins with the King. South, reading West as holding but a four card Spade suit, goes over to the Ace of Spades in Dummy and leads the Jack of Clubs to the third trick. East covers with the Club King, South wins with the Ace and continues with the 7 of Clubs. West plays the 8, North the 9 and East the 6. Declarer now plays the 3 of Clubs from Dummy, the 10 from own hand. West winning with the Queen and, receiving no encouraging discard from East, continues with a Spade. South wins with the Jack and goes over to Dummy by leading his 2 of Clubs and overtaking with the 4. His next procedure, as to which finesse he will take, depends upon East's discards. If East discards two Diamonds, he will take the Diamond finesse; if East discards two Hearts, the Heart finesse; if East discards one Heart and one Spade, he will take the Heart finesse and, if it hold, lay down the Ace of Hearts and then throw East in the lead with the high Heart, thus forcing East to lead to his Diamond holding. So played, Declarer scores four odd, to wit, three Spade tricks, two Hearts, two Diamonds and three Clubs.

It will be seen that North's Ace of Spades actually produced three tricks for the partnership, first a trick itself; second, a third trick in Spades which might not have been made but for its possession; and third, a trick in Clubs as it enabled Declarer to get into Dummy's hand and finesse the Club suit through East's King.

RAINFALL CAUSES SERIOUS CONCERN

Seventy Days of Rain Is Far Too Much For Good of Crops.

QUEBEC, Que., July 12.—(C.P.)—The constant succession of rainy days and sudden heavy showers almost daily is causing serious concern throughout the province of Quebec, particularly amongst the agricultural classes. During the seventy days between May 1st, and to-day, rain has fallen on 35 of them, making this summer the wettest from standpoint of precipitation and number of rainy days that the province has experienced for many years.

Mr. Arthur Smith of the Quebec Observatory, announced that since the First of May a rainfall of twelve and a half inches had been recorded. That there have been fifteen days of rain in May; fourteen in June, and almost ever day in July. Last Sunday alone, over an inch and a half of rain fell on the districts of Quebec and Montreal.

A feature of Opening Day at the Canadian National Exhibition this year will be the 4th Wrigley Marathon World Championship Women's Swimming Race. The five prize winners in this event will be eligible to compete against the men in the main Wrigley Marathon scheduled for Wednesday, August 28th.

St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary Takes Charge of Mid-Week Prayer Service

Another successful innovation in St. James' order of summer church services was enjoyed on Wednesday evening, when the W. M. S. Auxiliary took charge of the mid-week prayer service.

This meeting was in charge of the south group, with Mrs. W. Rose as leader, and a program of more than ordinary excellence was given to a large and appreciative congregation.

Perhaps the most pleasing feature of the meeting was the presence of President Mrs. E. L. Woodley, who has just returned from the South, where she has spent a six months' holiday in Santa Monica, California, returning by the Canadian route, and spending some time in Saskatoon with friends.

The opening devotional service consisted of prayer, led by Mrs. Rose, and a Scripture lesson by Mrs. Emery.

The business session was quickly despatched, after which a hymn was sung, and a service of prayer Mrs. Dudgeon, Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Fairbrother, and Mrs. Sollitt took a part.

A very appropriate solo, "His Eye is On the Sparrow," was sung by Mrs. McLaren.

Reports from the various departments were given by their respective secretaries: Mrs. Armstrong, Christian Stewardship; Mrs. English, Temperance.

The Heralds reported on the work in different countries, as follows: Mrs. English, for India; Mrs. Douglass, for China; Mrs. Sargent, Africa, and Miss Collins, on Home Missions.

The offering was received, and hymn 274 was sung.

The pastor, the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, in a short address, commended the work of the society, saying that a church that was not missionary in spirit was a "dying" church.

He also referred to the report on Christian stewardship by emphasizing the fact that the "financial" allocation was not the chief aim of the society, but to instill the need for prayer and service in promoting the Kingdom of Christ. He maintained, too, that if the word of God can be definitely fixed in the minds of our children, it will eventually reach their hearts and bring forth fruit.

Misses Marjorie Dudgeon and Thelma Meredith sang the beautiful missionary hymn, "He Was Not Willing That Any Should Perish," after which all joined in singing "O, Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," and this impressive meeting was closed with prayer by Mr. Dudgeon.

NURSE GAINS 7 LBS. IN 2 WEEKS WITH YEAST AND IRON

"I am a nurse at the hospital," writes Miss Martha Burns, "and I want to let you know that I am glad to recommend your Ironized Yeast.

"It gave me a good appetite. I got strong and gained 7 pounds in 2 weeks. I could write all day about how much good Ironized Yeast did me. You would be surprised at the strength I gained in 3 or 4 days."

People everywhere are amazed at the wonderful benefits of Ironized Yeast. Many write they were doubtful when they started. But after taking it regularly for only 3 or 4 weeks they gained 5 to 15 pounds. Ugly hollows fill out. Skinny limbs become gracefully rounded. Blemished skin gets clear and beautiful.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets in a handy bottle. Never cause gas or bloating. Safe — no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, your money back. If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.25 direct to Canadian Ironized Yeast Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Desk 149-BW.

CANADIAN CHAUTAUQUAS PRESENT FINE PROGRAMS

Wonderful Reception Where They Have Appeared—Tickets Should Be Ordered At Once.

Word has been received by the local committee sponsoring the Chautauqua programs here to the effect that at every place where they have been given that complete satisfaction has followed. Below are letters from Lindsay and Warkworth in further confirmation of these statements.

"Dear Mr. Gillespie: Chautauqua opened here last night, and you will be interested to know that we put it over. The tent was packed, standing room only. We sold over $1,500 worth of season tickets. We had it well advertised; we had a good organization and our men worked. Kind regards. Yours truly,

W. S. Jackson.

"Dear Mr. Gillespie,—I understand you are having Chautauqua in Peterborough very shortly. We just finished last night here and Ithough you would be interested to know what we thought of the Canadian Chautauqua. I am glad to say that our people were delighted with every program and you need have no hesitation to recommend your people to attend every afternoon and evening.

It would be difficult to pick out the highlights, but Mrs. Beyea, I believe, gave one of the finest addresses we ever had in Lindsay. Dr. Hsich also gave a wonderful talk on China. The play "Smilin' Through" was without doubt the best play we have ever had at Chautauqua in Lindsay.

I just thought you would be interested in hearing about this and I hope that you will go over the top.

Yours faithfully,
H. S. Johnston.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

CONCERNING THE CRAB

The crab can hale and hearty be
Upon the land or in the sea.

In all directions he can go
Both forward, back and to and fro.

His meals are always right at hand
Afloat or buried in the stand.

He keeps his person snug and warm
When blows the chilly winter storm

By digging down amid the ooze
To take a long and quiet snooze.

While if the sun should fiercely shine
He dives beneath the cooling brine

Or lolls at his luxurious ease
Where blows the pleasant summer breeze.

And yet with such a bully life
His days are chiefly spent in strife,

To pinch and claw he's always keen
And he is cruel, fierce, and mean.

Which shows that having much too much
Of pleasure, comfort, ease and such

Does not encourage high ambition
But breeds an ugly disposition,

For crabs, though they can only crawl
Are quite like people, after all.

Strawberry Festival Held In Orange Hall On Account Of Weather

AT ROSENEATH

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, July 12.—In spite of the heavy rain on Thursday, the Strawberry Festival proved a wonderful success. It was impossible to have it out-of-doors as advertised, but everyone was delighted to go to the spacious Orange hall and enjoyed a hearty supper followed by an excellent concert in the evening. Proceeds amounted to about one hundred and fifty dollars.

Conduct Services

The Free Methodists are conducting camp meetings in the beautiful grove of Charles Sherwin in the village. Huge crowds have attended each night and many attend every service, which begins at 6 a. m. with prayer meeting, a devotional service at 10 a. m.; afternoon service at 2:30 p. m. and in the evening beginning at 7 p. m. Rev. Mr. Kelly, of Michigan, is the speaker who is most interesting to listen to.

HUNDREDS TAKE SPECIAL TRAIN FOR PORT HOPE

City's Orange Lodges Leave Early For Big Celebration

PLENTY OF MUSIC

On Return To City To-night Parade and Memorial Service To Be Held

Celebration of the glorious twelfth for many of the members of the Loyal Order started early this morning when they began to gather in the lodge rooms and the district lodges began arriving in Peterborough to catch the special Canadian National train that was to carry the contingent from this district to Port Hope where the Walk is held.

Four hundred special tickets were sold for the excursion and as many men, ladies and juvenile members gathered at the station for the departure making a festive scene that the twelfth of July always brings around.

Fife, drums and mouth organs all joined in one glorious round of close harmony while white shirts, orange ribbons, high hats, white ducks and white uniforms almost completed the picture. All that was lacking was the white horse.

Fortified With Eats

Some of the juvenile members of the order at the station began to fortify themselves against a long and tiresome or perhaps a day without a great deal to eat, as they purchased water melon after water melon and as soon as the special rolled in they climbed aboard and proceeded to cut and eat this victual.

The special train arrived at ten minutes after ten, eight passenger cars drawn by two engines, carried the delegation from the Lindsay Lodges. Sir Sam Hughes Lodge, L.O.L. 557, Lindsay Lodge 32, L.O.B.A. 366 and the girls juveniles 37 were all represented in large numbers while Reaboro L.O.L. 820 was also on board.

L.O.L. 80, Nassau, L.O.L. 457; May's School house 2440; Downer's Corners; Lord Nelson 321; L.O.L. 1175 and L.O.L. 80 of Peterborough, L.O.B.A., lodges of Vimy Ridge, Eastern Star, and Star of Bethany and the Peterborough Juvenile Lodge as well as representatives from Keene and North Smith were on board when the train pulled out.

Five fife and drum bands and one mouth organ band were taken along to supply the music and fun for the day. L.O.L. 1175 of Peterborough took along the mouth organ band of fifteen pieces, and it is claimed that this is the first time in the history of Orange Walks in Peterborough and district that a mouth organ aggregation ever took an active part in the celebration.

Not all the members of the Orange Lodges travelled the route to Port Hope by train but early this morning private cars were travelling the highway, and later in the day, busses, trucks and almost any large vehicle that could stand the test of being heavily loaded with humanity swayed over the hills to the Lake Ontario Port.

Simcoe and York gathered at Aurora where a sporting program was to be followed by a huge street dance tonight.

60 Years An Orangemen.

At Aurora a special prize was given for the oldest Orangemen present and among a crowd of aged competitors was William Baillie, Past Master of Eglington I.O.L., who has been a member of the Order for 60 years.

Eastern Ontario celebrations were led by gathering at Port Hope where Lodges were gathered from Oshawa, Whitby and nearby centres. Before marching to Port Hope, Oshawa Orangemen held a memorial service for the war dead at the civic cenotaph.

American soil was the scene of one celebration when 25 Canadian Lodges crossed to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Wonderful weather favored the international demonstration. Leamington was the centre of a large assembly of Western Ontario Orangemen. Brethren of Brant and Wenworth counties held another mammoth rally in Hamilton. London Lodges also entertained for the day and were visited by a strong contingent from Kitchener.

Northern Ontario joined in the celebrations at North Bay where 1,000 members from nearby parts assembled in the regalia of 30 lodges. Orange Young Britons, Loyal True Blues, Ladies Orange Benevolent Association and Juvenile Lodges assisted the L.O.L. in the demonstration. E. L. Banner extended a civic welcome.

Thousands Turn Out

HAMILTON, Ont., July 12—(Canadian Press).—The Dominant color note in to-day's fashions is orange. On this, the 239th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, the Orangemen of Wentwkorth and Brant counties, between seven and eight thousand strong held their annual march and demonstration. Since early this morning parties of men, women and a large number of children, gayly decked with the insignia of the Orange Order, streamed into the city from every side.

The parade was one of the biggest ever held here. Every orange lodge in the counties of Brant and Westworth, over 35 in number was represented this afternoon.

Two of the men who marched today, Thomas Bradley, of this city, and Thomas Arnold, of Kelvin have been members of the order for more than fifty years. Thomas Bradley, eighty years of age is still erect and vigorous.

Thomas Arnold, 77 years old, has been a member of the order since 1876, he said, a record of 53 years.

HISTORIC AIRS HEARD.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press). — Fife and drum bands blared forth the "Protestant Boys" and other historic airs heard 239 years ago to-day on the banks of the Boyne River in Ireland when the men of Munster were routed by King William's Northern Irishmen and Dutch Legionaires.

More than 15,000 persons from all sections of Essex County and West Kent are here for the annual "walk" of the Loyal Orange Order.

Followers of King William here today were of every age, from Frank Douglas, Walkerville's 73-year-old member, to the contingent of little girls in orange frocks from Chatham. The various insignias of the various lodges presented a colorful spectacle as the delegations march in their local assembling point.

John Bailey, of Walkerville, Past Grand Master of Essex County, who joined the Order 56 years ago in Toronto, is chairman of ceremonies at Seacliffe Park. Another distinguished Orangeman here is R. R. Powers, of Chatham, who led the parade on a snow white charger.

Speeches by county dignitaries and a program of sports was the program this afternoon at the park.

in a holiday spirit and took every available hotel and club room in Milwaukee; and the arrangements for billeting were looked after in a most capjable manner.

One of the most colorful addresses was given by the well-known editor of the Kiwanis Magazine, Roe Fulkerson, who spoke on key-noting, "All Kiwanis Night" in the auditorium which presented a wonderful sight. This magnificent building holds 12,000 people, and the president's message, which was broadcast, was no doubt heard by a great many Kiwanians all over the continent.

Rev. J. Johnston of Montreal, gave one of the best addresses on the second day of the convention.

Atlantic City was voted the convention city for next year, being strongly contested by Miami, Florida.

Jack Dewart and I. P. McNab also spoke, dealing with some highlights in the Peterborough delegates' trip. The party was fined at Zion City for speeding and they now feel that they have made a real contribution to the broadcasting station at that religious centre.

Outlines Program

The Chautauqua program of the All-Canadian company that is coming to this city was brilliantly outlined by Miss May Winspear, of Calgary. Miss Winspear stated that the directors, crews and equipment of the company were Canadians, but the program was international, listing some of the outstanding actors and speakers of this continent and Europe. She asked the support of the Kiwanians to the project which was meant to bring broader views and good plays to the people.

Harry Huffman told of the big "Kiwanis Ladies' Night," to be held in the Benson House, Lindsay, on Tuesday at 6.30.

The booster of the day was Jack McNab, and the prize winners were: C. S. Browne, E. A. Outram, and Mrs. E. M. Hamilton.

Mrs. T. M. Allen, of Calgary, sang two solos in splendid voice.

The visitors were: G. Monkman; W. H. Richardson and W. E. Zeide of Cuyahago, Ohio; Rev. J. E. Millyard, new pastor of George Street United Church; May W. Winspear, Calgary; G. A. Gillespie; Mrs. T. M. Allen, of Calgary; T. R. Beard, of Toronto; and R. Y. Dudley, of Kingston.

PTE. COLLINGS GETS PERFECT SCORE OF 35

Canadian Makes Splendid Showing in Doyle Service Rifle Shoot.

SCORED 30 AT 200.

Other Canadian Marksmen Do Well in Empire Competitions.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 12.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Private M. G. Collings of Esquimalt, B.C., shot highest possible score of 35 at the 500-yard range of the Conan Doyle Service Rifle Shoot in the National Rifle Association's empire meet to-day. The performance was the highlight in an exhibition of all-around excellent markmanship by the whole Canadian team of 18 soldiers when they began intensive competition to-day with the Donegall and Conan Doyle matches as the chief events.

The Conan Doyle match was fired at the 200 and 500 yards ranges, and Collings' score of 30 at the shorter distance placed him below two more Canadians when the aggregates were compiled. The two who jointly led the Canadian entrants, with scores of 68, were Compan Sergeant-Major A. C. Lucas of Toronto and Lieut. D. Fyvie of Victoria, B.C.

In the Donegall, fired earlier at 200 yards, Sergeant H. Rusk of Ottawa led the Canadians with 33. This score was also attained by Sergeant Alexander Hilson of Hamilton, who became attached to the Canadian team on this side of the ocean.

400 ATTEND BIG SOCIAL

Gilmour Memorial Church Has Enjoyable Strawberry Festival

GOOD PROGRAM

The Gilmour Memorial annual strawberry festival was held on the church lawn on Wednesday evening, June 10. Supper was served to about 400 people and a good program was carried through. The minister, Rev W. S. Edgar, presided. After a few humorous opening remarks the chairman proceeded with the following program: Selection of music by the Coldsprings Orchestra. Miss Olive Sidey, of Bridgenorth, gave a very fine reading, which was well received. A cornet solo by a member of the orchestra. Mrs. Jerry McClelland of Peterborough, in her own inimitable way, gave a humorous reading, entitled "The Dutch Woman at the Opera." In the course of the evening Mrs. McClelland, who was repeatedly applauded, gave the following numbers, "The Telephone," "The School Concert," "The Scots Minister's Sermon," "The Boy and the Bears,' 'etc. Mrs. McClelland has certainly brought this thing to a fine art. The soloist for the evening was Miss Alma Blanchard, who sang in fine voice three solos. Rev. J. O Totton, of Bridgenorth United Church, gave an address sparkling with wit and humor. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, of Murray Street Baptist Church, responded to a call for a speech and told some very amusing stories which brought forth roars of laughter. A brass quartette by the orchestra was well received. During the evening the Coldsprings Orchestra rendered several selections in fine style. The singing of the National Anthem brought a very enjoyable festival to a close.

LAWN BOWLING NOTES.

The usual tournament will be held to-night at the bowling greens. New and suitable prizes will be given the winning rinks. With this warm spell and a beautiful night ahead there should be a large crowd out. Draw at the usual time.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

the kind of language which the Bishop uses and—I think it must be inadvertently—wounds the consciences and feelings of so many of his brother clergymen. May I, in a most friendly way, appeal to him that in the development of what he feels to be right, and in the enunciation of truths he deems important, he should refrain from provocative language."

Issue Statement of Principles

The Bishop of Birmingham will answer this by a restatement of his Modernistic principles. He asserts that if the Archbishop has received many letters condemning what he has already said, he has himself received many letter of appreciation.

It was noted, however, that in convacation yesterday almost the whole body of Bishops, not merely those opposed to Bishop Barnes' views, appeared gravely displeased at the Bishop's attitude, not so much because of his opinions as his manner of stating them, as the Archbishop pointed out. There is some talk even of disciplinary action against Bishop Barnes for "heretical teaching." Under this provision he could be cited by one or other of his brother bishops, or by a layman, before the Archbishop of Canterbury, on account of alleged heretical teaching. It is extremely unlikely that such a course would be seriously considered, however, for the Church of England has little appetite for heresy hunting nowadays and the Anglo-Catholic Societies have already refused to countenance such an action against Bishop Barnes.

But the position of the Bishop of Birmingham in his own diocese and his church at large will certainly not be a happy one, especially as he suffered a similar chiding from Archbishop Randall Thomas Davidson, the present Archbishop of Canterbury's predecessor, only two years ago.

WEDDING BELLS

MARSHALL-SMITH

St. James Anglican Church, Tweed, Ontario, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, on Monday, July 1st, when Edith, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. J. E. J. Millyard officiating. The bride looked charming in a gown of white georgette trimmed with radium lace. With hat, gloves, hose and shoes to match. She was attended by her sister Miss Elva Irene Smith, who wore a gown of blue, trimmed with gold radium lace, and hat, gloves, hose and shoes, in matching shade. Mr. Jack Whalen acted as best man. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a necklace and to the groomsman a cigarette lighter. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride, where a buffet luncheon was served to the immediate guests. DUMMY HOUSE CAUGHT FIRE

A fireman whose bandaged hands indicated the part he had taken in the attempt to rescue the boys, said that never in his experience had he seen such a tragedy.

Fell Forty Feet

"In the glare of the blaze," he said, "I saw boys and men leaping from the roof. They fell 40 feet, their clothes blazing and illuminating the way as they came. We could not approach the building. All we could do was to rush close to the flames and drag away the boys who had jumped.

Arthur Stewart was one of the few spectators who realized what was happening, and that it was not part of the program. He said he would never forget the scene. "One moment there were laughing, gay-hearted boys dressed in comic costumes playing on part of the structure. Laughing men and women stood around and watched the fun. Then, with terrible suddenness, comedy turned to tragedy. Around the building was a horror of terror, but further away thousands still laughed, not knowing what had happened."
